U.S. Fleet Abruptly Shifts Position

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The powerful carrier-led armada formed to protect U.S. intelligence flights was abruptly shifted from the Sea of Japan and to the other side of the Korean peninsula Saturday. The move may be aimed at bettering relations with the Russians.

The Defense Department announced without amplification that "Task Force 71, which has been operating in the Sea of Japan since April 20, is proceeding south of Korea through the Tsu-Shima Straits to the Yellow Sea where fleet operations will continue."

Observers noted however that the Russians have twice protested — or "expressed concern" — at the fleet's presence near their Far Eastern port of Vladivostok fronting on the Sea of Japan. The shift will take it well away from Soviet shores.

The move could also enable the fleet to extend its protective arm farther to the west while continuing to guard intelligence flights on both sides of Korea. It is less than 10 minutes by jet plane across most parts of the peninsula.

Indicating there was no sense of crisis involved, the Pentagon also announced that the battleship New Jersey "is departing the Western Pacific and is expected to return to the United States." In the normal course of events, it apparently will reach the West Coast in a week or ten days.

The New Jersey, only battleship afloat, was only three days out of Long Beach, when it was turned back after the Navy EC-121 reconnaissance plane was shot down by North Korean MIG jets with a loss of 31 lives in the Sea of Japan April 14.

While no formal Russian protest has been delivered concerning the fleet's operations, the Soviets have twice discussed the subject in grave terms with American officials. Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov talked to U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam in Moscow, and Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin called on Undersecretary of State Elliott Richardson in Washington.

The task force is led by the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise and includes the carriers Ticonderoga, Ranger and Hornet as well as three cruisers and 22 destroyers. In combat strength, especially in the air, it outranks the U.S. 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean.

In addition to the carriers, the fleet includes the cruisers Chicago, Oklahoma City and St. Paul, and the following destroyers:

Sterett, Dale, Mahan, Tucker, Gurke, J. S. Weeks, L. McCormick, Perry, Meredith, L. K. Swenson, Radford, Parsons, R. B. Anderson, Shelton, E. G. Small, Davidson, Rowan, Waddell, Lofberg, Coontz, Buchanan and Duncan.

Q. I supposedly won a three day vacation to Las Vegas by entering a contest at a local market. All I had to do was pay $3 for the vacation certificate, which I did. The company issuing the vacation certificate set us up for three nights at the Thunderbird Hotel. When we got to Las Vegas, a representative for the vacation certificate company pointed to the small print on the back of the certificate which said winners must be between 21 and 65. We are over 65. We were given one night's lodging and then had to pay $30.30 for our transportation. What goes on with these gift certificates? E.S., Lakewood.

Q. I received a gift certificate from Miami Beach Vacations, Inc. for three days in Las Vegas. The company confirmed reservations for us at the Mint Hotel, but when we got there we were put in a small motel. We were invited to a party, which turned out to be a land promotion. What goes on? H.O., Lakewood.

A. ACTION LINE contacted the Better Business Bureau of South Florida and learned that Miami Beach Vacations is a vacation certificate promotion company. According to the BBB report, the company offers two different gift certificates; one involves a tie-in with a land developer. Further information will be sent to you. On the entire question of free vacation promotions, the National Better Business Bureau, 230 Park Ave., New York, N.Y. has issued a report. The report explains that usually the free vacation certificates are not free at all. The "winner" must pay a fee to get the certificate, and the vacation turns out to be just the use of a hotel room.

Besides the payment of a fee, there are usually a number of conditions which must be met before the certificate is validated. For instance, the user must be of a certain age group, married and so on. The National BBB urges recipients of the certificates to read the fine print before making any commitments. Herschel Elkins, deputy state attorney general in the consumer fraud unit, reported that his office has taken action to stop phony contests and other misrepresentations on gift certificate vacations. He asks that readers with complaints send them to Lola McAlpin, deputy attorney general, Consumer Fraud Unit, State Attorney General's Office, 217 W. First St., Los Angeles, Calif.

STEAM CAR EXPLODES, 6 HURT

Six Los Angeles residents were seriously injured Saturday when the rebuilt Stanley Steamer auto in which they were riding during a Knott's Berry Farm antique car parade exploded (above). Buena Park police said the injured included the driver, Wayne Nutting, 74, his wife, Beth, and William Schutz, 26, his wife, Jo Anne, 24, and daughters Cynthia, 7, and Christine, 3 (right). All were hospitalized at the Orange County Medical Center. Officers said a butane tank beneath the car's front seat sprang a leak and the gas erupted.

French Election Violence

De Gaulle Vows He Will Quit If Amendment Fails

PARIS (UPI) — Scattered violence Saturday marred the eve of France's constitutional referendum that will decide unofficially whether President Charles de Gaulle remains in office or quits.

In Paris, police reported three incidents of political oppositionists attacking Gaullists campaigning on behalf of the referendum that would alter the French constitution. A shooting incident was reported in Rambouillet, near Versailles on the outskirts of the capital.

De Gaulle has threatened to resign if voters turn down the reforms he has offered in the referendum.

* * * *

POLICE SAID in the most serious incident in Paris oppositionists attacked a motorcade, damaging six cars and ripping up French flags used as decoration.

The incidents occurred as Gaullist officials said widespread distrust of communism among French voters might turn the tide and help De Gaulle survive the referendum.

Official and private polls have indicated De Gaulle, 78, is in serious danger of losing. He has vowed to resign immediately if the reforms are defeated, thereby ending 11 years of the most powerful rule in France since Napoleon.

* * * *

GAULLIST officials were confident many Frenchmen would heed De Gaulle's warning that France would be overwhelmed by political chaos if the ballot goes against him.

In an intense effort to prevent De Gaulle's fall, Gaullist leaders have warned the nation's 29 million voters that the strong French Communist Party, second largest in the West behind Italy's, might come to power.

Theoretically, Frenchmen will be voting yes or no on a constitutional revision proposed by De Gaulle that would strip the already-weak French senate of its few remaining legislative powers, decentralize the nation's economy and make the prime minister — De Gaulle's appointee — acting president if De Gaulle quits or dies in office.

In fact though, the vote is for or against De Gaulle.

Laird Copter Makes Emergency Landing

TAMPA (UPI) — A helicopter carrying Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird made a precautionary landing on Interstate 75 about 20 miles north of here Saturday night when the pilot smelled smoke.

A spokesman for the U.S. Strike Command said the secretary and his party transferred to a follow-up helicopter for the return to Tampa.

GIs Trap N. Viet Force, Kill 325

SAIGON, Sunday (UPI) — U.S. troops lured North Vietnamese infantrymen into a trap near the Cambodian border Saturday and fought two other battles on the outskirts of Saigon, killing a total of 325 Communists.

American losses in the three battles were 12 killed and 25 wounded.

In the major battle, Americans withstood one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war in the trap maneuver on the border 45 miles northwest of Saigon but won a lopsided victory. They killed 214 Communists and suffered only seven wounded.

In action closer to Saigon, troops of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division Base, 29 miles northwest of the capital, turned back a Communist attack in a 90-minute battle. Sources said 94 Communists were killed. Ten Americans died and four were wounded.

A 9th Infantry armored column intercepted another Communist force 24 miles southwest of Saigon, killing 63 of them before the force scattered. Two Americans were killed and 14 wounded.

Communist gunners shelled nine Allied military bases Saturday night and early today and fired on a U.S. reconnaissance plane over the demilitarized zone. Sources said there was no significant damage or casualties and that the plane returned safely to its base after directing artillery fire on the Communist position.

Air Force B-52s dropped 450 tons of explosives on Communist troop concentrations in the jungles some 65 to 70 miles northwest of Saigon in five raids Saturday night and early today.

Laguna Crash Kills 1, Hurts 3

Christine E. Beltram, 19, of Hollywood, was killed Saturday when the car in which she was riding crashed into an abutment and burst into flames on Laguna Canyon Road near Laguna Beach.

Three other girls and a Camp Pendleton Marine were hospitalized with serious injuries.

Wind-Whipped Fire Blitzes Hills Near L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A brush fire whipped through hills north of Los Angeles Saturday aided by high gusty winds and temperatures nearing 85 degrees.

Firemen said the blaze in the big Tujunga Canyon area blackened six acres before county fire department and forest service crews controlled it.

Weathermen said high temperatures and brisk winds are expected to continue for several days — with fire danger increasing as hillside brush dries.

The warm weather which hindered firefighters in the hills brought over 100,000 persons out to enjoy the beaches.

Lifeguards reported a slightly higher number of rescues than normal, and attributed the number to inexperience as people returned to the surf after the winter months.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

It Was Not an Entire Eye, Transplant Doctor Admits

Combined News Service

Under charges from the medical profession that the world's first total eye transplant in a human performed by Dr. Conrad D. Moore was "doomed to failure," the Houston surgeon reversed himself Saturday and said the operation involved only part of an eye.

Moore announced Tuesday he had performed the first total human eye transplant in a one-hour operation at Houston's Methodist Hospital.

The recipient, John Madden, a 55-year-old Conroe, Tex., photo shop owner, was reported to have received the eye of a Houston man who died a day before of a brain tumor.

Some world eye specialists said from the start the operation would not be successful. The heaviest criticism of the transplant came Friday from the executive council of the Houston Opthalmological Society, which accused Moore of giving thousands of blind persons a false sense of hope with the total eye transplant.

The optic nerve necessary for sight will not regrow after it is cut, as it must be for a transplant, the society said.

Saturday, Moore told a news conference at Methodist Hospital he did not transplant a total new eye into Madden. Instead, he said he transplantded only part of it.

"In development of this operation, essentially aimed at preserving the optic nerve and the posterior section of the retina of the patient, including the blood supply, the anterior portion of the globe was transplanted from a fresh donor eye," Moore said.

His statement contradicted another by the Institute of Opthalmology of the Texas Medical Center, issued only hours after Moore's operation Tuesday. Moore is a director of the institute.

"An opthalmological surgeon at the Institute of Opthalmology, Texas Medical Center, has performed what is believed to be the world's first transplant of an entire human eye in the hope of restoring vision," the statement said.

DR. CONRAD MOORE
Performed Eye Surgery

The transplant patient was reported in excellent condition at Methodist Hospital Saturday. His eyes were stitched shut to prevent infection, a spokesman said. Moore said it would take three weeks to determine if Madden could see out of his new eye.

AIDE STRICKEN

Brig. Gen. Robert L. Schulz, 61, for eight years military aide to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was in "very serious condition" Saturday in Ft. Belvoir Army Hospital after a heart attack.

A spokesman said Schulz was taken to the suburban Virginia hospital late Friday after being stricken at home with acute cardial infarction and suspected congestive heart failure.

President Nixon appointed Schulz last February as his special liaison with former Presidents Harry S Truman, Eisenhower, who died of a heart attack last March 28, and Lyndon B. Johnson.

AACHOO!

President Nixon caught a cold a month ago at the time former President Dwight D. Eisenhower died, and colds apparently have been catching in the family since then.

Daughter Tricia, whom her father crowned queen of the International Azalea Festival in Norfold, Va., Saturday, has been fighting one for several days. And her mother, Pat, was prevented by a cold from attending the big event. Mrs. Nixon stayed home at the White House.

Nixon told reporters about his cold while waiting offstage for the crowning ceremony and said he has been a bit hoarse, off and on, for the past month.

The President told reporters it wasn't noticeable at his last news conference a week ago Friday because of the come-and-go nature of the hoarseness.

WRONG WAY

Ezra Milhous, 82-year-old uncle of President Richard M. Nixon, was found early Saturday in a nearby hotel after he became confused at the Sacramento bus depot.

Milhous, who lives at Penryn, just northeast of Sacramento, was reported missing by his wife Ruth, after he had gone into a bus station restroom and did not return.

He was found by a grandson, Dick Milhous, of Grass Valley, in a room at a hotel a few blocks from the downtown depot.

Police said the elderly man, who is half blind and walks with the aid of a cane, apparently became confused and turned the wrong way when he left the restroom.

LONG STEP

A 21-year-old amateur parachutist, Claudine Dumont, fell nearly 5,000 feet with both chutes flapping ineffectually but survived the impact on marshy ground at Meaux, France. Miss Dumont, of nearby Saint Maurice, suffered several fractures, but her condition is not critical, hospital officials reported Saturday.

IN TOWN

The 1,600-ton yacht Christina, minus owner Aristotle Onassis and his bride, Jacqueline, was docked at Miami, Fla., today for an indefinite stay and to take on supplies.

Onassis and his wife had flown to New York earlier from Nassau with their latest guest, Mrs. Ethel Kennedy.

LBJ OUT IN PUBLIC, BUT UNDER WRAPS

AUSTIN (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, affable and smiling with his right hand in heavy bandages, made one of his first public appearances Saturday night since leaving office.

The former president and Mrs. Johnson attended a banquet in an Austin hotel honoring former Gov. John Connally and others.

The banquet was a founders-day affair of law fraternity, Delta Theta Phi at a local hotel. Other honorees included Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex., and former Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex.

Johnson said he had "a growth" caused by the "very tender tissues' of his hand, removed earlier in the day.

As banquet guests reached to shake hands with the former president, he quickly shook with his left. Once he cried out in pain when an enthusiastic handshaker grabbed the bandages.

N. Viet Blackout of American POW Messages Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Virtually no mail has been received from American prisoners of war in North Vietnam in the half year since the end of U.S. air raids over the North, State Department authorities disclosed Saturday.

Nor has any evidence reached Washington that Christmas packages sent to the estimated 400 or more prisoners were delivered to them, they said.

Undersecretary of State Elliott L. Richardson said of the near-blackout on word from the captives over the past six months:

"We are deeply concerned about the lack of information about our prisoners and missing. It's hard to see what Hanoi hopes to gain by denying the prisoners the basic right to communicate with their families."

* * * *

RICHARDSON, named by President Nixon to head U.S. efforts in behalf of the prisoners, said, "We are continuing to use every possible opportunity to raise this question and to achieve the early release of prisoners on both sides."

The apparent halt in mail from the captives and a dearth of reports about them from other sources is of particular concern to U.S. officials in view of North Vietnam's longstanding refusal to allow outsiders to visit the men.

Under the Geneva Convention for prisoners of war, which North Vietnam signed, captives are supposed to be guaranteed humane treatment, including communication with their families. Also, a neutral power or group such as the International Red Cross Committee is supposed to have access to them.

* * * *

BUT HANOI LONG has refused to allow the Red Cross to call on the men, though it has claimed they are well treated and occasionally has allowed selected outside visitors to see some of them.

During 1968, up to the time of the November bomb halt setting the stage for the expanded Paris peace talks, State Department authorities said more than 100 letters from prisoners to their families arrived in the United States.

Why the North Vietnamese have clamped down on prisoner mail is a puzzle here. Some speculate Hanoi has yet to decide what position it wishes to take on the prisoner issue in the new round of Paris talks and in the meantime is concealing all information about them.

* * * *

THE UNITED STATES, meanwhile, has switched its tactics at Paris on the prisoner question. Previously Ambassador W. Averell Harriman pressed the matter in private talks. His successor as chief U.S. negotiator, Henry Cabot Lodge, raised the issue publicly when broadened negotiations got under way in January and has continued to do so since.

The North Vietnamese have yet to respond to Lodge's pleas.

The Pentagon's latest tally lists more than 1,300 GIs missing or captured in the Southeast Asian conflict. Of the 400 plus known to be in North Vietnamese prisons, nearly all are fliers.

N. Viet Blackout of American POW Messages Revealed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Virtually no mail has been received from American prisoners of war in North Vietnam in the half year since the end of U.S. air raids over the North, State Department authorities disclosed Saturday.

Nor has any evidence reached Washington that Christmas packages sent to the estimated 400 or more prisoners were delivered to them, they said.

Undersecretary of State Elliott L. Richardson said of the near-blackout on word from the captives over the past six months:

"We are deeply concerned about the lack of information about our prisoners and missing. It's hard to see what Hanoi hopes to gain by denying the prisoners the basic right to communicate with their families."

* * * *

RICHARDSON, named by President Nixon to head U.S. efforts in behalf of the prisoners, said, "We are continuing to use every possible opportunity to raise this question and to achieve the early release of prisoners on both sides."

The apparent halt in mail from the captives and a dearth of reports about them from other sources is of particular concern to U.S. officials in view of North Vietnam's longstanding refusal to allow outsiders to visit the men.

Under the Geneva Convention for prisoners of war, which North Vietnam signed, captives are supposed to be guaranteed humane treatment, including communication with their families. Also, a neutral power or group such as the International Red Cross Committee is supposed to have access to them.

* * * *

BUT HANOI LONG has refused to allow the Red Cross to call on the men, though it has claimed they are well treated and occasionally has allowed selected outside visitors to see some of them.

During 1968, up to the time of the November bomb halt setting the stage for the expanded Paris peace talks, State Department authorities said more than 100 letters from prisoners to their families arrived in the United States.

Why the North Vietnamese have clamped down on prisoner mail is a puzzle here. Some speculate Hanoi has yet to decide what position it wishes to take on the prisoner issue in the new round of Paris talks and in the meantime is concealing all information about them.

* * * *

THE UNITED STATES, meanwhile, has switched its tactics at Paris on the prisoner question. Previously Ambassador W. Averell Harriman pressed the matter in private talks. PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

It Was Not an Entire Eye, Transplant Doctor Admits

Combined News Service

Under charges from the medical profession that the world's first total eye transplant in a human performed by Dr. Conrad D. Moore was "doomed to failure," the Houston surgeon reversed himself Saturday and said the operation involved only part of an eye.

Moore announced Tuesday he had performed the first total human eye transplant in a one-hour operation at Houston's Methodist Hospital.

The recipient, John Madden, a 55-year-old Conroe, Tex., photo shop owner, was reported to have received the eye of a Houston man who died a day before of a brain tumor.

Some world eye specialists said from the start the operation would not be successful. The heaviest criticism of the transplant came Friday from the executive council of the Houston Opthalmological Society, which accused Moore of giving thousands of blind persons a false sense of hope with the total eye transplant.

The optic nerve necessary for sight will not regrow after it is cut, as it must be for a transplant, the society said.

Saturday, Moore told a news conference at Methodist Hospital he did not transplant a total new eye into Madden. Instead, he said he transplantded only part of it.

"In development of this operation, essentially aimed at preserving the optic nerve and the posterior section of the retina of the patient, including the blood supply, the anterior portion of the globe was transplanted from a fresh donor eye," Moore said.

His statement contradicted another by the Institute of Opthalmology of the Texas Medical Center, issued only hours after Moore's operation Tuesday. Moore is a director of the institute.

"An opthalmological surgeon at the Institute of Opthalmology, Texas Medical Center, has performed what is believed to be the world's first transplant of an entire human eye in the hope of restoring vision," the statement said.

The transplant patient was reported in excellent condition at Methodist Hospital Saturday. His eyes were stitched shut to prevent infection, a spokesman said. Moore said it would take three weeks to determine if Madden could see out of his new eye.

AIDE STRICKEN

Brig. Gen. Robert L. Schulz, 61, for eight years military aide to the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower, was in "very serious condition" Saturday in Ft. Belvoir Army Hospital after a heart attack.

A spokesman said Schulz was taken to the suburban Virginia hospital late Friday after being stricken at home with acute cardial infarction and suspected congestive heart failure.

President Nixon appointed Schulz last February as his special liaison with former Presidents Harry S Truman, Eisenhower, who died of a heart attack last March 28, and Lyndon B. Johnson.

AACHOO!

President Nixon caught a cold a month ago at the time former President Dwight D. Eisenhower died, and colds apparently have been catching in the family since then.

Daughter Tricia, whom her father crowned queen of the International Azalea Festival in Norfold, Va., Saturday, has been fighting one for several days. And her mother, Pat, was prevented by a cold from attending the big event. Mrs. Nixon stayed home at the White House.

Nixon told reporters about his cold while waiting offstage for the crowning ceremony and said he has been a bit hoarse, off and on, for the past month.

The President told reporters it wasn't noticeable at his last news conference a week ago Friday because of the come-and-go nature of the hoarseness.

WRONG WAY

Ezra Milhous, 82-year-old uncle of President Richard M. Nixon, was found early Saturday in a nearby hotel after he became confused at the Sacramento bus depot.

Milhous, who lives at Penryn, just northeast of Sacramento, was reported missing by his wife Ruth, after he had gone into a bus station restroom and did not return.

He was found by a grandson, Dick Milhous, of Grass Valley, in a room at a hotel a few blocks from the downtown depot.

Police said the elderly man, who is half blind and walks with the aid of a cane, apparently became confused and turned the wrong way when he left the restroom.

LONG STEP

A 21-year-old amateur parachutist, Claudine Dumont, fell nearly 5,000 feet with both chutes flapping ineffectually but survived the impact on marshy ground at Meaux, France. Miss Dumont, of nearby Saint Maurice, suffered several fractures, but her condition is not critical, hospital officials reported Saturday.

IN TOWN

The 1,600-ton yacht Christina, minus owner Aristotle Onassis and his bride, Jacqueline, was docked at Miami, Fla., today for an indefinite stay and to take on supplies.

Onassis and his wife had flown to New York earlier from Nassau with their latest guest, Mrs. Ethel Kennedy.

LBJ OUT IN PUBLIC, BUT UNDER WRAPS

AUSTIN (AP) — Former President Lyndon B. Johnson, affable and smiling with his right hand in heavy bandages, made one of his first public appearances Saturday night since leaving office.

The former president and Mrs. Johnson attended a banquet in an Austin hotel honoring former Gov. John Connally and others.

The banquet was a founders-day affair of law fraternity Delta Theta Phi at a local hotel. Other honorees included Rep. Jake Pickle, D-Tex., and former Rep. Joe Kilgore, D-Tex.

Johnson said he had "a growth" caused by the "very tender tissues' of his hand, removed earlier in the day.

As banquet guests reached to shake hands with the former president, he quickly shook with his left. Once he cried out in pain when an enthusiastic handshaker grabbed the bandages.

USS Long Beach Men Honored

Two members of the 40-man Marine Detachment on the USS Long Beach have been honored, one with a commendation, the other with a promotion.

Sgt. Dick Zerr, 20, Sacramento, was cited for finishing first out of 94 Marines taking an administrative school at Camp Pendleton.

Capt. James Kenninger is the Marine Detachment commanding officer. His men are responsible for total security on Capt. Bill Spencer's nuclear cruiser.

Firebomb Suspects

LONDON (AP) — Two men armed with gasoline bombs were arrested Saturday night on the roof of a building overlooking the U.S. embassy. Police said they seized eight milk bottles filled with gasoline.

3 'Lost at Sea' Found Safe

Three persons believed missing after their small boat was found capsized off Santa Catalina Island were found safe aboard a sailboat Saturday, the Coast Guard reported.

The smaller craft apparently broke away from the sail boat, which had been towing it Friday.

The boat is owned by Ray Kellog, 55, of West Los Angeles, who was sailing with his son, Pat, 20, and a friend, Laurie Raizin.

Rent Cement Mixer For Pancake Batter

By BARBARA FRYER
Staff Writer

Carol G. wanted to have dancing at her party Saturday night so she went there.

Joe F. wanted to see if the slanty kitchen table was what was wrong with his poker game so he went there.

Members of the Anaheim Southwest Little League wanted something to mix a giant pancake batter in so they went there.

"There" in each case was one of the many neighborhood rent-all agencies sprouting like goldenrod all over the Southland.

Carol came home with a 30 by 30 dance floor. Her cost was $30.

Joe walked home with a poker table, a set of chips and even some ashtrays for $4.50.

And the Anaheim group, well they came back with a massive cement mixer. Free.

"I donated it," says Jim Dizney, operator of an Anaheim rent-all. "The machine was brand new and well when they said they wanted something to mix pancakes for 1,800, it seemed ideal."

It worked so well the group reappeared again this year "but the machine had chunks of cement in it and I figured it would be a little rough on the digestion," says Dizney.

The cases prove area rental outlet operators' boast "We rent most anything anytime," is very nearly right.

An anxious-to-impress hostess can bring home sparkling china dinner plates for a dime apiece, a polished silver tea set for $10.50 and even a silver champagne fountain for $20.

For the weight-conscious, there are joggers to be taken home for $22.50 a month, exercise bicycles for $15 and massage rollers for $24.

The do-it-yourselfer can find welding units for $6, chain saws for $3.50 an hour, hand-sanders for $3.75.

For the lady who complains she has nothing to wear, a Pine Avenue furrier will rent a mink stole for an evening for $12 and $200 rabbit coat for $7.50.

One Ocean Boulevard bridal firm will even rent a wedding gown for $25 along with bridesmaids dresses for $15.

Then there are outlets specializing in hospital supplies like oxygen tents ($14.50 a month for the unit plus $12.50 for a tank) refrigerators and stoves for $6 monthly and musical instruments like a piano for $8 to $12 a month.

"I had one guy — a gambler from Gardena — who rented a piano from me for 17 years," says Clarence L. Morey who runs a Pine Street music rental shop.

"He paid $10 a month and could have owned it a couple times over but he said he didn't want any responsibilities," Morey says, laughing.

"There are some funny people around," he continues.

Maryland police would agree, relating the case of a housewife who rented a bolt cutter from her neighborhood rent-all and then proceeded to spring her husband from jail.

Aside from a few strange uses of their merchandise and minor theft cases, renters say things look good.

By one estimate the rent-all business is at $200-million a year, with over 8,000 general rental outlets across the country and half a dozen more opening daily.

Ed Hill, who operates one such establishment on Long Beach Boulevard, says young people are coming more and more rent-minded.

"Years ago you tried to own one of every tool on the market. This denoted wealth or equity. You used it once and your neighbor used it 20 times and then it just sat there," he says.

The lack of storage agencies, Hill believes, also accounts for the upsweep in renting.

All the rental activity would seem to disprove Ben Franklin's comment that "he that goes aborrowing goes asorrowing."

Students Get Advisory Faculty-Hiring Power

Students at the University of California at Irvine will have the right to advise the administration on employment of some faculty members, but Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich will retain veto powers.

Aldrich said Saturday the student advisory powers will extend only to appointment of lecturers, visiting professors and professors in residence, but not to tenured faculty.

The chancellor also said he plans mobile homes for housing on campus this fall, marking the first time that such temporary living quarters have been set up on any campus in the county.

UCI expects demand for 1,000 more dormitory rooms than it has available this fall; the trailer homes would substitute, he said.

There was no estimate of how many mobile home units the university would lease, nor their cost.

Aldrich said he has not decided the assignment of Dr. George Kent, discharged by the Faculty Council from his history department post, but rehired by the chancellor. Kent will be transferred from the history department, however.

Chancellor Aldrich outlined the reasons for overruling the Faculty Council when he called a unique "convocation" of the UCI faculty and staff, a meeting to which students were admitted.

The chancellor proposed formation of a campus-wide organization to deal with problems "concerning everybody." Most groups on campus are now concerned with their own particular interests, he noted.

Right of a student advisory group to recommend appointments will not involve it in the dispute over the release of Dr. Stephen Shapiro as a professor and George Brannan as a lecturer for the English department. Militants sought to make the Shapiro case a cause celebre on campus, staging demonstrations, confrontations and "mill-ins."

'Manpower Plan' Meet at LBCC

"Manpower Planning for the Future" will be the theme of Wednesday's 12th annual Industrial Relations Conference at Long Beach City College's business and technology campus.

Featured speakers will be Lawrence Cooper, president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce's management council, and Peter Weinberger, of the California State Employment Service.

Officers Clubbed; 4 Jailed

Two Harbor Division policemen were clubbed and kicked by a group of bar-room brawlers Saturday during a fight at a Wilmington tavern.

Officers Loren Wells and Donald Jenks were treated at Central Receiving Hospital for minor injuries and then released following the melee at The Deck Bar, 303 Anaheim St.

Four persons, including a woman, were arrested. The men were booked on charges of assaulting a police officer and the woman on suspicion of interfering with an arrest.

Child, 4, Tells Killing of Mother

OAKLAND (UPI) — When Mrs. Brenda Forman called her mother's house, her 4-year-old sister answered. "Bill put mama in the bathtub with her clothes on," the child said.

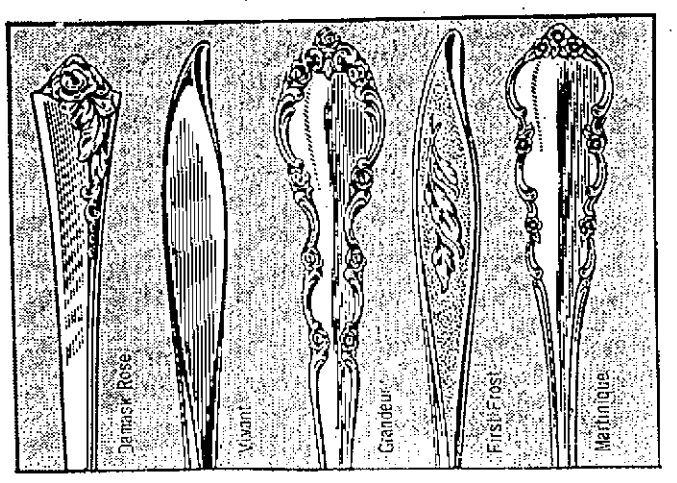

Alerted by Mrs. Forman, police investigated and found the body of Mrs. Audrey Gardner, 44, fatally stabbed and floating face down in the tub.

About four hours after the slaying police arrested William Bowen, 38, Oakland, and charged him with the slaying.

USS Long Beach Men Honored

Two members of the 40-man Marine Detachment on the USS Long Beach have been honored, one with a commendation, the other with a promotion.

Sgt. Dick Zerr, 20, Sacramento, was cited for finishing first out of 94 Marines taking an administrative school at Camp Pendleton.

Capt. James Kenninger is the Marine Detachment commanding officer. His men are responsible for total security on Capt. Bill Spencer's nuclear cruiser.

Firebomb Suspects

LONDON (AP) — Two men armed with gasoline bombs were arrested Saturday night on the roof of a building overlooking the U.S. embassy. Police said they seized eight milk bottles filled with gasoline.

3 'Lost at Sea' Found Safe

Three persons believed missing after their small boat was found capsized off Santa Catalina Island were found safe aboard a sailboat Saturday, the Coast Guard reported.

The smaller craft apparently broke away from the sail boat, which had been towing it Friday.

The boat is owned by Ray Kellog, 55, of West Los Angeles, who was sailing with his son, Pat, 20, and a friend, Laurie Raizin.

Rent Cement Mixer For Pancake Batter

By BARBARA FRYER
Staff Writer

Carol G. wanted to have dancing at her party Saturday night so she went there.

Joe F. wanted to see if the slanty kitchen table was what was wrong with his poker game so he went there.

Members of the Anaheim Southwest Little League wanted something to mix a giant pancake batter in so they went there.

"There" in each case was one of the many neighborhood rent-all agencies sprouting like goldenrod all over the Southland.

Carol came home with a 30 by 30 dance floor. Her cost was $30.

Joe walked home with a poker table, a set of chips and even some ashtrays for $4.50.

And the Anaheim group, well they came back with a massive cement mixer. Free.

"I donated it," says Jim Dizney, operator of an Anaheim rent-all. "The machine was brand new and well when they said they wanted something to mix pancakes for 1,800, it seemed ideal."

It worked so well the group reappeared again this year "but the machine had chunks of cement in it and I figured it would be a little rough on the digestion," says Dizney.

The cases prove area rental outlet operators' boast "We rent most anything anytime," is very nearly right.

An anxious-to-impress hostess can bring home sparkling china dinner plates for a dime apiece, a polished silver tea set for $10.50 and even a silver champagne fountain for $20.

For the weight-conscious, there are joggers to be taken home for $22.50 a month, exercise bicycles for $15 and massage rollers for $24.

The do-it-yourselfer can find welding units for $6, chain saws for $3.50 an hour, hand-sanders for $3.75.

For the lady who complains she has nothing to wear, a Pine Avenue furrier will rent a mink stole for an evening for $12 and $200 rabbit coat for $7.50.

One Ocean Boulevard bridal firm will even rent a wedding gown for $25 along with bridesmaids dresses for $15.

Then there are outlets specializing in hospital supplies like oxygen tents ($14.50 a month for the unit plus $12.50 for a tank) refrigerators and stoves for $6 monthly and musical instruments like a piano for $8 to $12 a month.

"I had one guy — a gambler from Gardena — who rented a piano from me for 17 years," says Clarence L. Morey who runs a Pine Street music rental shop.

"He paid $10 a month and could have owned it a couple times over but he said he didn't want any responsibilities," Morey says, laughing.

"There are some funny people around," he continues.

Maryland police would agree, relating the case of a housewife who rented a bolt cutter from her neighborhood rent-all and then proceeded to spring her husband from jail.

Aside from a few strange uses of their merchandise and minor theft cases, renters say things look good.

By one estimate the rent-all business is at $200-million a year, with over 8,000 general rental outlets across the country and half a dozen more opening daily.

Ed Hill, who operates one such establishment on Long Beach Boulevard, says young people are coming more and more rent-minded.

"Years ago you tried to own one of every tool on the market. This denoted wealth or equity. You used it once and your neighbor used it 20 times and then it just sat there," he says.

The lack of storage agencies, Hill believes, also accounts for the upsweep in renting.

All the rental activity would seem to disprove Ben Franklin's comment that "he that goes aborrowing goes asorrowing."

Students Get Advisory Faculty-Hiring Power

Students at the University of California at Irvine will have the right to advise the administration on employment of some faculty members, but Chancellor Daniel G. Aldrich will retain veto powers.

Aldrich said Saturday the student advisory powers will extend only to appointment of lecturers, visiting professors and professors in residence, but not to tenured faculty.

The chancellor also said he plans mobile homes for housing on campus this fall, marking the first time that such temporary living quarters have been set up on any campus in the county.

UCI expects demand for 1,000 more dormitory rooms than it has available this fall; the trailer homes would substitute, he said.

There was no estimate of how many mobile home units the university would lease, nor their cost.

Aldrich said he has not decided the assignment of Dr. George Kent, discharged by the Faculty Council from his history department post, but rehired by the chancellor. Kent will be transferred from the history department, however.

Chancellor Aldrich outlined the reasons for overruling the Faculty Council when he called a unique "convocation" of the UCI faculty and staff, a meeting to which students were admitted.

The chancellor proposed formation of a campus-wide organization to deal with problems "concerning everybody." Most groups on campus are now concerned with their own particular interests, he noted.

Right of a student advisory group to recommend appointments will not involve it in the dispute over the release of Dr. Stephen Shapiro as a professor and George Brannan as a lecturer for the English department. Militants sought to make the Shapiro case a cause celebre on campus, staging demonstrations, confrontations and "mill-ins."

Officers Clubbed; 4 Jailed

Two Harbor Division policemen were clubbed and kicked by a group of bar-room brawlers Saturday during a fight at a Wilmington tavern.

Officers Loren Wells and Donald Jenks were treated at Central Receiving Hospital for minor injuries and then released following the melee at The Deck Bar, 303 Anaheim St.

Four persons, including a woman, were arrested. The men were booked on charges of assaulting a police officer and the woman on suspicion of interfering with an arrest.

Child, 4, Tells Killing of Mother

OAKLAND (UPI) — When Mrs. Brenda Forman called her mother's house, her 4-year-old sister answered. "Bill put mama in the bathtub with her clothes on," the child said.

Alerted by Mrs. Forman, police investigated and found the body of Mrs. Audrey Gardner, 44, fatally stabbed and floating face down in the tub.

About four hours after the slaying police arrested William Bowen, 38, Oakland, and charged him with the slaying.

'YELLOW POWER'

Japanese Protest Hayakawa Speech

By BOB GEIVET
Staff Writer

Campus radicals are picking on their liberal friends because "they want easy enemies — they capitulate easily," Dr. S. I. Hayakawa of embattled San Francisco State College told the Japanese-American Citizens League at Anaheim Saturday night.

"I'd like to see them tangle with some tough ones," he said. "They ought to try the building trades unions for size."

While he talked at a press conference and then at a dinner, 30 young people, mostly Japanese-Americans, picketed in front of the Disneyland Hotel. They said they represented "Yellow Power."

AMONG OTHER things, their placards dubbed Hayakawa "honky-kawa" and proclaimed him a "banana: yellow outside and white inside."

Some placards even were in Japanese characters. The girls carrying them translated them to read "down with imperialism."

Police stood by but there were no disturbances.

Dr. Hayakawa said that he decided to accept the acting presidency of San Francisco State College because academic freedom was being threatened and he said he saw "an impending triumph of irrationality."

The four-month long strike at San Francisco State has hurt black students more than anyone else, he said.

"There would have been a Black studies program right now if there had been no student strike," he said.

"Then when some faculty joined the strikers, it was the end. We had 22 black studies going in September, 1968, and now we have only three."

He said he favors a black studies course, "but not necessarily ethnic studies."

"THE AMERICAN Negro is cut off from his home land and needs to identify with the homeland," he said. "Many Negroes do not know from which tribe their ancestors came. Therefore a studies program for the Afro-American is more legitimate than, say, ethnic studies on Sweden, or even Japan."

Who should teach such a course?

"Any person who is qualified, regardless of race, color or creed," Dr. Hayakawa insisted.

"For example, at the University of Wisconsin, a Dutchman is an expert on African languages. Should he be discriminated against just because he is white?" Dr. Hayakawa asked.

He said he does not know if he will enter politics, but he added that he is more interested in San Francisco State.

Plainly, he likes the attention he is getting — and he favors peaceful picketing.

"They attract attention to their grievances — and they make me even more famous," he smiled.

'Law Applies on Campus and Off' ... Deukmejian

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Republican Sen. George Deukmejian of Long Beach said Saturday he opposes granting amnesty to "revolutionaries . . . who cause violence and disruption on college campuses."

He made the remark to a meeting of California Young Republicans.

Branding the Students for a Democratic Society as "Saboteurs for the Destruction of Society," Deukmejian said, "The laws of a city or of the state apply on a college campus, just as they apply outside it."

"The Republican Party should make it clear that it is opposed to the granting of amnesty to revolutionaries, such as the SDS, who cause violence and disruption on college campuses," he said.

Inflation Curbs Put Prices Up

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Tight money is raising prices instead of holding the line against inflation," said an Atlanta department store chief.

"If I have to borrow money at 8 per cent, I can't exist . . . and if money gets any tighter than it is now, a lot of guys like me are going to get out," declared a discount appliance dealer in Pittsburgh.

But a personal loan manager for the nation's third largest bank in New York City said: "I can get plenty of money for loans. Money is just expensive; it's not tight."

* * * *

THESE conflicting statements were given United Press International correspondents across the country who checked just how tight money is and whether tight money is keeping people from buying things and paying their bills promptly.

Merchants, bankers, manufacturers and credit men were queried. Answers failed to follow any pattern. They did indicate that, up to now, far from curbing inflation, high interest rates and the 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge may have accelerated it. Expensive or tight money, whichever it is, has not curbed the current inflationary psychology of American consumers. And the Commerce Department recently reported that personal income rose $5.3 billion in March, a slight increase over what had been expected. More fuel for the inflationary fire.

Richard Richard, the Atlanta department store magnate, said: "People actually are running to the trough faster."

* * * *

THE QUESTION of tight money drew conflicting answers. The country's second largest bank, Chase Manhattan of New York, said: "Money is not as tight as it was in 1966. Goods and services are in tight supply, so prices go up and interest rates rise, partly because of government efforts to control inflation. But money itself is not really tight."

The National Association of Credit Management said wholesaler collections actually improved in the last quarter of 1968. It saw no reason for deterioration in the first quarter of 1969. The Credit Bureau of Greater New York said credit reports in the city have followed a normal pattern except that the number of requests for credit checks from companies financing retail sales dropped by a cumulative total of 10 per cent in a little over a year. The bureau said this could reflect geographic buying pattern changes just as easily as tight money.

* * * *

SAM ZEILINGER, the Pittsbudgh appliance discounter who was so discouraged about 8 per cent money because he operates on a 10 per cent margin, said about collections: "You have to overcharge on installments because of the cost of collecting. Then you're out of the discount business."

Dun & Bradstreet's San Francisco office prepared a regional report showing that customers of manufacturers and wholesalers in 48 Western cities were somewhat slower in paying February bills than in January by a tiny margin.

* * * *

THE IDEA that the income tax surcharge has failed in curbing inflation has been expressed in many circles. The National Association of Purchasing Management and the American Society of Newspaper Editors both publicly suggested that price and wage controls may have to be adopted because the tax surcharge and high interest rates are not curbing inflation. The Harris Poll recently said the public supports the idea of price and wage controls unless inflation is halted quickly.

They did indicate that, up to now, far from curbing inflation, high interest rates and the 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge may have accelerated it. Expensive or tight money, whichever it is, has not curbed the current inflationary psychology of American consumers. And the Commerce Department recently reported that personal income rose $5.3 billion in March, a slight increase over what had been expected. More fuel for the inflationary fire.

Richard Richard, the Atlanta department store magnate, said: "People actually are running to the trough faster."

* * * *

THE QUESTION of tight money drew conflicting answers. The country's second largest bank, Chase Manhattan of New York, said: "Money is not as tight as it was in 1966. Goods and services are in tight supply, so prices go up and interest rates rise, partly because of government efforts to control inflation. But money itself is not really tight."

The National Association of Credit Management said wholesaler collections actually improved in the last quarter of 1968. It saw no reason for deterioration in the first quarter of 1969. The Credit Bureau of Greater New York said credit reports in the city have followed a normal pattern except that the number of requests for credit checks from companies financing retail sales dropped by a cumulative total of 10 per cent in a little over a year. The bureau said this could reflect geographic buying pattern changes just as easily as tight money.

* * * *

SAM ZEILINGER, the Pittsbudgh appliance discounter who was so discouraged about 8 per cent money because he operates on a 10 per cent margin, said about collections: "You have to overcharge on installments because of the cost of collecting. Then you're out of the discount business."

Dun & Bradstreet's San Francisco office prepared a regional report showing that customers of manufacturers and wholesalers in 48 Western cities were somewhat slower in paying February bills than in January by a tiny margin.

* * * *

THE IDEA that the income tax surcharge has failed in curbing inflation has been expressed in many circles. The National Association of Purchasing Management and the American Society of Newspaper Editors both publicly suggested that price and wage controls may have to be adopted because the tax surcharge and high interest rates are not curbing inflation. The Harris Poll recently said the public supports the idea of price and wage controls unless inflation is halted quickly.

State's Economy Is Hanging on $30 Million Bonds Sale

By BOB SCHMIDT
From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — California's headlong rush toward a fiscal crisis may be halted temporarily Tuesday, with the brakes being provided by the same erratic market which provided the impetus in the first place.

On Tuesday, the state will call for bids on $30 million worth of construction bonds for higher education. If the fluctuating bond market is right — from the state's point of view — the bonds will be sold.

If it is not, no one will bid on the bonds.

And if the bonds are not sold, fiscal calamity will be very, very near for California.

* * * *

THE PROBLEM exists because there is a constitutional limit on the amount of interest the state can pay on the money it borrows via the device of selling general obligation bonds.

That limit is 5 per cent. For years, the state was able to borrow at interest rates considerably less than that 5 per cent maximum because California bonds were considered a gilt-edged investment, and lenders competed with each other for the privilege of buying.

The state simply sold the bonds to the lender willing to accept the least amount of interest.

But earlier this year the supply of money available for loans tightened up drastically, with the result that lenders could demand, and get, higher and higher interest rates.

* * * *

LENDERS have always been eager to invest in state and municipal securities, even when they could get more interest by investing in commercial areas, because, in addition to the state and municipal bonds usually being more solid, the interest earned on the state or municipal investment was tax free.

But suddenly, the interest which could be obtained from commercial investments became so much greater than that obtainable from state investments that the tax-free and gilt-edged factors weren't sufficient to overcome the difference.

In February, State Treasurer Ivy Baker Priest asked for bids on $40 million worth of state construction bonds. There was not a single bid.

Tuesday, she'll try again. But with several factors changed.

To make the $30 million in bonds more tempting to lenders, the state will guarantee to pay them off in no more than 15 years, instead of the usual 25 years. And it will set up a repayment schedule aimed at paying them off in considerably less than 15-year maximum.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, by offering the comparatively small amount of $30 million in bonds- state bonds usually were sold in $100 million lots in the past — the treasurer hopes to make the package available to more lenders.

A bank official, pointing to a recent Wall Street Journal disclosure that $98 million worth of bonds from seven states and municipalities had been sold at less than 5 per cent interest last week, said he believed California would have bidders for its $30 million package Tuesday.

If it does not, several alternatives have been proposed by the treasurer, by state Finance Director Caspar Weinberger, and by legislative analyst A. Alan Post.

* * * *

ALL THREE suggest that "bond anticipation notes" could be sold. These are short-term (usually two years) notes sold in anticipation of a future bond sale. Because of the short-term maturity period, it is believed there would plenty of takes, even at the 5 percent limit. But if the state did sell such notes, it would somehow have to be certain there would be no bond-selling problem two years from now, when the notes were due.

Two other suggestions are certain to turn Gov. Reagan pale. One is to put the 1968-69 and 1969-70 budget surplus-somewhere in the neighborhood of $300 million — to use paying for the projects which the bonds are supposed to finance. But the governor has promised to return any surplus to the taxpayer, in one form or another.

The other is to impose the withholding method of collecting the state income tax, with no forgiveness feature, which would bring in $665 million in 1969-70-71, Post estimates.

* * * *

BUT THE governor has his "feet in concrete" against withholding.

Eventually, all three agree, the interest ceiling is going to have to be raised. Legislation proposed by Sen. Gordon Cologne, R-Indio, would accomplish that.

But because the ceiling is specified in the Constitution, the people would have to approve the change in a statewide election, probably during next June's primary. And by that time, unless the inflationary spiral isn't arrested somehow, the proposed 6 per cent ceiling may not be high enough.

If the various methods of inducing investors to buy California bonds fail, the resultant chaos would be almost beyond description.

The multi-billion dollar state water project, for instance, will simply have to be halted if funds aren't available to pay contractors.

* * * *

THE PROBLEM is, the state asks the people for authority to sell bonds to finance a particular project, but it doesn't actually sell the bonds until it needs the cash. But it has made commitments — with contractors, for instance — that it will pay for work upon completion.

The state has enough cash at its disposal to pay for water project work through, perhaps, November of this year. But no later.

If work were to stop, and equipment were to be pulled out, obviously there would have to be costs faced by the contractors which the state would have to assume. The fiscal impact would be calamitous.

* * * *

LOCALLY, there are two projects which might be affected. Land acquisition programs are on tap on Huntington Beach State Park and at Bolsa Chica State Beach, to provide badly needed parking. Either or both will be threatened if the state can't sell bonds in the next few months.

If the projects have to be delayed, and if inflation continues, it obviously is going to cost more two or three years from now to acquire the land and do the work than if the projects could be started this year.

And a spokesman in the State Division of Beaches and Parks said present plans call for the state to have need of the cash — $2.3 million for Huntington Beach state park and $2.6 million for Bolsa Chica — by September.

* * * *

SO THERE is no time. The state must come up with a solution right now. Altogether, there is $1.34 billion worth of bonds authorized but not yet sold.

If the state's attempt to attract lenders to the $30 million package Tuesday is not successful, if the federal government's efforts to make more money available without adding to the inflation problem is not successful, then there are going to be some drastic reassessments of positions and priorities by California's leaders.

At stake, in addition to the two beach projects and the water project, are school construction projects, veterans' home loans, and numerous other recreation programs.

Very simply — if there's no money, there will be no building.

Since mid-February 34 men at Ft. Lewis have been treated for meningitis.

MARKETS, UNION BARGAINING SET

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Federal mediators have called for representatives of retail food markets and the AFL-CIO Retail Clerks Local 770 to resume bargaining talks Wednesday in the face of two new arguments.

The talks bogged down Friday when the clerks accused a group supporting the employers, Women Against Inflation of Life's Necessities, of being a front "behind which the employers council is carrying on its smash-the-union activities."

The group has described itself as an unbiased group of women who feel the union's contract demands are unjust and are trying to encourage housewives to cross union picket lines.

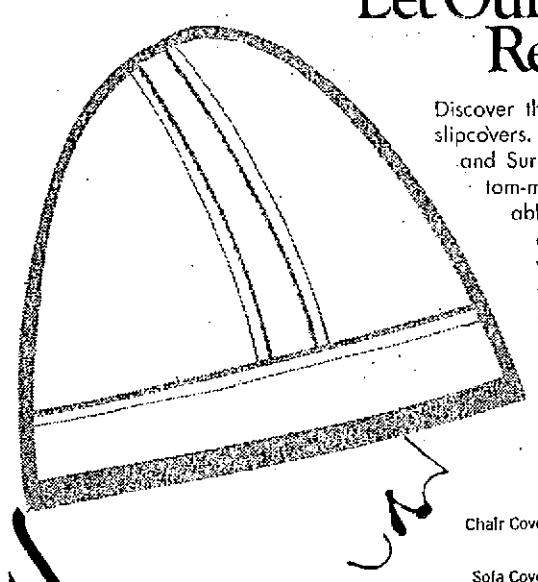

In another development, the union filed a $13.6 million suit in federal court claiming a recent three-year contract signed by management and six other locals in Southern California violates anti-trust laws.

Atty. Charles Hackler said that "contract has a clause which says management will pay members of the six other locals anything Local 770 negotiates."

MUST SELL BONDS BY TUESDAY

State's Economy Is Hanging on $30 Million Bonds Sale

GI'S LETTER STIRS READERS

Reaction Abundant, Varied to 'War Game' Complaint

(Editor's Note: An infantryman in Vietnam last Sunday wrote ACTION LINE to complain about a war game in which his outfit had been ordered to participate. They were to receive plus points for enemy killed and subtract minus points for their own fatalities, the soldier wrote. The prize for the winning company would be a two-day rest. Many REACTION letters and calls were received this past week by ACTION LINE and herewith are excerpts from those typifying the response.)

Soldier, the reason you are in Vietnam now, especially as an infantryman, is to kill the enemy, to try and stay alive, and to help keep your buddies alive.

The heartless game you complain about might be for a reason you are not aware of. If could be to make you so mad you will fight harder, be more alert, bring to your attention that you could be "zapped" or "buy the farm" as it is called.

I still have letters sent home by our son, with his tears fading the ink, telling of losing some of his men. I have letters sent to us from our son's commanding officer, certainly not form letters, telling us our son was wounded.

My son was blown up and is crippled and in pain all the time, but when he was brought into the Medevac tent and finally became conscious, the first thing he remembered was his colonel crying along with one of the toughest first sergeants over there.

Soldier, don't ever think your CO or your leaders are heartless.

Next time you feel sorry for yourself, look at the lines in the faces of your leaders.

Look at the haunted look in their eyes and thank God for them, for your excellent training, and stand proud that you are doing a nasty job and will come home a better man for it all.

Mr. and Mrs. R.F.S., Long Beach

Thank you for publishing the letter from the young infantryman in Vietnam who is complaining about the "war contest" in which his unit was entered.

His letter is an SOS to the American people.

Mr. and Mrs. D.P., Lynwood

As an oldtime military writer and past editor of many award winning military newspapers, I was impressed by your front header on the Sunday paper, "War Contest Demoralizes a Soldier."

This particular letter, the story and form of the kill games, was quite prevalent in World War II and Korean incident.

Believe me, you really must be hard-up for positive stories to swallow things like these. These things are so out-dated and worn out.

If this guy wants to be a little on the adverse side, let him come out with something new.

R.B.J., Buena Park

In World War II, I was a lieutenant in the infantry. On Pelilieu, we had a bonus system. Any of our men who could prove five kills was designated an ace and entitled to an extra three-day pass when we reached a rest camp.

I could see nothing wrong with the incentive system then nor do I now. The objective in a war is to kill the enemy.

L.C., Long Beach

The letter from the Vietnam soldier touched my heart. I am deeply grateful that you published this letter so a lot of people know of the sacrifices and anguish of our young men in the field.

Mrs. G.A., Long Beach

How come he wrote directly to a newspaper instead of going up the ladder of authority until he found the right person to handle the situation?

He cries like a 3-year-old because he doesn't have lockers, beds or privacy while out fighting the VC.

I'm sure that the first-page importance you gave this letter has made our peace-niks, draftcard burners, Communists, pacifists, etc., very happy.

R.M., Seal Beach

Mississippi Dikes Hold; Rains Could Result in Disaster

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The swollen Mississippi River was on crest along an 80-mile stretch between Illinois and Iowa Saturday. Officials and residents hoped that predicted heavy rains and high winds would bypass the flood-stricken area.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers, which has been directing the fight to hold back the river, said heavy rains could undermine and weaken the earthen dikes protecting many communities.

* * * *

THE ENGINEERS said Friday that rainfall up to an inch or more and winds in excess of 30 miles an hour were expected late Saturday and again Sunday. But the Weather Bureau in Chicago said Saturday the weather might not turn out as severe as predicted.

The engineers reported Saturday the Mississippi was on crest from Sabula, Iowa, across from Savanna, Ill., southward to Muscatine, Iowa — an 80-mile stretch that includes the Quad-Cities, and industrial area consisting of Rock Island, Moline and East Moline in Illinois and Davenport and Bettenforf in Iowa.

A company of soldiers from Ft. Riley, Kan., about 80 men, was brought in Saturday to augment around-the-clock dike patrols in the Quad-Cities area.

The engineer corps said there was no immediate problem but one could develop if the predicted rains and winds arrived.

"If the rain and winds bypass us or are of minor severity," the spokesman said, "We expect to ride out the crest successfully."

The engineers said winds of 23 to 35 miles an hour could cause wave action that would raise the water level another six inches or more.

THROUGH MONTHS of effort the engineers have constructed high dikes along the raging stream, which they estimate have averted at least $1-billion damage.

Upstream the Mississippi was receding slowly. The river was still nearly six feet over flood stage at Dubuque, Iowa, where some industries and a large residential area were surrounded by water, five feet above flood stage at Clinton, Iowa, and just over four feet through the Quad-Cities.

Downstream the Mississippi was reported falling from Windfield, Mo., north of St. Louis, to near Cairo, Ill. All points along the stream were in flood stage except at St. Louis where the river was two feet below flood stage of 30 feet.

Tornadoes, Blizzards Lash Midwest, Dixie

By United Press International

A blizzard lashed Southeastern Montana Saturday. Tornadoes touched down in Missouri at Edgerton and near Lee's Summit, close to Kansas City.

Tornadoes also were reported near Garber and Chickasha, Okla., and a funnel cloud was sighted 20 miles southwest of Oklahoma City. Golf-ball sized hail battered Hollis and Blanchard, Okla.

A tornado watch or tornado warning was in effect in West Texas, Western Oklahoma and parts of Arkansas and Missouri as the storm-chilled air plunged southward.

Winds gusted up to 58 miles an hour in Kansas City, Mo., downing trees and power lines. Some damage also was reported at Edgerton, about 30 miles north of Kansas City, where one of the twisters touched down.

Wind-driven snow and cold rain fell across the northern plains east of the blizzard. Heavy snow warnings remained in effect in Southeastern Montana and Northern Wyoming, and Stockmen's warnings were issued for North and South Dakota and parts of Nebraska and Montana.

Showers and thundershowers stretched from Wisconsin to West Texas, through Iowa, Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma, ahead of the advancing cold front.

A. Javelinas (pronounced "havelinas") also called peccaries, are wild pigs native to the Southwestern United States. They are found in Texas, Arizona, New Mexico and other desert regions. They have tusks, grow to about 3 feet long, live in herds of 10 to 100 and have been known to attack men.

Theodore Roosevelt once observed, "In the old days, it had been no uncommon thing for a big band to attack entirely of their own accord, and keep a hunter up a tree for hours at a time." The animals long have been hunted for their hides and meat. State laws now protect them, and limit hunting seasons to short periods. John Russo, chief of game management for the Arizona Fish and Game Department, Capitol Building, Phoenix, Ariz. 85007, said the season in Arizona is limited to about one week in the spring. For more hunting information, write to the department. Russo said that unlike domestic pigs, the javelina is not subject to trichinosis and can be cooked less. He said the meat is best roasted, baked or barbecued. "Frying and overcooking the meat will dry it out," Russo added.

Window Dressing

Q. I am interested in learning to do window displays for department stores. How do I enter the field? Are there classes I can take? M.S., Lakewood.

A. ACTION LINE talked with John Hersey, corporate display director for Buffums department store, and Fred Taylor of M.E. Taylor & Son Decorating in Long Beach. Both men said there is a need for window trimmers with all the new department stores going up. The normal way of entering the field is to get a job as a display trainee and work your way up to display manager. Jobs as display trainees are acquired by going from department store to department store and applying for the position. "Your reader should have an artistic flair and be knowledgeable about new products and fashions in every area of merchandise," said Hersey. Taylor suggested you subscribe to a trade magazine called Display World.

The magazine lists new techniques in the field and carries job listings. To subscribe, write to Display Publications, 407 Gilbert Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio 45202. If you want to look through some older copies, Taylor said he has some in his office at 1501 Oregon Ave. ACTION LINE found a three-semester course in merchandise display in the art department of Los Angeles Trade-Technical College, 400 W. Washington Blvd., Los Angeles. The course, taught by Lee Hansen, includes instruction in building properties, planning and installing display windows, and show cards. Be sure to get a special transfer permit from Long Beach City College before enrolling.

California in Covers

Q. My husband and I would like to purchase a book on California for my father who lives in Michigan. He wants a large, hardback book with some color pictures of places of interest in California. Where can we purchase such a book for about $10.? G.P., Torrance.

A. The Editors of Sunset Magazine have just put out a revised edition of "Beautiful California." The 8½-by 11-inch book contains 280 photographs of places of interest in California, including 32 full color plates. You can obtain the book for the advance sale price of $8.95 at Ryan's Book Villa, 2547 Pacific Coast Highway, Torrance; Buffums' book shop, Pine Avenue at Broadway, Long Beach; or from Sunset Books, Willow Road at Middlefield Road, Menlo Park, Calif. 94025. Some other pictorial books you might want to get for your father from Sunset Books are "Los Angeles" for $11.75, and "California Missions" for $12.75.

GI'S LETTER STIRS READERS

Reaction Abundant, Varied to 'War Game' Complaint

(Editor's Note: An infantryman in Vietnam last Sunday wrote ACTION LINE to complain about a war game in which his outfit had been ordered to participate. They were to receive plus points for enemy killed and subtract minus points for their own fatalities, the soldier wrote. The prize for the winning company would be a two-day rest. Many REACTION letters and calls were received this past week by ACTION LINE and herewith are excerpts from those typifying the response.)

Soldier, the reason you are in Vietnam now, especially as an infantryman, is to kill the enemy, to try and stay alive, and to help keep your buddies alive.

The heartless game you complain about might be for a reason you are not aware of. If could be to make you so mad you will fight harder, be more alert, bring to your attention that you could be "zapped" or "buy the farm" as it is called.

I still have letters sent home by our son, with his tears fading the ink, telling of losing some of his men. I have letters sent to us from our son's commanding officer, certainly not form letters, telling us our son was wounded.

My son was blown up and is crippled and in pain all the time, but when he was brought into the Medevac tent and finally became conscious, the first thing he remembered was his colonel crying along with one of the toughest first sergeants over there.

Soldier, don't ever think your CO or your leaders are heartless.

Next time you feel sorry for yourself, look at the lines in the faces of your leaders.

Look at the haunted look in their eyes and thank God for them, for your excellent training, and stand proud that you are doing a nasty job and will come home a better man for it all.

Mr. and Mrs. R.F.S., Long Beach

Thank you for publishing the letter from the young infantryman in Vietnam who is complaining about the "war contest" in which his unit was entered.

His letter is an SOS to the American people.

Mr. and Mrs. D.P., Lynwood

As an oldtime military writer and past editor of many award winning military newspapers, I was impressed by your front header on the Sunday paper, "War Contest Demoralizes a Soldier."

This particular letter, the story and form of the kill games, was quite prevalent in World War II and Korean incident.

Believe me, you really must be hard-up for positive stories to swallow things like these. These things are so out-dated and worn out.

If this guy wants to be a little on the adverse side, let him come out with something new.

R.B.J., Buena Park

In World War II, I was a lieutenant in the infantry. On Pelilieu, we had a bonus system. Any of our men who could prove five kills was designated an ace and entitled to an extra three-day pass when we reached a rest camp.

I could see nothing wrong with the incentive system then nor do I now. The objective in a war is to kill the enemy.

L.C., Long Beach

The letter from the Vietnam soldier touched my heart. I am deeply grateful that you published this letter so a lot of people know of the sacrifices and anguish of our young men in the field.

Mrs. G.A., Long Beach

How come he wrote directly to a newspaper instead of going up the ladder of authority until he found the right person to handle the situation?

He crys like a 3-year-old because he doesn't have lockers, beds or privacy while out fighting the VC.

I'm sure that the first-page importance you gave this letter has made our peace-niks, draftcard burners, Communists, pacifists, etc., very happy.

R.M., Seal Beach

Mississippi Dikes Hold; Rains Could Result in Disaster

ASSOCIATED PRESS

The swollen Mississippi River was on crest along an 80-mile stretch between Illinois and Iowa Saturday. Officials and residents hoped that predicted havy rains and high winds would bypass the flood-stricken area.

A spokesman for the Army Corps of Engineers, which has been directing the fight to hold back the river, said heavy rains could undermine and weaken the earthen dikes protecting many communities.

* * * *

THE ENGINEERS said Friday that rainfall up to an inch or more and winds in excess of 30 miles an hour were expected late Saturday and again Sunday. But the Weather Bureau in Chicago said Saturday the weather might not turn out as severe as predicted.

The engineers reported Saturday the Mississippi was on crest from Sabula, Iowa, across from Savanna, Ill., southward to Muscatine, Iowa — an 80-mile stretch that includes the Quad-Cities, and industrial area consisting of Rock Island, Moline and East Moline in Illinois and Davenport and Bettenforf in Iowa.

A company of soldiers from Ft. Riley, Kan., about 80 men, was brought in Saturday to augment around-the-clock dike patrols in the Quad-Cities area.

The engineer corps said there was no immediate problem but one could develop if the predicted rains and winds arrived.

"If the rain and winds bypass us or are of minor severity," the spokesman said, "We expect to ride out the crest successfully."

The engineers said winds of 23 to 35 miles an hour could cause wave action that would raise the water level another six inches or more.

Charleston Guard Blocks Hospital Workers March

New York Times Service

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Another 100 Negro students were jailed here Saturday when they tried to march down Charleston's main thoroughfare in support of striking hospital workers and in protest of the arrest Friday fo Rev. Ralph David Abernathy and a large group of union supporters.

Their arrest brings to 200 the total arrested in the last 24 hours as National Guardsmen, police and state troopers patrolled the streets of this tense, troubled city.

The show of force, ordered by Gov. Robert E. McNair, first confronted the youths in the morning when they lined up, two abreast, outside a church in the Negro community. Guardsmen in gasmasks with fixed bayonets standing before an armed personnel carrier blocked the exits from the street. The would-be marchers were caught in a two-block area.

* * * *

THE ARRESTS came in the afternoon when Carl E. Farris, a local Negro leader, asked the students to continue their march. Police asked them to disperse, and when they refused they were arrested.

Meanwhile, reliable sources said that the widow of Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. plans to come here Tuesday in support of the Negroes' protest.

The youngsters wanted to march down Charleston's main thoroughfare in support of the workers and in protest of the arrests Friday of Abernathy and 100 other persons who had violated an injunction against large-scale picketing.

But guardsmen blocked the street where they had met to organize and, with bayonets fixed on their carbines, they held the would-be marchers in the two-block area

'Wolf Pack' Arrested in N.Y. Slaying

NEW YORK (AP) — Five boys, ranging in age from 8 to 15, were arrested Saturday after a man was found stabbed to death on Manhattan's Lower East Side.

Police called the boys a "wolf pack" and said they were suspected or robbing and beating a number of adults in the neighborhood.

The slain man, Francisco Sanchez, 66, had been robbed of 60 cents and a duffle bag of clothing, police said. He was attacked at 2:30 a.m. on his way home from his job as a Welfare Department porter.

Police said a boy's hat found near the body led to the arrests.

ations, but indicated that all scheduled intelligence flights are continuing. Asked if this included flights over the Sea of Japan, a spokesman said merely: "The President's orders are being carried out."

President Nixon ordered the flights resumed with air and surface protection after they had been stopped for four days in the wake of the loss of the EC-121.

There was speculation that the fleet's move into the Yellow Sea might also be in coordination with the use of land-based to discuss the fleet's operplanes to protect intelligence flights over the Sea of Japan. There are 100 U.S. jets in South Korea and another 200 in Japan that could be used for this purpose.

To the extent that the fleet shift may have been prompted by a desire to allay Soviet concern, observers believed it could be attributed to the prompt cooperation the Soviets provided in search and attempted rescue operations after the plane was shot down.

Three Soviet destroyers, one of them a large guided missile type, joined the search.

U.S. ARMADA REDEPLOYED

Navy task force assembled after the downing of an American spy plane off the coast of Japan was shifted Saturday from the Sea of Japan to the Yellow Sea. The Pentagon said the 29-ship armada will continue operations in the Yellow Sea, but declined to disclose its reasons for the shift.

Cambodia, U.S. Ties Threatened

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. officials disclosed Saturday that Cambodian chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, who urged resumption of diplomatic relations with the United States two weeks ago, is threatening to make a sudden turn about and block the action.

Officials confirmed that they were carefully studying a speech by the prince earlier in the day in Cambodia's Ratanakiri province which was heard by U.S. radio monitors.

In the speech, Sihanouk said that he had received information which suggested that the U.S. was adopting a somewhat ambiguous attitude towards Cambodia's frontiers which have been in dispute in the past and have been a major issue in renewing diplomatic relations.

The prince told the provincial audience that if U.S. spokesmen "have in fact made such ambiguous statements (about Cambodian frontiers), I will categorically refuse to exchange diplomats and will consider recognition of our frontiers null and void."

The State Department had no official comment on Sihanouk's charge. Privately, U.S. officials hope that Sihanouk's apparent flash of temper would subside and that problems could be worked out in anticipated discussions on resuming relations.

Agnew in South for Fun, Work

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, in South Carolina for a "mixture of political activity and pleasure," played golf and discussed his party's Deep South prospects with fellow Republicans Saturday.

The vice president said the primary purpose of his visit is to address the South Carolina Municipal Association Monday, but before that he plans to play at least two rounds of "something resembling golf."

Agnew and his wife arrived at Myrtle Beach Air Force Base in an Air Force C140 jet from Washington. A few hours later he was at the Dunes Golf and Beach Club for a round of golf with an all-Republican group.

260,000 Students Given U.S. Grants

WASHINGTON (UPI)— More than 260,000 students who could not otherwise attend college because of financial need will be on campuses during the 1969-70 school year with the help of educational opportunity grants, the U.S. Office of Education said Saturday.

Individual awards range from $200 to $1,000. Eligible students may receive the awards for each of four years of undergraduate study.

Irish Militants Fight at St. Patrick's Seat

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — Roman Catholic and Protestant militants resumed their street battling over Ulster's civil rights issues Saturday night, facing each other in the market square of Armagh, where St. Patrick is said to have introduced Catholicism to Ireland.

Squads of police clubbed the fighters apart in repeated baton charges. Police estimated that about 150 Catholics were holding off 2,000 Protestants. At least seven demonstrators were injured.

The fighting in Armagh, where St. Patrick established his holy seat as Bishop of Ireland in the fifth century, shattered a previously peaceful day in the Catholic-Protestant confrontation over civil rights.

The fighting 35 miles southwest of Belfast began shortly after a rally by an estimated 4,000 Protestants to welcome three militant leaders recently released from jail.

Protestant militant, the Rev. Ian Paisley, is still imprisoned on a six-month sentence for calling unlawful assemblies.

Earlier Saturday, about 250 troops arrived from England to reinforce guards at Ulster's key utility and communications centers that have been targets of saboteurs for the past week.

'Big J' Turns About, Steams for Home Port

By BUCK LANIER

Long Beach's battleship USS New Jersey is again under way for Long Beach, for the second time this month.

The Pentagon announced Saturday that the battlewagon had been ordered home after being diverted April 15 from her homeward course due to the North Korean crisis.

On the basis of the ship's 600 miles-a-day speed and the Great Circle route mileage from where she departed Friday, she could easily be in Long Beach this Thursday, Friday or Saturday, May 1, 2 or 3, or two weeks later than her original arrival date.

* * * *

THE NAVY confirmed at 6 p.m. April 18 the ship would not be in Long Beach on the 19th although the I, P-T had published stories early the day before that the ship was not coming in.

It created a sticky situation for local officials as the Department of Defense slapped a "gag" on all concerned.

News media are still questioning the DOD's already questionable public affairs policies in its handling of the story.

"Would the families and friends have been told Friday if the I, P-T stories had not been published?

If not on Friday, would the announcement have been made at Pier E Saturday morning the 19th?

* * * *

"DID NOT national interest transcend national security at some point in this public affairs misadventure?"

DOD still refuses to answer these questions.

When the word was finally passed to the Navy, it acquitted itself nobly in Long Beach with the civilian community, too, offering to help in any way it could to alleviate the problems of the over 400 people in town for the ship's arrival.

Another group glad to learn that its ship was finally coming in is aboard the Long Beach destroyer tender USS Bryce Canyon.

* * * *

IT HAS ABOUT 140 newly assigned New Jersey sailors who have been in Limbo since the ship was diverted.

When Big J arrives she will be at Pier E for at least 30 days with some "tune up" work scheduled at the Long Beach Naval Shipyard.

In June Big J will probably be flagship for the annual Midshipmen's Cruise, per the original schedule announced by the Navy.

Council Candidates Will Face Voters

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Long Beach voters will have the opportunity to hear councilmanic candidates and to ask them questions at nine simultaneous district meetings starting at 7:30 p.m., May 8, five days before the May 13 city primary.

The project is being sponsored by five organizations — the League of Women Voters, Chamber of Commerce, Junior Chamber of Commerce, City Employes Association and the Council of Churches of Long Beach.

Locations for the candidates meetings, by district, are: 1st District, First Congregation Church, Pilgrim Hall, Third Street and Cedar Avenue; 2nd District, Jefferson Junior High Auditorium, Seventh Street and Grand Avenue; 3rd District, Hill Junior High, 1100 Iroquois Ave.; 4th District, Stanford Junior High, 5871 Los Arcos St.; 5th District, Lakewood First Presbyterian Church, 3955 Studebaker Rd.; 6th District, Atlantic Avenue Methodist Chruch, 1535 Atlantic Ave.; 7th District, Church of the Brethren First, 3332 Magnolia Ave.; 8th District, Hughes Junior High 3846 California Ave., and 9th District, Grant Elementary School, 1225 E. 64th St.

Sponsoring organizations will provide personnel to staff and moderate the meetings and to provide refreshments. Each candidate may make a brief statement, after which all candidates will be available to answer audience questions.

GRAHAM COMMITTEE

Councilman William A. (Bill) Graham, seeking reelection in the 8th District, announced Harlan Miller and Calvert Strong as general cochairmen of his campaign committee.

Four chairmen of Graham's women's campaign committee are Mrs. Marge Conley, Mrs. Marianne Walker, Mrs. Rosemary Strong and Mrs. Julia Helms.

Ed Lovell and Kelly K. Kirkwood are campaign finance cochairmen. A spokesman for Graham's reelection committee said the committee is contacting all voters in the 8th District, working for a large turnout at the May 13 primary.

LABOR ENDORSEMENTS

The Long Beach Committee for Better City Government has announced its endorsements for City Council in four districts: Vance Hardy, 6th District; Wayne B. Sharp, 7th District; Tom Cox, 8th District, and incumbent R. E. (Pat) Corbett in the 9th District.

Members of the screening committee are Ann LeFebvre, UAW Local 148; Helen Potepan, UAW 148; Ralph Conzelman, Laborers Local 507; Clarence Gariss, Building and Construction Trades Council, and James Gualtiere, Teamsters Local 572.

SHARP CRUISES

More than 600 persons took advantage of free harbor cruises sponsored last weekend by 7th District Council candidate Wayne B. Sharp, his headquarters announced.

Ted Dalton, Sharp's campaign manager, said about 400 of the guests signed endorsement cards for Sharp. Dalton also reported about 80 couples attended a $25 per couple fund-raising, three-hour harbor cruise after the free-cruise event.

HAYES AWARD

The Long Beach 1001 Club, a nonpartisan political club, announced Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, will receive the club's annual Distinguished Service Award at its 10th anniversary dinner party at 6:30 p.m. May 4 at Veterans Park Clubhouse, 101 E. 28th St.

The award will be presented by last year's winner, Councilman Raymond C. Kealer, 1st District, in a program beginning at 8 p.m. Dinner reservations may be made with Harold E. Perkins, 2776 DeForest Ave. by May 2. No reservations are required for attendance at the award program.

HOUSLEY ELECTED

Conrad Housley has been elected 32nd Congressional District director for the California Democratic Council, succeeding Dr. Fred Kugler, who served in the post three years and who nominated Housley at the recent CDC convention in San Jose.

Housley, 36, is a graduate of Poly High School and the California Institute of Technology. He has done graduate work at California State College at Long Beach and UC San Diego and is currently employed as a biochemist in the space industry.

He is membership chairman for the Long Beach Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union and past vice president. He is a member of Long Beach Citizens for Peace. He is past president of the board of trustees of the Long Beach Unitarian Church.

GOP Told 'Recognize Red China'

Women Voters Say: 'Start With Trade, Cultural Relations'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The League of Women Voters urged the Nixon Administration Saturday to take the initiative in establishing normal relations with Red China.

The recommendation, reached after a three-year study, advocated that the United States drop its opposition to U.N. membership for the Communist regime. Cultural, trade, and diplomatic relations should be sought, it said.

The policy position was announced at a news conference by Mrs. Bruce B. Benson, Amherst, Mass., president of the league, and Mrs. David G. Bradley, Durham, N.C., chairman of its foreign policy committe, on the eve of the organization's national council meeting here.

* * * *

THE LEAGUE'S 157,000 members were almost unanimous in endorsing the recommendaion, it was said. Less that 20 of the organization's 1,250 locals in all the states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands opposed it, Mrs. Bradley said.

The league's spokeswomen anticipated an uphill fight in obtaining public support for the recommendation.

"We recognize political realities, and are aware that we made overtures at Warsaw and were rebuffed," Mrs. Benson said.

Senate Republican Unit Weighs Intraparty Votes on ABM Plan

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) The Senate Republican Policy Committee begins assessing Tuesday intraparty opposition to the Safeguard antiballistic missile system, with Chairman Gordon Allott of Colorado predicting most members will support President Nixon's deployment decision.

Allott, who backs the President's position, said in an interview that, while he has made no headcount, "I think the great majority of Republicans will support the decision."

* * * *

A SIMILAR conclusion appears to have been reached by Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

David Packard, deputy secretary of defense, will present the administration's case at Tuesday's closed session.

Since the committee infrequently agrees on policy matters, no public statement of its position is expected even after opponents have had their day the following week.

Allott said he will leave up to Sens. John Sherman Cooper of Kentucky and Charles H. Percy of Illinois and other GOP critics of the ABM the choice of the opposition speaker.

"I have laid down only one specification — that the presentations of both sides be factual and without the emotionalism that has marked some of the debate," Allott said.

Although Allott denies there has been any administration arm-twisting, there is evidence that the White House and the Pentagon are moving behind the scenes to appeal to GOP members to support their President in the first major decision of his administration.

With private polls showing 21 Senate Republicans for ABM and 14 against, the eight still listed as undecided might provide the margin of victory or defeat for the President in what both sides agree will be a hairline decision.

The test is to come on authorizing the money for a go-ahead on construction of the two missile sites proposed by Nixon.

Bill Would Revamp U.S. Bureaucracy

By ERNIE HERNANDEZ
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's — and the Republican Party's — idea for a revamp of the executive branch has been put into legislative form by, of all people, a Democrat.

Relying heavily on Nixon's statement on reorganization and the Republican platform, Sen. Birch Bayh, R-Ind., Friday filed a bill to establish an "office of executive management."

Seven Democrats joined Sen. Bayh as co-sponsors. Republicans were asked to sign up, too, said Bayh's aides — but none did.

Ironically, even the name of the proposal is Republican in origin. The Republican platform at Miami Beach last August stated:

"The executive branch needs urgently to be made a more efficient and economic instrument of public policy. Low-priority activities must be eliminated and conflicting missions and functions simplified.

"We pledge to establish a new efficiency commission to root out the unnecessary and overlapping, as well as a presidential office of executive management to assure a vigorous follow-through."

That the Administration was out-jumped in this matter is clear from White House sources and from a statement on March 27 by Nixon. Nixon aides said a similar bill is being prepared.

When Nixon signed the reorganization act last month, he said the "organization of federal services has often grown up piecemeal — certain gaps in some areas, duplications in others and general inefficiencies across the country."

The President recalled that during the campaign last fall, he had said: "The need is not to dismantle the government but to modernize it."

Bayh's bill would have found less favor under the Johnson administration, even though former presidential assistant McGeorge Bundy had described federal management as "dangerously weak in its own internal capacity for sustained coordinated and energetic action."

The 18,000-word Democratic platform had little to say on executive-branch reform. It noted only the government's massive operation "contributes to and often results in duplication, administrative confusion and delay."

Bayh proposes a "continuing" rather than a "one-shot, Hoover-Commission type" agency. Such an agency would oversee, rather than run, the executive's 150 departments, agencies, bureaus and boards.

The job of reviewing the functions of the various departments to prevent overlapping theoretically belongs to the Bureau of the Budget, Bayh noted.

But because it has been bogged down by other duties and because it does not have the prescribed mandate — by Congress or the President — it has not fulfilled this task.

FRAGMENTS SOUGHT

Meteor Hits Britain, 'Looked Like Fireball'

LONDON (UPI) — Police and scientists Saturday searched bogs and pastures for the remains of a meteor that slammed into the earth hard enough to shake cars and frighten children.

The search concentrated near the village of Roewen, in Wales, Ballynahinch in Northern Ireland and in parts of Britain and Southern Ireland.

"Someone, somewhere, might find a trace of the object on earth today," said Jodrell Bank Observatory staff member, Dr. Henry Palmer.

* * * *

PALMER and Kenneth Gatland, vice president of the British Interplanetary Society, said if fragments can be found they will be of great value to science.

"Many meteorites have been recovered in different parts of the world, but a freshly fallen specimen, uncontaminated by long exposure to the earth's environment, could hold important clues to the origin of the solar system," Gatland said

Hundreds of frightened callers reported to police they had seen the fireball, and some said they heard it hit the earth.

Wendy Doylerush, 14, of Roewen, said "It went over very low, with sparks shooting off it. Suddenly there was a loud bang and then an echo."

Moon Liftoff Rocket Tested Successfully

COYOTE Hill — Noise, flames and vibrations were heard and felt for 30 miles Saturday is one of two huge rocket motors that will help put a man on the moon was successfully test fired for the first time.

Fired nose down into a concrete bay dug into rolling hills south of San Jose, the 10-story nigh motor produced a 300-foot exhaust flame visible for miles.

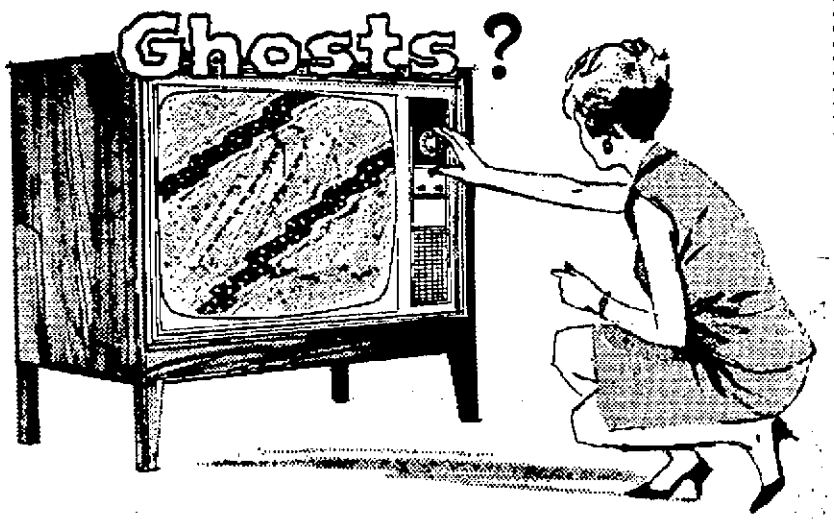

The 300-ton, solid propellant motor and another one like it will function as the lift-off stage for the Titan 3M Rocket that will launch the Manned Orbiting Laboratory in mid-1972. From the orbiting lab the Gemini space draft will carry a man to the moon.

The motor, producing 1.4 million pounds of thrust, or two pounds per square inch, burned for two minutes, the time it will take the Titan to travel 30 miles into space.

Oilmen Conquer Alaska's Deep Freeze

By JACK BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

Inducing Alaska to release a frozen grasp on her horde of yellow gold was like taking candy from a baby compared with prying open the icy fist which grips her black gold.

Drilling for oil on the North Slope on the fringe of the Arctic Circle has created problems without precedent in the petroleum industry.

Roadways built over the frozen permafrost cost as much as $10,000 a mile.

To lay a pipeline from Cook Inlet, or from the North Slope, costs $80,000 per day.

Facilities designed to transport the recovered oil by pipeline must function through temperatures as low as 65 degrees below zero during the ice-crystal fogs of winter time to a high of 90 degrees of the hot summer months.

These and other problems in tapping the "largest petroleum accumulation in North America known today" were described recently by E. M. (Mo) Benson who started as a worker in the Long Beach oilfields to become vice president of a major oil company.

Benson's recent appearance at the Long Beach Petroleum Club attracted more than 300 oilmen who came to hear the vice president of North American Producing Division of the Atlantic Richfield Co. describe the company's drilling efforts on Alaska's North Slope.

"Drilling down through the 1000-foot thick frozen earth can produce some surprises. One of our wells brought up an 18-inch long chunk of tree trunk from almost 1,000 feet below the surface. It wasn't petrified — just frozen, the oil company executive said.

Illustrating his talk with colored slides, many of which he had taken during his frequent trips to the land of the Northwest Passage, he said nearly all material and supplies must be airlifted into the area.

"This includes the drilling rigs, even the drill pipe," he said.

"Gravel used to build roadbeds must be brought in by sled during winter. Ice ridges 60 feet high make the going rough. A layer of gravel seven to eight feet thick must be put down as a road bed. This insulates the frozen earth and prevents it from thawing into a mush during the warmer months," Benson said.

Benson appearing as a guest speaker of the Oil Industry Committee of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, described how some of our facilities are built on floating ice islands 80 feet thick."

Flames Defy Fire Fighters; 45 Abandoned

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)— An offshore oil platform controling 32 wells in Cook Inlet burned out of control Saturday.

A Shell Oil co. spokesman said about 45 workmen were evacuated from the three-story platform after a toplevel fire went out of control. Workers thought they had the fire under control when it flared and forced abandonment.

The platfomr is one of a number of similar structures in the area, about two miles offshore from Kenai, about 50 miles southwest of Anchorage.

The structure, called Shell Platform A, was set in place in the Middle Ground Shoal area of Cook Inlet in January, 1965, after being towed to Alaska from San Francisco. It was one of the first set up in the area.

Cranston Job Corps Stand Gets Support

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate majority leader Mike Mansfield pledged support Saturday for Democrats seeking to have the Senate urge the Nixon administration to suspend Job Corps cutbacks pending a congressional review.

"I'll help them," the Montana Democrat told a reporter who asked his views on the resolution introduced Friday by Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., with the backing of 22 cosponsors, all Democrats except Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts.

While there is doubt that such a resolution would have any legal weight, Democrats hope to exert public-opinion pressure on the Republican administration by bringing it before the Senate for a full debate.

The Cranston resolution stems from the April 11 announcement that 59 Job Corps centers, mostly conservation camps, would be eliminated July 1 as part of an administration plan to consolidate and improve job-training programs.

The cosponsors include all 10 Democrats on the 17-member labor and Public Welfare Committee. The manpower subcommittee headed by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., plans to take it up at a closed session Tuesday

No Threat of West Coast Dock Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Longshore union leaders and employers have announced jointly "there is no threat of a West Coast dock strike" and agreed to meet again May 6.

The joint statement Friday by Harry Bridges, president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, and B. H. Goodenough, acting head of the Pacific Maritime Association, added that "the parties fully expect to solve their differences by negotiation."

Their differences concern containerized cargo. The ILWU wants its members to do the packing and unpacking of the giant crates that carry an increasing proportion of West Coast cargo.

NAZI PARTY LINKED TO BANK HOLDUP

NORTH HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Machine guns, smoke grenades, crash helmets, a motorcycle escape into a panel truck for the final getaway and the American Nazi Party were all part of the story of an unsuccessful $25,000 bank robbery.

Police Saturday held three men, who were believed to be members of the extremist group, on charges of holding up the Bank of America branch Friday.

At 6:25 p.m. Friday a man wearing an armored vest and a crash helmet with a plastic face mask and carrying a .45 caliber pistol smashed his way through the glass door of the closed bank.

The man, identified as Walter Ernest Gould, 24, threatened several bank employes and bundled up the cash, making his escape through the back door.

He leaped on the back of a motorcycle driven by another helmmeted man and they sped off through the crowded shopping center.

Two blocks away they met a panel truck driven by the third man and rolled the motorcycle into it. The van was driven away but not before an unidentified citizen pointed it out to policeman Charles Lovold, who was patrolling the area alone in his car.

He summoned help and six other units forced the van to curb a few blocks later. Policemen threw open the back door of the van and found Gould, who was holding a machinegun which he dropped.

Inside the van were more weapons and four smoke grenades.

The grenades were rigged to hang from the rear of the truck to lay down a smoke screen. The rear of the truck was also fitted with a slot to permit changing of license plates while moving.

The other men were identified as Arnold William Poach, 34, and Ronald L. Henderson, 30, of Glendale.

Partisan Definitions Blur 'Student Rights'

This is the seventh installment of a 12-part series on the campus revolt by two reporters who visited more than 30 campuses coast to coast. Each writer contributed six articles written in consultation with the other. Today's installment deals with campus concepts of student rights and student power.

By M. STANTON EVANS
With WALTER W. MEEK

"STUDENT RIGHTS" and "student power" are phrases often used on the college campus.

What these words mean is frequently unclear to people in the outside world. In some cases, it is unclear to the students themselves — since it means different things to different people.

To the partisans of Students for a Democratic Society, student power and student rights mean the right to "radicalize" the campus, to use it as a power-base for New Left action. The New Left does not extend similar rights to those who disagree with it.

This attitude has been illustrated at San Francisco State College, where a student government sympathetic to campus radicals switched funds from traditional campus-wide activities to the political interests of the Left.

Moderate students are trying to recall the governing group and in February a superior court judge ordered its assets impounded.

* * * *

THE RACIDAL VIEW has been made even plainer by the shouting down of opposition spokesmen, taking over buildings and denying access to other students, and in statements of New Left theoriticians like Prof. Herbert Marcuse of the University of California at San Diego.

SDS believes it is entitled to coerce people because it is crusading for destruction of a corrupt society. Mark Rudd, the Columbia SDS leader in 1968, puts it that "depriving a few individuals of their 'right' to an education . . . is certainly a lesser evil than allowing Columbia to continue its policies."

Another Columbia New Leftist interviewed after the strike explained that seizure of buildings and similar activities were justified by the writings of Marcuse, who believes "tolerance" should be extended only to leftist groups and denied to others.

Charles Proctor, a general studies student from Indianapolis, is chairman of the anti-SDS Students for Columbia. He charges that the SDS version of student rights is opposed to what the majority of students want — since one of its demands is to ban military recruiting from the campus. In a previous referendum, Columbia students voted overwhelmingly in favor of such recruiting.

* * * *

DAVID KEENE of Wisconsin, a conservative youth leader, makes the same accusation. He says the New Left is vocal about demanding that its favorites be allowed to appear on campus, but would deny this right to representatives of the Dow Chemical Co. and others.

To reform liberals on the campus, "student rights" have a different meaning. As most often used in colleges today, the phrase implies that the university is similar to a government, and that the students, as the "governed," should have some say-so about the rules that affect them. Another version says students picking up a percentage of educational costs should have an equal share of decision-making power.

Discussions on this subject were prevalent at every campus surveyed, and at Indiana, the major topic was "open visitation" privileges in rooms of the opposite sex. At Skidmore, it was a demand that students sit on the board of trustees and help make rules.

Harvard students want representation at faculty meetings to observe deliberations and present their views. At some schools the issues are centered on social prerogatives — women's dorm hours at Tennessee, dress regulations at Louisiana State.

* * * *

PAM MILLER, vice president of the Student Government Association at L.S.U., says, "Student rights in my opinion would consist of limiting the rules and regulations which the university can make to those which are necessary for the furtherance of their stated objective, academic development."

Questions of curriculum and academic practice also arise, however. At the University of Washington, students score the refusal of tenure to faculty members who have not published sufficient scholarly material. Student body vice president John Mosier says the student government may mount a campaign against the academic reward system and the "publish or perish" rule.

A demand for "relevance" in course material — meaning emphasis on black studies or other programs connected to current problems — is often advanced. Negro students Alex Crumble of Wisconsin and Bill Allen of Claremont Men's College — whose political opinions are otherwise diverse — support this idea. So does former track star Ralph Boston, now on the staff of the University of Tennessee's Dean Tom Scott. Boston says a program aimed at establishing black identity would be helpful not only for Negroes but for white students as well.

* * * *

A LEGALISTIC turn is supplied by a campaign for "due process" in disciplinary matters. The University of Colorado has responded to this by having a former State Supreme Court Justice preside at a hearing for SDS members. Student leaders Pat Stimer and Pat McGraw argue that collegiate discipline should be administered by the courts rather than by the school.

Conservative students have still another view of student rights. They do not disagree with anti-paternalism efforts, but see them in a different philosophical light. Thus Richard Combs, a Young Americans for Freedom leader at Tennessee, says of women's dorm hours: "For a girl under 21, the parents should be the deciding factor, not the university." Sam Coyner, head of the conservative Madison Society, agrees.

These spokesmen oppose liberal efforts to use the issue as a pretext for demonstrations. They point out that the taxpayers also have "rights" as to what goes on at the university, since they pay the bills.

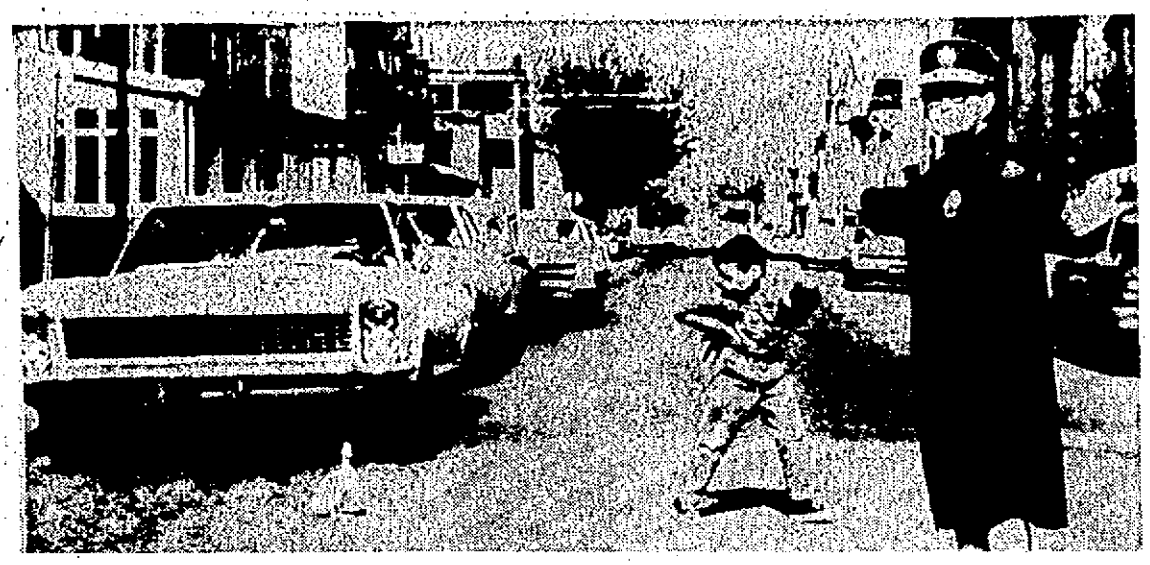

Conservatives urge correction of what they charge is imbalance in course material. At Stanford, YAF leader Harvey Hukari and Young Republican Chairman Bill Boyd presented a list of proposals for more conservative-liberal balance in the curriculum. At USC, columnist Bill Saracino of the Daily Trojan contends that faculties are slanted to the left, while conservative leader Pat Nolan opposes compulsory fees to finance liberal programs.

* * * *

A LIST OF recommendations presented to California education officials by YAF includes: "1. Creation of a free market studies department . . . 2. Implementation of voluntary student body fees . . . 3. Free election of campus newspaper editors . . . 4. Strict enforcement of all laws designed to maintain order on campus . . . 5. Opposition to consolidation of authority over state junior colleges, colleges and universities . . ."

Conservatives do not claim the right to run the universities. They say their purpose is to get an education, not to give one, and that their foremost "right" is to receive the schooling they contracted for. Twelve students at Columbia have filed suit against the university, charging that the school's failure to prevent the shutting down of classrooms in 1968 denied them the service for which they had paid tuition.

Next: The unseen revolution in student power.

Gamblers Flight, 2nd Craft Sought

FRESNO (UPI) — The wreckage of a missing Cessna 180 aircraft carrying four persons from Los Banos was found Saturday about 70 miles northeast of this San Joaquin Valley city.

At Hamilton Air Force Base, which coordinated the search for the missing plane since it disappeared Thursday, a spokesman said two Air Force rescuemen were parachuted to the wreckage site and confirmed that it was the plane piloted by Dr. Beryle E. Wyman.

Wyman and his wife, Marguerite, both 48, were bound for a surgeons convention at Colorado Springs. The other couple, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Azevedo, were planning to visit friends at Eagle.

Cornell Students Surrender Arms: Rifles and Shotguns

United Press International

Cornell University authorities Saturday weighed a room-to-room search for firearms on the uneasy campus and 35 black students continued a sit-in at a faculty club at Colgate University.

Harvard University students were voting on whether to resume their classroom boycott. Anti-war demonstrators from four colleges marched in Boston, Mass., to protest the Vietnam conflict. An overnight sleep-in to protest suspension of four students arrested in a narcotics raid ended without incident at the University of Kentucky.

Campus police at Cornell were collecting rifles and shotguns from students and faculty members at the Ithaca, N.Y., campus, but black students who staged an armed sit-in a week ago were holding onto their weapons.

* * * *

CORNELL President James A. Perkins had called for disarmament of the campus and indicated that dormitories would be searched, if necessary. But Tom Jones, spokesman for the Afro-American Society, said, "President Perkins is kidding himself if he thinks I'm going to disarm."

Security guards were withdrawn from around Merrill House, a faculty club at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y., where black students have been sitting-in since before dawn Friday to reinforce their demands for a black cultural center. Fewer than 50 of Colgate's 2,000 students are black.

Dr. Franklin Wallin, president pro tem of Colgate, ordered the blacks to surrender the building Friday but they ignored his ultimatum. "You can get the pigs (police) or you can get people off the road and try to take us out," a protest spokesman replied. "That's what you're going to have to do — take us out."

* * * *

HARVARD students were balloting to decide whether to resume the strike suspended for seven days last weekend while awaiting university action on their demands for abolition of Reserve Officers Training Corps on the campus and an end to university expansion.

The protesters claim university expansion eliminates housing of low income families. On Friday a scale model of University expansion plans was smashed and maps of proposed expansion ripped during a confrontation between protesters and planners.

* * * *

MEMBERS of Students for a Democratic Society Saturday led a march of about 500 anti-Vietnam war protesters from Boston, Northeastern and Tufts universities and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The marchers paraded to Boston Common and distributed leaflets calling for support of the Viet Cong.

About 1,000 University of Kentucky demonstrators spent the night "sleeping-in" at the student center in protest of the four student suspensions as a result of an April 13 narcotics raid. Acting president A. D. Kirwan refused Friday to reinstate the suspended students. However, Kirwan asked the faculty senate Monday to reexamine a student code which the protesters claimed placed the suspended foursome in double jeopardy.

CAR HITS PAIR KISSING BY FREEWAY; BOY DIES

MANTECA (AP) — Kissing each other goodbye on the shoulder of a freeway early Saturday, a teen-age couple was struck by a careening car which killed the boy and critically injured the girl.

Michael John Hall, 19, of Seattle, was dead on arrival at San Joaquin General Hospital. His girl friend, Karen Ames, 18, of Albuquerque, N.M., was admitted with multiple injuries.

Officers said the pair had hitchhiked from San Francisco, accepting a ride with Ken Gill, 20, of Alameda, N.M. Near an off-ramp on Interstate 99, Miss Ames got out, saying she would try for a ride back to Albuquerque. Hall was going to continue northward.

As they embraced at the roadside, a car driven by Anthony Chan, 20, of nearby Ripon, went out of control after another car sideswiped it. The car plowed into the couple.

TURMOIL ON CAMPUS

Partisan Definitions Blur 'Student Rights'

This is the seventh installment of a 12-part series on the campus revolt by two reporters who visited more than 30 campuses coast to coast. Each writer contributed six articles written in consultation with the other. Today's installment deals with campus concepts of student rights and student power.

By M. STANTON EVANS
With WALTER W. MEEK

"STUDENT RIGHTS" and "student power" are phrases often used on the college campus.

What these words mean is frequently unclear to people in the outside world. In some cases, it is unclear to the students themselves — since it means different things to different people.

To the partisans of Students for a Democratic Society, student power and student rights mean the right to "radicalize" the campus, to use it as a power-base for New Left action. The New Left does not extend similar rights to those who disagree with it.

This attitude has been illustrated at San Francisco State College, where a student government sympathetic to campus radicals switched funds from traditional campus-wide activities to the political interests of the Left.

Moderate students are trying to recall the governing group and in February a superior court judge ordered its assets impounded.

* * * *

THE RACIDAL VIEW has been made even plainer by the shouting down of opposition spokesmen, taking over buildings and denying access to other students, and in statements of New Left theoriticians like Prof. Herbert Marcuse of the University of California at San Diego.

SDS believes it is entitled to coerce people because it is crusading for destruction of a corrupt society. Mark Rudd, the Columbia SDS leader in 1968, puts it that "depriving a few individuals of their 'right' to an education . . . is certainly a lesser evil than allowing Columbia to continue its policies."

Another Columbia New Leftist interviewed after the strike explained that seizure of buildings and similar activities were justified by the writings of Marcuse, who believes "tolerance" should be extended only to leftist groups and denied to others.

Charles Proctor, a general studies student from Indianapolis, is chairman of the anti-SDS Students for Columbia. He charges that the SDS version of student rights is opposed to what the majority of students want — since one of its demands is to ban military recruiting from the campus. In a previous referendum, Columbia students voted overwhelmingly in favor of such recruiting.

* * * *

DAVID KEENE of Wisconsin, a conservative youth leader, makes the same accusation. He says the New Left is vocal about demanding that its favorites be allowed to appear on campus, but would deny this right to representatives of the Dow Chemical Co. and others.

To reform liberals on the campus, "student rights" have a different meaning. As most often used in colleges today, the phrase implies that the university is similar to a government, and that the students, as the "governed," should have some say-so about the rules that affect them. Another version says students picking up a percentage of educational costs should have an equal share of decision-making power.

Discussions on this subject were prevalent at every campus surveyed, and at Indiana, the major topic was "open visitation" privileges in rooms of the opposite sex. At Skidmore, it was a demand that students sit on the board of trustees and help make rules.

Harvard students want representation at faculty meetings to observe deliberations and present their views. At some schools the issues are centered on social prerogatives — women's dorm hours at Tennessee, dress regulations at Louisiana State.

* * * *

PAM MILLER, vice president of the Student Government Association at L.S.U., says. "Student rights in my opinion would consist of limiting the rules and regulations which the university can make to those which are necessary for the furtherance of their stated objective, academic development."

Questions of curriculum and academic practice also arise, however. At the University of Washington, students score the refusal of tenure to faculty members who have not published sufficient scholarly material. Student body vice president John Mosier says the student government may mount a campaign against the academic reward system and the "publish or perish" rule.

A demand for "relevance" in course material — meaning emphasis on black studies or other programs connected to current problems — is often advanced. Negro students Alex Crumble of Wisconsin and Bill Allen of Claremont Men's College — whose political opinions are otherwise diverse — support this idea. So does former track star Ralph Boston, now on the staff of the University of Tennessee's Dean Tom Scott. Boston says a program aimed at establishing black identity would be helpful not only for Negroes but for white students as well.

* * * *

A LEGALISTIC turn is supplied by a campaign for "due process" in disciplinary matters. The University of Colorado has responded to this by having a former State Supreme Court Justice preside at a hearing for SDS members. Student leaders Pat Stimer and Pat McGraw argue that collegiate discipline should be administered by the courts rather than by the school.

Conservative students have still another view of student rights. They do not disagree with anti-paternalism efforts, but see them in a different philosophical light. Thus Richard Combs, a Young Americans for Freedom leader at Tennessee, says of women's dorm hours: "For a girl under 21, the parents should be the deciding factor, not the university." Sam Coyner, head of the conservative Madison Society, agrees.

These spokesmen oppose liberal efforts to use the issue as a pretext for demonstrations. They point out that the taxpayers also have "rights" as to what goes on at the university, since they pay the bills.

Conservatives urge correction of what they charge is imbalance in course material. At Stanford, YAF leader Harvey Hukari and Young Republican Chairman Bill Boyd presented a list of proposals for more conservative-liberal balance in the curriculum. At USC, columnist Bill Saracino of the Daily Trojan contends that faculties are slanted to the left, while conservative leader Pat Nolan opposes compulsory fees to finance liberal programs.

* * * *

A LIST OF recommendations presented to California education officials by YAF includes: "1. Creation of a free market studies department . . . 2. Implementation of voluntary student body fees . . . 3. Free election of campus newspaper editors . . . 4. Strict enforcement of all laws designed to maintain order on campus . . . 5. Opposition to consolidation of authority over state junior colleges, colleges and universities . . ."

Conservatives do not claim the right to run the universities. They say their purpose is to get an education, not to give one, and that their foremost "right" is to receive the schooling they contracted for. Twelve students at Columbia have filed suit against the university, charging that the school's failure to prevent the shutting down of classrooms in 1968 denied them the service for which they had paid tuition.

Gambler's Flight, 2nd Craft Sought

FRESNO (UPI) — The wreckage of a missing Cessna 180 aircraft carrying four persons from Los Banos was found Saturday about 70 miles northeast of this San Joaquin Valley city.

At Hamilton Air Force Base, which coordinated the search for the missing plane since it disappeared Thursday, a spokesman said two Air Force rescuemen were parachuted to the wreckage site and confirmed that it was the plane piloted by Dr. Beryle E. Wyman.

Wyman and his wife, Marguerite, both 48, were bound for a surgeons convention at Colorado Springs. The other couple, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Azevedo, were planning to visit friends at Eagle.

Cornell Students Surrender Arms: Rifles and Shotguns

United Press International

Cornell University authorities Saturday weighed a room-to-room search for firearms on the uneasy campus and 35 black students continued a sit-in at a faculty club at Colgate University.

Harvard University students were voting on whether to resume their classroom boycott. Anti-war demonstrators from four colleges marched in Boston, Mass., to protest the Vietnam conflict. An overnight sleep-in to protest suspension of four students arrested in a narcotics raid ended without incident at the University of Kentucky.

Campus police at Cornell were collecting rifles and shotguns from students and faculty members at the Ithaca, N.Y., campus, but black students who staged an armed sit-in a week ago were holding onto their weapons.

* * * *

CORNELL President James A. Perkins had called for disarmament of the campus and indicated that dormitories would be searched, if necessary. But Tom Jones, spokesman for the Afro-American Society, said, "President Perkins is kidding himself if he thinks I'm going to disarm."

Security guards were withdrawn from around Merrill House, a faculty club at Colgate University, Hamilton, N.Y., where black students have been sitting-in since before dawn Friday to reinforce their demands for a black cultural center. Fewer than 50 of Colgate's 2,000 students are black.

Dr. Franklin Wallin, president pro tem of Colgate, ordered the blacks to surrender the building Friday but they ignored his ultimatum. "You can get the pigs (police) or you can get people off the road and try to take us out," a protest spokesman replied. "That's what you're going to have to do — take us out."

* * * *

HARVARD students were balloting to decide whether to resume the strike suspended for seven days last weekend while awaiting university action on their demands for abolition of Reserve Officers Training Corps on the campus and an end to university expansion.

The protesters claim university expansion eliminates housing of low income families. On Friday a scale model of University expansion plans was smashed and maps of proposed expansion ripped during a confrontation between protesters and planners.

* * * *

MEMBERS of Students for a Democratic Society Saturday led a march of about 500 anti-Vietnam war protesters from Boston, Northeastern and Tufts universities and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The marchers paraded to Boston Common and distributed leaflets calling for support of the Viet Cong.

About 1,000 University of Kentucky demonstrators spent the night "sleeping-in" at the student center in protest of the four student suspensions as a result of an April 13 narcotics raid. Acting president A. D. Kirwan refused Friday to reinstate the suspended students. However, Kirwan asked the faculty senate Monday to reexamine a student code which the protesters claimed placed the suspended foursome in double jeopardy.

CAR HITS PAIR KISSING BY FREEWAY; BOY DIES

MANTECA (UPI) — Kissing each other goodbye on the shoulder of a freeway early Saturday, a teen-age couple was struck by a careening car which killed the boy and critically injured the girl.

Michael John Hall, 19, of Seattle, was dead on arrival at San Joaquin General Hospital. His girl friend, Karen Ames, 18, of Albuquerque, N.M., was admitted with multiple injuries.

Officers said the pair had hitchhiked from San Francisco, accepting a ride with Ken Gill, 20, of Alameda, N.M. Near an off-ramp on Interstate 99, Miss Ames got out, saying she would try for a ride back to Albuquerque. Hall was going to continue northward.

As they embraced at the roadside, a car driven by Anthony Chan, 20, of nearby Ripon, went out of control after another car sideswiped it. The car plowed into the couple.

Nixon Approach Deliberate During First 100 Days

By MERRIAM SMITH
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon approaches the end of his first 100 days in the White House confident he has made a good beginning. He claims no more for, as he told a recent news conference, "We still have some hard ground to plow."

In this instance he was speaking of Vietnam. But this attitude applies to other crises— the latest trouble with North Korea, inflation, campus and racial unrest, consumer problems. Progress? Yes. Solutions? Not yet. But the Nixon Administration is trying.

Nixon, who marks his 100th day in office Tuesday, has followed a deliberate policy of first exploring a problem in detail and then cautiously and carefully putting together a program of action to meet it.

The word went out at the start of his administration Jan. 20 to avoid crash programs. The President and his advisers believe this policy has helped considerably to bring calm and confidence to the American scene.

This belief, of course, is not unanimous, politics being what they are. There also are highly vocal private groups which believe Nixon is dragging his feet in too many problem areas.

* * * *

THE PRESIDENT is aware of their feelings and appreciates their frustration with continued U.S. losses in Southeast Asia. But no combination of pickets, petitions and angry words seems likely to make him alter this present course.

As he told reporters April 18, "the chances for peace in Southeast Asia have significantly improved since this administration came into office."

Nixon sees no particular magic in his 100 days in office. He knows this has become something of a folklore method of political measurement. He is far more interested in the long haul.

He was determined to build and administrate as carefully as possible without being distracted by hour-to-hour events. He discarded the news printers which chattered away alongside the president's desk during the Johnson years. The three television sets back of the desk also went.

Key federal jobs were filled slowly, legislative recommendations were even slower. There was criticism. Washington gagsters made cracks about awaiting the start of the Nixon Administration. White House study groups and task forces multiplied with orders to examine problem areas in, as well as out of government.

There was an underlying purpose to this deliberate approach, according to Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's director of communications. In Mid-April, Klein told the American Society of Newspaper Editors:

* * * * *

"DOMESTICALLY, a basic thrust of the Administration has been to combat inflation. In foreign affairs, the actions of the Administration have been marked by a strong commitment to peace."

By then the President had submitted the outlines of a new 1970 budget, wringing considerable water from the budget sent to Congress by the departing Johnson in January. His aim was a surplus of nearly $6 billion in the next fiscal year.

A few days later, he submitted an admittedly interim tax reform plan to Congress. It was designed mainly to give a break to taxpayers below the official poverty line and require at least a minimum tax for the very rich. It also provided for repeal of the 7 per cent investment tax credit for business and for cutting the 10 per cent surtax in half next Jan. 1.

It was a far cry from the basic tax overhaul demanded by some economists and an increasingly vocal sector of the taxpaying public. But Nixon said he would be ready later in the year with more far-reaching reforms. Just this week he told the legislators how he proposed to deal with the touchy crime issue and streamline post office operations.

Other legislative programs were near completion and are expected to reach Congress shortly, dealing with such matters as health, education and welfare.

Nixon quickly discovered however, that his principal problems involved administration and policy.

Aside from continuing dissatisfaction over Vietnam, the President ran into his biggest fight to date over the safeguard anti ballistic missile system. The Johnson Administration originally unveiled the system as a means of defending key U.S. cities from potential attack by Chinese missiles.

* * * *

NIXON PROPOSED instead to use the ABM system to protect U.S. missile sites, declaring that Russia was increasing its production of powerful SS9 rockets and thereby raising the possibility it someday might have the power to devastate the United States in a first-strike attack.

He said the U.S. president must always be able to back up his diplomacy with strength and that the ABM would help achieve that goal by protecting U.S. retaliatory power. Critics of the ABM, including some leading GOP senators, were not convinced and a UPI survey gave the plan less than an even chance of winning approval. But Nixon refused to surrender.

How is Nixon himself reacting to the presidency? Physically, he seemed to be in great shape. He wears a constant tan, due partly to occasional weekends at Key Biscayne, Fla., and partly the White House sunlamp.

The President and his family attend more ceremonial and official functions than they might personally prefer, but they accept this as part of the job. If there is much fretting about this in the privacy of the White House little of it is leaking out.

Nixon spent eight years as vice president under the late Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower who believed firmly that a chief executive and commander-in-chief should reserve himself for essentially basic matters.

Communications Director Klein voiced the goals of the Nixon Administration when he spoke of "calm and confidence."

The President knew well before his 100 days had passed, however, that calm was not necessarily within White House control. He knew it when the North Korean MIGS shot down an American intelligence plane the night of April 15.

THE PRESIDENT was busy behind the scenes, but it was not until April 18 that he spoke out on the matter. This was in line with his announced policy of determining the facts first and then acting.

When he did speak it was with restraint. He announced that reconnaissance flights would be resumed over the Sea of Japan and would be protected by fighter craft. U.S. ships and planes in international waters or airspace would not, he said, be "fair game."

The President knew the plane episode was only the first of many. And he knows his critics and political antogonists are waiting to see how he performs in future crises domestic and foreign. That performance will determine whether Nixon can make good on his confident prediction that his record during the coming three years and nine months will win him reelection in 1972.

Pentagon to Fight 'Social Ills'

SAINT LEO, Fla. (UPI) — The Defense Department will shift part of its present budget into a new major program to fight the nation's social problems, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said Saturday.

Laird, in a commencement address at little Saint Leo College, said the program will include providing summer jobs for more than 40,000 youngsters in depressed areas.

He said some defense contracts already have been set aside to provide an economic and employment lift in those areas.

* * * *

BUT HE SAID this does not mean an increase in the defense budget. Instead, he said, it means doing everything under the existing budget.

Other items in the program will be to make technological advances available for industrial use, opening up of military recreation facilities to civilian programs aimed at helping disadvantaged youth, and to make use of currently unused military property for such projects.

Laird's appearance was the subject of a demonstration by peace groups, mostly students, opposing the Nixon Administration's anti-ballistic missile system program and the war in Vietnam.

Officials at the private college placed the campus off limits to all but invited guests while helmeted law enforcement officials encircled it.

* * * *

LAIRD TOOK note of the unrest among the nation's youth in his address to the graduates.

He said the "responsible majority" of the youth have well-developed social consciences which compel them to ask "why is there a gap between what we practice and what we preach?

"They have a lively awareness of injustice . . . are inclined to seek the reason for things," he said.

Gov. Reagan, Thurgood Marshall Win 1969 Horatio Alger Awards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall of the U.S. Supreme Court were among 11 successful Americans named as winners of the 1969 Horatio Alger Awards, it was announced Saturday.

The awards will be presented by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale at ceremonies here May 14. Named for the author of a Victorian series of children's books which portrayed poor boys who made good, the awards are sponsored by the American Schools and Colleges Association.

Although some of the winners did not exactly go from rags to riches, Reagan worked as a dishwasher and lifeguard to earn enough money for college, and Marshall worked at odd jobs to augment family income.

Other winners were Ragnar Benson of Chicago, a Swedish immigrant who is now head of America's eighth largest general contracting firm; Winston A. Burnett of New York, child of the Harlem ghetto who heads the largest construction company in America; Emmett J. Culligan of San Bernardino, Calif., who went to work at nine to help support a fatherless family and became a manufacturer of water softening units; and Charles Deaton, Denver architect, whose family was so poor they lived in a tent in Oklahoma for two years before they could afford a house.

Also Erik Johnson, mayor of Dallas, Tex., who financed his entire education himself and gained fame in geophysical exploration; Herman Warden Lay of Dallas, chairman of the board of Pepsi Co. who began his career as a snack food salesman with a bag of potato chips; Gerald C. O'Brein of New York, a former stableboy who heads North American Development Corp.; Dr. Michael L. Rachunis, a mineworker who rose to the presidency of the medical staff at Trenton (N.J.) General Hospital; and Meshulam Riklis, an Israeli immigrant who rules over a billion dollar business empire including Glen Alden Corp.

Commerce Secretary Back From Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce secretary Maurice H. Stans Saturday described his just completed 15-day economic fact-finding tour of western Europe, "frank, friendly and extremely successful."

Stans said his discussions showed "a remarkable degree of cooperation with our trading partners.

"I felt we achieved every goal we set out to achieve."

Stans headed a 16-man party that visited Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, France and Britain.

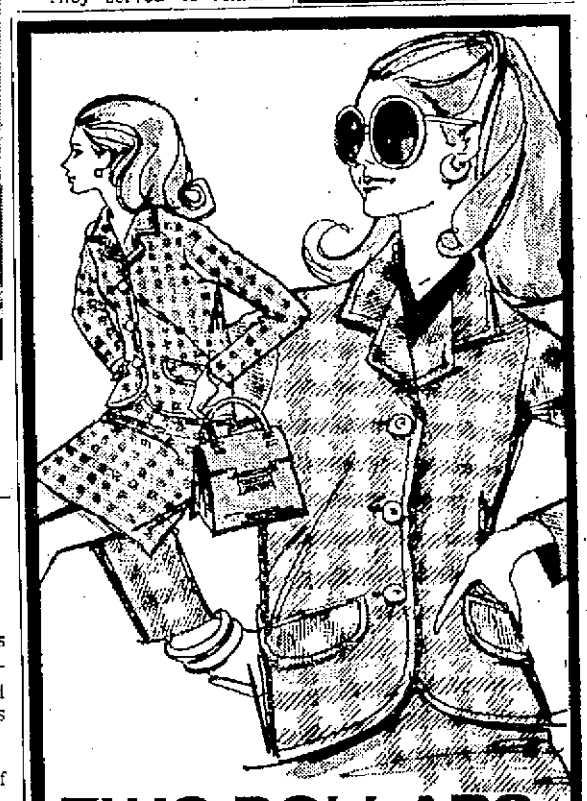

RUSS BUZZ BERLIN AND ALLIES PROTEST

BERLIN (UPI) — Two waves of Soviet warplanes buzzed West Berlin Saturday, flying so low the city's residents could see the red stars on their fuselages.

Informed Western officials said the United States, Britain and France would protest the two flights to Soviet representatives.

They served to remind the city of its dependence on the agreement allowing shipments and flights of supplies from the West to pass through and over Communist East Germany.

Pentagon to Fight "Social Ills"

SAINT LEO, Fla. (UPI) — The Defense Department will shift part of its present budget into a new major program to fight the nation's spcial problems, Defense Secretary Melvin Laird said Saturday.

Laird, in a commencement address at little Saint Leo College, said the program will include providing summer jobs for more than 40,000 youngsters in depressed areas.

He said some defense contracts already have been set aside to provide an economic and employment lift in those areas.

* * * *

BUT HE SAID this does not mean an increase in the defense budget. Instead, he said, it means doing everything under the existing budget.

Other items in the program will be to make technological advances available for industrial use, opening up of military recreation facilities to civilian programs aimed at helping disadvantaged youth, and to make use of currently unused military property for such projects.

Laird's appearance was the subject of a demonstration by peace groups, mostly students, opposing the Nixon Administration's anti-ballistic missile system program and the war in Vietnam.

Officials at the private college placed the campus off limits to all but invited guests while helmeted law enforcement officials encircled it.

* * * *

LAIRD TOOK note of the unrest among the nation's youth in his address to the graduates.

He said the "responsible majority" of the youth have well-developed social consciences which compel them to ask "why is there a gap between what we practice and what we preach?

"They have a lively awareness of injustice . . . are inclined to seek the reason for things," he said.

Gov. Reagan, Thurgood Marshall Win 1969 Horatio Alger Awards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gov. Ronald Reagan of California and Associate Justice Thurgood Marshall of the U.S. Supreme Court were among 11 successful Americans named as winners of the 1969 Horatio Alger Awards, it was announced Saturday.

The awards will be presented by Dr. Norman Vincent Peale at ceremonies here May 14. Named for the author of a Victorian series of children's books which portrayed poor boys who made good, the awards are sponsored by the American Schools and Colleges Association.

Although some of the winners did not exactly go from rags to riches, Reagan worked as a dishwasher and lifeguard to earn enough money for college, and Marshall worked at odd jobs to augment family income.

Other winners were Ragnar Benson of Chicago, a Swedish immigrant who is now head of America's eighth largest general contracting firm; Winston A. Burnett of New York, child of the Harlem ghetto who heads the largest construction company in America; Emmett J. Culligan of San Bernardino, Calif., who went to work at nine to help support a fatherless family and became a manufacturer of water softening units; and Charles Deaton, Denver architect, whose family was so poor they lived in a tent in Oklahoma for two years before they could afford a house.

Also Erik Johnson, mayor of Dallas, Tex., who financed his entire education himself and gained fame in geophysical exploration; Herman Warden Lay of Dallas, chairman of the board of Pepsi Co. who began his career as a snack food salesman with a bag of potato chips; Gerald C. O'Brein of New York, a former stableboy who heads North American Development Corp.; Dr. Michael L. Rachunis, a mineworker who rose to the presidency of the medical staff at Trenton (N.J.) General Hospital; and Meshulam Riklis, an Israeli immigrant who rules over a billion dollar business empire including Glen Alden Corp.

Commerce Secretary Back From Europe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Commerce secretary Maurice H. Stans Saturday described his just completed 15-day economic fact-finding tour of western Europe, "frank, friendly and extremely successful."

Stans said his discussions showed "a remarkable degree of cooperation with our trading partners.

"I felt we achieved every goal we set out to achieve."

Stans headed a 16-man party that visited Belgium, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, France and Britain.

RUSS BUZZ BERLIN AND ALLIES PROTEST

BERLIN (UPI) — Two waves of Soviet warplanes buzzed West Berlin Saturday, flying so low the city's residents could see the red stars on their fuselages.

Informed Western officials said the United States, Britain and France would protest the two flights to Soviet representatives.

They served to remind the city of its dependence on the agreement allowing shipments and flights of supplies from the West to pass through and over Communist East Germany.

ADM. SHARP CALLS McNAMARA 'DEAD WRONG'

NEW YORK (AP) — Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, who directed the air war against North Vietnam, said Sunday that former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara "arbitrarily and consistently discarded the advice of his military advisers" in his handling of the air war.

"His insistence that we pursue the campaign on a gradualistic basis," Sharp said, "gave the enemy plenty of time to cope with our every move. He was, I submit, dead wrong."

Sharp, commander in chief, Pacific, from June 1964, to July 1968, attacked McNamara in an article in the May issue of The Reader's Digest. Sharp is retired.

The 63-year-old admiral said the United States could easily have disrupted North Vietnam's economy and ability to wage war with the air campaign, but instead put primary emphasis on hitting at infiltration of men and materiel.

"Now, you can slow infiltration with air power, and we did just that — but you can never stop it," Sharp wrote. "To concentrate on infiltration and to refrain from hitting primary targets — as we were required to do — emasculated our war effort."

Sharp said he repeatedly asked for permission to bomb additional military targets, about once every two weeks.

"I have been given to understand," he said, "that the Joint Chiefs of Staff supported my position 100 per cent. But most of my requests were denied when they reached the office of the secretary of defense."

When McNamara visited Vietnam in July 1967, Sharp said he emphasized to the secretary what he thought ought to be done with the air war.

"On several occasions I also talked with President Johnson about the problem," he said. "I thought he was receptive to the arguments of our military leadership, but the secretary of defense seems always to have prevailed."

Sharp continued: "It may well be that our civilian leadership believed that to use our military tools properly, to eliminate the enemy's ability to make war would have been to risk a nuclear confrontation with the Soviet Union.

"Personally, I believe the risk was minimal; in any case, a nation which is not willing to take calculated risks to achieve its objectives should never go to war in the first place."

Facts You Should Know About Diamonds

by
DENNY FOLTZ
Lawson's Jewelers,
250 Pine Avenue
Downtown Long Beach Only

Continuing our study of the question "Are Diamonds a good investment," we all know that the first items that man ever treasured were precious gems and metals, such as rubies, sapphires, emeralds, opals, diamonds, gold, jade, lapis lazulis, pearls and the like.

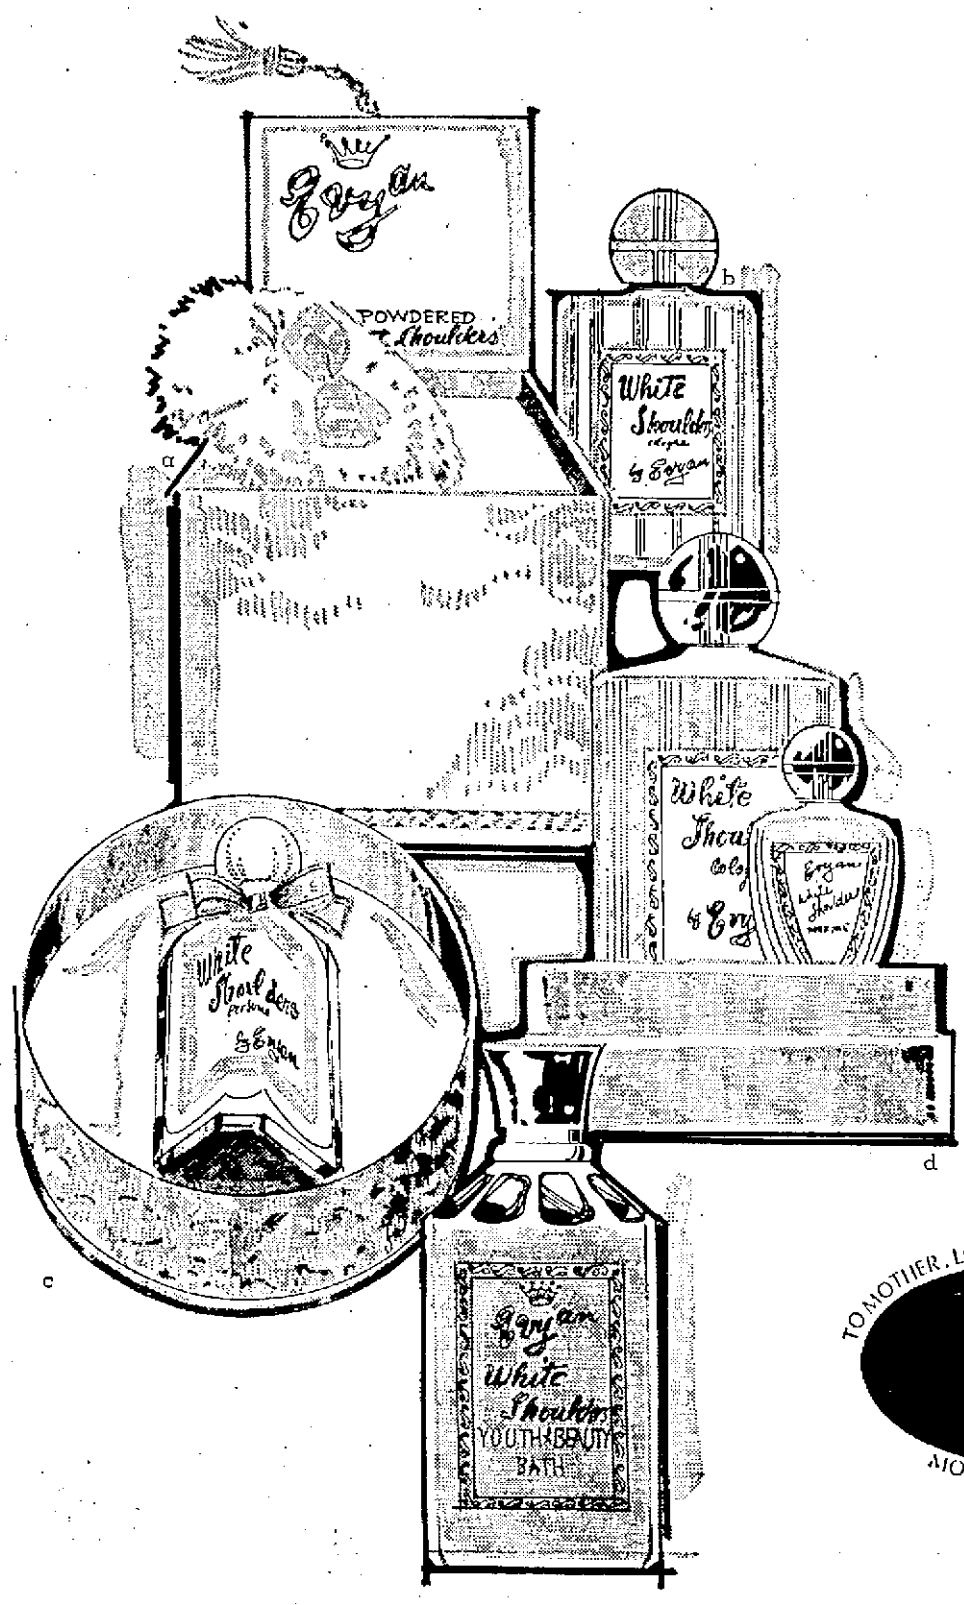

A nation was judged financially sound based upon the wealth of their precious gems in their treasury. Kings would often obtain their needed finances by obtaining huge loans of their precious gems.

Diamonds are age-old and always considered the ultimate of all precious gems. They were used centuries ago as they are today. The only differences are the way the diamond is cut and shaped today and the increase in diamonds due to the recent discoveries in South Africa (only in last 100 years or so).

The reasons why precious gems were so valuable is because they are very durable, hard, and can last ages without noticeable loss of weight if properly cared for. They are also rare, so rare, that any new discovery can turn a penniless man into a millionaire overnight. They are also very small, easily portable from place to place. They are appealing to the eye and a wonderous adornment. They are one of nature's wonders. Any person would be proud and happy to possess a precious gem for their beauty alone.

The above has always been true. The result is that precious gems and metals have a historic tradition of being valuable. The larger the precious gem, the more it was and is worth, regardless of how it was cut or shaped.

If you have any questions in reference to jewelry, kindly stop in at Lawson's Jewelers, 250 Pine Avenue, Downtown Long Beach Only.

give Mom a Mirror-Go-Lightly and get a tote for her, too

The Mirror-Go-Lightly is really the only way to make-up. With four soft light bulbs. No shadows. No glare. Just the even lighting that makes making-up easy. And the Mirror-Go-Lightly switches from regular to magnifying for doing details. Comes with its own travel case, too. And now there's just one more great thing about the Mirror-Go-Lightly as a Mother's Day gift. Mother will get an added gift . . . a waterproof cotton duck tote (an 8.00 value) to hold cosmetics, beach stuff, and her new Mirror-Go-Lightly. Choose from three great styles: Petite, 20.00; Original, 30.00; Extra Magnification, 35.00.

Facts You Should Know About Diamonds

by
DENNY FOLTZ
Lawson's Jewelers.
250 Pine Avenue
Downtown Long Beach Only

Continuing our study of the question "Are Diamonds a good investment," we all know that the first items that man ever treasured were precious gems and metals, such as rubies, sapphires, emeralds, opals, diamonds, gold, jade, lapis lazulis, pearls and the like.

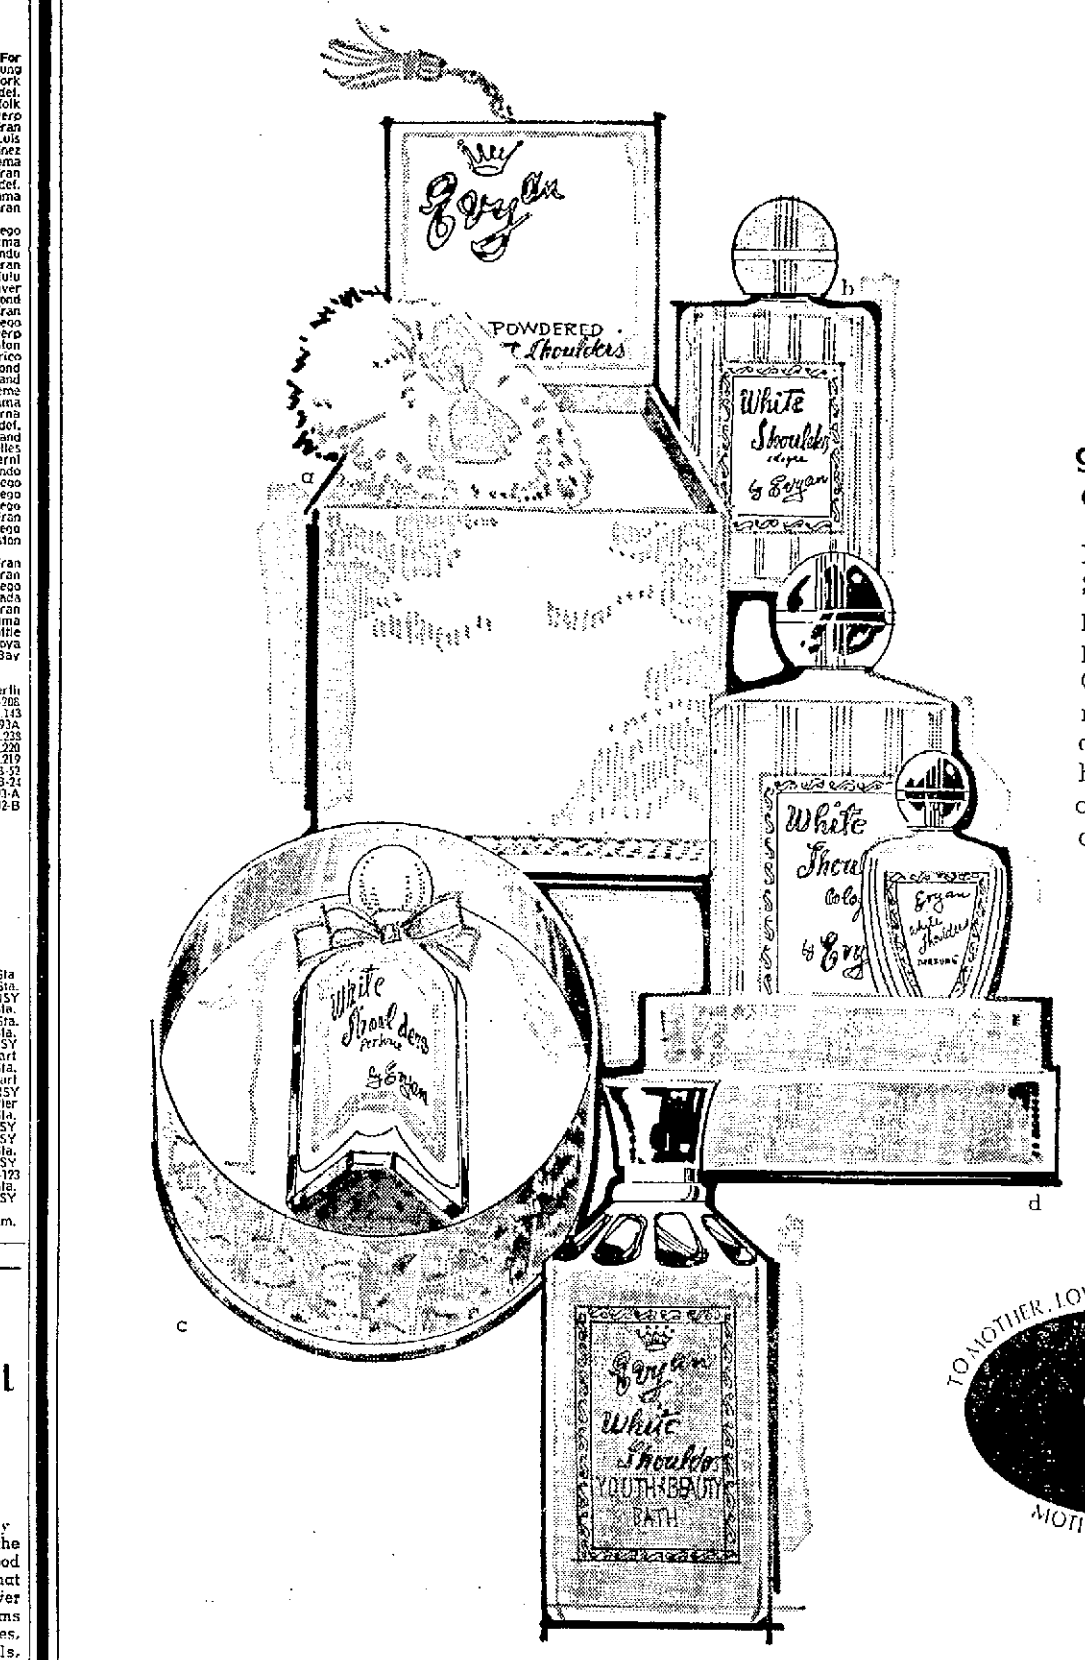

A nation was judged financially sound based upon the wealth of their precious gems in their treasury. Kings would often obtain their needed finances by obtaining huge loans of their precious gems.

Diamonds are age-old and always considered the ultimate of all precious gems. They were used centuries ago as they are today. The only differences are the way the diamond is cut and shaped today and the increase in diamonds due to the recent discoveries in South Africa (only in last 100 years or so).

The reasons why precious gems were so valuable is because they are very durable, hard, and can last ages without noticeable loss of weight if properly cared for. They are also rare, so rare, that any new discovery can turn a penniless man into a millionaire overnight. They are also very small, easily portable from place to place. They are appealing to the eye and a wonderous adornment. They are one of nature's wonders. Any person would be proud and happy to possess a precious gem for their beauty alone.

The above has always been true. The result is that precious gems and metals have a historic tradition of being valuable. The larger the precious gem, the more it was and is worth, regardless of how it was cut or shaped.

If you have any questions in reference to jewelry, kindly stop in at Lawson's Jewelers, 250 Pine Avenue, Downtown Long Beach Only.

Janssen Breaks Out

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Watching a television star attempt to free himself of that banal medium and soar to higher goals is akin to observing a fly extricating himself from flypaper.

The television morass is sticky and limiting.

Time and again a video star will make a movie, bomb out, and return to the tube.

One of the most perisistent victims of television tentacles was David Janssen. Typed as a slick detective in "Richard Diamond" and described by the press as a lookalike for Clark Gable, Janssen was a candidate for the television treadmill for life.

DAVID JANSSEN . . . Gable Lookalike on Run

When the "Richard Diamond" series ended, David jumped into movie features. But he went from flypaper to tarpaper. The pictures were uniformly awful despiteJanssen's efforts to give them merit.

David, big ears and all, was consigned to television — this time in one of the tube's topmost series, "The Fugitive."

His acting was of such uniformly high quality and his personal attraction for mature audiences so great that film producers finally got the message.

Here was a guy who could act and draw at the boxoffice.

Having followed that route previously, Janssen was careful to sidestep the celluloid land mines.

Since leaving "The Fugitive" two years ago he has starred in five pictures — "The Green Berets," a boxoffice smash; "Shoes of the Fisherman," another winner, and three unreleased films: "Marooned," "Where It's At" and "Generation."

Significantly, Janssen's co-stars have been John Wayne, Anthony Quinn and Gregory Peck. In the unreleased films Janssen will be carrying the burden of stardom alone.

South Coast Repertory's Current Offering of 'Room Service' Fine

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

South Coast Repertory brilliantly brings off a complete about-face in its current offering, "Room Service."

Instead of SCR's usual serious, relevant, meaningful, avant-garde, ror whatever drama, they now are happily doing a light, illogical, unrelated and very traditional farce of the 1930s.

"ROOM SERVICE"
By
John Murray and Allen Boretz
Directed by David Emmes
Cast

Sasha Smirnoff	Robert Hertenberger
Gordon Miller	Don Tuche
Joseph Gribble	Michael Douglass
Harry Binion	Martin Benson
"Faker" England	Gary Cotter
Christine Marlowe	Ann Pavaresh
Leo Davis	Ronald Roussano
Geoffrey Wagner	Heath Park
Simon Jenkins	Austin Kelly
Timothy Hogarth	Paul Gersowitz
Doctor Glass	Bill Miller
Messenger	Jerry Conney
Senator Blake	Bill Miller

Performances Thursday-Sunday, 8:30 p.m., 1627 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa, through May.

If any label applies, it's Marxist — Marx Brothers, that is.

What makes this mounting so pleasurable is the enormously high professional talent trotted out — for entertainment rather than enlightenment.

Timing — of both sight and sound gags — is all important. A critical viewer watches almost in awe as director David Emmes' people move flawlessly and at top speed through a continuing series of intricate gyrations.

Singling out any single actor or actress for special praise is all but impossible — they're all too good. But merely as illustrations of what may be expected, there are:

Don Tuche as a never-at-a-loss-for-a-word con artist who happens to produce plays — when he can raise the dough. Martin Benson, himself a serious director of note, wildly portraying a madly wild director; Ron Boussom, earnest, naive, deadpan hick playwright who dreams of his work being staged.

As stories go, "Room Service" is both simple and complex. Play-within-a-play producer Tuche and company romp through three acts seeking to raise money for their show, avoid being kicked out of a third-rate Broadway hostelry. They resolve one problem and yet another pops up, until, in the end — what else? — triumph.

Highly recommended for farce fans, others seeking an enjoyable, non-cerebral evening of theater.

Janssen Breaks Out

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Watching a television star attempt to free himself of that banal medium and soar to higher goals is akin to observing a fly extricating himself from flypaper.

The television morass is sticky and limiting.

Time and again a video star will make a movie, bomb out, and return to the tube.

One of the most perisitent victims of television tentacles was David Janssen. Typed as a slick detective in "Richard Diamond" and described by the press as a lookalike for Clark Gable, Janssen was a candidate for the television treadmill for life.

DAVID JANSSEN . . . Gable Lookallke on Run

When the "Richard Diamond" series ended, David jumped into movie features. But he went from flypaper to tarpaper. The pictures were uniformly awful despiteJanssen's efforts to give them merit.

David, big ears and all, was consigned to television — this time in one of the tube's topmost series, "The Fugitive."

His acting was of such uniformly high quality and his personal attraction for mature audiences so great that film producers finally got the message.

Here was a guy who could act and draw at the boxoffice.

Having followed that route previously, Janssen was careful to sidestep the celluloid land mines.

Since leaving "The Fugitive" two years ago he has starred in five pictures — "The Green Berets," a boxoffice smash; "Shoes of the Fisherman," another winner, and three unreleased films: "Marooned," "Where It's At" and "Generation."

Significantly, Janssen's co-stars have been John Wayne, Anthony Quinn and Gregory Peck. In the unreleased films Janssen will be carrying the burden of stardom alone.

THEATRE IN REVIEW

South Coast Repertory's Current Offering of 'Room Service' Fine

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Drama Critic

South Coast Repertory brilliantly brings off a complete about-face in its current offering, "Room Service."

Instead of SCR's usual serious, relevant, meaningful, avant-garde, ror whatever drama, they now are happily doing a light, illogical, unrelated and very traditional farce of the 1930s.

"ROOM SERVICE"
By
John Murray and Allen Boretz
Directed by David Emmes
Cast

Sasha Smirnoff ..... Robert Hortenberger
Gordon Miller ..... Don Tuche
Joseph Gribble ..... Michael Douglass
Harry Binion ..... Martin Benson
"Faker" England ..... Gary Cofer
Christine Marlowe ..... Ann Pevaresh
Leo Davis ..... Ronald Boussom
Geoffrey Wagner ..... Heath Park
Simon Jenkins ..... Austin Kelly
Timothy Hogarth ..... Paul Gersowitz
Doctor Gloss ..... Bill Miller
Messenger ..... Jerry Comey
Senator Blake ..... Bill Miller

Performances Thursday-Sunday, 8:30 p.m., 1627 Newport Blvd., Costa Mesa, through May.

If any label applies, it's Marxist — Marx Brothers, that is.

What makes this mounting so pleasurable is the enormously high professional talent trotted out — for entertainment rather than enlightenment.

Timing — of both sight and sound gags — is all important. A critical viewer watches almost in awe as director David Emmes' people move flawlessly and at top speed through a continuing series of intricate gyrations.

Singling out any single actor or actress for special praise is all but impossible — they're all too good. But merely as illustrations of what may be expected, there are:

Don Tuche as a never-at-a-loss-for-a-word con artist who happens to produce plays — when he can raise the dough. Martin Benson, himself a serious director of note, wildly portraying a madly wild director; Ron Boussom, earnest, naive, deadpan hick playwright who dreams of his work being staged.

As stories go, "Room Service" is both simple and complex. Play-within-a-play producer Tuche and company romp through three acts seeking to raise money for their show, avoid being kicked out of a third-rate Broadway hostelry. They resolve one problem and yet another pops up, until, in the end — what else? — triumph.

Highly recommended for farce fans, others seeking an enjoyable, non-cerebral evening of theater.

A SIGHT & SOUND PRODUCTION

It's Eerie, Says Ali of Her Success

NEW YORK — Ali MacGraw pictures herself as a 30-year-old gypsy-looking model with an imperfect smile and slightly crooked teeth who has been turned down for many TV commercials — yet within the last month she's probably been written up more frequently than De Gaulle and in her own words, "It seems to be happening to somebody else. It's eerie. It's surreal."

Alice — that's her real name — had led a fairly innocent life as a model, fooling around about being an actress, until March 14 when the Directors Guild in Hollywood screened her first movie, "Goodbye, Columbus" based on the Philip Roth ("Portnoy's Complaint") book.

"Before that — heavens — nothing!" she said the other afternoon, with a wave of her hand, as we sat in the Fornos restaurant on W. 52nd St.

"Since that I guess I've done 40 interviews. That's what all this nonsense is about," she said.

* * * *

"I DON'T MEAN nonsense — it's really very important," she apologized. "I'm the same person I was last Sept. 9 when I finished the picture when nobody knew me. The biggest change in me is I'm alarmed now when I get up in front of Sandy Meisner's acting class. The picture publicity is great but the follow-up is a little scary.

ALI MACGRAW . . . Sudden Exposure

"I'm just a little too old to go through that whole braces thing and get my teeth fixed into a perfect smile, so I never thought I'd get anywhere," she admitted. Sitting here now, she had turned down a Pisco sour because she had been taking antibiotics for a cough, but when she tasted my Pisco sour, she changed her mind quickly.

"I'm not being Mrs. Nice Guy," she said . . .

But Larry Peerce, director of the picture, had turned her down repeatedly for the part of "Brenda," then months later he told her, "We went to the coast and we didn't find anybody."

"I said to him, 'But I'm not the right girl. Why do you keep having me read?'

At 30, she says, "I never thought of myself as an actress, really, until this picture. I was an assistant editor at Harper's. I unpacked the jewelry, I ordered lunch. So I guess my acting career could be described as — well, it's a freak."

* * * *

DAUGHTER OF two Westchester artists, she herself "wanted to draw" (afer Wellesley) but being 5-8, weighing 118, she modeled, and she walked. "I walk literally everywhere with a very fat grey Scottie named Grounds," she says.

She supposes her parents are pretty startled having a movie star daughter who never amounted to much till she was 30.

Ali doesn't discuss her private life, and she wonders whether that is right. She was interviewed by one female who prohed into it until Ali said she didn't want to go into her private life.

"But, darling," clucked the interviewer, "the only thing interesting about you is your private life . .

"That isn't interesting either," Ali claims. "I don't think it could have happened except in 1968 and 1969 when you can do one or two films and never be seen again and the world doesn't come to an end."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WIND-UP . . . The Michael Caine-Diahann Carroll film will be titled "Millicent Moneypenny Has Never Been to Phoenix" . . . Antonioni, who painted the grass a greener green in "Blow Up," painted some lizards a pinker pink for "Zabriskie Point" . . . Totie Fields'll be appearing at Harrah's with an act that outweighs her — the Lennon Sisters . . . Sidney Poitier will play a minister in his next film (from a story he wrote).

F. Lee Bailey's one of the backers of Envoy Town Clubs, which'll provide office space and club facilities for traveling execs around the country . . . Phil Greenwald signed singer Engelbert Humperdinck for the Concord Hotel. (Sounds like something from their breakfast menu) . . . Mark Tendler, the muscled host at P. J. Clarke's, will portray wrestler Gorgeous George on a TV commercial (in gold sequined cape, pink tights, blond wig) . . . American-Int'l Films signed pretty Astrid Warner to a 7-year contract.

Composer Burt Bacharach's horse, Apex II, which he bought for $24,000, won that much in just two races . . . Liza Minelli was "guest disk jockey" at the Salvation discotheque in the Village . . . MGM's Bo Polk ordered the big buildup for Sarah Miles (in "Ryan's Daughter") . . . Douglas Fairbanks bought a Palm Beach home for his dtr. and her groom.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Woody Allen, starring in the show he wrote, "Play It Again, Sam," says it's only natural he play the lead: "The author confided that he had me in mind when he wrote it."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Thanks to the wonders of science, modern medicine has brought nervous breakdowns within the reach of all. — Arnold Glasow.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Definite of a split-level house: Where the occupant owns half, and the bank the other half."

EARL'S PEARLS: Jackie Vernon, the hefty comic, admits he often has an urge to diet: "But every time I do, I keep eating till the urge passes."

Flip Wilson rode in Jackie Gleason's Rolls, and reports that it has a bar. A friend said that wasn't unusual. "Oh, no?" exclaimed Flip. "With two bartenders?" That's earl, brother.

A SIGHT & SOUND PRODUCTION

It's Eerie, Says Ali of Her Success

ALI MACGRAW . . . Sudden Exposure

NEW YORK — Ali MacGraw pictures herself as a 30-year-old gypsy-looking model with an imperfect smile and slightly crooked teeth who has been turned down for many TV commercials — yet within the last month she's probably been written up more frequently than De Gaulle and in her own words, "It seems to be happening to somebody else. It's eerie. It's surreal."

Alice — that's her real name — had led a fairly innocent life as a model, fooling around about being an actress, until March 14 when the Directors Guild in Hollywood screened her first movie, "Goodbye, Columbus" based on the Philip Roth ("Portnoy's Complaint") book.

"Before that — heavens — nothing!" she said the other afternoon, with a wave of her hand, as we sat in the Fornos restaurant on W. 52nd St.

"Since that I guess I've done 40 interviews. That's what all this nonsense is about," she said.

* * * *

"I DON'T MEAN nonsense — it's really very important," she apologized. "I'm the same person I was last Sept. 9 when I finished the picture when nobody knew me. The biggest change in me is I'm alarmed now when I get up in front of Sandy Meisner's acting class. The picture publicity is great but the follow-up is a little scary.

"I'm just a little too old to go through that whole braces thing and get my teeth fixed into a perfect smile, so I never thought I'd get anywhere," she admitted. Sitting here now, she had turned down a Pisco sour because she had been taking antibiotics for a cough, but when she tasted my Pisco sour, she changed her mind quickly.

"I'm not being Mrs. Nice Guy," she said . . .

But Larry Peerce, director of the picture, had turned her down repeatedly for the part of "Brenda," then months later he told her, "We went to the coast and we didn't find anybody."

"I said to him, 'But I'm not the right girl. Why do you keep having me read?'

At 30, she says, "I never thought of myself as an actress, really, until this picture. I was an assistant editor at Harper's. I unpacked the jewelry, I ordered lunch. So I guess my acting career could be described as — well, it's a freak."

* * * *

DAUGHTER OF two Westchester artists, she herself "wanted to draw" (afer Wellesley) but being 5-8, weighing 118, she modeled, and she walked. "I walk literally everywhere with a very fat grey Scottie named Grounds," she says.

She supposes her parents are pretty startled having a movie star daughter who never amounted to much till she was 30.

Ali doesn't discuss her private life, and she wonders whether that is right. She was interviewed by one female who probed into it until Ali said she didn't want to go into her private life.

"But, darling," clucked the interviewer, "the only thing interesting about you is your private life . .

"That isn't interesting either," Ali claims. "I don't think it could have happened except in 1968 and 1969 when you can do one or two films and never be seen again and the world doesn't come to an end."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WIND-UP . . . The Michael Caine-Diahann Carroll film will be titled "Millicent Moneypenny Has Never Been to Phoenix" . . . Antonioni, who painted the grass a greener green in "Blow Up," painted some lizards a pinker pink for "Zabriskie Point" . . . Totie Fields'll be appearing at Harrah's with an act that outweighs her — the Lennon Sisters . . . Sidney Poitier will play a minister in his next film (from a story he wrote).

F. Lee Bailey's one of the backers of Envoy Town Clubs, which'll provide office space and club facilities for traveling execs around the country . . . Phil Greenwald signed singer Engelbert Humperdinck for the Concord Hotel. (Sounds like something from their breakfast menu) . . . Mark Tendler, the muscled host at P. J. Clarke's, will portray wrestler Gorgeous George on a TV commercial (in gold sequined cape, pink tights, blond wig) . . . American-Int'l Films signed pretty Astrid Warner to a 7-year contract.

Composer Burt Bacharach's horse, Apex II, which he bought for $24,000, won that much in just two races . . . Liza Minelli was "guest disk jockey" at the Salvation discotheque in the Village . . . MGM's Bo Polk ordered the big buildup for Sarah Miles (in "Ryan's Daughter") . . . Douglas Fairbanks bought a Palm Beach home for his dir. and her groom.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Woody Allen, starring in the show he wrote, "Play It Again, Sam," says it's only natural he play the lead: "The author confided that he had me in mind when he wrote it."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Thanks to the wonders of science, modern medicine has brought nervous breakdowns within the reach of all. — Arnold Glasow.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Definite of a split-level house: Where the occupant owns half, and the bank the other half."

EARL'S PEARLS: Jackie Vernon, the hefty comic, admits he often has an urge to diet: "But every time I do, I keep eating till the urge passes."

Flip Wilson rode in Jackie Gleason's Rolls, and reports that it has a bar. A friend said that wasn't unusual. "Oh, no?" exclaimed Flip. "With two bartenders?" That's earl, brother.

TO PROTEST WAR

Children Visit Newspaper

By JACK McFARREN
Staff Writer

"We should begin immediate withdrawal of our boys from Vietnam and establish an all volunteer army."

The speaker was not a politician or a college student but 12-year-old Armen Albares, a sixth grader at Jane Adams Elementary School.

Armen and his classmates Laura Mosley, 11; Nancy Wheeler, 12; Paul Loucks, 11, and Debbie Wynberg, 11, walked into the newsroom at the Independent, Press-Telegram and demanded of a startled reporter: "Why don't you print what kids think about the war?"

The five miniprotesters explained they had organized an anti-war group called simply the "Anti-war Group."

"There are six of us," Armen Albares explained. "Our other member couldn't make it today."

"We have a poem I wrote," Armen said, handing a sheet of paper to the reporter.

The reporter read the poem, as the five continued.

"We read about the war," Laura Mosley said. "We read about boys - - and fathers and brothers — dying."

"War is wrong. Even the little wars the college students fight are wrong," Nancy Wheeler added.

"We see pictures of mothers and children getting medals for their dead sons and fathers," said Paul Loucks. "Two little boys look at a medal — thats their father — Wow-ee."

"How would you end the war?," the reporter asked. "We'd send kids to the Paris peace talks," answered Armen. "If we sent kids and they sent kids, we could end this war quick."

"We don't just represent ourselves," added Debbie Wynberg. "I'll bet we represent 99 per cent of kids — their side too."

By this time the reporter had finished reading the poem. In part, it said:

"Let the cries be of joy
"And not of anger
"Let us talk together as neighbors —
"Ban the war.
"They think that shooting and killing
"And the sight of the dead is thrilling.
"The banner will fly
"Cities will die
"The homeless shall cry
"Ban the war."

TO UNDERGO HEART SURGERY

Sandra Begins Flight for Life

Western Airlines Flight 605 whisked 14-year-old Sandra Swancey away Saturday morning on the first stage of her flight for life.

Sandra and her mother and father left Los Angeles International Airport at noon on the flight which will take them to Salt Lake City.

A CONNECTING flight will take them to Minneapolis-St. Paul. The balance of the journey will be made on interline connection to Rochester.

Sandra will soon undergo heart surgery at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester. The popular eighth grade student at Washington Jr. High School is a victim of trucus arteriosus, a heart ailment which would be fatal without the special operation developed last year by Mayo Clinic surgeon Dr. Dwight C. McGoon.

SANDRA SWANCEY

Sandra's mother will stay with her at Rochester while she recuperates from surgery. Her father, Curtis J. Swancey, will return to the seven other Swancey children at 1461 Alamitos Ave., Monday.

Sandra was all smiles at the prospect of her first jet airplane flight. It will also be the girl's first trip to the midwest.

"I guess its colder there, so we're taking our heavy clothes," she said. "Tell everyone I hope to be better and back soon," she added.

Sandra's mother said the girl will be in Rochester for at least a month following surgery.

Donation of the equivalent of $500 dollars in the form of round trip tickets for Sandra and her mother by Western Airlines brought total donations including those by Long Beach area people and Sandra's classmates to almost $4000.

SYMPOSIUM ON THE SEA ENDS TODAY

A two-day marine environment symposium sponsored by the Long Beach United School District's Avalon High School oceanography club was scheduled to conclude today at Santa Catalina Island.

The symposium, which featured an in-depth look at contemporary oceanographical science, included a tour of the University of Southern California's Fisherman's Cove marine laboratory.

YOUTH JOB DRIVE OPENS WEDNESDAY

A drive to line up 3,000 summer jobs for youth will get underway at 8 a.m. Wednesday, with more than 50 top employers invited to a meeting on the Long Beach City College business and technology campus.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade will make opening remarks at the campaign kick-off breakfast at the campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Other speakers will represent government and business.

The job drive is sponsored by the Long Beach Youth Opportunity Center. It seeks cooperation from businessmen to help avoid duplication of effort — saving time for employers and students seeking summer and career jobs.

About 2,000 youth jobs were secured last year.

"This year," said Mrs. Mary E. Nelson, manager of the Youth Opportunity Center, 1318 Pine Ave., "we invite both students who desire summer jobs only, and graduates looking for permanent jobs, to register with us and to be interviewed by employers on one of the three Saturdays when we will remain open."

Until this year, she explained, the job-finding campaign was called Graduate Month and various Saturdays during the period were termed "G-Days," when students were interviewed by prospective employers.

According to Mrs. Nelson, the jobs-for-youth-days are May 17 and 24, and June 7. An estimated 500 graduates are expected to use the center's facilities in seeking permanent jobs and another 1,500 will seek summer work.

Gates open at noon today at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Station officials expect 10,000 visitors for the annual military personnel inspection, involving 4,000 reservists from 35 squadrons.

There will be static displays of aircraft, movies and a teen-agers' dance.

The inspection begins at 3 p.m. with Rear Adm. William S. Guest, commander, Naval Air Reserves, and Rear Adm. Norman C. Gillette Jr., commander, Anti-submarine Warfare Group 3, the inspecting officers.

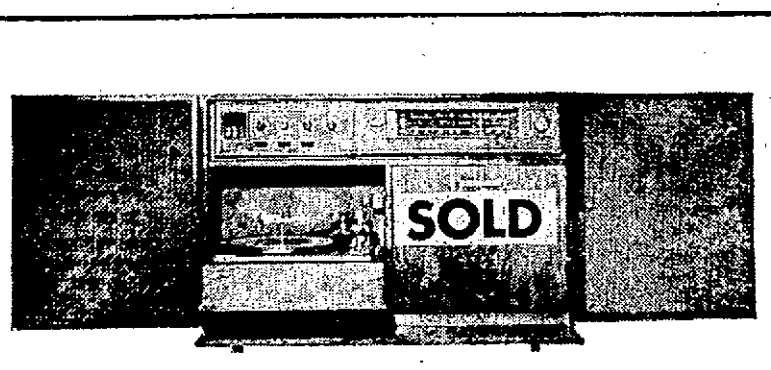

WINS STAR

Pfc. Frank Martinez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacinto Martinez, Wilmington, has received the Bronze Star with Combat V for his Vietnam heroism in unloading needed ordnance from a helicopter being sprayed with Viet Cong gunfire. The GI graduated from St. Anthony's in Long Beach.

Arizona U. Official Wounded on Street

WINDHAM, Ohio (UPI) — George E. Hall, 49, business manager of the University of Arizona, was in guarded condition Saturday in Robinson Memorial Hospital in nearby Ravenna after being shot in the neck.

Hall, of Tucson, Ariz., was walking a woman friend to her home when he was shot. Portage County sheriff's deputies are searching for the woman's ex-husband for questioning.

TO UNDERGO HEART SURGERY

Sandra Begins Flight for Life

Western Airlines Flight 605 whisked 14-year-old Sandra Swancey away Saturday morning on the first stage of her flight for life.

Sandra and her mother and father left Los Angeles International Airport at noon on the flight which will take them to Salt Lake City.

A CONNECTING flight will take them to Minneapolis-St. Paul. The balance of the journey will be made on interline connection to Rochester.

Sandra will soon undergo heart surgery at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester. The popular eighth grade student at Washington Jr. High School is a victim of trucus arteriosus, a heart ailment which would be fatal without the special operation developed last year by Mayo Clinic surgeon Dr. Dwight C. McGoon.

SANDRA SWANCEY

Sandra's mother will stay with her at Rochester while she recuperates from surgery. Her father, Curtis J. Swancey, will return to the seven other Swancey children at 1461 Alamitos Ave., Monday.

Sandra was all smiles at the prospect of her first jet airplane flight. It will also be the girl's first trip to the midwest.

"I guess its colder there, so we're taking our heavy clothes," she said. "Tell everyone I hope to be better and back soon," she added.

Sandra's mother said the girl will be in Rochester for at least a month following surgery.

Donation of the equivalent of $500 dollars in the form of round trip tickets for Sandra and her mother by Western Airlines brought total donations including those by Long Beach area people and Sandra's classmates to almost $4000.

SYMPOSIUM ON THE SEA ENDS TODAY

A two-day marine environment symposium sponsored by the Long Beach United School District's Avalon High School oceanography club was scheduled to conclude today at Santa Catalina Island.

The symposium, which featured an in-depth look at contemporary occanographical science, included a tour of the University of Southern California's Fisherman's Cove marine laboratory.

YOUTH JOB DRIVE OPENS WEDNESDAY

A drive to line up 3,000 summer jobs for youth will get underway at 8 a.m. Wednesday, with more than 50 top employers invited to a meeting on the Long Beach City College business and technology campus.

Mayor Edwin W. Wade will make opening remarks at the campaign kick-off breakfast at the campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

Other speakers will represent government and business.

The job drive is sponsored by the Long Beach Youth Opportunity Center. It seeks cooperation from businessmen to help avoid duplication of effort — saving time for employers and students seeking summer and career jobs.

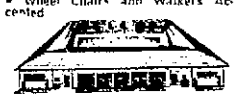

About 2,000 youth jobs were secured last year.

"This year," said Mrs. Mary E. Nelson, manager of the Youth Opportunity Center, 1318 Pine Ave., "we invite both students who desire summer jobs only, and graduates looking for permanent jobs, to register with us and to be interviewed by employers on one of the three Saturdays when we will remain open."

Until this year, she explained, the job-finding campaign was called Graduate Month and various Saturdays during the period were termed "G-Days," when students were interviewed by prospective employers.

According to Mrs. Nelson, the jobs-for-youth-days are May 17 and 24, and June 7. An estimated 500 graduates are expected to use the center's facilities in seeking permanent jobs and another 4,500 will seek summer work.

YMCA CELEBRATION

Dr. Hayakawa Due at Meeting in L.B.

Outstanding educator and Acting President of strife-torn California State College at San Francisco, Dr. Samuel I. Hayakawa will be the featured speaker at the YMCA of Greater Long Beach's annual dinner meeting.

The annual dinner, which will also be the organization's 85th birthday celebration, will be held in the International Ballroom of the Lafayette Hotel Friday, May 16. A reception will begin at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7.

* * * *

DR. HAYAKAWA, who has ruled San Francisco State with more or less of an iron hand, will speak on a topic he probably knows as much about as anyone, "The Roots of Campus Unrest."

More than 600 civic and business leaders and friends of the YMCA are expected to attend the gala dinner, which is the biggest social affair the YMCA puts on each year.

The meeting will commemorate the founding of the YMCA in Long Beach back in 1844, long before the city was actually a city. In fact, when the city fathers first laid out the town they set aside a lot for a church and a YMCA.

Dr. Hayakawa is one of the world's authorities on semantics. He received his Ph.D. degree in English from the University of Wisconsin.

* * * *

A GRADUATE of the University of Manitoba in Canada, he received his master's degree from McGill University in Montreal.

He is the author of four books on language and semantics. One of them, "Language in Action" was a best seller and chosen as a Book of the Month Club selection in 1941.

Time for Finks to Sing Draws Near

FINK, Tex. (AP) — That time when the Finks and near-Finks of the world arise is approaching.

National Fink Week opens on a Friday the 13th June.

Fink Day began in 1965 after the word entered the general vocabulary as a derogatory term meaning stool pigeon.

This failed to disturb the residents of Fink. There are anywhere from a half dozen to two dozen living here, depending on where you arbitrarily draw the boundary line for the unincorporated spot on Farm-to-Market-Road 120.

A former store owner, J. L. Allgood, started National Fink Day.

When Pat and Willard Albright bought the store a year or so later, Mrs. Albright turned it into a memorable day by serving coffee and cookies to all Finks and their friends who dropped by.

More than a hundred did so.

Since that time, persons named Fink, Finke and even Funk have helped celebrate. A few with names like Smith came to enjoy the party, too.

Mrs. Albright is mayor. The office goes with ownership of the general store. But Willard Albright refused and placed the crown on his wife's head.

Things sort of got out of hand.

Finks wrote from all over the country and even from Germany. Some of them, who had been sort of mumbling their names at introductions, now carry their name proudly, they say.

In fact, more than 50 Finks have been found in North Texas and Southern Oklahoma alone. Finks from California, Illinois and Ohio have indicated they will be present this year.

It now is National Fink Week and features a three-day golf tournament beginning June 13 at Tanglewood Country Club, a mile and a half away.

The tournament's first session last year drew 124 contestants — including five Finks and one Funk.

U.S. Panel Proposes Peacekeeping Troops

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A study group of prominent Americans recommended Saturday that the United States promote establishment of a U.N. peacekeeping force of up to 40,000 troops and put up half of a $60 million fund to finance it.

The recommendations came from a 26-member national policy panel of the United Nations Association of the U.S.A.

In its 62-page report, the panel said the United States should reach an understanding with the Soviet Union and other big powers on principles for the force and the Security Council then should negotiate with "nongreat power countries" to set aside the troops in readiness.

The panel said the force of land, sea and air units should include 20,000 to 25,000 troops available for U.N. service on a week's notice and at least 15,000 available on two to eight weeks' notice.

The units, it said, should be available for a minimum of one year's service for assignments by the Security Countil or its executive agent, the secretary-general.

Countries not able to lend troops should provide bases, overflight privileges, passage rights, equipment and training, the panel went on, and the big powers should pledge logistic support, available on short notice.

To finance the operations, the panel recommended a $60-million U.N. "peace fund" be established mainly with voluntary contributions.

"Past U.N. peacekeeping operations have been so clearly in the United States interest," it said; "that the U.S. should be willing to provide 50 per cent of this amount."

The report, prepared under the chairmanship of Yale University President Kingman Brewster, Jr., said U.N. peacekeeping could prevent small-country conflicts from growing into U.S.-Soviet confrontations.

One Last Flight for X-15—to Smithsonian Institution

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

The world's fastest and highest-flying aircraft will be launched as usual on its last flight next month, riding on the wings of another plane. But this time the X-15 will be a passenger all the way.

Instead of nestling under the wing of a B-52 bomber, ready to streak away to new research records, the stubby-winged rocket ship will be flying in the hold of a jet freighter to retirement in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

The unique vehicle, which extended the frontiers of flight into outer space in the span of a decade, will occupy a place of honor alongside the Wright Kitty Hawk Flyer, first winged craft to carry a man under its own power, and Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, first to cross the Atlantic nonstop.

The X-15 to be viewed by future generations is the first of only three built by North American Rockwell for the joint Air Force, Navy and National Aeronautics and Space Administration research program.

Together, they compiled 199 flights from June 8, 1959 to Oct. 24, 1968, exceeding all design goals and serving as reusable platforms to develop manned-space-flight systems.

ASTRONAUT Neil A. Armstrong, who is scheduled to be the first American to land on the moon, stands by trailblazing X-15 at NASA Flight Research Center in Edwards, Calif. Armstrong was one of the original pilots of the X-15. The craft will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., next month.

After eight demonstrations by the manufacturer, with civilian pilot A. Scott Crossfield at the controls, NASA's chief X-15 pilot, Joseph A. Walker, made the first research flight on March 25, 1960.

Later flights with redesigned equipment reached a top speed of more than 4,500 miles an hour, nearly seven times the speed of sound, and altitudes in excess of 67 miles.

Advances in space-flight equipment and techniques developed in the X-15 program include rocket-thruster control systems, space suits and ablative heat-shield materials.

Among the 12 military and civilian test pilots who flew the experimental aircraft-spacecraft were two who graduated to full-fledged astronaut status — the Air Force's Joe H. Engle and civilian Neil A. Armstrong. Other pilots received Air Force astronaut wings for X-15 flights above 50 miles.

Armstrong, who made his first X-15 flight on Nov. 30, 1960, and completed six more before joining the NASA astronaut team, was named to be the first man to set foot on the moon in the Apollo 11 lunar landing mission planned for this summer.

All of the X-15 flights were made from Edwards Air Force Base in the Mojave desert in order to land on dry lake beds in the area. Two steel skids served as the main gear for landings on the flats at speeds of more than 200 miles an hour.

The $300 million research program was conducted with relatively few failures or accidents and only one fatality. Air Force pilot Michael J. Adams, last to join the X-15 flight team, was killed on Nov. 15, 1967 when the No. 3 craft went out of control on re-entry from an altitude of more than 50 miles and was destroyed.

Like its predecessor, the No. 2 X-15 also will go on display next month. It will be delivered to the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

Bare Big U.S. Loan to Mafia-Linked Firm

New York Times Service

WASHINGTON — The Small Business Administration conceded Saturday it had backed more than $1 million in loans to the ANR Leasing Corp., a Mafia-connected trucking concern in the Bronx.

The figure, more than double the estimates made last month before the New York State Investigation Commission, was part of fresh evidence disclosed by the House Banking and Currency Committee in an unusual weekend hearing.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said that, even after the federal agency discovered the Mafia associations of ANR's executives, $450,000 in government loans was channeled to the trucking company through a small business loan company and two other corporations.

In an unrelated development, Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., charged that Albert Fuentes, a special assistant to the agency's administrator, Hilary J. Sandoval Jr., had engaged in "shakedowns" of loan applicants in San Antonio. Sandoval was appointed by President Nixon.

Through the banking committee staff, Gonzalez distributed copies of an affidavit in which a San Antonio hardware manufacturer said that Fuentes had helped him obtain a $10,000 loan from the agency but had asked to share control of the expanded corporation.

Fuentes told reporters at the hearing that the charge against him was completely unfounded. Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., chairman of the committee, said the matter would be investigated further.

The principal questions before the hearing were how the small business administration could have been ignorant of the criminal background of principals in the ANR Leasing Corp. and why it had granted loans of such magnitude at a time when many smaller loans were being denied.

Owerri Falls to Biafran Secessionists

OWERRI Biafra (AP) — This, the fifth largest town in Biafra, has been retaken by secessionist troops, and the Biafran flag flies from the town tower for the first time since federal forces took over in September.

Six newsmen were allowed to enter here after Biafran Information Commissioner Ifegwu Eke announced that the town had been "completely cleared of Nigerian vandals by gallant Biafran soldiers."

Col. Ogbugo Kalu, commander of the 14th Biafran division told the newsmen his troops cleared the town after an estimated 2,500 Nigerian soldiers retreated to the village of Avy 10 miles away.

"This will be the killing ground," Kalu said.

One Last Flight for X-15—to Smithsonian Institution

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

The world's fastest and highest-flying aircraft will be launched as usual on its last flight next month, riding on the wings of another plane. But this time the X-15 will be a passenger all the way.

Instead of nestling under the wing of a B-52 bomber, ready to streak away to new research records, the stubby-winged rocket ship will be flying in the hold of a jet freighter to retirement in the Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C.

The unique vehicle, which extended the frontiers of flight into outer space in the span of a decade, will occupy a place of honor alongside the Wright Kitty Hawk Flyer, first winged craft to carry a man under its own power, and Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis, first to cross the Atlantic nonstop.

The X-15 to be viewed by future generations is the first of only three built by North American Rockwell for the joint Air Force, Navy and National Aeronautics and Space Administration research program.

Together, they compiled 199 flights from June 8, 1959 to Oct. 24, 1968, exceeding all design goals and serving as reusable platforms to develop manned-space-flight systems.

ASTRONAUT Neil A. Armstrong, who is scheduled to be the first American to land on the moon, stands by trailblazing X-15 at NASA Flight Research Center in Edwards, Calif. Armstrong was one of the original pilots of the X-15. The craft will be sent to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., next month.

After eight demonstrations by the manufacturer, with civilian pilot A. Scott Crossfield at the controls, NASA's chief X-15 pilot, Joseph A. Walker, made the first research flight on March 25, 1960.

Later flights with redesigned equipment reached a top speed of more than 4,500 miles an hour, nearly seven times the speed of sound, and altitudes in excess of 67 miles.

Advances in space-flight equipment and techniques developed in the X-15 program include rocket-thruster ccontrol systems, space suits and ablative heat-shield materials.

Among the 12 military and civilian test pilots who flew the experimental aircraft-spacecraft were two who graduated to full-fledged astronaut status — the Air Force's Joe H. Engle and civilian Neil A. Armstrong. Other pilots received Air Force astronaut wings for X-15 flights above 50 miles.

Armstrong, who made his first X-15 flight on Nov. 30, 1960, and completed six more before joining the NASA astronaut team, was named to be the first man to set foot on the moon in the Apollo 11 lunar landing mission planned for this summer.

All of the X-15 flights were made from Edwards Air Force Base in the Mojave desert in order to land on dry lake beds in the area. Two steel skids served as the main gear for landings on the flats at speeds of more than 200 miles an hour.

The $300 million research program was conducted with relatively few failures or accidents and only one fatality. Air Force pilot Michael J. Adams, last to join the X-15 flight team, was killed on Nov. 15, 1967 when the No. 3 craft went out of control on re-entry from an altitude of more than 50 miles and was destroyed.

Like its predecessor, the No. 2 X-15 also will go on display next month. It will be delivered to the Air Force Museum at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio.

Large U.S. Loan Told to Mafia-Linked Firm

New York Times Service.

WASHINGTON — The Small Business Administration conceded Saturday it had backed more than $1 million in loans to the ANR Leasing Corp., a Mafia-connected trucking concern in the Bronx.

The figure, more than double the estimates made last month before the New York State Investigation Commission, was part of fresh evidence disclosed by the House Banking and Currency Committee in an unusual weekend hearing.

Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., said that, even after the federal agency discovered the Mafia associations of ANR's executives, $450,000 in government loans was channeled to the trucking company through a small business loan company and two other corporations.

MALCOLM EPLEY

TIME AND TIDE — When you woke up this morning, it was an hour later than it was . . . I suppose this should be a reminder to set the clock ahead an hour if you didn't do it last night. But, as sometimes happens, if there's some scheduled event today you'd rather miss, forget the time shift until the event is over. This is one day when people are forgiven for being late or not making it . . . But don't try to use the excuse tomorrow.

In an age of preposterous double talk, statements made by North Korean spokesmen about Pres. Nixon's purposes have to rate right up there for asininity. They say Nixon wants to create a tense situation and bring on another war . . . Would anybody believe that when the Pres. is trying painfully to extricate the country from one unhappy war experience he'd be working at the same to get us into another of the same type? . . . Plausibility has never been a trademark of Red propaganda.

As for the Viet war, people getting letters from our men over there note a sharp change in tone. One Paramount mother has just heard from her Marine officer son who heretofore has seen purpose in the war and was dedicated to it. "I'm tired of fighting a political war," he wrote. "If we can't fight to win, we ought to get out." . . . We can only hope that the morale problem, during the negotiation period and the approach to peace, can be as bad on the other side as on ours.

FOAM AND FROTH — There's evidently no limit to the cleverness of George Wiesner, the fellow who suggested the other day that we bomb Viet with concrete as a means of winning the war. When somebody suggested digging up that concrete blanket on the whole country would be a problem when the people want to go back to agriculture, he quipped: "That's easy. Just call in the gas and water companies' street crews. They'll make quick work of it."

Visiting the NASA layout in Houston, Tex., on a business-pleasure trip down there, L.B. Auto Dealer Jim Gray observed, amid all the fantastically sophisticated equipment, a plain old coffee machine. It wasn't working. The sign on it read: "INOPERATIVE."

While back I questioned here the frequent use of fisticuffs, as indicated in tv westerns and some moderns. I said rather ruefully that I never see anybody fighting that way . . . A friend tells me I should have been at Bixby Park the other day when a couple of gentlemen, in their late seventies, had at it, bloodying each other's noses. Apparent cause of the trouble: A game of chess!

DRIFTWOOD — There's a sharp variance in reports from people who have gone wildflower hunting this season. Several parties told me they drove to Lancaster area in the last few days and saw nothing. Carl Cook counted four poppies, all in somebody's garden . . . but Mrs. Clara Schmidt of Long Beach had better luck. She first went to the Wildflower Information Center at 155 E. Avenue I, Lancaster (county fairgrounds) and got the scoop. They gave her a map which she followed and it put her in sight of fantastic arrays of blossoms.

Meanwhile, my neighbors, Jack and Marilyn Loos, went to Borrego Springs and the Julian country and saw some beauties . . . Guess it's a matter of luck and asking questions.

AT CSLB 'RIGHT WING' CONFERENCE

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Former Maoist Phillip Abbott Luce advised young members of the New Right at Cal-State Long Beach Saturday to organize the "chicken majority" against "the takeover of the New Left totalitarians."

"Strike psychological blows at the New Left," he urged. "Embarrass them, steal their publicity, stop them from taking over buildings. Don't just go looking for a free-for-all."

LUCE, WHO HAS CRUSADED against left-wing militants since defecting from the revolutionary Progressive Labor Party in 1965, addressed the opening session of the college's first Libertarian Conference.

The conference, sponsored by the CSLB Young Americans for Freedom, drew about 250 YAF members, libertarians and students and older members of various "New Right" persuasions.

The blonde-bearded Luce, dressed in old blue jeans and a ski sweater, provided a striking contrast to famed economist Ludwig von Mises, the second speaker, who delivered a scholarly lecture on Capitalism in the style of a European aristocrat.

"It's awfully easy," Luce said, "to be revolutionary on campus—to burn the president's office, take over the cafeteria, urinate in the pools —but it's different when you graduate, have a family and want a job."

"If New Left members really believed in the cause, they'd go fight for North Vietnam," he said. "But that might jeopardize getting government jobs later."

He labelled campus revolutionaries as "Billy Grahams of the left who ask you to trust them" to bring about a better world. Then, he said, they attack guest speakers, take over buildings and shout down anyone who disagrees with them.

"THE NEW LEFT is the greatest organization of bitchers, but they do less than anyone to try to change the system."

He charged that neither administrators nor students "have been standing up to the New

Fair Housing Unit Set for CSLB Needs

An "outpost office" of the local Fair Housing Foundation will function this summer at California State College, Long Beach to assist ethnic minority faculty and students "find housing of their choice" convenient to the campus.

This action — jointly announced by CSLB President Carl W. McIntosh and FHF Chairman Myron Blumberg — follows on the heels of a college advisory board-adopted resolution seeking widespread community help in resolving housing problems.

BECAUSE OF a lack of funds, and since "June 15-Sept. 15 is the period of greatest need," the program initially will be limited to three months, says campus housing chief Frank Bowman, who will be in charge.

Most newly arriving teachers and students seek housing at this time, he adds.

"Although the program is contemplated for only a short time," says Bowman, "we expect it to assist minority-group people obtain suitable housing."

With faculty and student volunteers now being sought to supplement FHF people assigned to a trailer office outpost for the summer, there is a second benefit to be gained, notes Bowman.

"We are particularly hopeful that we can build a reserve of trained volunteer talent to help" in any future, "year-round expansion."

Pointing at a growing need for such assistance, he says that an "ever larger number" among the estimated 100 new faculty and 2,000 students arriving yearly represent minorities. And, "a large number of these do not now have suitable housing."

FAIR HOUSING'S Blumberg said his group is "extremely pleased to join with the college in this cooperative venture. The problem of finding suitable housing is serious but by no means unique to the school . . . The college is to be commended."

In its earlier resolution, the college advisory board noted that "Minority housing is not a problem the college can solve on its own. Assistance from public agencies and private citizens and groups will be needed.

"As the college's link to the community, this board urges all concerned to cooperate with administration, the faculty and students in working out solutions which will assure a continued healthy academic environment in the community." — Ralph Hinman Jr.

Operation Speeds Dental Correction

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A surgical operation that can dramatically speed up orthodontic procedures (tooth-straightening) in adults was described by an eminent British oral surgeon now visiting Long Beach.

The procedure can accomplish in weeks what ordinarily might require months, said the surgeon, John Herbert Hovell, until recently editor of the British Journal of Oral Surgery.

Mr. Hovell (British surgeons are addressed as "mister" instead of doctor) is an orthodontist as well as an oral surgeon, and holds a degree in medicine as well as dentistry.

HE ADDRESSED a special conference on oral surgery Saturday in Orange County Medical Center under the auspices of the Southern California Society of Oral Surgeons.

Mr. Hovell termed the procedure corticotomy and said it is relatively new in England although it has been used on the European continent for years.

The procedure involves cutting the bone around teeth to relieve resistance to tooth movement. Only the compact or cortical bone is cut, he said.

In addition, the orthodontist is asked to see that orthodontic appliances exert heavier force than is customary.

The result is a "remarkly rapid" movement of teeth, Mr. Hovell said in an interview.

"It is five to six times as fast as conventional orthodontics," he said.

The procedure is most commonly used to deal with prominent upper incisors (cutting teeth), he

FOR ROBERT MILES

Teaching Is Its Own Reward

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

"Don't teach just to make a living," says and believes "Golden Apple" recipient Robert S. Miles. "You can make more money outside the profession."

Instead, he says, "Teach because you want to and have to, because it's important to become a part of other people's lives . . ."

Pollyannish? Not so for Robert Miles.

Miles, 42, one of a few remaining faculty members who "opened" the then-brand-new Hoover Junior High School 13 years ago, takes a practical view of his craft and himself.

"You must first recognize," he says in a style reminiscent of a senior instructor counselling an educational recruit, "that you, as a teacher, won't motivate everybody to learn. You must find satisfaction 'working in your own part of the world,'" by helping the helpable, seeking always to reach the seemingly unreachable.

Teaching the individual to survive and function in society has become, for Miles, education's primary goal and responsibility.

Because "people become what they are by accepting or rejecting things around them," the teacher's — and school's — role becomes crucial in this "survival training." Children, after all, spend much of their waking lives in a classroom.

There an emerging generation should learn the values of their civilization and how to relate to others in a larger world. One way to do this: "By always being fair."

"Learning subject matter is of less importance" than mastering the arts of cooperation and responsibility, rather suprisingly says Miles who, in the words of an admiring colleague, "has taught more subjects than anyone I know."

That Miles practices what he preaches is strongly inferred by two sentences lifted from the "Golden Apple" nomination letter:

"He is admired and respected by his fellow teachers, loved and respected by his students. His standards are high and he gives so much of himself to his students that they become highly motivated . . ."

A native of Rochester, N.Y., Miles after World War II Navy duty attended Tulane University, New Orleans, earning there a bachelor's degree in social science, English and Spanish. He later took an M.A. degree in similar fields at State University of New York, Albany.

Although Hoover Junior High has been his basic, single Long Beach assignment for 13 years, he also teaches psychology part-time at City College. Among a wide range of subjects he has instructed here and in the East:

English, Spanish, anthropology, remedial reading, political science, history, philosophy, journalism, drama and mathematics. He has been involved in writing a number of texts, including a recent Social Science framework for California grades 7-9.

On a more recreational side Miles sponsors such student activities as rifle, stamp and debate clubs — plus a scholarship group. A former East Long Beach Little League manager, he is also active in Cub Scout leadership.

The teacher and his wife, Jean, are the parents of four: Jeffrey, 16; David, 14; Barbara, 12, and Alan, 10.

Tape Deck Taken

John Robinson, of 3219 Yearling St., Lakewood, told Long Beach police Saturday that while his car was in a parking lot on Henry Ford Street, burglars forced open a windwing and took a tape deck valued at $170.

First 'Golden Apple' Award to Instructor

The first "Golden Apple Award" honoring personal and professional excellence by Long Beach teachers today belongs to Robert S. Miles of the Hoover Junior High School faculty.

The inscribed statuette and desk pen was presented to this 20-year teaching veteran by Daniel H. Ridder, co-publisher of The Independent, Press-Telegram, and Marc D. Ross, Teachers Association of Long Beach (TALB) president.

Miles — as other local educators to be similarly honored every month of the school year by TALB and the I,P-T — was nominated and selected by his peers.

HIS NAME and qualifications first were submitted by a colleague in a letter which reads, in part:

"Bob is a hard taskmaster in his classroom. He expects the best from his students -- and gets it."

Final selection was made by the professional organization's directors after lengthy deliberation of more than a dozen nominees. TALB's membership includes more than 90 per cent of all local teachers.

Two more "golden apples" are to be presented before classes close in June.

2 Marines, GI Die in Vietnam

The Defense Department Saturday released the names of 20 more American servicemen killed in Vietnam, including the following from the Long Beach area:

Army Sgt. John R. Spear, whose widow, Alice, resides at 1785 Laurel Place, Anaheim; Marine 1st Lt. Allan V. Barr, whose widow, Donna, lives at 14451-C Red Hill Ave., Santa Ana; and Marine Pfc. Jonathan W. Allman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Allman, of 401 E. Pinehurst Ave., La Habra.

L.B. Center Dedication Festivities

Dedication of the East Long Beach Neighborhood Center will highlight four days of activities at the facility — including an open house and a special Cinco de Mayo observance.

The public is invited to attend the dedication at 1:30 p.m., next Sunday at the center, 2334-2338 E. Anaheim St.

Congressman Craig Hosmer will lead public officials taking part in the dedication ceremony.

OPEN HOUSE at the center begins Friday, May 2, and extends through Monday, May 5. Activities will include programs of interest to all groups.

A teen dance will be held from 7:30 p.m. to midnight Friday. A highlight of the event will be the naming and crowning of "Miss East Long Beach of 1969-1970."

On Monday, May 5, there will be held a free clothing day for needy families. Distribution will be started at 9:30 a.m. and continue to 6 p.m.

Ernest Faulkner Jr., center director, said: "It is hoped open house activities will be lots of fun and interest to all. If you have not visited our center yet, this is the chance to get acquainted."

Additional information about the open house is available at 433-5761.

WHILE BEAUTIFIERS HOLLER

Carson's Sanitation Dilemma

By BOB ANDREW
Staff Writer

Rubbish, politics and conflicting land uses make a curious legal mixture for the Carson City Council to sort through Monday night as they continue a public hearing on granting a conditional use permit for a refuse transfer station.

The permit was authorized by the planning commission to allow Western Refuse Co. to build the unit at their property on Francisco Street between Main and Figueroa Streets subject to 48 restrictions.

An adjacent property owner appealed the 8-to-1 decision to the council which heard three hours of testimony on April 14 before continuing the matter for two weeks while they inspected the site.

Here is the background to the emotion-charged issue:

When the city incorporated a little over a year ago, a prime issue was the prohibition of any future land fill dumps in the area which had been a garbage can for Los Angeles County for decades. Since incorporation, extensive efforts have been made by citizens and the council to beautify the area.

Shortly before incorporation, Western Refuse Co. was granted a permit—with 11 restrictions—for the transfer station. That permit became void when the city took jurisdiction and a new application was made.

With voters opposing dumps, the application automatically became a potentially explosive political issues, but the explosion has not yet gone off.

To date 80 persons have signed a petition against the transfer station—they've called it a "dump"—and the East Carson Home Owners have formally opposed it on the ground that "no matter what you call it, it's still a dump."

By definition, however, it is not. A dump is an area where trash is permanently deposited on or into the ground. A transfer station is an area where trash is switched from small trucks to one large truck for hauling elsewhere.

Los Angeles County Sanitation Districts are now conducting a study of solid waste disposal facilities in the southern portion of the county. Although the report is not in final form, according to the district engineer Frank Dare, it will call for more than half-a-dozen transfer stations to be built at approximately

TIME AND TIDE — When you woke up this morning, it was an hour later than it was . . . I suppose this should be a reminder to set the clock ahead an hour if you didn't do it last night. But, as sometimes happens, if there's some scheduled event today you'd rather miss, forget the time shift until the event is over. This is one day when people are forgiven for being late or not making it . . . But don't try to use the excuse tomorrow.

In an age of preposterous double talk, statements made by North Korea spokesmen about Pres. Nixon's purposes have to rate right up there for asininity. They say Nixon wants to create a tense situation and bring on another war . . . Would anybody believe that when the Pres. is trying painfully to extricate the country from one unhappy war experience he'd be working at the same to get us into another of the same type? . . . Plausibility has never been a trademark of Red propaganda.

As for the Viet war, people getting letters from our men over there note a sharp change in tone. One Paramount mother has just heard from her Marine officer son who heretofore has seen purpuse in the war and was dedicated to it. "I'm tired of fighting a political war," he wrote. "If we can't fight to win, we ought to get out." . . . We can only hope that the morale problem, during the negotiation period and the approach to peace, can be as bad on the other side as on ours.

FOAM AND FROTH — There's evidently no limit to the cleverness of George Wiesner, the fellow who suggested the other day that we bomb Viet with concrete as a means of winning the war. When somebody suggested digging up that concrete blanket on the whole country would be a problem when the people want to go back to agriculture, he quipped: "That's easy. Just call in the gas and water companies' street crews. They'll make quick work of it."

Visiting the NASA layout in Houston, Tex., on a business-pleasure trip down there, L.B. Auto Dealer Jim Gray observed, amid all the fantastically sophisticated equipment, a plain old coffee machine. It wasn't working. The sign on it read: "INOPERATIVE."

While back I questioned here the frequent use of fisticuffs, as indicated in tv westerns and some moderns. I said rather ruefully that I never see anybody fighting that way . . . A friend tells me I should have been at Bixby Park the other day when a couple of gentlemen, in their late seventies, had at it, bloodying each other's noses. Apparent cause of the trouble: A game of chess!

DRIFTWOOD — There's a sharp variance in reports from people who have gone wildflower hunting this season. Several parties told me they drove to Lancaster area in the last few days and saw nothing. Carl Cook counted four poppies, all in somebody's garden . . . But Mrs. Clar Schmidt of Long Beach had better luck. She first went to the Wildflower Information Center at 155 E. Avenue I, Lancaster (county fairgrounds) and got the scoop. They gave her a map which she followed and it put her in sight of fantastic arrays of blossoms.

Meanwhile, my neighbors, Jack and Marilyn Loos, went to Borrego Springs and the Julian country and saw some beauties . . . Guess it's a matter of luck and asking questions.

AT CSLB 'RIGHT WING' CONFERENCE

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Former Maoist Phillip Abbott Luce advised young members of the New Right at Cal-State Long Beach Saturday to organize the "chicken majority" against "the takeover of the New Left tolitarians.'

"Strike psychological blows at the New Left," he urged. "Embarrass them, steal their publicity, stop them from taking over buildings. Don't just go looking for a free-for-all."

LUCE, WHO HAS CRUSADED against left-wing militants since defecting from the revolutionary Progressive Labor Party in 1965, addressed the opening session of the college's first libertarian Conference.

The conference, sponsored by the CSLB Young Americans for Freedom, drew about 250 YAF members, libertarians and students and older members of various "New Right" persuasions.

The blonde-bearded Luce, dressed in old blue jeans and a ski sweater, provided a striking contrast to famed economist Ludwig von Mises, the second speaker, who delivered a scholarly lecture on Capitalism in the style of a European aristocrat.

"It's awfully easy," Luce said, "to be revolutionary on campus—to burn the president's office, take over the cafeteria, urinate in the pools —but it's different when you graduate, have a family and want a job."

"If New Left members really believed in the cause, they'd go fight for North Vietnam," he said. "But that might jeopardize getting government jobs later."

He labelled campus revolutionaries as "Billy Grahams of the left who ask you to trust them" to bring about a better world. Then, he said, they attack guest speakers, take over buildings and shout down anyone who disagrees with them.

"THE NEW LFEFT is the greatest organization of bitchers, but they do less than anyone to try to change the system."

He charged that neither administrators nor students "have been standing up to the New

Fair Housing Unit Set for CSLB Needs

An "outpost office" of the local Fair Housing Foundation will function this summer at California State College, Long Beach to assist ethnic minority faculty and students "find housing of their choice" convenient to the campus.

This action — jointly announced by CSLB President Carl W. McIntosh and FHF Chairman Myron Blumberg — follows on the heels of a college advisory board-adopted resolution seeking widespread community help in resolving housing problems.

BECAUSE OF a lack of funds, and since "June 15-Sept. 15 is the period of greatest need," the program initially will be limited to three months, says campus housing chief Frank Bowman, who will be in charge.

Most newly arriving teachers and students seek housing at this time, he adds.

"Although the program is contemplated for only a short time," says Bowman, "we expect it to assist minority-group people obtain suitable housing."

With faculty and student volunteers now being sought to supplement FHF people assigned to a trailer office outpost for the summer, there is a second benefit to be gained, notes Bowman.

"We are particularly hopeful that we can build a reserve of trained volunteer talent to help" in any future, "year-round expansion."

Pointing at a growing need for such assistance, he says that an "ever larger number" among the estimated 100 new faculty and 2,000 students arriving yearly represent minorities. And, "a large number of these do not now have suitable housing."

FAIR HOUSING'S Blumberg said his group is "extremely pleased to join with the college in this cooperative venture. The problem of finding suitable housing is serious but by no means unique to the school . . . The college is to be commended."

In its earlier resolution, the college advisory board noted that "Minority housing is not a problem the college can solve on its own. Assistance from public agencies and private citizens and groups will be needed.

"As the college's link to the community, this board urges all concerned to cooperate with administration, the faculty and students in working out solutions which will assure a continued healthy academic environment in the community." — Ralph Hinman Jr.

Operation Speeds Dental Correction

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

A surgical operation that can dramatically speed up orthodontic procedures (tooth-straightening) in adults was described by an eminent British oral surgeon now visiting Long Beach.

The procedure can accomplish in weeks what ordinarily might require months, said the surgeon, John Herbert Hovell, until recently editor of the British Journal of Oral Surgery.

Mr. Hovell (British surgeons are addressed as "mister" instead of doctor) is an orthodontist as well as an oral surgeon, and holds a degree in medicine as well as dentistry.

HE ADDRESSED a special conference on oral surgery Saturday in Orange County Medical Center under the auspices of the Southern California Society of Oral Surgeons.

Mr. Hovell termed the procedure corticotomy and said it is relatively new in England although it has been used on the European continent for years.

The procedure involves cutting the bone around teeth to relieve resistance to tooth movement. Only the compact or cortical bone is cut, he said.

In addition, the orthodontist is asked to see that orthodontic appliances exert heavier force than is customary.

The result is a "remarkly rapid" movement of teeth, Mr. Hovell said in an interview.

"It is five to six times as fast as conventional orthodontics," he said.

The procedure is most commonly used to deal with prominent upper incisors (cutting teeth), he

FOR ROBERT MILES

Teaching Is Its Own Reward

By RALPH HINMAN JR.
Education Editor

"Don't teach just to make a living," says and believes "Golden Apple" recipient Robert S. Miles. "You can make more money outside the profession."

Instead, he says, "Teach because you want to and have to, because it's important to become a part of other people's lives . . ."

Pollyannish? Not so for Robert Miles.

Miles, 42, one of a few remaining faculty members who "opened" the then-brand-new Hoover Junior High School 13 years ago, takes a practical view of his craft and himself.

"You must first recognize," he says in a style reminiscent of a senior instructor counselling an educational recruit, "that you, as a teacher, won't motivate everybody to learn. You must find satisfaction 'working in your own part of the world.' " by helping the helpable, seeking always to reach the seemingly unreachable.

Teaching the individual to survive and function in society has become, for Miles, education's primary goal and responsibility.

Because "people become what they are by accepting or rejecting things around them," the teacher's — and school's — role becomes crucial in this "survival training." Children, after all, spend much of their waking lives in a classroom.

There an emerging generation should learn the values of their civilization and how to relate to others in a larger world. One way to do this: "By always being fair."

"Learning subject matter is of less importance" than mastering the arts of cooperation and responsibility, rather suprisingly says Miles who, in the words of an admiring colleague, "has taught more subjects than anyone I know."

That Miles practices what he preaches is strongly inferred by two sentences lifted from the "Golden Apple" nomination letter:

"He is admired and respected by his fellow teachers, loved and respected by his students. His standards are high and he gives so much of himself to his students that they become highly motivated . . ."

A native of Rochester, N.Y., Miles after World War II Navy duty attended Tulane University, New Orleans, earning there a bachelor's degree in social science, English and Spanish. He later took an M.A. degree in similar fields at State University of New York, Albany.

Although Hoover Junior High has been his basic, single Long Beach assignment for 13 years, he also teaches psychology part-time at City College. Among a wide range of subjects he has instructed here and in the East:

English, Spanish, anthropology, remedial reading, political science, history, philosophy, journalism, drama and mathematics. He has been involved in writing a number of texts, including a recent Social Science framework for California grades 7-9.

On a more recreational side Miles sponsors such student activities as rifle, stamp and debate clubs — plus a scholarship group. A former East Long Beach Little League manager, he is also active in Cub Scout leadership.

The teacher and his wife, Jean, are the parents of four: Jeffrey, 16; David, 14; Barbara, 12, and Alan, 10.

Tape Deck Taken

John Robinson, of 3219 Yearling St., Lakewood, told Long Beach police Saturday that while his car was in a parking lot on Henry Ford Street, burglars forced open a windwing and took a tape deck valued at $170.

First 'Golden Apple' Award to Instructor

The first "Golden Apple Award" honoring personal and professional excellence by Long Beach teachers today belongs to Robert S. Miles of the Hoover Junior High School faculty.

The inscribed statuette and desk pen was presented to this 20-year teaching veteran by Daniel H. Ridder, co-publisher of The Independent, Press-Telegram, and Marc D. Ross, Teachers Association of Long Beach (TALB) president.

Miles -- as other local educators to be similarly honored every month of the school year by TALB and the I.P-T — was nominated and selected by his peers.

HIS NAME and qualifications first were submitted by a colleague in a letter which reads, in part:

"Bob is a hard taskmaster in his classroom. He expects the best from his students — and gets it."

Final selection was made by the professional organization's directors after lengthy deliberation of more than a dozen nominees. TALB's membership includes more than 90 per cent of all local teachers.

Two more "golden apples" are to be presented before classes close in June.

2 Marines GI Die in Vietnam

The Defense Department Saturday released the names of 20 more American servicemen killed in Vietnam, including the following from the Long Beach area:

Army Sgt. John R. Spear, whose widow, Alice, resides at 1785 Laurel Place, Anaheim; Marine 1st Lt. Allan V. Barr, whose widow, Donna, lives at 14451-C Red Hill Ave., Santa Ana; and Marine Pfc. Jonathan W. Allman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Allman, of 401 E. Pinehurst Ave., La Habra.

L.B. Center Dedication Festivities

Dedication of the East Long Beach Neighborhood Center will highlight four days of activities at the facility — including an open house and a special Cinco de Mayo observance.

The public is invited to attend the dedication at 1:30 p.m., next Sunday at the center, 2334-2338 E. Anaheim St.

Congressman Craig Hosmer will lead public officials taking part in the dedication ceremony.

OPEN HOUSE at the center begins Friday, May 2, and extends through Monday, May 5. Activities will include programs of interest to all groups.

A teen dance will be held from 7:30 p.m. to midnight Friday. A highlight of the event will be the naming and crowning of "Miss East Long Beach of 1969-1970."

On Monday, May 5, there will be held a free clothing day for needy families. Distribution will be started at 9:30 a.m. and continue to 6 p.m.

Ernest Faulkner Jr., center director, said: "It is hoped open house activities will be lots of fun and interest to all. If you have not visited our center yet, this is the chance to get acquainted."

Additional information about the open house is available at 433-5761.

WHILE BEAUTIFIERS HOLLER

Carson's Sanitation Dilemma

By BOB ANDREW
staff Writer

Rubbish, politics and conflicting land uses make a curious legal mixtur cfor the Carson City Council to sort through Monday night as they continue a public hearing on granting a conditional use permit for a refuse transfer station.

The permit was authorized by the planning commission to allow Western Refuse Co. to build the unit at their property on Francisco Street between Main and Figueroa Streets subject to 48 restrictions.

An adjacent property owner appealed the 8-to-1 decision to the council which heard three hours of testimony on April 14 before continuing the matter for two weeks while they inspected the site.

Here is the background to the emotion-charged issue:

When the city incorporated a little over a year ago, a prime issue was the prohibition of any future land fill dumps in the area which had been a garbage can for Los Angeles County for decades. Since incorporation, extensive efforts have been made by citizens and the council to beautify the area.

Shortly before incorporation, Western Refuse Co. was granted a permit—with 11 restrictions—for the transfer station. That permit became void when the city took jurisdiction and a new application was made.

With voters opposing dumps, the application automatically became a potentially explosive political issues, but the explosion has not yet gone off.

To date 80 persons have signed a petition against the transfer station—but labeling it a "dump"—and the East Carson Home Owners have formally opposed it on the ground that "no matter what you call it, it's still a dump."

By definition, however, it is not. A dump is an area where trash is permanently deposited on or into the ground. A transfer station is an area where trash is switched from small trucks to one large truck for hauling elsewhere.

Los Angeles County Sanitation Districts are now conducting a study of solid waste disposal facilities in the southern portion of the county. Although the report is not in final form, according to district engineer Frank Dare, it will call for more than half-a-dozen transfer stations to be built at approximately

Divorce law seems ripe for overhaul

BASIC CHANGES IN California's divorce laws are about to be adopted on the premise that marriages may and should be dissolved without bitterness or blame.

Even the word "divorce" will vanish from courtrooms where this experiment in peaceful parting is carried forward.

Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, won a 63-10 vote of approval for his version of the new legislation. A similar but not identical bill by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, passed the Senate earlier by a 25-14 majority. A compromise measure seems sure to emerge.

ONE PRIMARY purpose is to remove much of the rancor from the break-up of marriage. Neither partner would be found at fault. Under the Hayes bill, grounds for divorce would be reduced to two—incurable insanity and irreconcilable differences. The Grunsky measure would require only a finding that the legitimate objects of matrimony have been destroyed and there is no likelihood the marriage can be saved.

Both bills would shorten the waiting period between the filing of cases and the entering of final decrees. Both provide for substantially equal division of community property.

Both also have the great merit of removing collusion and perjury as commonplaces of most California divorces. Hayes noted that 96 per cent of divorces now granted are on grounds of extreme cruelty. In all these instances testimony must be given as to acts which in many cases never occurred or were no more than a charade.

There is simply no reliable answer to the question whether this legislation will increase the ratio of divorces to marriages. The Grunsky bill would strengthen conciliation procedures; it is preferable to Hayes' measure in that respect.

IN ANY EVENT, the value of marriages is dubious when they have deteriorated to the point of mutual tension and dislike.

Substantial objections may be raised to both bills on religious grounds and because, in some measure, they seem to equate serious grounds, such as adultery, with trivial incidents such as occasional family quarrels.

Some version of the two should be tested, however, with the hope of substituting a humane element for hypocrisy and reproach.

Big stick useful, but talk needed

THE BIG STICK is not an instrument of ideal diplomacy, but it may prove a handy one in the vicinity of the Sea of Japan just the same.

For diplomatic relations between the United States and North Korea are about as bad as they can get, even though representatives of the two countries occasionally speak to one another at Panmunjom.

THE U.S. MIGHT have tempted a rash enemy into further aggression if the President had used half measures to back up his warnings after North Korea shot down an unarmed intelligence plane.

Task Force 71, comprising three attack carriers and 18 other ships, is described as more than twice as strong as the force required to protect future reconnaissance flights.

The rapid formation of so formidable an armada, however, does have a shock value. And that would seem to be the only sort of message that may get through to a little nation.

Yet the very size of the force makes necessary extra skill and care not only in movements at sea but discussions at the conference table, if the latter ever take on a tone of genuine communication.

This country's diplomats should not be swayed by bad advice from allies. Included in this category is South Korea's counsel that the U.S. insist on an "apology."

A GREAT POWER, if it has any sense of responsibility, must impose a certain restraint upon its conduct. It certainly shouldn't care whether a little country like North Korea says it is sorry.

When the formal, verbal diplomacy begins, the U. S. should strive for something more substantial than a show of manners. Eventually the talk must get around to a broad settlement, a treaty supplanting the armistice signed July 27, 1953.

Mayor race is partisan despite law

HORSEFEATHERS may have been the only way the new state Republican chairman could play it. And so on Friday Dennis E. Carpenter asked, on behalf of the executive committee of the Republican State

BOB HOUSER

Central Committee, that official party organizations and party officials not become involved in the nonpartisan Los Angeles mayoralty race between incumbent Sam Yorty and Councilman Tom Bradley.

In the context of today's rebellion against hypocrisy, for "telling it like it is" and against artful pussy-foot, the argument comes out horsefeathers. In truth, the legally nonpartisan L.A. contest has become very partisan indeed and the people seem not only to like it that way but are fascinated by it. In a sea of apathy, that's not all bad.

Chairman Carpenter, a very sharp young man, colored most of the villains "Democrat" in his press release, allowing the Republican reader to assume whatever individual guilt he chose without having been as severely chastised as the Democrats.

FOR EXAMPLE, Carpenter found the involvement of prominent Democrats regrettable and "dangerous to our entire system of nonpartisan local government." Of course the line applies to Republicans too, but Carpenter's language let their saddle ride lightly.

He did mention Republican Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois by name, noting that Percy's favor for, but not endorsement of Tom Bradley, might be construed as endorsement. Of course it could, because it is — by definition.

For unofficial L.A. Republicans there is excuse for them to back one of the two Democratic candidates because no Republican is in the race. That excuses men such as Henry Salvatori, a conservative-plus mentor and financial backer of Gov. Ronald Reagan, for taking a command post in the Yorty camp.

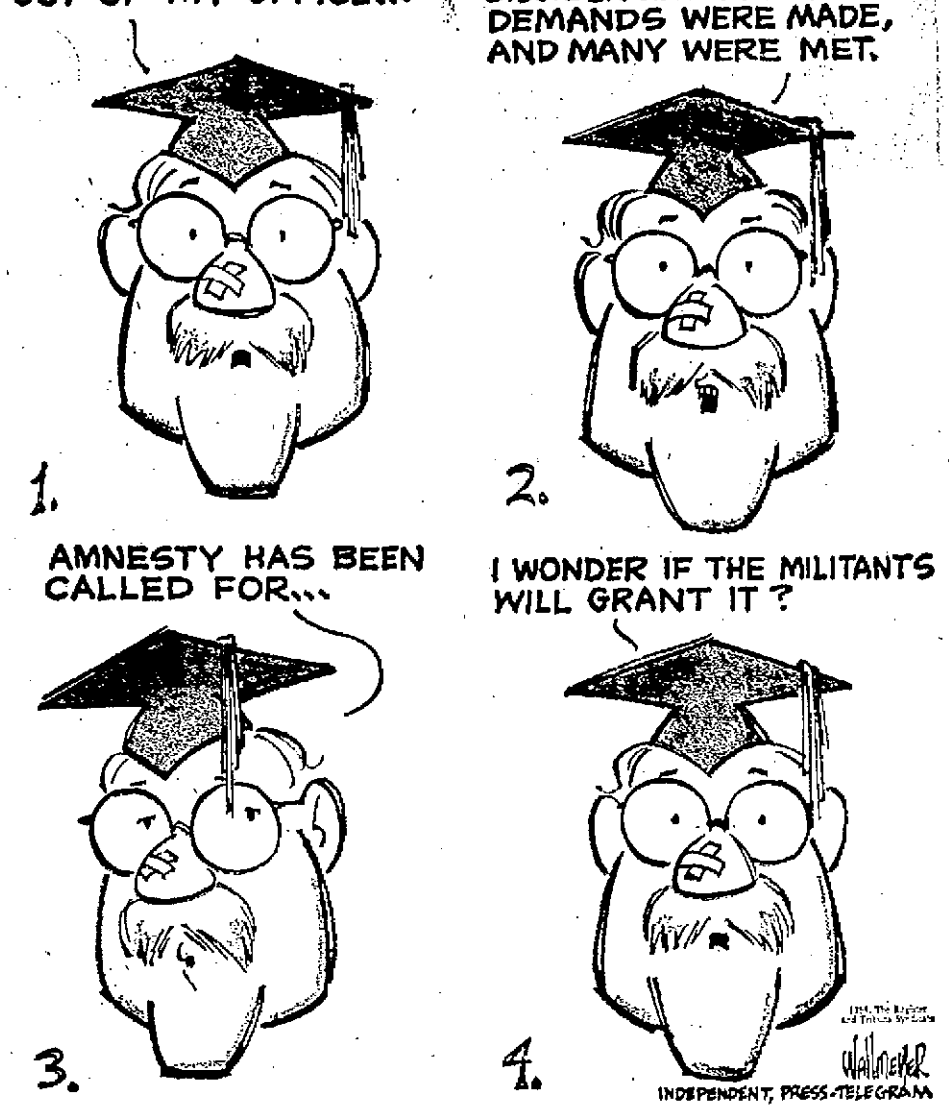

Party people of both sides, and to an increasing degree the public, are inclined to make their choices on who is most Republican and most Democratic — most right and most left. The political birds flocking to the two banners give a reading the public might not otherwise discern.

THUS YOU FIND Salvatori, representing the Republican right, attaching to Yorty. But the moderate Republicans such as primary contender Alphonzo Bell, a congressman, and former gubernatorial candidate Laughlin Waters and Sen. Charles Percy are aligning with Tom Bradley.

It can hardly be doubted that Democrats are bending the nonpartisan aspect of the race more out of shape than Republicans. Their great movement for Bradley is strictly a partisan move because they simply do not believe Yorty comes close to being a Democrat.

This fact was most apparent in three Democratic state conventions within the past month. The only Yorty apologist on any of those podiums was Democratic National Committeewoman Carmen Warschaw and she was booed on sight.

Come to think of it, there was one other obvious Yorty backer at one of the Democratic conventions. It was a fellow wearing a green lapel button which said, "Help save Willard Murray's Job." Murray is a Yorty aide. The man wearing and passing out those buttons — Willard Murray.

New Korean war? Could be

Register and Tribune Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — War again in Korea? This possibility cannot be dismissed lightly because of its irrationality. Lately the number of incidents at the demilitarized zone, aside from the shooting down of a U.S. naval intelligence plane, has increased. North Korean representatives at the Korean military armistice meetings have become even more offensive. Pyongyang radio has become more strident. Threats of an invasion of the south have increased.

The North Korean people are being told in the communist press that the EC-121 reconnaissance plane invaded North Korean air space, revealing "once again the true brigandish nature of the scoundrels who are mad for war and aggression." The United States is pictured as "recklessly and heinously" scheming to provoke a new war in Korea.

THE NEWSPAPER Nodong Sinmun states: "The heinous military provocations of the U.S. imperialists against the northern half of the republic have numbered 2,000 along the demilitarized zone in the past year. Owing to this, not a day passes without the sound of gunfire being heard along the military demarcation line."

In provocation of a new war, it is stated, "the U.S. imperialists continue to augment their aggressive armed forces and their puppet army troops, bringing various kinds of new weapons and war supplies into South Korea on a large scale and staging military exercises almost daily while expanding military facilities, airfields, ports, and strategic roads. Recently, the U.S. imperialists staged a provocative military exercise, so called Focus Retina, all over South Korea, plunging South Korea into a war atmosphere, reeking the land with powder and bringing on a war hysteria."

The people of the north are being told that they must arm themselves more thoroughly under the leadership of their "ever-victorious, iron-willed, ingenious general," Premier Kim Il-song "so that we can rush into a decisive war to destroy and annihilate the enemy whenever called upon by the party and the leader."

THE HARANGUE of hate goes on day after day against the "sworn enemies" of the North Korean people; the hearts of true patriots must burn with irrepressible hatred for the imperialist aggressors.

What the average North Korean hears, therefore, must lead him to believe that the United States has his country under seige and the people's government has no alternative to striking down the aggressor before he invades the north.

That "peerless patriot and genius of military strategy," Comrade Kim Il-song, may very well strike, it is believed in Washington, whenever he is convinced he is strong enough or the United States is weak-willed enough, and with very little regard for the fact that the Soviet Union no more than the United States wants another war in Korea. This is what President Nixon had in mind when he said that the government of North Korea is completely out of control of either the Soviet Union or communist China.

This explains also why President Nixon sent a major task force into the Sea of Japan and not merely for the protection of renewed reconnaissance flights but for added protection of the 56,000 American soldiers still in South Korea 18 years after cease fire negotiations began.

SHOULD North Korea now decide that the United States, after its experience in Vietnam, had lost its will to stay in Asia, President Nixon will be faced with very grave decisions. This would be no war permitting a slow buildup of forces to cope with widespread guerrilla and irregular activities, but a war engaging at the outset large conventional forces.

We have devoted a generation to building up the forces of South Korea to the point where they should be more than equal to repelling an invasion from the north. They are judged to be more than equal to this requirement now, and South Korean troops have given a good account of themselves in South Vietnam.

But the American troops are there and because their numbers are relatively few they would have to rely in the first instance on the main force of the South Korean Army and Air Force as supplemented by the task force in the Sea of Japan.

In view of the wildness and unpredictability of the North Koreans the general outlook is not regarded as very inviting. That prospect is not improved by the way the communist government has used the EC-121 incident, following the Pueblo incident, to fire up the North Korean people for a war of annihilation against the Americans.

Let's bring back the good old wars

CONGRESSMAN Mendel Rivers and other fighting men on Capitol Hill are demanding vengeance on the North Koreans for shooting down one of our secret spy planes off their coastline.

"An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth!" they thunder.

And I agree. We should shoot down the very next North Korean spy plane we catch flying off our coastline.

TRUE, any act of retaliation may lead to war. But Congressman Rivers and I are not afraid. In fact, refighting the Korean War might be a very good idea.

For one thing, it would get us out of the Vietnam War. We couldn't fight both. As our top military men have warned us time and again: "We can never afford to have American boys bogged down in two land wars in Asia at the same time."

But the public, though sick and tired of this Vietnam War, would never approve of abjectly withdrawing our bogged-down troops — not unless we sent them off to get bogged down in a new and better war someplace else. Think of the enthusiasm a new and better war would drum up.

And here's our golden opportunity.

OF COURSE, the Korean War wouldn't be exactly a new war. But remember that the first time it ended in a tie. So we could think of it now as a sort of a "sudden-death overtime" war. That's always very exciting.

And if not a new war, it certainly was a better one. Fewer casualties, far lower costs and a much shorter duration.

Moreover, comparatively speaking, it had quality. Our allies around the world, instead of condemning us, rooted for our side. The U.N., instead of looking the other way, was right there in our front-line trenches.

And we actually had front-line trenches! And flanking maneuvers! And pincer attacks! And advances and retreats!

It was an exciting war to follow in the newspapers. You could just glance at the battle maps and tell who was winning and who was losing. Those were the days.

And the enemy had real tanks and real big guns and wore real uniforms. They actually looked like real soldiers. So when you saw one of them get shot in the head you didn't feel so bad.

There's no question our generals would far prefer to re-fight a good, old war like that.

True, we didn't win. So we were deprived of a victory celebration, which is the very best part of any war. But we didn't lose either. And no one in his right mind these days would ever hope to win a land war in Asia.

BUT AS LONG AS we are going to get bogged down in Asian land wars, common sense dictates that we carefully pick the very best possible Asian land war to get bogged down in.

So the next time you catch a North Korean spy plane flying along our coastline secretly listening to our daytime radio programs, shout, "This is for Mendel Rivers!" and shoot it down.

Who knows, with luck we might bring back World War II. That was a great one.

They're pushing for top jobs in the VA

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Veterans of Foreign Wars apparently has a head start over its arch-rival veterans' organization, the American Legion, in a race to make their man director of the Veterans Administration.

Capitol Hill insiders say Andy Borg of Superior, Wis., former national commander of the VFW, has the inside track as the Nixon Administration's choice for the job, but Don Johnson of Iowa, former national commander of the American Legion, isn't far behind.

Nixon also is said to be considering recalling Summer Whittier, VA director in the Eisenhower Administration, to fill the vacancy created last week when Democrat William J. Driver was forced out as VA director by congressional Republicans.

The GOP accused Driver of excessive political loyalty but they're making it clear they would like the same kind of party loyalty from the new VA director. Neither of the three current candidates, incidentally, is considered highly partisan politically, although all three are Republicans.

SEN. EUGENE McCarthy is hard at work on his 1968 campaign memoirs, scheduled for publication this summer. A Capitol Hill wag suggested that the Minnesotan take advantage of a current best-seller and call his book, "McCarthy's Complaint."

CALIFORNIA authorities seeking to close the Mexican border to minors are facing an apparently insurmountable legal barrier.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., last week reported receiving resolutions from 92 golden state city councils asking federal legislation to close the border to youngsters in hopes of stemming the flow of narcotics from south of the border.

Murphy dutifully referred the communications to the Subcommittee on Health and Drug Abuse, which plans to hold hearings on the problem within the next two months.

But the Justice Dept. already has advised the subcommittee that closing of the border to any class of Americans, regardless of their age, most likely is unconstitutional.

Authorities have been attempting to impede the visits of teenagers to bordertown cesspools by stopping them and threatening to call their parents and advise them of their offspring's whereabouts. This has been done without fanfare because many government lawyers believe that this, too, is an unconstitutional impediment to travel.

The only legal solution, these lawyers believe, would be closing the border to everyone — an alternative that might not be politically popular.

Divorce law seems ripe for overhaul

BASIC CHANGES IN California's divorce laws are about to be adopted on the premise that marriages may and should be dissolved without bitterness or blame.

Even the word "divorce" will vanish from courtrooms where this experiment in peaceful parting is carried forward.

Assemblyman James A. Hayes, R-Long Beach, won a 63-10 vote of approval for his version of the new legislation. A similar but not identical bill by Sen. Donald L. Grunsky, R-Watsonville, passed the Senate earlier by a 25-14 majority. A compromise measure seems sure to emerge.

ONE PRIMARY purpose is to remove much of the rancor from the break-up of marriage. Neither partner would be found at fault. Under the Hayes bill, grounds for divorce would be reduced to two—incurable insanity and irreconcilable differences. The Grunsky measure would require only a finding that the legitimate objects of matrimony have been destroyed and there is no likelihood the marriage can be saved.

Both bills would shorten the waiting period between the filing of cases and the entering of final decrees. Both provide for substantially equal division of community property.

Both also have the great merit of removing collusion and perjury as commonplaces of most California divorces. Hayes noted that 96 per cent of divorces now granted are on grounds of extreme cruelty. In all these instances testimony must be given as to acts which in many cases never occurred or were no more than a charade.

There is simply no reliable answer to the question whether this legislation will increase the ratio of divorces to marriages. The Grunsky bill would strengthen conciliation procedures; it is preferable to Hayes' measure in that respect.

IN ANY EVENT, the value of marriages is dubious when they have deteriorated to the point of mutual tension and dislike.

Substantial objections may be raised to both bills on religious grounds and because, in some measure, they seem to equate serious grounds, such as adultery, with trivial incidents such as occasional family quarrels.

Some version of the two should be tested, however, with the hope of substituting a humane element for hypocrisy and reproach.

Big stick useful, but talk needed

THE BIG STICK is not an instrument of ideal diplomacy, but it may prove a handy one in the vicinity of the Sea of Japan just the same.

For diplomatic relations between the United States and North Korea are about as bad as they can get, even though representatives of the two countries occasionally speak to one another at Panmunjom.

THE U.S. MIGHT have tempted a rash enemy into further aggression if the President had used half measures to back up his warnings after North Korea shot down an unarmed intelligence plane.

Task Force 71, comprising three attack carriers and 18 other ships, is described as more than twice as strong as the force required to protect future reconnaissance flights.

The rapid formation of so formidable an armada, however, does have a shock value. And that would seem to be the only sort of message that may get through to a little nation.

Yet the very size of the force makes necessary extra skill and care not only in movements at sea but discussions at the conference table, if the latter ever take on a tone of genuine communication.

This country's diplomats should not be swayed by bad advice from allies. Included in this category is South Korea's counsel that the U.S. insist on an "apology."

A GREAT POWER, if it has any sense of responsibility, must impose a certain restraint upon its conduct. It certainly shouldn't care whether a little country like North Korea says it is sorry.

When the formal, verbal diplomacy begins, the U. S. should strive for something more substantial than a show of manners. Eventually the talk must get around to a broad settlement, a treaty supplanting the armistice signed July 27, 1953.

Mayor race is partisan despite law

BOB HOUSER

HORSEFEATHERS may have been the only way the new state Republican chairman could play it. And so on Friday Dennis E. Carpenter asked, on behalf of the executive committee of the Republican State Central Committee, that official party organizations and party officials not become involved in the nonpartisan Los Angeles mayoralty race between incumbent Sam Yorty and Councilman Tom Bradley.

In the context of today's rebellion against hypocrisy, for "telling it like it is" and against artful pussy-foot, the argument comes out horsefeathers. In truth, the legally nonpartisan L.A. contest has become very partisan indeed and the people seem not only to like it that way but are fascinated by it. In a sea of apathy, that's not all bad.

Chairman Carpenter, a very sharp young man, colored most of the villains "Democrat" in his press release, allowing the Republican reader to assume whatever individual guilt he chose without having been as severely chastised as the Democrats.

FOR EXAMPLE, Carpenter found the involvement of prominent Democrats regrettable and "dangerous to our entire system of nonpartisan local government." Of course the line applies to Republicans too, but Carpenter's language let their saddle ride lightly.

He did mention Republican Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois by name, noting that Percy's favor for, but not endorsement of Tom Bradley, might be construed as endorsement. Of course it could, because it is — by definition.

For unofficial L.A. Republicans there is excuse for them to back one of the two Democratic candidates because no Republican is in the race. That excuses men such as Henry Salvatori, a conservative-plus mentor and financial backer of Gov. Ronald Reagan, for taking a command post in the Yorty camp.

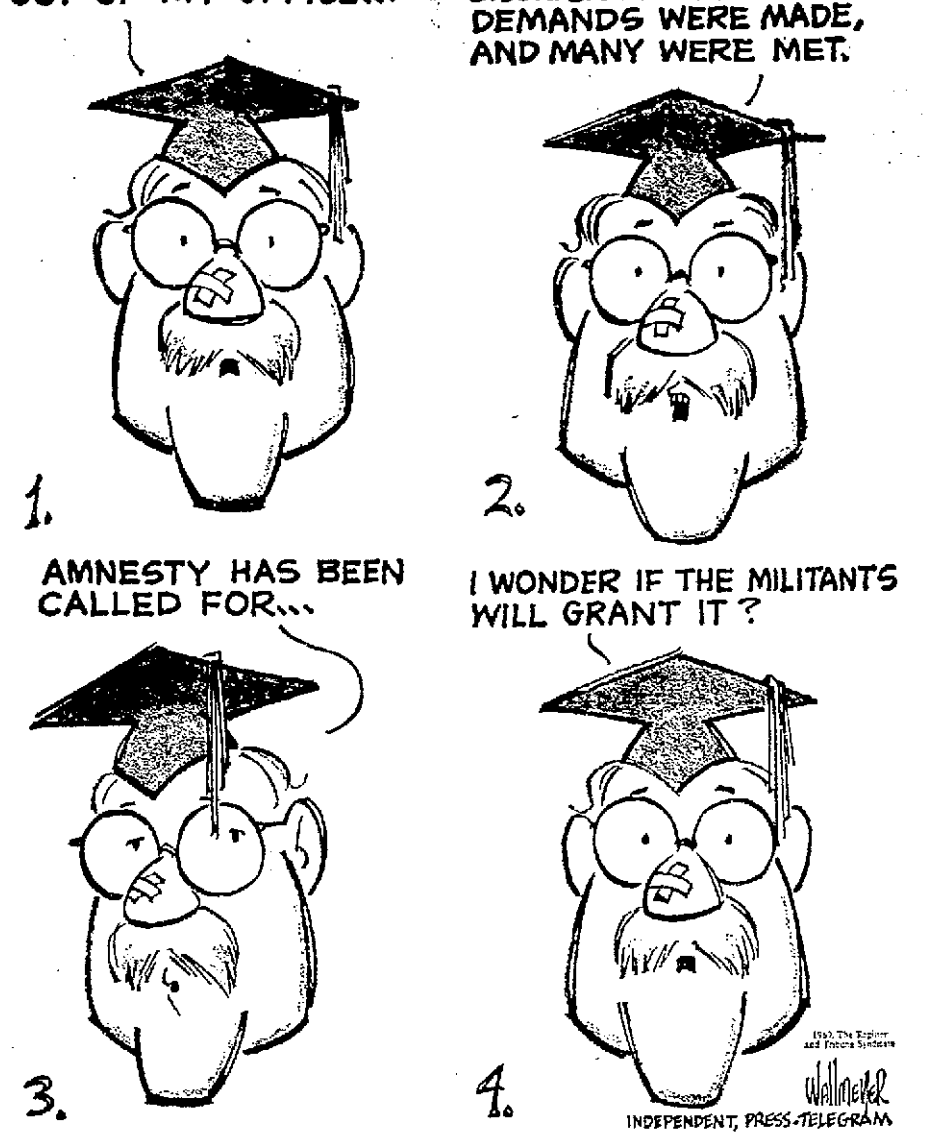

Party people of both sides, and to an increasing degree the public, are inclined to make their choices on who is most Republican and most Democratic — most right and most left. The political birds flocking to the two banners give a reading the public might not otherwise discern.

THUS YOU FIND Salvatori, representing the Republican right, attaching to Yorty. But the moderate Republicans such as primary contender Alphonzo Bell, a congressman, and former gubernatorial candidate Laughlin Waters and Sen. Charles Percy are aligning with Tom Bradley.

It can hardly be doubted that Democrats are bending the nonpartisan aspect of the race more out of shape than Republicans. Their great movement for Bradley is strictly a partisan move because they simply do not believe Yorty comes close to being a Democrat.

This fact was most apparent in three Democratic state conventions within the past month. The only Yorty apologist on any of those podiums was Democratic National Committeewoman Carmen Warschaw and she was booed on sight.

Come to think of it, there was one other obvious Yorty backer at one of the Democratic conventions. It was a fellow wearing a green lapel button which said, "Help save Willard Murray's Job." Murray is a Yorty aide. The man wearing and passing out those buttons — Willard Murray.

New Korean war? Could be

Register and Tribune Service

WASHINGTON, D. C. — War again in Korea? This possibility cannot be dismissed lightly because of its irrationality. Lately the number of incidents at the demilitarized zone, aside from the shooting down of a U.S. naval intelligence plane, has increased. North Korean representatives at the Korean military armistice meetings have become even more offensive. Pyongyang radio has become more strident. Threats of an invasion of the south have increased.

The North Korean people are being told in the communist press that the EC-121 reconnaissance plane invaded North Korean air space, revealing "once again the true brigandish nature of the scoundrels who are mad for war and aggression." The United States is pictured as "recklessly and heinously" scheming to provoke a new war in Korea.

THE NEWSPAPER Nodong Sinmun states: "The heinous military provocations of the U.S. imperialists against the northern half of the republic have numbered 2,000 along the demilitarized zone in the past year. Owing to this, not a day passes without the sound of gunfire being heard along the military demarcation line."

In provocation of a new war, it is stated, "the U.S. imperialists continue to augment their aggressive armed forces and their puppet army troops, bringing various kinds of new weapons and war supplies into South Korea on a large scale and staging military exercises almost daily while expanding military facilities, airfields, ports, and strategic roads. Recently, the U.S. imperialists staged a provocative military exercise, so called Focus Retina, all over South Korea, plunging South Korea into a war atmosphere, reeking the land with powder and bringing on a war hysteria."

The people of the north are being told that they must arm themselves more thoroughly under the leadership of their "ever-victorious, iron-willed, ingenious general," Premier Kim Il-song "so that we can rush into a decisive war to destroy and annihilate the enemy whenever called upon by the party and the leader."

THE HARANGUE of hate goes on day after day against the "sworn enemies" of the North Korean people; the hearts of true patriots must burn with irrepressible hatred for the imperialist aggressors.

What the average North Korean hears, therefore, must lead him to believe that the United States has his country under seige and the people's government has no alternative to striking down the aggressor before he invades the north.

That "peerless patriot and genius of military strategy," Comrade Kim Il-song, may very well strike, it is believed in Washington, whenever he is convinced he is strong enough or the United States is weak-willed enough, and with very little regard for the fact that the Soviet Union no more than the United States wants another war in Korea. This is what President Nixon had in mind when he said that the government of North Korea is completely out of control of either the Soviet Union or communist China.

This explains also why President Nixon sent a major task force into the Sea of Japan and not merely for the protection of renewed reconnaissance flights but for added protection of the 56,000 American soldiers still in South Korea 18 years after cease fire negotiations began.

SHOULD North Korea now decide that the United States, after its experience in Vietnam, had lost its will to stay in Asia, President Nixon will be faced with very grave decisions. This would be no war permitting a slow buildup of forces to cope with widespread guerrilla and irregular activities, but a war engaging at the outset large conventional forces.

We have devoted a generation to building up the forces of South Korea to the point where they should be more than equal to repelling an invasion from the north. They are judged to be more than equal to this requirement now, and South Korean troops have given a good account of themselves in South Vietnam.

But the American troops are there and because their numbers are relatively few they would have to rely in the first instance on the main force of the South Korean Army and Air Force as supplemented by the task force in the Sea of Japan.

In view of the wildness and unpredictability of the North Koreans the general outlook is not regarded as very inviting. That prospect is not improved by the way the communist government has used the EC-121 incident, following the Pueblo incident, to fire up the North Korean people for a war of annihilation against the Americans.

Let's bring back the good old wars

CONGRESSMAN Mendel Rivers and other fighting men on Capitol Hill are demanding vengeance on the North Koreans for shooting down one of our secret spy planes off their coastline.

"An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth!" they thunder.

And I agree. We should shoot down the very next North Korean spy plane we catch flying off our coastline.

TRUE, any act of retaliation may lead to war. But Congressman Rivers and I are not afraid. In fact, refighting the Korean War might be a very good idea.

For one thing, it would get us out of the Vietnam War. We couldn't fight both. As our top military men have warned us time and again: "We can never afford to have American boys bogged down in two land wars in Asia at the same time."

But the public, though sick and tired of this Vietnam War, would never approve of abjectly withdrawing our bogged-down troops — not unless we sent them off to get bogged down in a new and better war someplace else. Think of the enthusiasm a new and better war would drum up.

And here's our golden opportunity.

OF COURSE, the Korean War wouldn't be exactly a new war. But remember that the first time it ended in a tie. So we could think of it now as a sort of a "sudden-death overtime" war. That's always very exciting.

ARTHUR HOPPE

And if not a new war, it certainly was a better one. Fewer casualties, far lower costs and a much shorter duration.

Moreover, comparatively speaking, it had quality. Our allies around the world, instead of condemning us, rooted for our side. The U.N., instead of looking the other way, was right there in our front-line trenches.

And we actually had front-line trenches! And flanking maneuvers! And pincer attacks! And advances and retreats!

It was an exciting war to follow in the newspapers. You could just glance at the battle maps and tell who was winning and who was losing. Those were the days.

And the enemy had real tanks and real big guns and wore real uniforms. They actually looked like real soldiers. So when you saw one of them get shot in the head you didn't feel so bad.

There's no question our generals would far prefer to re-fight a good, old war like that.

True, we didn't win. So we were deprived of a victory celebration, which is the very best part of any war. But we didn't lose either. And no one in his right mind these days would ever hope to win a land war in Asia.

BUT AS LONG AS we are going to get bogged down in Asian land wars, common sense dictates that we carefully pick the very best possible Asian land war to get bogged down in.

So the next time you catch a North Korean spy plane flying along our coastline secretly listening to our daytime radio programs, shout, "This is for Mendel Rivers!" and shoot it down.

Who knows, with luck we might bring back World War II. That was a great one.

RUMORS of dissension within the Nixon Administration are being heard. The President wants to know how come Spiro Agnew gets a funnier joke writer than he does.

MANY elderly persons are short on money according to a report issued in Washington, where the rumor that the sea is salt is also being investigated.

FRIENDLY RELATIONS between the federal sisterhood can be strained, as when one state's official bug eats its neighbor's official flower.

SINCE it is sort of secret, we're not clear exactly what function the CIA performs, other than being always handy to blame everything on.

They're pushing for top jobs in the VA

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Veterans of Foreign Wars apparently has a head start over its arch-rival veterans' organization, the American Legion, in a race to make their man director of the Veterans Administration.

CAPITAL CHATTER

Capitol Hill insiders say Andy Borg of Superior, Wis., former national commander of the VFW, has the inside track as the Nixon Administration's choice for the job, but Don Johnson of Iowa, former national commander of the American Legion, isn't far behind.

Nixon also is said to be considering recalling Summer Whittier, VA director in the Eisenhower Administration, to fill the vacancy created last week when Democrat William J. Driver was forced out as VA director by congressional Republicans.

The GOP accused Driver of excessive political loyalty but they're making it clear they would like the same kind of party loyalty from the new VA director. Neither of the three current candidates, incidentally, is considered highly partisan politically, although all three are Republicans.

SEN. EUGENE McCarthy is hard at work on his 1968 campaign memoirs, scheduled for publication this summer. A Capitol Hill wag suggested that the Minnesotan take advantage of a current best-seller and call his book, "McCarthy's Complaint."

CALIFORNIA authorities seeking to close the Mexican border to minors are facing an apparently insurmountable legal barrier.

Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., last week reported receiving resolutions from 92 golden state city councils asking federal legislation to close the border to youngsters in hopes of stemming the flow of narcotics from south of the border.

Murphy dutifully referred the communications to the Subcommittee on Health and Drug Abuse, which plans to hold hearings on the problem within the next two months.

But the Justice Dept. already has advised the subcommittee that closing of the border to any class of Americans, regardless of their age, most likely is unconstitutional.

Authorities have been attempting to impede the visits of teenagers to bordertown cesspools by stopping them and threatening to call their parents and advise them of their offspring's whereabouts. This has been done without fanfare because many government lawyers believe that this, too, is an unconstitutional impediment to travel.

The only legal solution, these lawyers believe, would be closing the border to everyone — an alternative that might not be politically popular.

Cornell gives in to gun-toting militants

By L. A. COLLINS Sr.

THE PAST WEEK has been the worst week in our history as concerns anarchy on our campuses across the nation. When the faculty and president of 100-year-old Cornell University gave in to gun-toting militants it shocked the entire nation. It also encouraged the Students for Democratic Society (SDS) — which is promoting most of the anarchy — to carry on their demonstrations on campuses across the country. A round up of news stories of last week's demonstrations is evidence that there must be strong measures taken to end these violent acts if we are to save our educational system from complete disruption, which is the objective of many of the demonstrations.

It should be recognized that California had less trouble during the week than in the past. On that basis it is reasonable to believe this is due to the strong measures taken at Berkeley and San Francisco State. When Governor Reagan called for using police and Highway Patrolmen at Berkeley to bring order out of chaos it gave notice to militants that anarchy would not be tolerated on state-operated campuses. It meant meeting force with force which is the only way to solve a problem which has come to the point that orderly education is disrupted by a small but militant gangster-type group.

THE CORNELL incident where guns were openly displayed by the militants in taking over buildings and disrupting campus activities is an example of how far the state of anarchy on campuses has gone. When the administration gave in to the militants and agreed not to discipline those who took part in the affair it should cause each of us to take the attitude that this kind of demonstration must stop. If it takes the police or National Guard to bring it about it is probable a large majority of citizens and students would approve of such drastic action.

It is now up to the people of California to take action to give our college administrators the necessary laws and rules to punish student and faculty members who encourage or take part in illegal demonstrations. The governor has taken such action at Berkeley, but clear-cut laws are needed to make it clear the people of the state are ready to authorize administrators to take drastic action to meet the threats of the militants.

The state Senate has passed such laws. The bills are now before the state Assembly where many bills to deal with the problem have been introduced. It is now up to the people of the state to write or call their assemblyman to urge them to vote for the Senate bills now before them. Unless it is clearly shown this is the will of the people we must expect much more lenient bills may be offered by the Assembly. The Senate bills were reprinted in U.S. News magazine in its article, "States and Schools Fight Back Against Riots," giving it national publicity.

THE CALIFORNIA Assembly is considering four "get tough" measures which the state Senate has passed with overwhelming majority votes. These bills would:

1. Permit a state college president to declare a "state of emergency" in any threatening situation and bar potential troublemakers from the campus.

2. Provide for a $5,000 fine, imprisonment up to five years, or both, for anyone willfully using "force, violence, threat, intimidation, extortion or coercion" to obstruct school officials or prevent a student or professor from attending classes.

3. Require that any student at a State college found to have disrupted instructional programs, or to have attempted to do so, be expelled and not re-enrolled in any state college for at least three years.

4. Require that any state college employe, including faculty members who attempts to obstruct instructional programs by force or violence be fired, and not re-employed or enrolled as a student in any state university for three years.

If you believe these rules should become law it is up to you to let the legislature and college trustees and university regents know your views.

U.S. leadership must be moral, material

HUBERT HUMPHREY

NO SINGLE EVENT in the 20th century has caused such divisions in American society as our involvement in Vietnam. The bitter arguments of the moment prohibit an objective appraisal. Only the perspective of history will be able to render a fair judgment on our policy and commitment.

The war has been a long, costly, agonizing struggle. It has profoundly affected our politics and priorities. It has caused discord and unrest. It has diverted badly needed resources away from our domestic needs.

The war is unpopular. The American people want to get it over with —with public opinion ranging from demands for a military victory to calls for unilateral withdrawal.

What are some of the lessons we have learned in Vietnam?

FIRST, IT IS clear that we cannot nor should we be the world's policeman. There is too much to do, and we are not the only source of help.

We must work more effectively to develop regional cooperation, and we must insist that countries help themselves. The American presence in Vietnam did buy time so that the nations of Southeast Asia could learn to work better together. And they have done so.

If we increase our contributions to multilateral agencies, the resulting regional cooperation will help give smaller nations the collective strength to resist aggression.

We must also strengthen the peacekeeping and peacemaking capacity of the United Nations. The UN has been effective in such trouble spots as Cyprus, Kashmir, and the Congo. But the UN must do more than race from crisis to crisis. It must help prevent trouble. It must be available to patrol borders and supervise elections.

We know that fact-finders and mediators help settle disputes. The same kind of fact-finders and mediators from the UN can help settle disputes between nations.

SECOND, WE MUST be sure the country we seek to help is willing to develop political and social institutions that will be responsive to the needs of the people. It is difficult, if not impossible, to successfully defend another country unless the people of that country have a sense of participation and commitment to their government. We must go beyond military and economic aid to help countries develop the needed political and social institutions.

The war in Vietnam cannot be won by military power alone. It is a political war, and the support of the people will be needed if the enemy is to be defeated.

We must insist on responsible government, on land reform, on a genuine concern for the people. Our leadership must be moral as well as material.

THIRD, WE MUST carefully define our goals and priorities before committing American power and prestige. Once we send American soldiers into combat, it is very difficult to withdraw them. Deployment of soldiers, like deployment of a new weapons system, is difficult to reverse.

We must constantly question the old premises of war and diplomacy. While the Soviet oppression of Czechoslovakia and the North Korean attack on the Pueblo and our reconnaissance plane remind us again that the cold war is far from over, it is also a fact that the communist bloc is no longer a monolith.

We must tailor our policies to each new situation and not blindly respond to shadows of the past.

Once we have defined our goals, the American people should be told what we are doing, why we are doing it, and what the stakes are. The people have a right to know these facts before all the decisions are made, not after. And we must have, as Thomas Jefferson said, "a decent respect for the opinions of mankind." We cannot use our military power without concern for human values.

Vietnam is still a critical test for this nation. I recall visiting with Vice President Ky of South Vietnam following the inaugural ceremonies in Saigon in 1967. I reminded him that the success of the South Vietnamese government in broadening the base of support and responding to the needs of the people would have a direct effect upon American foreign policy for years to come. I observed that if the government in Saigon failed or faltered in either its domestic policies or in its efforts to undertake more and more of its own self defense, then all that we had tried to do in the past three decades —all our efforts to be an effective and cooperative partner in international affairs—might well be pushed aside by a revival of isolationism. In other words, disenchantment could bring an American policy of disengagement from a responsible role in international cooperation.

Two runaway girls meet some people who care

From Our L.A. Bureau

SOMETIMES a tired old phrase tells it best — as, perhaps, about four Long Beach people and two runaway girls.

The phrase, in this instance, is "above and beyond the call of duty."

Ken Kirkpatrick, the county's chief probation officer, reported what happened to the two girls who headed for the sea coast in their quest of adventure. Both were just 14. They wandered around for some hours. Then it was getting late, and they began to worry about where they would spend the night.

By this time they were outside the Soul Village Record Shop in North Long Beach. They went in and browsed a bit. The owner, it turned out, was an enterprising fellow of 18 named David Wilson.

AT LAST the problem came out. "We were wondering," one girl said, "if we could spend the night here."

"No," David answered. "That could get us all in trouble. But if you want, I'll take you to the bus and make sure that you can get home all right."

The girls hesitated. Home was the place they had urgently wanted to be from.

But another youth who was in the store happened to hear the conversation. Walter Lowery is only 19, but he is wise when it comes to things like this.

"My mother works for the probation department," he told the girls. "She's in something called the Community Oriented Youthful Offenders Program, and what it means is that she's trained to handle situations like the one you're in."

The girls realized that if they weren't sensible about things, probably they would find themselves in the police station. They decided to try Walter's plan.

Meanwhile another girl, Jo Ann Gonzales, 16, joined the group, and all five went to the Lowery home at 1174½ Salt Lake St., Long Beach.

Mrs. Lowery listened. Then she said:

"IT DOESN'T SEEM TO ME that putting these girls on a bus is the best answer. But they can't stay away from home all night on their own, either, so their parents will have to be notified. That means there are two things we can do. The easy way out would be to send them to Juvenile Hall to wait for their parents."

The young people were against that.

"Well," Mrs. Lowery said, "I can drive them home, and we can sit down and talk things over there."

They liked that, and everybody wanted to go along, and that's the way it was done. At Riverside they all sat in on the discussion.

The parents tended to think that, since the girls had been frightened with the night coming in Long Beach, and now had got home all right, they'd "learned their lesson." Mrs. Lowery saw things differently.

THE FORCES that had made them run away, she explained, were serious. What they did was, for them, a desperate act. The parents probably would be up against worse trials in time, if they passed it off as a childish prank.

It took a lot of talking. It needed the girls' own testimony — about how rejected and miserable they had been feeling — and it brought tears and agonizing words. Only after all that, everybody began to see the depth of the problem and, painfully and uneasily, the beginnings of new family relationships shuddered into life.

Mrs. Lowery's wisdom was crucial, and she deserves some special kind of accolade. But maybe, in this case, if any medals are awarded, there should be four of them.

Marine vets help, Cornell students hurt Negro cause

WASHINGTON—Two contrasting incidents, both involving Negroes and firearms, took place on the same night last week.

One was in Washington, D.C., where several hundred Negro ex-

DREW PEARSON

Marines, trained in using guns to defend their country, gathered in reunion.

The other was in Ithaca, N.Y., where 49 Negro students, most of them carrying guns, took over the Willard Straight Student Center, woke up sleeping parents visiting Cornell students and threw them out. They then occupied the building by force.

THE NEGRO ex-Marines in Washington were the Montfort Point Marine Association, named for the camp in North Carolina where Negro Marines were trained before the corps was desegregated in 1949.

The dinner meeting at the Sheraton Park Hotel was featured by speeches from Negro leaders who had risen to important positions in government—Luke C. Moore, longtime U.S. marshal in the nation's capital; James E. Johnson, Civil Service commissioner; and C. C. Johnson, Jr., administrator of the Consumer Protection and Environmental Health Service. Together with Lt. Gen. Lewis Walt, assistant commandant of the Marines, Reps. Clarence Long and Sam Friedel of Maryland, and an author of this column, they helped present a German shepherd puppy to a wounded Negro corporal, Ronald F. Roane, who had lost his leg and his dog in Vietnam. Corporal Roane made an inspiring speech regarding integration, camaraderie and courage in the Marine Corps.

Simultaneously, at Cornell, the armed Negro students forced the university's dean to capitulate, though the capitulation was later reversed by an indignant faculty.

Irony of the Cornell incident was the fact that its president, James A. Perkins, has been one of the nation's most liberal university executives, had given black students black studies and a black center, even before they demanded them.

Perkins delivered far-sighted speeches highlighting the problems of students, even recruited Negro students from the ghettos. This winter, while delivering a speech, two Negro students strode up on the platform, grabbed him by the scruff of the neck and escorted him off the platform.

There followed last week the armed occupation of the Cornell Student Center, followed by a black ultimatum that "Cornell has three hours to live." Perkins was even called a "racist" by some of the Negroes whom he had helped.

AT THIS POINT the faculty, hitherto strongly against force, began to backtrack, led by 200 radical instructors. In the end, President Perkins chickened. He made a weasel-worded speech about victory. Actually, he had surrendered abjectedly to 49 black students with rifles slung over their shoulders who had tried to set fire to Cornell. More important, he played into the hands of neo-Nazis lurking in the background and itching for an excuse to use fascist force against the democratic process of government.

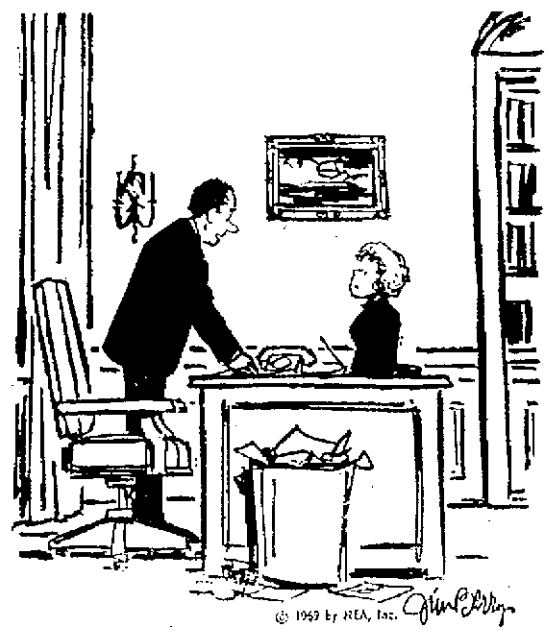

The white backlash against these tactics has been serious. It will play into the hands of the George Wallaceites and the neo-Nazis. It could retard some of the great strides recounted by the Negro leaders who spoke at the Negro Marine Corps celebration in Washington.

PRESIDENT NIXON has experienced the first major difference inside his Cabinet. Interesting, though not significant, is the fact that it's between two Mormons, Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney, the former governor of Michigan. The issue, however, is deeply significant. It's the question of high money rates and their effect on urban development and slum clearance.

Romney has been trying to promote a housing boom in order to remedy the problems of the big cities. This, however, depends upon the savings and loan institutions, which finance home building, also make loans to big builders for apartments.

Here Romney has come smack up against the tight money policy of the other Mormon in the Nixon Cabinet, Secretary Kennedy. Kennedy is determined to tighten money controls in order to drive down inflation. He believes this will lead ultimately to lower prices and lower interest rates. But right now it's making a shambles of Secretary Romney's ambitions for a housing boom.

Castro's loss

EDITOR:

You recently printed a letter about Cuban refugees written by Ralph Cortez. He obviously does not know any of them. I have had the privilege of becoming acquainted with many of them and have talked with them about conditions in Cuba in the past and conditions now reported to them by friends and relatives still in Cuba.

Never have I known any group of people who work harder than my Cuban friends. They are clean, intelligant, hard working, charming people. Food is rationed in Cuba now, even the children cannot have all the milk they want. Many of the things which were readily available before the Castro regime (including certain medicines) cannot be obtained now by anyone except those politically favored few.

The standard of living in Cuba is not determined by a person's occupation, education, effort or intelligence but by his politics.

Our country is much richer because of the presence of Cuban refugees. Castro's loss is our gain.

Long Beach KATHYRN SLAUGHTER

Marshall students

EDITOR:

On the evening of April 17 it was my pleasure to witness a beautiful display of patriotism, compassion and love. John Marshall Junior High presented its annual American Heritage program. They dedicated it this year to Martin Luther King and Robert Frances Kennedy.

The audience sat spell-bound as the drama of each man's life was told in vivid detail by the students. The girls glee provided the lovely songs which helped to highlight the production. When the program ended, I left the auditorium inspired and filled with hope for America.

They should be commended for remembering these two great men of peace who each had a dream. Perhaps their dream of peace and brotherhood will become a reality, simply because the students at Marshall cared enough not to forget.

It should be recognized that California had less trouble during the week than in the past. On that basis it is reasonable to believe this is due to the strong measures taken at Berkeley and San Francisco State. When Governor Reagan called for using police and Highway Patrolmen at Berkeley to bring order out of chaos it gave notice to militants that anarchy would not be tolerated on state-operated campuses. It meant meeting force with force which is the only way to solve a problem which has come to the point that orderly education is disrupted by a small but militant gangster-type group.

THE CORNELL incident where guns were openly displayed by the militants in taking over buildings and disrupting campus activities is an example of how far the state of anarchy on campuses has gone. When the administration gave in to the militants and agreed not to discipline those who took part in the affair it should cause each of us to take the attitude that this kind of demonstration must stop. If it takes the police or National Guard to bring it about it is probable a large majority of citizens and students would approve of such drastic action.

It is now up to the people of California to take action to give our college administrators the necessary laws and rules to punish student and faculty members who encourage or take part in illegal demonstrations. The governor has taken such action at Berkeley, but clear-cut laws are needed to make it clear the people of the state are ready to authorize administrators to take drastic action to meet the threats of the militants.

The state Senate has passed such laws. The bills are now before the state Assembly where many bills to deal with the problem have been introduced. It is now up to the people of the state to write or call their assemblyman to urge them to vote for the Senate bills now before them. Unless it is clearly shown this is the will of the people we must expect much more lenient bills may be offered by the Assembly. The Senate bills were reprinted in U.S. News magazine in its article, "States and Schools Fight Back Against Riots," giving it national publicity.

THE CALIFORNIA Assembly is considering four "get tough" measures which the state Senate has passed with overwhelming majority votes. These bills would:

1. Permit a state college president to declare a "state of emergency" in any threatening situation and bar potential troublemakers from the campus.

2. Provide for a $5,000 fine, imprisonment up to five years, or both, for anyone willfully using "force, violence, threat, intimidation, extortion or coercion" to obstruct school officials or prevent a student or professor from attending classes.

3. Require that any student at a State college found to have disrupted instructional programs, or to have attempted to do so, be expelled and not re-enrolled in any state college for at least three years.

4. Require that any state college employe, including faculty members who attempts to obstruct instructional programs by force or violence be fired, and not re-employed or enrolled as a student in any state university for three years.

If you believe these rules should become law it is up to you to let the legislature and college trustees and university regents know your views.

Marine vets help, Cornell students hurt Negro cause

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Two contrasting incidents, both involving Negroes and firearms, took place on the same night last week.

One was in Washington, D.C., where several hundred Negro ex-Marines, trained in using guns to defend their country, gathered in reunion.

The other was in Ithaca, N.Y., where 49 Negro students, most of them carrying guns, took over the Willard Straight Student Center, woke up sleeping parents visiting Cornell students and threw them out. They then occupied the building by force.

THE NEGRO ex-Marines in Washington were the Montfort Point Marine Association, named for the camp in North Carolina where Negro Marines were trained before the corps was desegregated in 1949.

The dinner meeting at the Sheraton Park Hotel was featured by speeches from Negro leaders who had risen to important positions in government—Luke C. Moore, longtime U.S. marshal in the nation's capital; James E. Johnson, Civil Service commissioner; and C. C. Johnson, Jr., administrator of the Consumer Protection and Environmental Health Service. Together with Lt. Gen. Lewis Walt, assistant commandant of the Marines, Reps. Clarence Long and Sam Friedel of Maryland, and an author of this column, they helped present a German shepherd puppy to a wounded Negro corporal, Ronald F. Roane, who had lost his leg and his dog in Vietnam. Corporal Roane made an inspiring speech regarding integration, camaraderie and courage in the Marine Corps.

Simultaneously, at Cornell, the armed Negro students forced the university's dean to capitulate, though the capitulation was later reversed by an indignant faculty.

Irony of the Cornell incident was the fact that its president, James A. Perkins, has been one of the nation's most liberal university executives, had given black students black studies and a black center, even before they demanded them.

Perkins delivered far-sighted speeches highlighting the problems of students, even recruited Negro students from the ghettos. This winter, while delivering a speech, two Negro students strode up on the platform, grabbed him by the scruff of the neck and escorted him off the platform.

There followed last week the armed occupation of the Cornell Student Center, followed by a black ultimatum that "Cornell has three hours to live." Perkins was even called a "racist" by some of the Negroes whom he had helped.

AT THIS POINT the faculty, hitherto strongly against force, began to backtrack, led by 200 radical instructors. In the end, President Perkins chickened. He made a weasel-worded speech about victory. Actually, he had surrendered abjectedly to 49 black students with rifles slung over their shoulders who had tried to set fire to Cornell. More important, he played into the hands of neo-Nazis lurking in the background and itching for an excuse to use fascist force against the democratic process of government.

The white backlash against these tactics has been serious. It will play into the hands of the George Wallaceites and the neo-Nazis. It could retard some of the great strides recounted by the Negro leaders who spoke at the Negro Marine Corps celebration in Washington.

PRESIDENT NIXON has experienced the first major difference inside his Cabinet. Interesting, though not significant, is the fact that it's between two Mormons, Secretary of the Treasury David Kennedy and Secretary of Housing and Urban Development George Romney, the former governor of Michigan. The issue, however, is deeply significant. It's the question of high money rates and their effect on urban development and slum clearance.

Romney has been trying to promote a housing boom in order to remedy the problems of the big cities. This, however, depends upon the savings and loan institutions, which finance home building, also make loans to big builders for apartments.

Here Romney has come smack up against the tight money policy of the other Mormon in the Nixon Cabinet, Secretary Kennedy. Kennedy is determined to tighten money controls in order to drive down inflation. He believes this will lead ultimately to lower prices and lower interest rates. But right now it's making a shambles of Secretary Romney's ambitions for a housing boom.

U.S. leadership must be moral, material

HUBERT HUMPHREY

NO SINGLE EVENT in the 20th century has caused such divisions in American society as our involvement in Vietnam. The bitter arguments of the moment prohibit an objective appraisal. Only the perspective of history will be able to render a fair judgment on our policy and commitment.

The war has been a long, costly, agonizing struggle. It has profoundly affected our politics and priorities. It has caused discord and unrest. It has diverted badly needed resources away from our domestic needs.

The war is unpopular. The American people want to get it over with —with public opinion ranging from demands for a military victory to calls for unilateral withdrawal.

What are some of the lessons we have learned in Vietnam?

FIRST, IT IS clear that we cannot nor should we be the world's policeman. There is too much to do, and we are not the only source of help.

We must work more effectively to develop regional cooperation, and we must insist that countries help themselves. The American presence in Vietnam did buy time so that the nations of Southeast Asia could learn to work better together. And they have done so.

If we increase our contributions to multilateral agencies, the resulting regional cooperation will help give smaller nations the collective strength to resist aggression.

We must also strengthen the peacekeeping and peacemaking capacity of the United Nations. The UN has been effective in such trouble spots as Cyprus, Kashmir, and the Congo. But the UN must do more than race from crisis to crisis. It must help prevent trouble. It must be available to patrol borders and supervise elections.

We know that fact-finders and mediators help settle disputes. The same kind of fact-finders and mediators from the UN can help settle disputes between nations.

SECOND, WE MUST be sure the country we seek to help is willing to develop political and social institutions that will be responsive to the needs of the people. It is difficult, if not impossible, to successfully defend another country unless the people of that country have a sense of participation and commitment to their government. We must go beyond military and economic aid to help countries develop the needed political and social institutions.

The war in Vietnam cannot be won by military power alone. It is a political war, and the support of the people will be needed if the enemy is to be defeated.

We must insist on responsible government, on land reform, on a genuine concern for the people. Our leadership must be moral as well as material.

THIRD, WE MUST carefully define our goals and priorities before committing American power and prestige. Once we send American soldiers into combat, it is very difficult to withdraw them. Deployment of soldiers, like deployment of a new weapons system, is difficult to reverse.

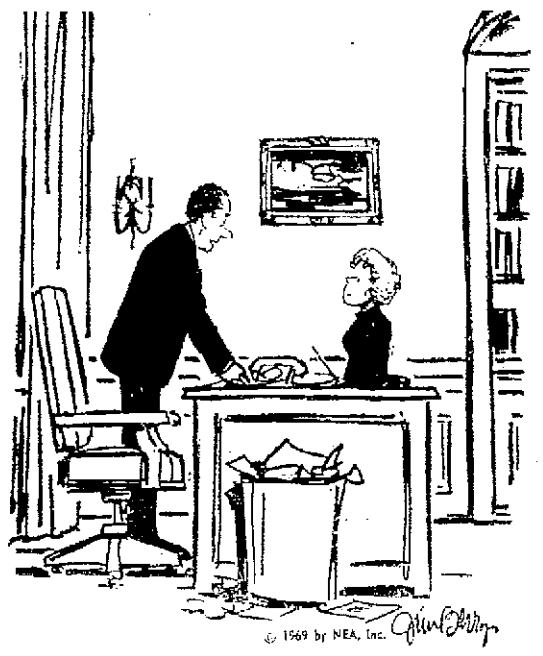

We must constantly question the old premises of war and diplomacy. While the Soviet oppression of Czechoslovakia and the North Korean attack on the Pueblo and our reconnaissance plane remind us again that the cold war is far from over, it is also a fact that the communist bloc is no longer a monolith.

We must tailor our policies to each new situation and not blindly respond to shadows of the past.

Once we have defined our goals, the American people should be told what we are doing, why we are doing it, and what the stakes are. The people have a right to know these facts before all the decisions are made, not after. And we must have, as Thomas Jefferson said, "a decent respect for the opinions of mankind." We cannot use our military power without concern for human values.

Vietnam is still a critical test for this nation. I recall visiting with Vice President Ky of South Vietnam following the inaugural ceremonies in Saigon in 1967. I reminded him that the success of the South Vietnamese government in broadening the base of support and responding to the needs of the people would have a direct effect upon American foreign policy for years to come. I observed that if the government in Saigon failed or faltered in either its domestic policies or in its efforts to undertake more and more of its own self defense, then all that we had tried to do in the past three decades —all our efforts to be an effective and cooperative partner in international affairs—might well be pushed aside by a revival of isolationism. In other words, disenchantment could bring an American policy of disengagement from a responsible role in international cooperation.

Castro's loss

EDITOR:

You recently printed a letter about Cuban refugees written by Ralph Cortez. He obviously does not know any of them. I have had the privilege of becoming acquainted with many of them and have talked with them about conditions in Cuba in the past and conditions now reported to them by friends and relatives still in Cuba.

Never have I known any group of people who work harder than my Cuban friends. They are clean, intelligant, hard working, charming people. Food is rationed in Cuba now, even the children cannot have all the milk they want. Many of the things which were readily available before the Castro regime (including certain medicines) cannot be obtained now by anyone except those politically favored few.

The standard of living in Cuba is not determined by a person's occupation, education, effort or intelligence but by his politics.

Our country is much richer because of the presence of Cuban refugees. Castro's loss is our gain.

Long Beach KATHYRN SLAUGHTER

Marshall students

EDITOR:

On the evening of April 17 it was my pleasure to witness a beautiful display of patriotism, compassion and love. John Marshall Junior High presented its annual American Heritage program. They dedicated it this year to Martin Luther King and Robert Frances Kennedy.

The audience sat spell-bound as the drama of each man's life was told in vivid detail by the students. The girls glee provided the lovely songs which helped to highlight the production. When the program ended, I left the auditorium inspired and filled with hope for America.

They should be commended for remembering these two great men of peace who each had a dream. Perhaps their dream of peace and brotherhood will become a reality, simply because the students at Marshall cared enough not to forget.

Two runaway girls meet some people who care

From Our L.A. Bureau

SOMETIMES a tired old phrase tells it best — as, perhaps, about four Long Beach people and two runaway girls.

The phrase, in this instance, is "above and beyond the call of duty."

Ken Kirkpatrick, the county's chief probation officer, reported what happened to the two girls who headed for the sea coast in their quest of adventure. Both were just 14. They wandered around for some hours. Then it was getting late, and they began to worry about where they would spend the night.

By this time they were outside the Soul Village Record Shop in North Long Beach. They went in and browsed a bit. The owner, it turned out, was an enterprising fellow of 18 named David Wilson.

AT LAST the problem came out.

"We were wondering," one girl said, "if we could spend the night here."

"No," David answered. "That could get us all in trouble. But if you want, I'll take you to the bus and make sure that you can get home all right."

The girls hesitated. Home was the place they had urgently wanted to be from.

But another youth who was in the store happened to hear the conversation. Walter Lowery is only 19, but he is wise when it comes to things like this.

"My mother works for the probation department," he told the girls. "She's in something called the Community Oriented Youthful Offenders Program, and what it means is that she's trained to handle situations like the one you're in."

The girls realized that if they weren't sensible about things, probably they would find themselves in the police station. They decided to try Walter's plan.

Meanwhile another girl, Jo Ann Gonzales, 16, joined the group, and all five went to the Lowery home at 1174½ Salt Lake St., Long Beach.

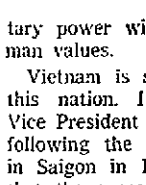

Mrs. Lowery listened. Then she said:

"IT DOESN'T SEEM TO ME that putting these girls on a bus is the best answer. But they can't stay away from home all night on their own, either, so their parents will have to be notified. That means there are two things we can do. The easy way out would be to send them to Juvenile Hall to wait for their parents."

The young people were against that.

"Well," Mrs. Lowery said, "I can drive them home, and we can sit down and talk things over there."

They liked that, and everybody wanted to go along, and that's the way it was done. At Riverside they all sat in on the discussion.

BILL MAYER

The parents tended to think that, since the girls had been frightened with the night coming in Long Beach, and now had got home all right, they'd "learned their lesson." Mrs. Lowery saw things differently.

THE FORCES that had made them run away, she explained, were serious. What they did was, for them, a desperate act. The parents probably would be up against worse trials in time, if they passed it off as a childish prank.

It took a lot of talking. It needed the girls' own testimony — about how rejected and miserable they had been feeling — and it brought tears and agonizing words. Only after all that, everybody began to see the depth of the problem and, painfully and uneasily, the beginnings of new family relationships shuddered into life.

Mrs. Lowery's wisdom was crucial, and she deserves some special kind of accolade. But maybe, in this case, if any medals are awarded, there should be four of them.

SEA STORIES GET BIGGER FOR SUE HAWK, MISS TORRANCE
Icebreaker Crewmen Leo Holtz, Lyle Van Dyke Warm Up

FOR TORRANCE PARADE

Icebreaker Crew Thaws

Just in from McMurdo Station, Antarctica's largest community, the Coast Guard icebreaker Burton Island and her 181-man crew are thawing out in Long Beach.

To help the thaw and invite them to share in the 10th annual Torrance Armed Services Day Parade and celebration May 16-17, was newly crowned Miss Torrance — Susan Hawk.

Susan got a short course in icebreaking aboard Burton Island and she admitted that "this added to my knowledge." She is a secretary for Los Angeles Airways.

While Burton Island is not likely to carve a path into Torrance, the Coast Guard will be well represented at the nation's largest civic-sponsored Armed Forces Day observance.

From Alameda the CG Training & Supply Center will enter a 75-man band — a noteworthy entry last year. For display the Long Beach-based 11th District will provide one of its search and rescue Sikorsky HH52-A helicopters.

The guard's boating safety detachment will provide a recreational boating safety display and the Organized Rescue Training Unit Port Security 11-82747 from San Pedro will march 114 men.

Grand Marshal and reviewing officer will be five-star general of the Army Omar N. Bradley — highest ranking soldier in the nation. He lives in Beverly Hills.

The military display opens at 6 p.m. May 16 at Torrance Civic Center and at 8:30 a giant fireworks show begins.

At 10 a.m. on the 17th the parade begins, moving westward on Torrance Boulevard. The two-day program is sponsored by the City of Torrance and the Torrance Area Chamber of Commerce.

Left Facists."

"The silent majority of students is more like the chicken majority," he said. "But if you stand up to them, they don't know what do do. They sit around and cry and then go home."

He cited success of New Right organizations in driving revolutionaries from campus buildings at Columbia.

Luce said he favored far greater "freedom of the individual against government attempts to regulate our lives" and found direct action against the state "sometimes permissable."

"One reason the New Left gained prestige is that it stood up to the government with the minds, voices and bodies. Conservatives usually don't."

Harvey Hukari, Stanford YAF chairman, urged the New Right to improve its image.

"Too many people think all conservatives are retired army generals or little old ladies with hair in their ears," he said. "We need more Phil Luces and less Joe Pynes."

said. In other words, these abnormally tilted-forward teeth are retracted into their proper position.

Stability of the repositioned teeth returns with regrowth of bone, he said.

Mr. Hovell said the procedure is not used in the practice of children's orthodontics because "we don't feel that it is necessary in these cases." Orthodontic treatment in children is more rapid than it is in adults, he stated.

IN ADULT orthodontics, with corticotomy and heavier appliance force, it is possible to return upper incisors to proper position in three to four weeks, Mr. Hovell said. In contrast, conventional orthodontics might require six months to achieve the same result.

Mr. Hovell also described a surgical procedure in which segments of teeth and part of the jaw (the tooth-bearing portion) are moved to correct "failed orthodontic cases" or to aid the cleft-palate victim.

He said the procedure can produce excellent results in correcting facial deformities which orthodontics cannot help.

Mr. Hovell is president of the Hospital Group of the British Dental Association; president of the odontological section of the Royal Society of Medicine; past president of the British Society for the Study of Orthodontics; member of the board of faculty of dentistry of the Royal College of Surgeons; and consultant dental surgeon, Royal Dental Hospital and St. Thomas Hospital.

CARSON'S DILEMMA

six to seven mile intervals near freeway intersections between Long Beach and the San Fernando Valley.

LONG BEACH ALREADY has land available in the vicinity of Temple Street and Willow Avenu. Informal talks between the city and the sanitation districts indicate the first station in the chain would probably be developed there as existing land-fill dumps become full five years from now.

Seven miles up the San Diego Freeway toward the San Fernando Valley is the intersection with the Harbor Freeway—Half a mile from the Western Refuse Co. site.

Asked if the private facility could replace one unit of the sanitation district system. Dare replied:

"That depends on how it is developed. Under the restrictions now proposed by the City of Carson, their facility would be limited to the company's own trucks and area residents. Other commercial haulers are prohibited from using it.

"Also, they are limited to a maximum garbage content of five per cent," Dare noted. "To replace part of our system, it would have to handle all sources—including competitors—and all materials."

There are other differences in the two proposed opeartions. The private unit would use a hydraulic ram to compress five small loads into a single, larger truck. The sanitation district proposal, similar to an existing facility in Santa Monica, would empty small loads directly into a large open trailer. Reduced dump site charges make more frequent trips with the pre-compressed loads economically feasible.

Although the general population of Carson has not risen in outrage against the transfer station proposal, successive waves of neighboring property owners have.

When the permit was first sought in November, the Pepsi-Cola bottling plant—which borders the site along the 800-foot northern property line—filed a letter of protest. That letter was withdrawn after restrictions requiring a concrete block wall and strict control of health hazards were imposed on the permit.

OWNERS OF A GOLF COURSE and apartment complex on the east side of Main Street are still not happy with the expansion of Western Refuse's present truck storage and repair area into use as a transfer station, but they have adopted a wait-and-see policy.

"I have to assign about ten man hours a week to cleaning up the litter along our fence," observed golf course manager Richard Jordan. "I know that Kosti (Shirvanian, onwer of Western Refuse) is careful about his trucks but the public isn't so careful."

Jordan admits that much of the litter falls from rental trailers used by reisdents seeking access to a recently closed public dump south of Francisco Street, but counters that these same people would later be using the transfer station.

One possible area of improvement for Jordan is that under the permit Shrivanian would be required to make efforts to complete Francisco Street—which now dead ends near his property—through to Figueroa Street and limit his access off Main Street.

The most recent wave of property owner protests comes from industrial developers who have recently bought, or are buying, nearby lands. Leading the group is Julius Altemus, 3129 Purdue St., Los Angeles, who filed the appeal.

ALTEMUS ARGUED BEFORE the council two weeks ago that his land on the other side of the Harbor Freeway is deteriorated by permiting Western Refuse to engage in "a use which Los Angeles City would relegate to a packing house area."

Others voicing protest at the meeting included attorney Miles Raskoff, representing the owners of the dump south of Francisco Street. Raskoff said his client has an escorw pending for sale of the dump orperty as an auction yard for used industrial machinery.

While Raskoff was available, Mayor John Junk advised him the city fathers were dissatisfied with the methane gas odor escaping from the dump and wanted immediate steps taken to correct the situation.

How the councilmen finally vote in the case will depend on how they interpret conflicting points of law.

Planning Director Richard Gunnarson advised the council that a transfer station is a permitted use in the heavy manufacturing zone where Western Refuse's site is located. The council's only power, in his view, is to control the use with the restrictions of the conditional use permit to lessen objections by adjacent property owners.

City Attorney Glenn Watson agreed that this is generally true, but provided the "out" for the council if they determine to deny issuance of the permit.

Answering a question from Councilman Gil Smith, Watson said that even though evidence indicated "a clear need" for some such facility in the area the council is not bound to approve this request if it finds that the site would not adequately fill the need or "if there are overriding factors involving the general welfare" of the city.

Campus Celebrates '49er Days'

Pete's Gulch went back to bein' the same ol' ghost town Saturday night and California State College at Long Beach students had new spring celebration memories to talk about today.

The two-day revival, with rustic — if sometimes impromptu — surroundings, recalled the good old days when the west was truly woolly.

Nowadays, "49er Days" on campus are celebrated mostly for fun, with contests like watermelon-eating — won by Larry Luckey (With a name like that, what else?) and Susie Goppert and lost by Leslie Hick (kneeling) and Bill Thomas (not pictured).

FOR TORRANCE PARADE

Icebreaker Crew Thaws

Just in from McMurdo Station, Antarctica's largest community, the Coast Guard icebreaker Burton Island and her 181-man crew are thawing out in Long Beach.

To help the thaw and invite them to share in the 10th annual Torrance Armed Services Day Parade and celebration May 16-17, was newly crowned Miss Torrance — Susan Hawk.

Susan got a short course in icebreaking aboard Burton Island and she admitted that "this added to my knowledge." She is a secretary for Los Angeles Airways.

While Burton Island is not likely to carve a path into Torrance, the Coast Guard will be well represented at the nation's largest civic-sponsored Armed Forces Day observance.

From Alameda the CG Training & Supply Center will enter a 75-man band — a noteworthy entry last year. For display the Long Beach-based 11th District will provide one of its search and rescue Sikorsky HH52-A helicopters.

The guard's boating safety detachment will provide a recreational boating safety display and the Organized Rescue Training Unit Port Security 11-82747 from San Pedro will march 114 men.

Grand Marshal and reviewing officer will be five-star general of the Army Omar N. Bradley — highest ranking soldier in the nation. He lives in Beverly Hills.

The military display opens at 6 p.m. May 16 at Torrance Civic Center and at 8:30 a giant fireworks show begins.

At 10 a.m. on the 17th the parade begins, moving westward on Torrance Boulevard. The two-day program is sponsored by the City of Torrance and the Torrance Area Chamber of Commerce.

Left Facists."

"The silent majority of students is more like the chicken majority," he said. "But if you stand up to them, they don't know what do do. They sit around and cry and then go home."

He cited success of New Right organizations in driving revolutionaries from campus buildings at Columbia.

Luce said he favored far greater "freedom of the individual against government attempts to regulate our lives" and found direct action against the state "sometimes permissable."

"One reason the New Left gained prestige is that it stood up to the government with the minds, voices and bodies. Conservatives usually don't."

Harvey Hukari, Stanford YAF chairman, urged the New Right to improve its image.

"Too many people think all conservatives are retired army generals or little old ladies with hair in their ears," he said. "We need more Phil Luces and less Joe Pynes."

said. In other words, these abnormally tilted-forward teeth are retracted into their proper position.

Stability of the repositioned teeth returns with regrowth of bone, he said.

Mr. Hovell said the procedure is not used in the practice of children's orthodontics because "we don't feel that it is necessary in these cases." Orthodontic treatment in children is more rapid than it is in adults, he stated.

IN ADULT orthodontics, with corticotomy and heavier appliance force, it is possible to return upper incisors to proper position in three to four weeks, Mr. Hovell said. In contrast, conventional orthodontics might require six months to achieve the same result.

Mr. Hovell also described a surgical procedure in which segments of teeth and part of the jaw (the tooth-bearing portion) are moved to correct "failed orthodontic cases" or to aid the cleft-palate victim.

He said the procedure can produce excellent results in correcting facial deformities which orthodontics cannot help.

Mr. Hovell is president of the Hospital Group of the British Dental Association; president of the odontological section of the Royal Society of Medicine; past president of the British Society for the Study of Orthodontics; member of the board of faculty of dentistry of the Royal College of Surgeons; and consultant dental surgeon, Royal Dental Hospital and St. Thomas Hospital.

CARSON'S DILEMMA

six to seven mile intervals near freeway intersections between Long Beach and the San Fernando Valley.

LONG BEACH ALREADY has land available in the vicinity of Temple Street and Willow Avenu. Informal talks between the city and the sanitation districts indicate the first station in the chain would probably be developed there as existing land-fill dumps become full five years from now.

Seven miles up the San Diego Freeway toward the San Fernando Valley is the intersection with the Harbor Freeway—Half a mile from the Western Refuse Co. site.

Asked if the private facility could replace one unit of the sanitation district system. Dare replied:

"That depends on how it is developed. Under the restrictions now proposed by the City of Carson, their facility would be limited to the company's own trucks and area residents. Other commercial haulers are prohibited from using it.

"Also, they are limited to a maximum garbage content of five per cent." Dare noted. "To replace part of our system, it would have to handle all sources—including competitors—and all materials."

There are other differences in the two proposed opeartions. The private unit would use a hydraulic ram to compress five small loads into a single, larger truck. The sanitation district proposal, similar to an existing facility in Santa Monica, would empty small loads directly into a large open trailer. Reduced dump site charges make more frequent trips with the pre-compressed loads economically feasible.

Although the general population of Carson has not risen in outrage against the transfer station proposal, successive waves of neighboring property owners have.

When the permit was first sought in November, the Pepsi-Cola bottling plant—which borders the site along the 800-foot northern property line—filed a letter of protest. Hasty Repair of Car Wins Trip For Pair

—Staff Photo

What would you do with a new car that had glue on its battery posts, a defective starter solenoid, a defective valve in the carbeurator, a disconnected ballast resister, defective spark plugs and spark plug wiring, shorted points and a wireless wire to the distributor?

THROW UP YOUR HANDS?

Well, two young students at Santiago High School in Garden Grove didn't. They went to work.

In a little over an hour they had found all the troubles, fixed them and drove the car away.

By so doing they won themselves and their teacher an all-expense-paid trip to Indianapolis for three days in June.

The boys are Robert H. Mittman, 18, of 229 W. Tiller Ave., Anaheim, and Arthur A. Artninger, 17, of 11882 Dale St., Stanton.

Working as a team they were among eight winners in the Los Angeles regional Automobile Trouble Shooting contest, sponsored by the Chrysler-Plymouth Division of Chrysler Motors Corp.

The contest was held earlier this week in Whittier and they beat out more than 200 other contestants from all over Southern California.

The idea is that each team is given a new car to work on. Certain items have been tampered with, however, so that it won't run unless, and until, they are fixed.

The team that finds and corrects the defects in the shortest time wins. There is also a written test on auto mechanics as part of the contest.

The boys and their automotive instructor, Eugene Stagner, will go to Indianapolis June 16, 17 and 18 to compete in the National Trouble Shooting Contest.

There they will compete against students from all over the country for more than $125,000 in scholarships, plus other prizes such as tool sets, trophies and equipment for their schools.

The boys are part of a 45-student program in automotive technology at Santiago High School, which began in 1964 under a federal grant under the Vocational Education Act of 1963.

Both are veterans of the program. Mittman is in his third year while Artninger had previous experience in a similar program in Florida.

Both are B students and are employed part-time in service stations to augment both their income and their out-of-school experience. Mittman's father is a warehouse foreman and Artinger's is a carpenter.

They — and the rest of the school — are pretty enthused about winning the contest.

How did they do it?

"Well, we just didn't think about winning," Mittmen says modestly, "We just thought about getting that car running."

Torrance Councilmen Faced With Special Sessions, Regular Meeting

Torrance councilmen will earn their $100-per-month salaries this month with two special meetings scheduled this week besides the regular meeting Tuesday evening.

At 4:30 p.m. Monday, the council is scheduled to meet with representatives of various city employe groups to discuss a proposed employe relations ordinance and amendments to civil service regulations covering transfer or reassignment of employes.

The council has also scheduled a joint meeting with the Torrance Unified School District board, including newly-elected member Stanley Dunn, who will not officially take his seat until May 5.

Purpose of that meeting, at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, is to discuss joint city-school board actions regarding legislation in Sacramento related to tax reforms and state support to schools.

Both the special meeting on Monday and the regular meeting at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday will be preceded by executive sessions, one dealing with a personnel matter and the other with legal complications in a zoning case.

In addition, some members of the council have made two trips to Sacramento this month for the League of California Cities convention April 14-16 and for Torrance Day with the Legislature last Thursday.

EMERGENCY CENTER WATER WORK OK'D

On a split vote, and with some outspoken dissatisfaction, the Long Beach Water Commission has agreed to install a fire hydrant and 365 feet of pipe to serve the city's underground Emergency Operating Center.

Commissioners Oliver W. Speraw and Robert McNulty voted against authorizing Water Department crews to do the work at an estimated cost of $2,900. The city will provide the pipe, it was decided at the Thursday meeting.

The two commissioners said they did not think the department should do the work "just as a favor" to another department, but that the Water Department should be reimbursed.

Speraw commented, in passing, that he thinks the whole idea of the subterranean headquarters for disaster services is a "boondoggle."

The Emergency Operating Center will be in the former Nike site, southwest of Spring Street and Lakewood Boulevard. The city's Department of Emergency Preparedness plans to move into the underground facility about May 5.

Santa Ana Civic Center Bidding Set

Bids will be opened May 26 for a $1.1 million Santa Ana civic center project, including two underground garages and landscaped plazas near the new Orange County Courthouse.

County Supervisors viewed the plans for the project this week, although County Administrative Officer Robert E. Thomas told them plans "are not normally shown" at this time.

He said a Plaza of the Flags and a Plaza of the Suns will be built atop two underground garages on each side of the courthouse.

The board agreed to post $750,000 in county funds for the project. Santa Ana will supply $400,000. The city council had already seen and approved the plans.

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Four lawyers have filed a $7.5 million invasion of privacy suit in superior court against a publisher who allegedly mailed them pornographic photographs.

The action, believed to be the first of its kind, seeks damages against Collectors Publications. The firm used a Covina post office box for receipt of funds from purchasers, attorney David S. Casey said.

At 4:30 p.m. Monday, the council is scheduled to meet with representatives of various city employe groups to discuss a proposed employe relations ordinance and amendments to civil service regulations covering transfer or reassignment of employes.

The council has also scheduled a joint meeting with the Torrance Unified School District board, including newly-elected member Stanley Dunn, who will not officially take his seat until May 5.

Purpose of that meeting, at 5:30 p.m. Thursday, is to discuss joint city-school board actions regarding legislation in Sacramento related to tax reforms and state support to schools.

Both the special meeting on Monday and the regular meeting at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday will be preceded by executive sessions, one dealing with a personnel matter and the other with legal complications in a zoning case.

In addition, some members of the council have made two trips to Sacramento this month for the League of California Cities convention April 14-16 and for Torrance Day with the Legislature last Thursday.

EMERGENCY CENTER WATER WORK OK'D

On a split vote, and with some outspoken dissatisfaction, the Long Beach Water Commission has agreed to install a fire hydrant and 365 feet of pipe to serve the city's underground Emergency Operating Center.

Commissioners Oliver W. Speraw and Robert McNulty voted against authorizing Water Department crews to do the work at an estimated cost of $2,900. The city will provide the pipe, it was decided at the Thursday meeting.

The two commissioners said they did not think the department should do the work "just as a favor" to another department, but that the Water Department should be reimbursed.

Speraw commented, in passing, that he thinks the whole idea of the subterranean headquarters for disaster services is a "boondoggle."

The Emergency Operating Center will be in the former Nike site, southwest of Spring Street and Lakewood Boulevard. The city's Department of Emergency Preparedness plans to move into the underground facility about May 5.

Santa Ana Civic Center Bidding Set

Bids will be opened May 26 for a $1.1 million Santa Ana civic center project, including two underground garages and landscaped plazas near the new Orange County Courthouse.

County Supervisors viewed the plans for the project this week, although County Administrative Officer Robert E. Thomas told them plans "are not normally shown" at this time.

He said a Plaza of the Flags and a Plaza of the Suns will be built atop two underground garages on each side of the courthouse.

The board agreed to post $750,000 in county funds for the project. Santa Ana will supply $400,000. The city council had already seen and approved the plans.

Recipients Sue Over Lewd Photos

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Four lawyers have filed a $7.5 million invasion of privacy suit in superior court against a publisher who allegedly mailed them pornographic photographs.

The action, believed to be the first of its kind, seeks damages against Collectors Publications. The firm used a Covina post office box for receipt of funds from purchasers, attorney David S. Casey said.

A.F. Band to Perform in Cerritos

Under the baton of Lt. Col. Arnold D. Gabriel, the U.S. Air Force Band — known as the most-traveled musical organization in the nation — will appear in a free concert at Cerritos College Gymnasium Tuesday.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. musical are available through area Air Force recruiting offices and the Office of Community Services at Cerritos College in Norwalk.

The program will include a variety of musical selections and feature Sgt. Larry Wiehe, one of the most acclaimed trombone virtuosos in the world.

Also on the program will be the renowned Singing Sergeants, directed by Gabriel. Music critics from around the world have acclaimed the musical group as "one must turn to the finest symphony orchestras to find comparable musicianship."

The area concert is being sponsored by the Cerritos Office of Community Services.

CALIFORNIA, Hello brave people, I have a story to tell. I think syringe shaped squirt guns are not very swell. The youngsters play with these guns, put water in your eye, Many yrs. later a few weak ones switch to Heroine, & in the process their health wanes poodby. So brave people, to have wrote-some fun, go around toys & break 1 of these guns. This is your Beelzicumber Diary, walking along the beach I feel merry. To support Gary's feeling well, send for 1 of his pretty sea shells. 25c & you could. 11525 Massinger, Lkwd.

CALIFORNIA. Hello brave people, I have a story to tell. I think syringe shaped squirt guns are not very swell. The youngsters play with these guns, put water in your eye. Many yrs. later a few weak ones switch to Heroine, & in the process their health waves goodby. So brave people, to have wholesome fun, discard toys & break 1 of these guns. This is your Beachcomber Gary, walking along the beach I feel merry. To support Gary's feeling well, send for 1 of his pretty sea shells. 25c & you could. 11525 Massinger, Lkwd.

MATCHMAKERS
We Worry About You
Like A Mother!
It's amazing that a computer service as large as ours can give you such personal attention, but still we worry.
—Are you dating enough of the RIGHT PEOPLE?
—Are you really happy with your SOCIAL LIFE?
—If divorced, are you sure you won't make another mistake?
If you answered NO to ANY ONE of the above, it's time you call MATCHMAKERS for some good old fashioned advice OR just for information about what our computer can do FOR YOU. Call Today.

Sales
Industrial Sales Opportunity With A Present and a Future
New York Stock Exchange listed, AAA-1 manufacturer of non-technical specialty chemical products, has a divisional sales opening available in Orange County.
Due to the repeat nature of our business, realistic earnings should be in excess of $15,000 by the second year. Drawing account against excellent commission structure.
No technical background is necessary to sell successfully in our business.
In 1968, for the 8th consecutive year, our sales increased by 20%. We are willing to invest our time, effort, and dollars in men capable of this kind of solid growth.
Extensive field training, advanced research, and national recognition provide excellent climate for success.
To arrange for local Orange County interview, please call Bill Luxenberg, Monday, Apr. 28 at (714) 776-6120. If unable to call, write:

Industrial Sales Opportunity With A Present and a Future
New York Stock Exchange listed, AAA-1 manufacturer of non-technical specialty chemical products, has a divisional sales opening available in Orange County.

Due to the repeat nature of our business, realistic earnings should be in excess of $15,000 by the second year. Drawing account against excellent commission structure.

No technical background is necessary to sell successfully in our business.

In 1968, for the 8th consecutive year, our sales increased by 20%. We are willing to invest our time, effort, and dollars in men capable of this kind of solid growth.

Extensive field training, advanced research, and national recognition provide excellent climate for success.

To arrange for local Orange County interview, please call Bill Luxenberg, Monday, Apr. 28 at (714) 776-6120. If unable to call, write:

Help Wanted 150 (MEN)

MANAGEMENT TRAINEE WANTED
SERVICE STATION SALES DEALERSHIP POTENTIAL

Palo Verde Shell Service (Palo Verde & Atherton, Long Beach) now has an opening for a Shell Service Station Salesman — A young man who wants to start a new career.

If you are good at meeting people, like cars, have potential for Management, and are willing to work hard, this could be your chance to earn Good Money while you learn the profitable service station business — and start a new career.

The man we are looking for will be interviewed for immediate employment as a service station salesman. In addition a local representative of Shell Oil Company will interview for a prospective Shell Dealership. If you are selected you will undergo 6 months to one year of paid on-the-job training.

If you successfully complete the training program and meet Shell's qualifications for dealers you will be offered the opportunity of leasing your own Shell station.

DON'T GET ULCERS GIVE THEM!
A mathematical system of marketing music is making winners out of losers.
If you are not making now $40,000 per year you are just plain stupid not to take a look.

My boss is a millionaire at age 34 because of this system — I am on my way and will teach it to you for purely selfish reasons.
No sales talent required — What's the gimmick? Be a Mooch!

Reliability!

There are so many reasons why you will want to deal with REX L HODGES REALTY

when BUYING . . .

DEAL WITH THE LEADER

47% of our sales are with repeat customers! There must be a reason!

Larger Selection . . . 1365 Exclusive listings to choose from, 6 multiple listing service offerings, electronic processing of company listings, indexed listings for up-to-date information. Full selection of saleable estate, foreclosure and trust properties, comparables by computer.

Better Financing . . . Down payments to fit your budget . . . money advanced on your present equity to purchase another home or income property . . . guaranteed home sales—all backed by our nearly 40-year tradition of financial strength!

Greater Efficiency . . . Electronic equipment speeds information and service. Bookkeeping machines expedite transactions. 39 years experience stops guesswork. Completeness of operation leaves nothing to chance and adds security for you. Ask your banker or attorney about us.

Professionally Staffed . . . Professional staff and facilities offer "one-stop service." Staff consultants available at no extra cost. Our Company Attorney, appraiser, insurance adviser, tax consultant, escrow, estate and title officers protect your transaction.

Fly This Flag Proudly

It has given heart and strength to Americans ever since this nation was born.

It has flown in times of trouble and times of triumph as a symbol of America's unquenchable ideals, ever since those ideals were first proclaimed.

We have joined Reader's Digest national program to exhibit The Flag in as many ways as possible. Each of our offices has a supply of 5-inch full color decals which can be affixed to auto window, home door, office locations.

Phone, drop in or write your nearest Rex L. Hodges Realty office for your free flag decal.

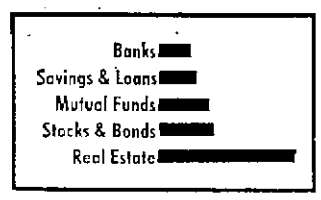

when INVESTING . . .

LET US SHOW YOU OUR NEW INCOME PROPERTIES . . .

some yielding annual returns in excess of 39%

Migration to California, plus natural population growth creates a growing demand for irreplacable real estate. Yes, real estate is one of the few forms of investment of which the supply is definitely limited. Greater Long Beach and Orange County income properties offered by Rex L. Hodges Realty are located in solid growth areas with rental vacancy percentages under 2%.

where are your investment dollars NOW?

NOW IS THE TIME TO BUY a home or investment property! It is estimated new home construction costs will go up 10% annually, and land values are rapidly rising in all the areas we serve!

when SELLING . . .

watch for the London Bus— and give your listing to us!

More Sales People . . . 127 active sales representatives, each qualified by Co-Training Program. Sales staff backed by 15 Managers, 10 Clerical Administrators, and an Executive Consultant Staff of Legal, Escrow, Tax, Title, Loan Officers.

More Exposure . . . We offer six Multiple Listing Services—152 telephones working daily—Over 500 realty ads weekly—One-half million people pass Hodges offices daily. Listings distributed to most local Real Estate Offices.

More Advertising . . . Rex L. Hodges leads the Industry in advertising. Ads help sell homes and we know it. That's why we're the leader. 750 signs, 150,000 cards, 250,000 mailings, continuous calendars, billboards and brochures.

More Prospects . . . Referrals from 82,000 previous sales—39-year inventory repeat customers—Buyers from hundreds of listed properties—Interstate Job Transfer Referrals—Buyers from over 150 weekly open houses.

Property Management . . .

MORE THAN 200 PROPERTIES ENTRUSTED TO OUR CARE!

For many years home owners, small and large income property owners have relied upon Rex L. Hodges Property Management Co. to guard their investments and be assured their properties are not only receiving expert attention, but also yielding maximum return on their investment. We have a waiting list of pre-qualified tenants* for most price ranges of homes or apartments.

*We screen the prospective tenant including a credit check at no cost to our clients or the tenant.

NEED CASH TO BUY?

We'll advance you cash on the equity of your present home—up to 80% of its market value! And we will only charge you 8% interest while you are using the money. You pay us back anytime within 6 months, or when your home is sold if the sale occurs before 6 months.

WANT TO TRADE?

We offer a GUARANTEED TRADE-IN PLAN that should put you in the home of your choice without additional cash—and relieves you of the wait and worry of selling your present home!

A Good Place to Work . . .

looking for increased future income?

We invite experienced real estate salesmen, including brokers as well as newcomers to investigate our new sales-incentive program and compare it with any other commission plan offered! We are now offering a program that can almost guarantee to increase your 1968 commission earnings by 10%, 25%—more, regardless of your present commission split program. We are seeking full time, ambitious, intelligent salespeople and offering opportunities NOW that may not be available in the future, once the word gets around!

Call us at 437-1251 for an appointment, or drop by our General Offices at 408 E. 1st St., Long Beach. Ask for Mr. Christensen or Bernie Jones—GET THE FACTS! It's YOUR future we want to discuss!

We own and operate QUEEN CITY ESCROW CORP. to facilitate the prompt, efficient administration of all transactions.

REALTOR OF THE WEEK

JOHNNY WESLEY MILLER

Johnny Wesley Miller was born in Great Falls, Montana and raised and educated in Eugene, Oregon. During World War II, he served with the Naval Forces in the Pacific in communications aboard Destroyers. In eight years of outstanding service, he advanced from Apprentice Seaman to Lieutenant Junior Grade. Mr. Miller also had the honor of being assigned to a rescue team that freed 1400 Allied Prisoners from a Prison Camp in Mukden, Manchuria.

After completing his service obligation, he served as an independent dealer for a local newspaper and was also employed by an Electronic Distributor as a salesman.

Mr. Miller studied Real Estate at Long Beach City College and Cerritos Junior College. Active in civic affairs, he is now a member of Los Alamitos Chamber of Commerce, Long Beach Board of Realtors, and West Orange County Board of Realtors.

Mr. Miller enjoys fishing, golfing, and entertaining his friends playing the Hammond Organ. He and his wife, Janette and two sons, Ron and Johnny Lee reside at 11322 Davenport Road in Rossmoor. Janette is presently studying to obtain her Real Estate License and will soon join the office staff at Johnny Miller Realty, 10921 Los Alamitos Boulevard in Los Alamitos.

Think here.

Think of yourself...in the driver's seat of this hot little import sports spider. Styled by Bertone, with the lively lines Detroit goes overseas for! Powered by a hefty rear-mount engine that'll go 90 and accelerates to 60 as fast as you can shift. Four-speed synchromeshed transmission, dash-mounted tachometer, front disc brakes are some of the 30 "extras" Fiat includes at no extra cost. Test drive and test price the Fiat 850 Spider today!

'The Best Spitter I've Ever Seen'

Can you image a fellow who is a stockbroker during the off-season being charged with throwing spitballs during the baseball season?

Atlanta manager Luman Harris claims Dodge pitcher Bill Singer, the off-season stockbroker, throws a "spitter."

And that's just fine with the 25-year-old Singer, who beat the Braves, 3-1, Friday night on a four-hitter.

"If they think I'm throwing a spitter, that just gives them one more pitch to worry about," said Singer, the first pitcher in the National League to record four victories.

"If I was 0-4 they wouldn't be saying a thing," stated Singer.

"They should either legalize or enforce the outlaw of the spitball," said Harris. "Since they're letting everyone get away with it, I'm going to teach my pitchers to throw the spitball."

"We've faced five guys this season who have thrown the spitball — Jim Maloney, Tony Cloninger, Dick Selma, Gaylord Perry and Singer. Singer had the best spitter I've ever seen."

• • • •

DODGER MANAGER Walt Alston had only one comment: "So what else is new?"

"The spitball wasn't outlawed because it was dangerous," said Harris. "It was outlawed because nobody can hit it. And I think the law on the spitball should be outlawed. Baseball needs more offense. That's what has made football and basketball popular.

"Baseball has attempted to increase its offense. We've moved in our fences, just as several clubs have. The Dodgers have moved home plate. And yet the umpires let the pitchers get away with the spitter. They don't do a thing about it.

"There was a big issue in Chicago last season with Phil Regan throwing the spitter, but they let everybody off the hook.

"It's not always spit they load up with. It might be oil or gasoline or anything.

"The pitch breaks sharper than a curve. It just explodes at the plate."

And the spitball explosion continues.

Yugoslavian Star Upset in L.B.

By ALLEN WOLFE

Cathy Rigby proved once again that good things do come in small packages.

Miss Rigby, the tiny 4-10, 90-pound charmer from Los Alamitos, held a partisan audience of 4,332 spellbound as she beat the best the world has to offer in winning the first World Cup Invitational Gymnastics Championships Saturday at the Long Beach Arena.

Cathy, who placed 16th at the Mexico City Olympics at the age of 15, clearly was the overwhelming crowd pleaser and demonstrated superior adeptness in defeating a stellar field of international talent which included stars from Japan, Yugoslavia, Canada and the United States. The Los Alamitos High sophomore, with her ever-present blonde ponytails swinging during each routine, collected 37.45 total points for the balance beam, vault, uneven bars and floor exercise to edge Japan's Chieko Oda with 37.25.

Cathy, in addition to winning the all-around title, also captured individual honors in the uneven bars, usually considered to be her worst event because of her diminutive size, with 9.55 points and the balance beam also at 9.55.

"I was most assured on the beam because that is generally my best event," smiled Cathy. I really liked my score in the unevens, though."

Cathy, who trained four months for the meet, said she "was worried about the Japanese girl, Oda, because she looked kind of hard to beat."

However, it was Cathy

Dodgers Shaded By Atlanta, 6-4

By FRED CLAIRE

"I think the race is going to be this way until the finish," said Atlanta manager Lum Harris.

Harris' reference was to the race in the West Division of the National League where Atlanta and the Dodgers are tied for first place with 11-6 records as a result of the Braves' 6-4 win at Dodger Stadium Saturday night.

San Francisco is a shade back at 10-6 with Cincinnati in fourth at 8-7. "Any of these clubs can win this thing," said Harris. "It's going to be rough."

It was rough for the Braves Saturday night after Ron Reed had breezed through eight innings with a one-hitter, a fourth-inning homer by Andy Kosco which provided the Dodgers with a brief 1-0 lead.

Atlanta tied the game in the fifth when Felipe Alou — who had four of the Braves' 12 hits — scored all the way from first on Felix Millan's single to left as the Dodgers were caught napping.

The Braves scored four unearned runs in the seventh, when an error by Dodger starter Alan Foster opened the gates, and hiked their lead to 6-1 on Orlando Cepeda's homer over the centerfield fence in the ninth.

But the Dodgers don't die peacefully.

The Dodgers kayoed Reed by rallying for three runs in the ninth and had runners at first and third when Ken Boyer, in his first appearance of the season, struck out against Brave relief pitcher Cecil Upshaw.

After Reed retired Bill Russell on a fly to right to open the ninth the Dodgers got things started in a slow way when Wes Parker walked. Kosco popped to third baseman Clete Boyer for the second out but Tom Haller singled, Bill Sudakis walked to load the bases and Ted Sizemore singled to produce a run and hike his hitting streak to seven. Pinch-hitter Ron Fairly then singled to score a run and Sudakis also came in as second baseman Millan had trouble handling the ball.

That brought up Boyer but he went down swinging, and the crowd of 24,057 was left gasping. That's the way it has been for the Dodgers, who have come from behind to win eight of their 11 games and seem to believe no lead is too big to overcome.

The 6-6 Reed, who once played pro basketball for the Detroit Pistons, was too much to overcome for eight innings. After Reed survived the first inning, when he had walked the bases loaded, he was in command.

From the end of the first until the start of the ninth only three Dodgers reached base — Kosco "touching all the bases" (as Dick Enberg would say); Haller reaching first on an error in the fourth and Willie Crawford on a walk in the fifth.

CARLOS RUNS 9.2, EVANS HAS 44.4 RELAY SPLIT

'Speed City' Burns Up Mt. SAC

By JOHN DIXON
Staff Writer

In San Jose, the track team is called "Speed City."

Saturday the Spartans showed why.

Competing in the all-star Mt. San Antonio Relays, San Jose won the 440-yard relay in meet record time, 39.6; San Jose won the 880-yard relay in meet record time, 1:22.7, and San Jose won the mile relay in 3:11.1.

The Spartans may not lose a sprint relay all year. And you can wager they'll set a pair of world records while putting together that perfect record.

John Carlos of San Jose State was voted outstanding runner of the meet. And if he didn't get the vote, teammate Lee Evans would have.

Frank Covelli of the Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, led field event balloting. The two-time Olympian line-drived the javelin 272 feet, 2 inches, bettering his own meet record by 11 feet.

Carlos, ejected from Mexico City's Olympic Village last year for disruptive demonstrations, enjoyed the most productive day of his career.

He won the 100-yard dash in 9.2, one-tenth of one second off the world record, and equal best in the world this year.

He anchored 440 and 880 relay teams to overwhelming victories.

He might have navigated the 100 a split second faster, but the competition finished so far behind it should have been labelled "race No. 2." Stan Allotey of Ghana was second, a megaphone shout down the track in 9.6.

San Jose certainly would have erased its own world record of 1:22.1 in the half-mile relay but for a freak injury.

Spartan leadoff Sam Davis pulled a hamstring muscle as he neared the first exhcange, and instead of far ahead, the Spartans were far back. The injury cost them some 20 yards.

Davis tottered on, handed the baton to Kirk Clayton, and at the next exchange San Jose was tussling for the lead. Ronnie Rae Smith clinched victory on the third leg, and Carlos finished 30 yards in front.

The relay exchange boundaries appeared to be measured incorrectly. Davis may have run 20 yards too far— world record mistake.

"You gotta admit, we didn't quit," demanded Carlos. "I guess people expected us to stop after Davis pulled up. But this is a real good team, no weaknesses. Watch out for us at Modesto—that should be the big one. As for myself, I've never felt better. Can't get much faster than 9.2, can you?"

The mile relay drew gasps from the crowd of 7,000 for 44.4 seconds—the time required for San Jose's Lee Evans to run the final 440 yards.

Twenty-five yards behind Strider and Army teams, Evans, Olympic Games gold medalist and world record holder, ran as though the sheriff were chasing him. With every ground-gulping stride he gained on the pacesetters. Fifty yards from the tape he assumed leadership, and staggered across with a yard to spare over Roger Wolff of the Striders.

"Man, I felt real confident when I got the baton because I felt strong, but in those last 50 yards I had my doubts. I really had to dig," puffed Evans. "I don't think I've ever been as tired after a race, but it was worth it."

Biggest surprise of the 1968 Olympic Games was Al Oerter's fourth successive discus gold medal. Biggest surprise at Mt. San Antonio Saturday was Oerter's failure to win the discus.

Oerter threw 201-3, but Olympic also-ran Gary Carlsen won at 202-4, and Olympic favorite Jay Silvester was third at 197-2.

"I'm not unhappy with my performance," explained Oerter. "That's about as good as I've ever done in my opening meet. I have just about decided this will be my last season of competition. It's not the work involved, it's the time. After this year I think if I can ever find a few days, I'll just go fishing."

Bob Beamon, who shared the hero's mantel with Oerter at Mexico City, won the long jump with a wind-aided 26-1¾. In Mexico, Beamon jumped 29-2½.

Wade Bell of Oregon was favored to win the Olympic 800 meters, but he failed to survive first round eliminations. Saturday he won a class 880 in 1:49.9.

"I'm starting to feel

Cooper Guns to Enduro Win

Racing a boat built of man's oldest material shaped into boating's most ultra-modern design, Marina del Rey's Bill Cooper turned the outboards section of the first World Invitational Marathon into a casual Marine Stadium cruise Saturday that earned him $1,000.

Cooper, 35, covered 175 laps of a mile-and-a-quarter each around Marine Stadium, a total distance of approximately 218 miles. It's an unsurveyed course, but race officials estimated Cooper's speed at about 72 mph — far faster than anyone thought could be accomplished in the stadium's tight turns.

The most surprising thing about the event, perhaps, was that there were no flips, collisions or other calamities during the three-hour race, first of its kind ever staged in a course so small.

Cooper, the reigning Pacific Offshore Power Boat Racing Assn. champion, was at the wheel of a Ron Jones-designed tunnel hull hydro which had its first test only the day before the race. Still, he took the lead within the first lap and was never headed.

In a fiberglass era, Cooper's victory had another dimension of surprise since the hull is made entirely of wood — spruce, ash and mahogony. Cooper is president of a major West Coast lumber company, and if you want to read something into that, just go right ahead.

The radical design of the new boat features a punched out nose section which designer-builder Jones claims "eliminates the tendency to kite, but still lets it fly."

The design moves the center of aerodynamic lift toward the stern, which, according to Jones, makes the boat more stable.

Another element of gratification for Cooper was the fact the win was his first in any type of race since his near-fatal

The Spartans may not lose a sprint relay all year. And you can wager they'll set a pair of world records while putting together that perfect record.

John Carlos of San Jose State was voted outstanding runner of the meet. And if he didn't get the vote, teammate Lee Evans would have.

Frank Covelli of the Pacific Coast club, Long Beach, led field event balloting. The two-time Olympian line-drived the javelin 272 feet, 2 inches, bettering his own meet record by 11 feet.

Carlos, ejected from Mexico City's Olympic Village last year for disruptive demonstrations, enjoyed the most productive day of his career.

He won the 100-yard dash in 9.2, one-tenth of one second off the world record, and equal best in the world this year.

He anchored 440 and 880 relay teams to overwhelming victories.

He might have navigated the 100 a split second faster, but the competition finished so far behind it should have been labelled "race No. 2." Stan Allotey of Ghana was second, a megaphone shout down the track in 9.6.

San Jose certainly would have erased its own world record of 1:22.1 in the half-mile relay but for a freak injury.

Spartan leadoff Sam Davis pulled a hamstring muscle as he neared the first exhcange, and instead of far ahead, the Spartans were far back. The injury cost them some 20 yards.

Davis tottered on, handed the baton to Kirk Clayton, and at the next exchange San Jose was tussling for the lead. Ronnie Rae Smith clinched victory on the third leg, and Carlos finished 30 yards in front.

The relay exchange boundaries appeared to be measured incorrectly. Davis may have run 20 yards too far— world record mistake.

"You gotta admit, we didn't quiet," demanded Carlos. "I guess people expected us to stop after Davis pulled up. But this is a real good team, no weaknesses. Watch out for us at Modesto—that should be the big one. As for myself, I've never felt better. Can't get much faster than 9.2, can you?"

The mile relay drew gasps from the crowd of 7,000 for 44.4 seconds—the time required for San Jose's Lee Evans to run the final 440 yards.

Twenty-five yards behind Strider and Army teams, Evans, Olympic Games gold medalist and world record holder, ran as though the sheriff were chasing him. With every ground-gulping stride he gained on the pacesetters. Fifty yards from the tape he assumed leadership, and staggered across with a yard to spare over Roger Wolff of the Striders.

"Man, I felt real confident when I got the baton because I felt strong, but in those last 50 yards I had my doubts. I really had to dig," puffed Evans. "I don't think I've ever been as tired after a race, but it was worth it."

Biggest surprise of the 1968 Olympic Games was Al Oerter's fourth successive discus gold medal. Biggest surprise at Mt. San Antonio Saturday was Oerter's failure to win the discus.

Oerter threw 201-3, but Olympic also-ran Gary Carlsen won at 202-4, and Olympic favorite Jay Silvester was third at 197-2.

"I'm not unhappy with my performance," explained Oerter. "That's about as good as I've ever done in my opening meet. I have just about decided this will be my last season of competition. It's not the work involved, it's the time. After this year I think if I can ever find a few days, I'll just go fishing."

Bob Beamon, who shared the hero's mantel with Oerter at Mexico City, won the long jump with a wind-aided 26-1¾. In Mexico, Beamon jumped 29-2½.

Wade Bell of Oregon was favored to win the Olympic 800 meters, but he failed to survive first round eliminations. Saturday he won a class 880 in 1:49.9.

'THUMB' RACE, EH?

Bob Cooper of Marina del Rey signals smooth going en route to victory in World Invitational Marathon for outboards at Marine Stadium Saturday.

Cooper Guns to Enduro-Win

Racing a boat built of man's oldest material shaped into boating's most ultra-modern design, Marina del Rey's Bill Cooper turned the outboards section of the first World Invitational Marathon into a casual Marine Stadium cruise Saturday that earned him $1,000.

Cooper, 35, covered 175 laps of a mile-and-a-quarter each around Marine Stadium, a total distance of approximately 218 miles. It's an unsurveyed course, but race officials estimated Cooper's speed at about 72 mph — far faster than anyone thought could be accomplished in the stadium's tight turns.

The most surprising thing about the event, perhaps, was that there were no flips, collisions or other calamities during the three-hour race, first of its kind ever staged in a course so small.

Cooper, the reigning Pacific Offshore Power Boat Racing Assn. champion, was at the wheel of a Ron Jones-designed tunnel hull hydro which had its first test only the day before the race. Still, he took the lead within the first lap and was never headed.

In a fiberglass era, Cooper's victory had another dimension of surprise since the hull is made entirely of wood — spruce, ash and mahogany. Cooper is president of a major West Coast lumber company, and if you want to read something into that, just go right ahead.

The radical design of the new boat features a punched out nose section which designer-builder Jones claims "eliminates the tendency to kite, but still lets it fly."

The design moves the center of aerodynamic lift toward the stern, which, according to Jones, makes the boat more stable.

Another element of gratification for Cooper was the fact the win was his first in any type of race since his near-fatal

GROOMED AS TWINS' BOSS

Billy the Kid No Backstabber

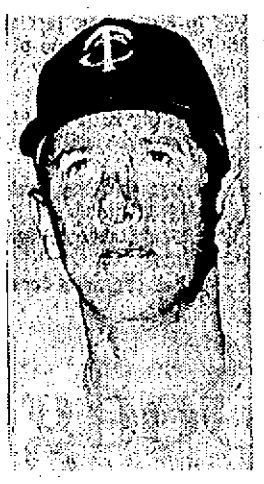

Alfred Manuel Martin, sometimes known as Billy, at age 40 is both the youngest and most outspoken manager in major league baseball ranks. On several occasions writers claimed that the new manager of the Minnesota Twins twisted the shiv into the previous two Minnesota pilots, Sam Mele and Cal Ermer.

"It's nothing like that and I'm sick and tired of reading such things," exploded Billy The Kid when the Twins wandered into Anaheim Stadium several days ago.

"I got this job fair and square, and the good Lord knows that I worked hard for it. He also knows that I didn't stab anybody in the back. I even went down to the minor leagues (Denver) to learn my apprenticeship as a manager. If I was going to slice anybody I could have done it without ever leaving the bigs."

Martin is a hard-nosed little monkey whose bark is far worse than his bite. You might refer to him as a junior Leo Durocher. Both talk a good fight but neither could punch his way out of a paper bag.

Our introduction to Billy The Kid came in 1948 when he was performing under Casey Stengel with the old PCL's Oakland Acorns. In a game against Sacramento, Martin broke up a double play in the fashion of the famed St. Louis Cardinal Gashouse Gang. He slammed into second base with spikes high and just about slit the throat of a shortstop named Jack Calvey.

BILLY MARTIN
Owner's 'Take-Charge' Guy

Calvey, a worse pugilist than either Martin or Durocher, spat the dirt from his mouth and invited Martin to a duel on the spot. Billy, like any good soldier, knew his opponent and immediately accepted the challenge. Even the father of Ziggy Zyglewicz couldn't have been more proud of his son.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH
Executive Sports Editor

The "battle" never commenced because the Sacramento second baseman who had seen service with the Cincinnati Reds, Alex Kampouris, a stoic Greek, politely informed the two "combatants" that if either continued the farce he, personally, would eliminate each with a minimum of two punches. End of duel.

Yet, Stengel spotted something that day in Martin. "That little guy is going to be a big league manager," chortled Casey. "He's got the sense to know who to fight and the sense to know when to get out when the getting is good. That's what managing a ball club is all about."

BRINGING OURSELVES up to date, we can mention that Billy Martin didn't inherit the Twins' job without an 0-2 count against him. He was president Calvin Griffith's boy for the past few seasons. As a Minnesota coach and a manager in the Twins' farm system, Martin had to transcend the behind-the-back remarks and latrine jokes aimed at him.

Then, after he accepted his first major league managerial post, Billy woke up one morning only to read the Twins' official brochure handed to him by his wife, Gretchen, a kind soul from Alliance, Nebr., who didn't have the heart (nor stomach) to hang around while Alfred Manuel digested its contents.

Everything was okay until Martin reached page 22. On that page was printed the following:

"Convinced that a lack of firm control over the players was at the root of the club's troubles last season, Mr. Griffith chose to turn the reins over to the fiery Billy Martin, confident that a 'take-charge' guy like Martin was needed if the team was to regain its composure as a contender in the pennant race."

Oh, brother. How's that for openers?

NOT ONE TO EVADE an issue, Martin admitted that he was aware of the discontent on the Twins' club under Mele and Ermer, that he "thought" he realized the reasons, and also that he had "no comment" upon what his players' reaction might be towards Griffith's lack-of-taste brochure statement.

Billy The Kid wasn't necessarily evading the Calvin comment. He just remembered the day when he faced Kampouris and realized that discretion once again was the better part of valor.

If you're a wagering addict, the best bet in baseball today is the Twins emerging triumphant in baseball's futility department, American League West. All Martin has to do is show up with nine men and the Italian tiger will quickly dispose of rejects such as the Angels, Seattle, Kansas City, Oakland and the White Sox.

It's not a big order for a first-year man — if Calvin stays off his back. Griffith has weird ideas about managing a baseball team.

Like, as related by one of Martin's coaches (take a look at his staff and you have one of two chances to guess the name), "the president thought something was wrong last year with a club that didn't fine a player all season. They tell me that Mr. Ermer levied only one fine and that was $250 against a guy who rebelled in spring training. The fine was never collected."

DISSENSION HAS BEEN the Twins' story for several seasons. We got the message and gave it to you about six years ago from Florida. The split hit the fan after the 1967 season when Mele was voted out of a share of the World Series loot.

Eight Minnesota players who resented the omission of Mele refused to vote a share to his successor, Ermer. Cal eventually got his $2,200 prize money but in his doghouse last season were the eight players who had vetoed his cut.

And, as Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Jim Kaat, Rod Carew and (himself) Dean Chance can attest, that was the undoing of Ermer.

Cal Griffith always has liked the cut of Martin's jib. But the well-known and not too popular socialite should keep in mind that in replacing "Too Lax" Ermer he acquired a banty rooster known as "Take Charge" Martin.

At any rate, Martin has one thing going for him. He won't finish a deary seventh this season. Only six teams are in Cal Griffith's division.

METS MUDDLE IT UP

Cubs' Al Spangler scampers past Met catcher Jerry Grote as umpire Shag Crawford signals safe in game played Saturday in New York. Spangler scored behind Don Kessinger on bases-loaded dribbler by Ernie Banks. Play at first was too late and then throw home by Ed Kranepool was wide and late again. Cubs won, 9-3.

Ex-Bruin Cox Stymies Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Casey Cox hurled a six-hit shutout in 8 2-3 innings of relief and the Washington Senators buried Cleveland 8-1 Saturday, handing the Indians their 14th loss in 15 games and ninth in a row.

(Cox is a 1959 graduate of Wilson High where he was a star in basketball and baseball for the Bruins.)

Cox took over with one out in the first inning after Barry Moore had walked four batters to give the Indians a 1-0 lead. Cox got Max Alvis to hit into a double play and had little trouble thereafter for his first victory.

Paul Casanova's sacrifice fly in the fourth inning tied the count and then the Senators shelled Sam McDowell for four runs in the fifth, including Ken McMullen's tie-breaking, two-run double. Tim Cullen's hit and another sacrifice fly by Casanova capped the rally.

The other three runs came in the seventh and eighth innings on a bases loaded walk, a passed ball and Del Unser's sacrifice fly.

10 INNINGS

Pepitone's HR Beats Orioles

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Joe Pepitone homered off relief pitcher Pete Richert with two out in the 10th inning Saturday to give the New York Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Pepitone, who had ended a New York rally in the eighth by hitting into a double play, connected on a 1-0 pitch to give Lindy McDaniel, the fourth Yankee pitcher, his second win of the season.

The Yankees tied the score at 5-5 in the eighth with two runs on Bobby Murcer's single, a walk to pinch-hitter Billy Cowan and Tom Tresh's two-run triple into the right field corner.

COLBERT HOMERS

Late San Diego Rally Sinks Reds

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres, after pecking away at Jim Merritt for seven innings, exploded for five runs off the Cincinnati southpaw in the eighth and downed the Reds 5-2 with Nate Colbert collecting his third home run in three days.

Colbert cracked a three-run homer in the inning as the Padres overcame a 2-0 deficit and Chris Cannizzaro followed with another homer with one aboard.

For Cannizzaro, now in his eighth year in the major leagues, it was only his second big league homer.

John Bench homered in the second, his fourth of the year, and had a sacrifice fly in the sixth. The sophomore Cincinnati catcher now has driven in 18 runs in 15 games.

Mays, Marichal Nip Astros, 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays slammed his 590th home run in the first inning, then singled and scored the deciding run in the fifth as the San Francisco Giants nipped Houston 2-1 Saturday behind Juan Marichal's four-hitter.

Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth scored Mays, breaking a 1-1 tie and sending the Giants to their fourth victory in a row. The Astros have lost 10 of their last 11 starts.

Marichal, who struck out eight on the way to his third victory against one loss, gave up a run in the fourth on Jesus Alou's double and Jim Wynn's single. He worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth by getting Denis Menke on a fly to right for the third out.

Mays cracked his third homer of the season off left-hander Wade Blasingame (0-4) with two out in the first.

GROOMED AS TWINS' BOSS

Billy the Kid No Backstabber

Alfred Manuel Martin, sometimes known as Billy, at age 40 is both the youngest and most outspoken manager in major league baseball ranks. On several occasions writers claimed that the new manager of the Minnesota Twins twisted the shiv into the previous two Minnesota pilots, Sam Mele and Cal Ermer.

"It's nothing like that and I'm sick and tired of reading such things," exploded Billy The Kid when the Twins wandered into Anaheim Stadium several days ago.

"I got this job fair and square, and the good Lord knows that I worked hard for it. He also knows that I didn't stab anybody in the back. I even went down to the minor leagues (Denver) to learn my apprenticeship as a manager. If I was going to slice anybody I could have done it without ever leaving the bigs."

Martin is a hard-nosed little monkey whose bark is far worse than his bite. You might refer to him as a junior Leo Durocher. Both talk a good fight but neither could punch his way out of a paper bag.

Our introduction to Billy The Kid came in 1948 when he was performing under Casey Stengel with the old PCL's Oakland Acorns. In a game against Sacramento, Martin broke up a double play in the fashion of the famed St. Louis Cardinal Gashouse Gang. He slammed into second base with spikes high and just about slit the throat of a shortstop named Jack Calvey.

BILLY MARTIN
Owner's 'Take-Charge' Guy

Calvey, a worse pugilist than either Martin or Durocher, spat the dirt from his mouth and invited Martin to a duel on the spot. Billy, like any good soldier, knew his opponent and immediately accepted the challenge. Even the father of Ziggy Zyglewicz couldn't have been more proud of his son.

HANK HOLLINGWORTH

The "battle" never commenced because the Sacramento second baseman who had seen service with the Cincinnati Reds, Alex Kamouris, a stoic Greek, politely informed the two "combatants" that if either continued the farce he, personally, would eliminate each with a minimum of two punches. End of duel.

Yet, Stengel spotted something that day in Martin. "That little guy is going to be a big league manager," chortled Casey. "He's got the sense to know who to fight and the sense to know when to get out when the getting is good. That's what managing a ball club is all about."

BRINGING OURSELVES up to date, we can mention that Billy Martin didn't inherit the Twins' job without an 0-2 count against him. He was president Calvin Griffith's boy for the past few seasons. As a Minnesota coach and a manager in the Twins' farm system, Martin had to transcend the behind-the-back remarks and latrine jokes aimed at him.

Then, after he accepted his first major league managerial post, Billy woke up one morning only to read the Twins' official brochure handed to him by his wife, Gretchen, a kind soul from Alliance, Nebr., who didn't have the heart (nor stomach) to hang around while Alfred Manuel digested its contents.

Everything was okay until Martin reached page 22. On that page was printed the following:

"Convinced that a lack of firm control over the players was at the root of the club's troubles last season, Mr. Griffith chose to turn the reins over to the fiery Billy Martin, confident that a 'take-charge' guy like Martin was needed if the team was to regain its composure as a contender in the pennant race."

Oh, brother. How's that for openers?

NOT ONE TO EVADE an issue, Martin admitted that he was aware of the discontent on the Twins' club under Mele and Ermer, that he "thought" he realized the reasons, and also that he had "no comment" upon what his players' reaction might be towards Griffith's lack-of-taste brochure statement.

Billy The Kid wasn't necessarily evading the Calvin comment. He just remembered the day when he faced Kampouris and realized that discretion once again was the better part of valor.

If you're a wagering addict, the best bet in baseball today is the Twins emerging triumphant in baseball's futility department, American League West. All Martin has to do is show up with nine men and the Italian tiger will quickly dispose of rejects such as the Angels, Seattle, Kansas City, Oakland and the White Sox.

It's not a big order for a first-year man — if Calvin stays off his back. Griffith has weird ideas about managing a baseball team.

Like, as related by one of Martin's coaches (take a look at his staff and you have one of two chances to guess the name), "the president thought something was wrong last year with a club that didn't fine a player all season. They tell me that Mr. Ermer levied only one fine and that was $250 against a guy who rebelled in spring training. The fine was never collected."

DISSENSION HAS BEEN the Twins' story for several seasons. We got the message and gave it to you about six years ago from Florida. The split hit the fan after the 1967 season when Mele was voted out of a share of the World Series loot.

Eight Minnesota players who resented the omission of Mele refused to vote a share to his successor, Ermer. Cal eventually got his $2,200 prize money but in his doghouse last season were the eight players who had vetoed his cut.

And, as Harmon Killebrew, Tony Oliva, Jim Kaat, Rod Carew and (himself) Dean Chance can attest, that was the undoing of Ermer.

Cal Griffith always has liked the cut of Martin's jib. But the well-known and not too popular socialite should keep in mind that in replacing "Too Lax" Ermer he acquired a banty rooster known as "Take Charge" Martin.

At any rate, Martin has one thing going for him. He won't finish a deary seventh this season. Only six teams are in Cal Griffith's division.

METS MUDDLE IT UP

Ex-Bruin Cox Stymies Tribe

CLEVELAND (AP) — Casey Cox hurled a six-hit shutout in 8 2-3 innings of relief and the Washington Senators buried Cleveland 8-1 Saturday, handing the Indians their 14th loss in 15 games and ninth in a row.

(Cox is a 1959 graduate of Wilson High where he was a star in basketball and baseball for the Bruins.)

Cox took over with one out in the first inning after Barry Moore had walked four consecutive batters to give the Indians a 1-0 lead. Cox got Max Alvis to hit into a double play and had little trouble thereafter for his first victory.

Paul Casanova's sacrifice fly in the fourth inning tied the count and then the Senators shelled Sam McDowell for four runs in the fifth, including Ken McMullen's tie-breaking, two-run double. Tim Cullen's hit and another sacrifice fly by Casanova capped the rally.

The other three runs came in the seventh and eighth innings on a bases loaded walk, a passed ball and Del Unser's sacrifice fly.

Pepitone's HR Beats Orioles

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Joe Pepitone homered off relief pitcher Pete Richert with two out in the 10th inning Saturday to give the New York Yankees a 6-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Pepitone, who had ended a New York rally in the eighth by hitting into a double play, connected on a 1-0 pitch to give Lindy McDaniel, the fourth Yankee pitcher, his second win of the season.

The Yankees tied the score at 5-5 in the eighth with two runs on Bobby Murcer's single, a walk to pinch-hitter Billy Cowan and Tom Tresh's two-run triple into the right field corner.

Cubs' Spree COLBERT HOMERS

Late San Diego Rally Sinks Reds

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The San Diego Padres, after pecking away at Jim Merritt for seven innings, exploded for five runs off the Cincinnati southpaw in the eighth and downed the Reds 5-2 with Nate Colbert collecting his third home run in three days.

Colbert cracked a three-run homer in the inning as the Padres overcame a 2-0 deficit and Chris Cannizzaro followed with another homer with one aboard.

For Cannizzaro, now in his eighth year in the major leagues, it was only his second big league homer.

John Bench homered in the second, his fourth of the year, and had a sacrifice fly in the sixth. The sophomore Cincinnati catcher now has driven in 18 runs in 15 games.

Mays, Marichal Nip Astros, 2-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Willie Mays slammed his 590th home run in the first inning, then singled and scored the deciding run in the fifth as the San Francisco Giants nipped Houston 2-1 Saturday behind Juan Marichal's four-hitter.

Jim Hart's two-out single in the fifth scored Mays, breaking a 1-1 tie and sending the Giants to their fourth victory in a row. The Astros have lost 10 of their last 11 starts.

Marichal, who struck out eight on the way to his third victory against one loss, gave up a run in the fourth on Jesus Alou's double and Jim Wynn's single. He worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the sixth by getting Denis Menke on a fly to right for the third out.

Mays cracked his third homer of the season off left-hander Wade Blasingame, 0-4, with two out in the first.

A CAREER OF CONTROVERSY

He's Tall, He's Dark, He's Mysterious . . . He's Wilt

"Many people read about me or see me at a fleeting glance and make their own opinions about me. I know I can't please everyone. Earning the respect of people I know means more. That's what's important to me." — Will Chamberlain.

RICH ROBERTS

Science fiction tells us that creatures from other planets have already landed on earth and are living among us.

There is one suspect in particular so awesome in physical appearance and prowess, so mysterious in demeanor that one must wonder about his origin. He plays center for the Lakers.

Wilt Chamberlain is an enigma. At 7-feet-1, he is as deep as he is tall.

"I think it's my size and because I'm somewhat complex," he says, "and the fact that I hold just about every record in the book. You know, it's a controversial type of thing, and people like controversy. As long as there's someone who'll say, 'He's the greatest,' someone else is gonna say, 'He's not.'

"Also, I have diversified interests and am outspoken on some of the things I believe in. It's gonna irritate a lot of people. But I would rather be a man of this kind than one that tends to placate everyone that comes along."

* * * *

CHAMBERLAIN HAS never been accused of that. Storm clouds already were gathering when he arrived at the Forum last summer.

The blending of Chamberlain with the Lakers' resident superstars, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, led Wilt into a headon collision of wills with the fiery coach, Willem van Breda Kolff.

"I don't think any other athlete," Wilt frowns, "has been ordered or told or requested or beseeched by people — by players — to do something other than what he's supposed to do, like I was.

"I will say this in defense of Wilt Chamberlain: I play center on a basketball team, and I think I play center pretty damn well. I get a lot of money for doing my job, so I must know something about it. Nobody tells Jerry West how to play guard.

"Now, I'm not stubborn when I talk to my coach and try to tell him what I think is best for me. That's all it was, and it was blown up out of proportion.

"Butch van Breda Kolff is a very honest man and a very frank man. He chose to talk to the press about it . . . like, 'Wilt and I are going through a dissertation on whether he should be playing high or low post' . . . which could be a very groovy conversation. But now some sportswriter might say, 'Hey, Wilt and VBK are at odds!' "

* * * *

CHAMBERLAIN, LIKE many controversial celebrities, has assumed an instinctive mistrust of writers.

Only last week a Los Angeles newspaper ran an advance story on the Celtic series. "The headline," Wilt grimaces, "was, 'Now we'll find out whether Wilt's a winner.' Well, you know, if the team loses it's because I'm not a winner!

"These kind of things irritate me. I've given writers a lot of my time. I just think it hasn't been worth it."

It's an old rap on Chamberlain that he hasn't been a winner, that he played on only one title team during nine years in the NBA. The fact is he played on the only title team — Philadelphia — in the last 10 years that didn't wear green uniforms.

And, as Bill Sharman pointed out here some time ago, West and Baylor never have played on a title team . . . and if they do so now it will be with Chamberlain's help.

"You could go on and on with that," says Wilt, weary of the dogeared diatribes. Rootless criticism does not matter to him, as it does not matter to the President of the United States for whom he campaigned, nor to the aggressively independent owner for whom he plays.

"I've been besieged by people, and sometimes it becomes a very irritating thing. He (President Nixon) has to go through this every day. It epitomizes what a man in a certain position has to endure . . . and his endurance is fantastic. His comprehension, his patience is just something to behold."

* * * *

WILT ALSO IS "very impressed" with Jack Kent Cooke.

"He felt strongly that he wanted to put together the best basketball team he could. It takes a lot of man to do something in the face of being put down continuously. He'd be the first one, I'd have to say, that I'd like to win this world title for."

Chamberlain admires men like Nixon and Cooke but insists that he is not influenced by them. Nor has he compromised his own free spirit for marriage.

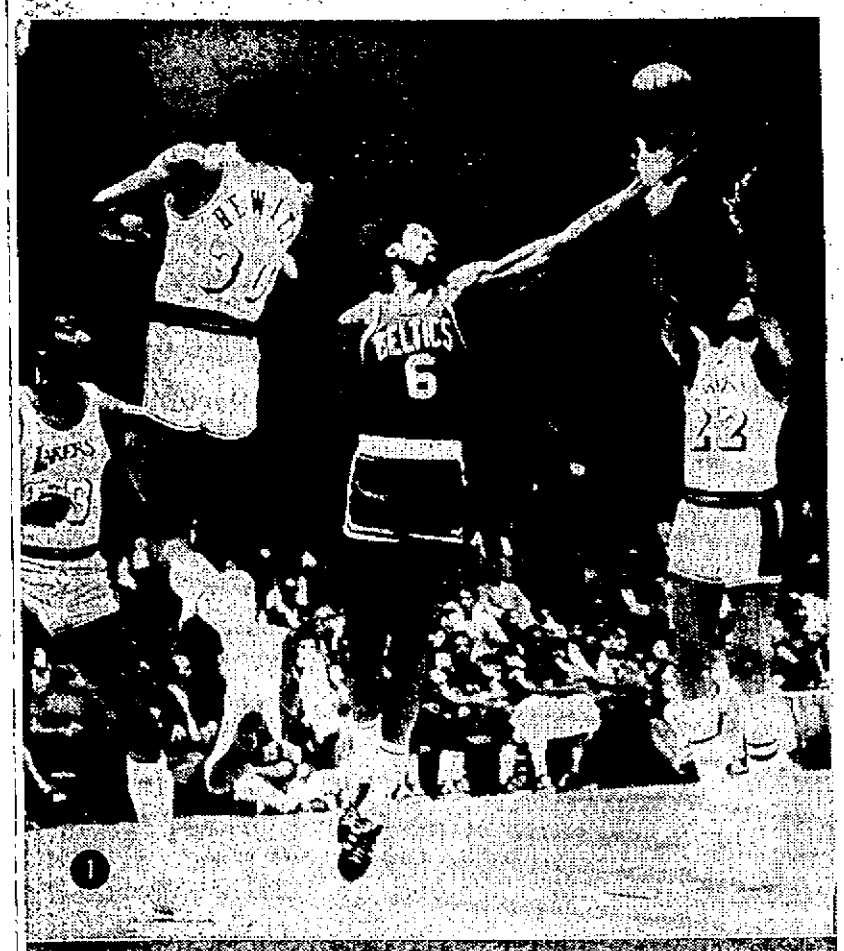

"I'm kind of my own man. I've only ever thought one way about people — that all people are alike. I own horses, and I don't put the black stallions on this side and the white stallions on that side. They're still horses.

"Marriage? I was just never ready for it. It's a communication and a blending together, and it's pretty hard to be together when you're out on the road eight months a year."

But Chamberlain does not lack for companionship or creature comforts. He owns apartments among many investments, drives a Maserati and a Bentley, is planning to take golf lessons from a tenant, pro Lee Elder, and is having a special boat built so he can water ski on the Colorado River this summer.

Misunderstood, perhaps; unlucky, certainly not.

Among six sisters and two brothers back in Philadelphia, he was "brought up in a cosmopolitan, integrated, very free type of atmosphere," he says. "I've been a very fortunate man."

'Alley Oop' Shot by Egan Bugs Russell

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

BOSTON — Bill Russell is a deep thinker who prides himself on cooly calculating the strength of his opposition and then tearing it apart. He is seldom wrong in his assessment, or in his execution of it.

To make a game plan operable, Russell must know what every player can and cannot do. With regards to the Wests, Chamberlains and Baylors of pro basketball, there are certain inescapable truths. Russell knows them well.

It is easy, therefore, to understand his irritation today. He has come upon an eight-year veteran who should fit a certain mold but hasn't. It bugs Russell that his Celtics cannot contain this player.

The main in question is Johnny Egan, the Lakers' little bundle of dynamite who also tested the coaching acumen of Atlanta's Richie Guerin . . . and, in a way, baffled him as he is now confounding Russell.

* * * *

RUSSELL admitted Saturday that if his club is going to get back into title contention against the Lakers he will have to shackle Egan.

"He bothers me more than anyone," Russell said of Egan after Johnny's 26-point spree Friday that helped the Lakers to an unprecedented 2-0 series lead.

The third game will be played today in Boston Garden, and Egan is eagerly looking forward to another confrontation with the team he idolized in his college days. The feeling may not be mutual.

Since Egan became a starter in the third playoff game against San Francisco, he has averaged 14 points, shot 46 per cent and put zip into the Laker running game. The result has been 10 wins in 11 games.

Against Boston, he has infuriated Russell by challenging his domain with a tantalizing "lob" shot — Or "Alley Oop," as Chick Hearn calls it.

Asked why he takes on the game's greatest shot blocker, Egan just laughs and points to his head as if to say "no brains." But maybe Little Johnny is smart like a fox, because most of his lobs go in.

"It's not a desperation shot," pleads the 30-year-old former Providence star. "I work hard on perfecting it and I expect to hit a high percentage."

The off-season carpet salesman from Weathersfield, Conn., went on to explain that his large hands make the shot a good one. "I can palm the ball and wait until Russell makes his move. I have the advantage, not Bill."

A realist, Egan knows he will never gain star status, but he is proud of the fact that a man only 5-foot-11, 170 pounds can survive in a world of giants.

"I'm most proud of playing in every game," said Johnny, who is the only Laker who can make that statement. "I work hard at my endurance and I take care of my body."

Egan's conditioning program includes distance-running of no less than four miles a day in the off-season.

"The hard work is paying off now," he says. "A little man has to have something going for him. I have endurance."

Egan traces his success, and that of the Lakers, to the team's running game.

"We are a lousy team when we try to set up," he says candidly. "For the first half of the season this is what we experimented with. Most of us prefer to run."

Running, of course, is John's game, too. "Without quickness, I could not survive," he intones. "Speed enables me to get open shots and to drive."

Asked about the Celtics of this year and those of the past, Egan mimicked what Jerry West said earlier.

"There is no psychological barrier now," he says. "We know we are a better team, but four or five years ago everyone knew that Boston could run them off the court when they turned it on."

* * * *

EGAN feels the difference now is that Russell doesn't have the great reflexes he once had.

"In this series he has blocked but three or four shots. He used to be good for a dozen or more a game."

Still, Egan respects Boston.

"They were down 3-1 to Philly last year in the division finals and won," says John. "All the Lakers must be thinking about this. I know I am."

Trevino, Charles Gain Tie for Byron Nelson Tee Lead

DALLAS (AP) — Brash Lee Trevino and lefty Bob Charles fashioned a pair of damp 67s Saturday and barged into a tie for the third-round lead in the $100,000 Byron Nelson golf classic with 54-hole scores of 206.

They had a one-stroke lead over Australian Bruce Devlin and Frank Beard, who were tied for the lead with ambitious Bert Greene going into the third round.

Devlin and Beard each had third-round 70s, par for the 7,086-yard Preston Trail Golf Club course, for 207s. Greene, looking for his first tour victory, slipped back with a 73 for 210.

Charles, a former British Open champion, and Trevino, the personable present U.S. Open champion, each closed strongly on the long course, made longer by a drizzling rain.

Both were two strokes off the pace going into the day's play but overhauled the leaders down the long, homecoming stretch.

Trevino, the colorful character who calls himself the merry Mexican, put together his charge starting on the 13th hole, using a putter from off the green and steering in a 35-foot birdie.

The bold guy from West Texas' barren border country rifled his irons to the greens on Nos. 15 and 16, leaving himself with birdie putts of only 4 and 3 feet.

Pancho Blows Top, Forfeits

BOB MARTIN
Staff Writer

Pancho Gonzales, the terror of the tennis courts for over 20 years, put on one of his worst displays of his temper and a stormy career Saturday night in the Anaheim Convention Center Arena before 1,960 spectators.

After losing the second set against Ron Holmberg, 25-21, the 40-year-old Gonzalez hurled his racket across the net, barely missing the woman net judge, who hurriedly ducked.

Pancho put up his hand in a gesture of apology, but many of the spectators booed, some demanding that he be put off the courts.

After several minutes of cat-calls, Gonzales, who had won the first set, 25-16, stormed over to the umpire and said he wouldn't play the third and final set.

Rod Laver beat Dennis Ralston in the other semi-final, 25-16, 25-22, and will play Holmberg in tonight's final. The program starts at 7:30.

After Gonzales defaulted, some of the spectators continued booing. Pancho picked out one man and invited him to come out on the court, then climbed into the south end of the stands after him. The two appeared likely to come to blows until someone separated them.

The spectator, George Witt of Irvine, a big fellow who towered over the 6-3 Pancho, later told newsmen that he was a long-time fan of Pancho's.

He said he had been yelling, "Keep that racket in your hand and apoligize to that lady." Witt told newsmen "he almost hit the lady in the head."

Earlier in the match the temperamental Gonzales had shouted a few loud profanities.

In the locker room, Pancho answered a few questions by newsmen, then pounded his right hand into a locker with all his might and ordered everyone out. The newsmen hastily complied.

Gonzales was angry over the new scoring system, similar to that of table tennis, and said he wouldn't have played in the meet if they'd told him about it in advance. "I don't know what it is, but it definitely isn't tennis," he said.

Gonzales had pulled a muscle in his leg late in the second set, and promoter George MacCall said he doubted if Gonzales could have played the third set for that reason.

Pancho was to have played doubles later, but he left the Convention Center. So Pancho Segura and Alex Olmedo advanced to tonight's finals against Laver and Roy Emerson by default over Gonzales and Earl Buchholz.

A CAREER OF CONTROVERSY

He's Tall, He's Dark, He's Mysterious...He's Wilt

"Many people read about me or see me at a fleeting glance and make their own opinions about me. I know I can't please everyone. Earning the respect of people I know means more. That's what's important to me." — Wilt Chamberlain.

RICH ROBERTS

Science fiction tells us that creatures from other planets have already landed on earth and are living among us.

There is one suspect in particular so awesome in physical appearance and prowess, so mysterious in demeanor that one must wonder about his origin. He plays center for the Lakers.

Wilt Chamberlain is an enigma. At 7-feet-1, he is as deep as he is tall.

"I think it's my size and because I'm somewhat complex," he says, "and the fact that I hold just about every record in the book. You know, it's a controversial type of thing, and people like controversy. As long as there's someone who'll say, 'He's the greatest,' someone else is gonna say, 'He's not.'

"Also, I have diversified interests and am outspoken on some of the things I believe in. It's gonna irritate a lot of people. But I would rather be a man of this kind than one that tends to placate everyone that comes along."

* * * *

CHAMBERLAIN HAS never been accused of that. Storm clouds already were gathering when he arrived at the Forum last summer.

The blending of Chamberlain with the Lakers' resident superstars, Elgin Baylor and Jerry West, led Wilt into a headon collision of wills with the fiery coach, Willem van Breda Kolff.

"I don't think any other athlete," Wilt frowns, "has been ordered or told or requested or beseeched by people — by players — to do something other than what he's supposed to do, like I was.

"I will say this in defense of Wilt Chamberlain: I play center on a basketball team, and I think I play center pretty damn well. I get a lot of money for doing my job, so I must know something about it. Nobody tells Jerry West how to play guard.

"Now, I'm not stubborn when I talk to my coach and try to tell him what I think is best for me. That's all it was, and it was blown up out of proportion.

"Butch van Breda Kolff is a very honest man and a very frank man. He chose to talk to the press about it . . . like, 'Wilt and I are going through a dissertation on whether he should be playing high or low post' . . . which could be a very groovy conversation. But now some sportswriter might say, 'Hey, Wilt and VBK are at odds!' "

* * * *

CHAMBERLAIN, LIKE many controversial celebrities, has assumed an instinctive mistrust of writers.

Only last week a Los Angeles newspaper ran an advance story on the Celtic series. "The headline," Wilt grimaces, "was, 'Now we'll find out whether Wilt's a winner.' Well, you know, if the team loses it's because I'm not a winner!

"These kind of things irritate me. I've given writers a lot of my time. I just think it hasn't been worth it."

It's an old rap on Chamberlain that he hasn't been a winner, that he played on only one title team during nine years in the NBA. The fact is he played on the only title team — Philadelphia — in the last 10 years that didn't wear green uniforms.

And, as Bill Sharman pointed out here some time ago, West and Baylor never have played on a title team . . . and if they do so now it will be with Chamberlain's help.

"You could go on and on with that," says Wilt, weary of the dogeared diatribes. Rootless criticism does not matter to him, as it does not matter to the President of the United States for whom he campaigned, nor to the aggressively independent owner for whom he plays.

"I've been besieged by people, and sometimes it becomes a very irritating thing. He (President Nixon) has to go through this every day. It epitomizes what a man in a certain position has to endure . . . and his endurance is fantastic. His comprehension, his patience is just something to behold."

* * * *

WILT ALSO IS "very impressed" with Jack Kent Cooke.

"He felt strongly that he wanted to put together the best basketball team he could. It takes a lot of man to do something in the face of being put down continuously. He'd be the first one, I'd have to say, that I'd like to win this world title for."

Chamberlain admires men like Nixon and Cooke but insists that he is not influenced by them. Nor has he compromised his own free spirit for marriage.

"I'm kind of my own man. I've only ever thought one way about people — that all people are alike. I own horses, and I don't put the black stallions on this side and the white stallions on that side. They're still horses.

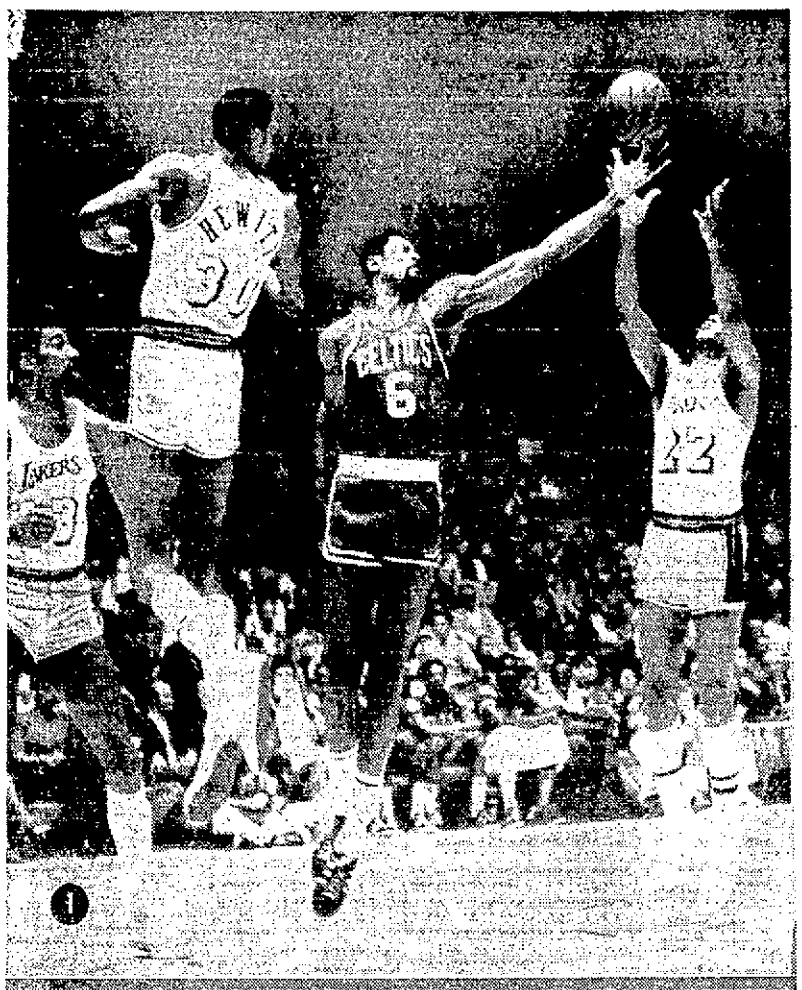

"Marriage? I was just never ready for it. It's a communication and a blending together, and it's pretty hard to be together when you're out on the road eight months a year."

But Chamberlain does not lack for companionship or creature comforts. He owns apartments among many investments, drives a Maserati and a Bentley, is planning to take golf lessons from a tenant, pro Lee Elder, and is having a special boat built so he can water ski on the Colorado River this summer.

Misunderstood, perhaps; unlucky, certainly not.

Among six sisters and two brothers back in Philadelphia, he was "brought up in a cosmopolitan, integrated, very free type of atmosphere," he says. "I've been a very fortunate man."

WILT CHAMBERLAIN
Plays Center 'Pretty Well'

'Alley Oop' Shot by Egan Bugs Russell

By DOUG IVES
Staff Writer

BOSTON — Bill Russell is a deep thinker who prides himself on cooly calculating the strength of his opposition and then tearing it apart. He is seldom wrong in his assessment, or in his execution of it.

To make a game plan operable, Russell must know what every player can and cannot do. With regards to the Wests, Chamberlains and Baylors of pro basketball, there are certain inescapable truths. Russell knows them well.

It is easy, therefore, to understand his irritation today. He has come upon an eight-year veteran who should fit a certain mold but hasn't. It bugs Russell that his Celtics cannot contain this player.

The main in question is Johnny Egan, the Lakers' little bundle of dynamite who also tested the coaching acumen of Atlanta's Richie Guerin . . . and, in a way, baffled him as he is now confounding Russell.

* * * *

RUSSELL admitted Saturday that if his club is going to get back into title contention against the Lakers he will have to shackle Egan.

"He bothers me more than anyone," Russell said of Egan after Johnny's 26-point spree Friday that helped the Lakers to an unprecedented 2-0 series lead.

The third game will be played today in Boston Garden, and Egan is eagerly looking forward to another confrontation with the team he idolized in his college days. The feeling may not be mutual.

Since Egan became a starter in the third playoff game against San Francisco, he has averaged 14 points, shot 46 per cent and put zip into the Laker running game. The result has been 10 wins in 11 games.

Against Boston, he has infuriated Russell by challenging his domain with a tantalizing "lob" shot — Or "Alley Oop," as Chick Hearn calls it.

Asked why he takes on the game's greatest shot blocker, Egan just laughs and points to his head as if to say "no brains." But maybe Little Johnny is smart like a fox, because most of his lobs go in.

"It's not a desperation shot," pleads the 30-year-old former Providence star. "I work hard on perfecting it and I expect to hit a high percentage."

The off-season carpet salesman from Weathersfield, Conn., went on to explain that his large hands make the shot a good one. "I can palm the ball and wait until Russell makes his move. I have the advantage, not Bill."

A realist, Egan knows he will never gain star status, but he is proud of the fact that a man only 5-foot-11, 170 pounds can survive in a world of giants.

"I'm most proud of playing in every game," said Johnny, who is the only Laker who can make that statement. "I work hard at my endurance and I take care of my body."

Egan's conditioning program includes distance-running of no less than four miles a day in the off-season.

"The hard work is paying off now," he says. "A little man has to have something going for him. I have endurance."

Egan traces his success, and that of the Lakers, to the team's running game.

"We are a lousy team when we try to set up," he says candidly. "For the first half of the season this is what we experimented with. Most of us prefer to run."

Running, of course, is John's game, too. "Without quickness, I could not survive," he intones. "Speed enables me to get open shots and to drive."

Asked about the Celtics of this year and those of the past, Egan mimicked what Jerry West said earlier.

"There is no psychological barrier now," he says. "We know we are a better team, but four or five years ago everyone knew that Boston could run them off the court when they turned it on."

* * * *

EGAN feels the difference now is that Russell doesn't have the great reflexes he once had.

"In this series he has blocked but three or four shots. He used to be good for a dozen or more a game."

Still, Egan respects Boston.

"They were down 3-1 to Philly last year in the division finals and won," says John. "All the Lakers must be thinking about this. I know I am."

DEVLIN, BEARD ONE SHOT BACK

Trevino, Charles Gain Tie for Byron Nelson Tee Lead

DALLAS (AP) — Brash Lee Trevino and lefty Bob Charles fashioned a pair of damp 67s Saturday and barged into a tie for the third-round lead in the $100,000 Byron Nelson golf classic with 54-hole scores of 206.

They had a one-stroke lead over Australian Bruce Devlin and Frank Beard, who were tied for the lead with ambitious Bert Greene going into the third round.

Devlin and Beard each had third-round 70s, par for the 7,086-yard Preston Trail Golf Club course, for 207s. Greene, looking for his first tour victory, slipped back with a 73 for 210.

Charles, a former British Open champion, and Trevino, the personable present U.S. Open champion, each closed strongly on the long course, made longer by a drizzling rain.

Both were two strokes off the pace going into the day's play but overhauled the leaders down the long, homecoming stretch.

Trevino, the colorful character who calls himself the merry Mexican, put together his charge starting on the 13th hole, using a putter from off the green and steering in a 35-foot birdie.

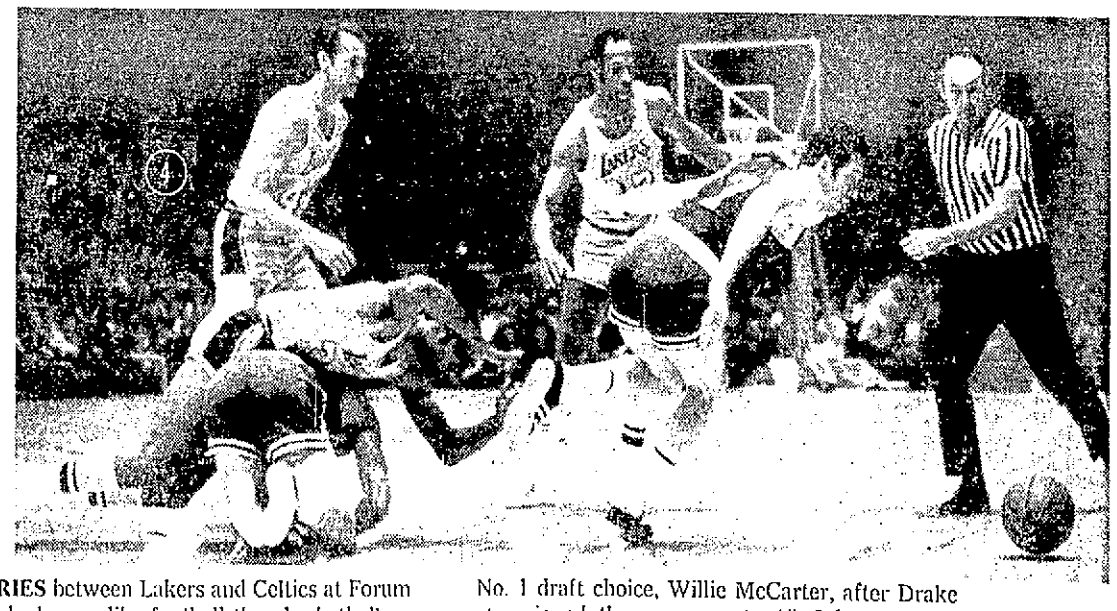

The bold guy from West Texas' barren border country rifled his irons to the greens on Nos. 15 and 16, leaving himself with birdie putts of only 4 and 3 feet.

FORUM FOLLIES

NBA SERIES between Lakers and Celtics at Forum has looked more like football than basketball on occasions. (1) Boston's Bill Russell seems to be balancing ball on fingertip with Elgin Baylor grasping air. (2) It's gangway for Emmette Bryant as Celt guard drives past Johnny Egan. (3) Laker owner Jack Kent Cooke meets club's No. 1 draft choice, Willie McCarter, after Drake star signed three-year pact. (4) John Havlicek chases loose ball as Tommy Hawkins sprawls over downed Larry Siegfried. Jerry West and Baylor watch play unfold. Wild action continues in Boston Garden today.

Centerfield? Move Over, Tris

In most all-time outfields, Tris Speaker is listed as the centerfielder between Ty Cobb in left and Babe Ruth in right.

But in the years to come, Speaker's claim to the centerfield post is destined to become more and more disputed as the feats of Joe DiMaggio, Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle are measured against his.

DiMaggio already is in the Hall of Fame alongside Speaker, while Mantle and Mays are certain to gain entrance to the shrine when they ultimately become eligible for admittance.

In the past few years, one of the most vigorously argued points is which of the three men was greatest.

Mays and Mantle have pointed to DiMag as being the best, and Joe always has admired the play of both Willie and Mickey.

"It's difficult for me to compare them because the sad thing is that Mantle was bothered by bad legs and other ailments throughout his career," DiMag said. "And if he remained healthy, he would have set records nobody would have been able to touch for a long time."

Mention of Mantle's bad wheels brought to mind that DiMaggio almost didn't get a chance to play in the majors because of a trick knee, which he injured while playing with the old San Francisco Seals of the PCL.

Until the injury, the Seals were asking in excess of $100,000 for DiMaggio . . . but after he was hurt, the Yankees were the only ones willing to take a chance on him, even though his price tag dropped to $25,000.

DiMAG, MAYS AND MANTLE have won so many honors, established so many records that it would be impossible to list them all in this space, so we'll just touch on a few.

DiMaggio's career batting average will be the highest of the three when Mays becomes the final one to hang up his spikes — .325 for 13 years with the Yankees. Mays' lifetime average currently is .308 over 18 years, while one of Mantle's biggest disappointments was to see his average dip to .298 before he quit.

Mays is the top home run hitter of the trio; in fact, second only to Babe Ruth in that department. The Bambino had 714, while Willie entered this season with 587 and should pass the 600 mark by July.

When Mantle retired in February, he was third on the all-time list with 536, but among them were some tape-measure blasts which already are legend. He has delivered some of the mightiest blows in history, including a 565-foot homer over the left-centerfield bleachers in Washington's Griffith Stadium, which is reputed to be the longest home run ever hit.

The top switch-hitter the game has ever known, Mantle also holds a niche in baseball lore for the feat of hitting homers from both the left and right sides of the plate in nine games.

DiMaggio hit only 361 homers, but nobody ever questioned his rating as one of baseball's greatest sluggers. He established one of two records baseball men feel never will be broken — his phenomenal 56-game hitting streak in 1941. The other mark is Lou Gehrig's appearance in 2,130 consecutive games.

JOE'S AWESOME HITTING STREAK began on May 15 of '41 and during those 56 games he batted .408, drove in 55 runs, scored 56 more himself, blasted 15 home runs, four triples and 16 doubles as well as 56 singles. He also walked 21 times and got on base twice more when hit by pitched balls. In that period, he struck out only seven times.

The day after the string was halted, Joe started another which lasted 16 more games. But hitting streaks were nothing new for him. Most fans — and even the experts — have forgotten that in his early days with the Seals, Joe hit in 61 consecutive games in 1933. That record also still stands.

Mays, who will be 38 on May 6, doesn't figure ever again to have the kind of season that used to be typical of him, but he still manages to make the difference in a lot of ball games.

The captain of the Giants had 19 game-winning hits last year, tops for the club. And he set up numerous other wins with his hitting, base-running and his classic fielding.

In addition to closing in on the 600-homer plateau, Mays is nearing another great accomplishment, that of becoming only the sixth man in baseball history to record over 3,000 hits.

Willie started this season with 2,812 and should reach 3,000 by early in 1970 at the latest. In comparison, Mantle just barely topped 2,400, while DiMaggio wound up with 2,214.

THE CAREERS OF THESE THREE great centerfielders crossed only once — in the 1951 World Series between the Yankees and Giants. It was DiMaggio's last year and the first for Willie and Mickey.

Actually, only DiMag and Mays played centerfield in that series. Mantle was in right, shifting to center the following year.

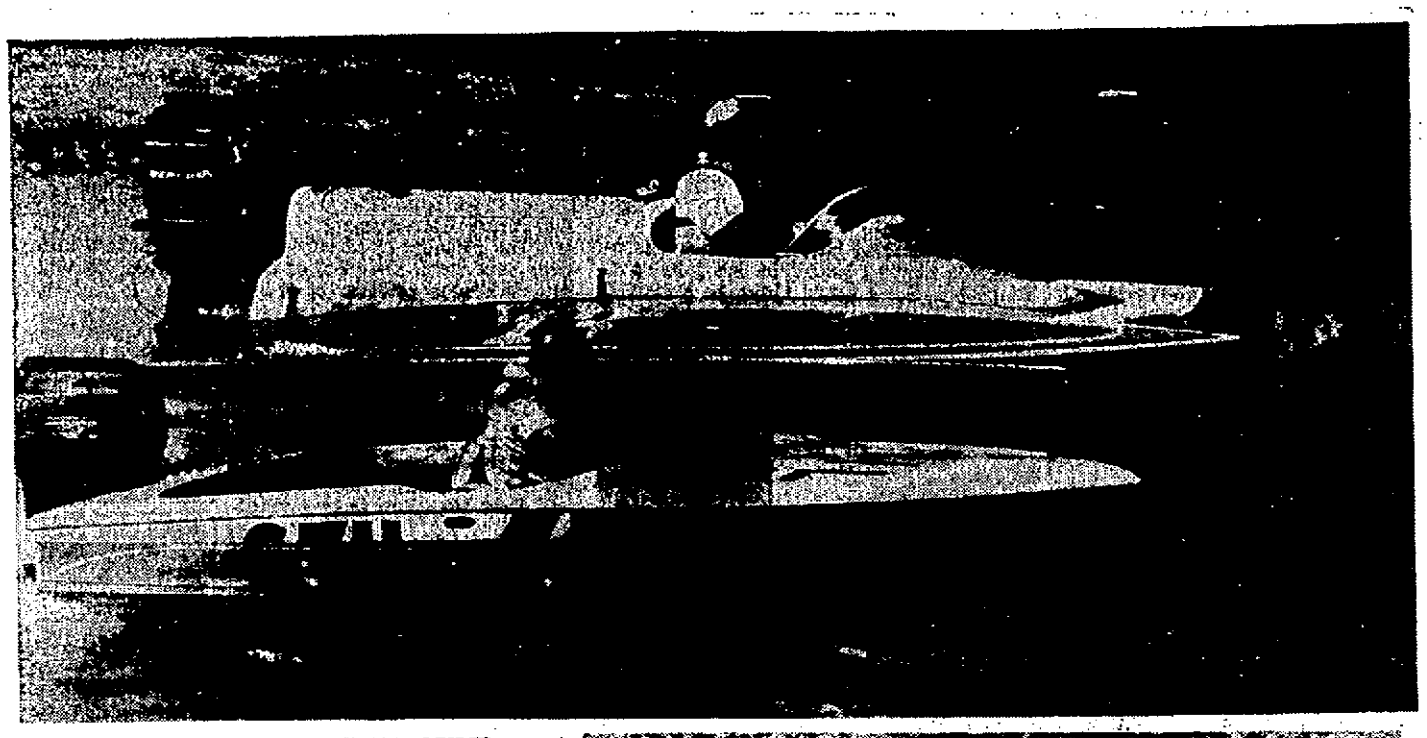

Ironically, DiMaggio broke in with the Yankees in a similar manner. When he went up in 1936, New York had Ben Chapman in center, so Joe started the season in right. However, Chapman was traded within a month, allowing Joe to move over.

The climax to the meeting of the three greats in '51 came on one dramatic play in the fifth inning of the second game. Mantle drifted over to right-center for a fly ball, tripped over a sprinkler cap, fell hard and twisted his knee.

Racing over from center, DiMaggio reached out, caught the ball and threw it back to the infield, then went to Mantle's aid.

Mickey had to sit out the rest of the series and was replaced by Hank Bauer, who now manages the Oakland A's for whom DiMaggio now serves as a coach — by choice. He has no desire to manage.

Oh, yes. The man who hit the ball to Mantle was none other than Willie Mays!

Luck Smiles on 49ers at Last

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Pete Espinosa, with help from Ben Withers and Lady Luck, saved Cal State Long Beach from a blank in its three-game series with Cal Poly, Pomona, by beating the visiting Mustangs, 2-1, at Blair Field.

The Mustangs, who had won Friday's first game, 12-11, scored six runs in the first two innings to beat John Keisler, 6-2, in the opener of Saturday's California Collegiate Athletic Assn. doubleheader.

Espinosa had quite an afternoon, although in winning his second game he gave up his first run this season, a span of 22 2-3 innings.

Lady Luck and Withers, however, came to his aid and protected his victory.

Leading 2-0 in the sixth Espinosa surrendered a double to leadoff hitter Fred Carroll. Bob Lastoskie then sent a ground ball back through the middle that appeared certain to drive in Carroll.

The ball, however, hit second base and caromed to 49er shortstop Bill Hackett, who threw Lastoskie out at first, Carroll stopping at third.

Jay Zaunich then doubled to the leftfield wall, scoring Carroll on a hit that would have tied the game had Lastoskie been at first.

Wither appeared at this juncture and retired the five men he faced to earn the save.

The 49ers scored a run in the first on Dale Duncan's double and two groundouts. Duncan had five hits for the afternoon.

The winning run came in the second when Larry Albright walked, went to second on a two-out single by Mike Burns and scored on Espinosa's line drive to left.

49ers Appear Well Grounded

When Jim Stangeland became head football coach at Cal State Long Beach, he said he hoped to blend the running attack of USC with the passing attack of Tulsa.

Saturday in the 49ers' first full-scale scrimmage of the spring practice, it was the USC-type rushing game which dominated.

Led by flanker Clarence Palmer, a transfer from Harbor College; Mickey McCullough, up from the 49er frosh, and Jeff Riggen, from Ventura College, the 49er running game gained 236 yards in 46 attempts, a 5.1 average.

An overflow crowd of 1,500 spectators at the campus field saw Palmer carry the ball four times for 51 yards, McCullough nine times for 50 yards and Riggen eight times for 46 yards.

"I have been very pleased with our progress," Stangeland said after the hour-long scrum. "I feel that we have improved tremendously, especially in our running attack."

There were two touchdowns scored by the offense, Riggen running four yards for one and McCullough lofting a 13-yard halfback pass to split end Tony McNeil for the other.

Line coach Bill Miller had strong praise for the right side of his offensive line, guard Brodie Dunn and tackle Bill Perry.

Defensively, two former Long Beach City College stars, John Kahler and Joe Meyers, stood out. Kahler played at tackle and end, Meyers at tackle.

49ER CREW TURNS TIDE ON CALIFORNIA

Cal State Long Beach's varsity crew scored its first victory over the California Bears since 1962 when coach Bill Lockyer's 49er oarsmen led wire-to-wire in a four-way race Saturday at L.A. Harbor.

Clocked in 6:23.7, Long Beach was chased across the finish line by San Diego State, 6:27.7; USC, 6:30.6, and Cal, 6:35.0.

Cal's junior varsity caught the 49ers at the finish line and won the JV race with a time of 6:37.2. Cal State was second in 6:37.8 and San Diego finished third, 6:44.5.

The Bears won the frosh event in 6:12.6. San Diego and USC trailed with times of 6:22.2 and 6:23. The 49ers didn't compete.

Sanders' 71 Leads Troy to Golf Title

STANFORD (UPI) — Gary Sanders of Southern California shot a final-round 71 Saturday to capture individual honors and lead his team to the U.S. Collegiate Invitational golf championship.

Sanders' even-par round gave him a 54-hole total of 219, two strokes better than runnerup Greg Pitzer of Stanford. Pitzer had a 75.

Tom Watson of Stanford, the leader after the first two rounds, blew to a 10-over-par 81 for the final round to drop into fourth place.

The team title went to USC with 896. Stanford was second at 902 and San Jose State College third at 933. Other team scores were Seattle University (937), Oregon (949), Santa Clara (952), Oregon State (955) and San Jose City College (957).

Centerfield? Move Over, Tris

In most all-time outfields, Tris Speaker is listed as the centerfielder between Ty Cobb in left and Babe Ruth in right.

But in the years to come, Speaker's claim to the centerfield post is destined to become more and more disputed as the feats of Joe DiMaggio, Willie Mays and Mickey Mantle are measured against his.

DiMaggio already is in the Hall of Fame alongside Speaker, while Mantle and Mays are certain to gain entrance to the shrine when they ultimately become eligible for admittance.

In the past few years, one of the most vigorously argued points is which of the three men was greatest.

Mays and Mantle have pointed to DiMag as being the best, and Joe always has admired the play of both Willie and Mickey.

"It's difficult for me to compare them because the sad thing is that Mantle was bothered by bad legs and other ailments throughout his career," DiMag said. "And if he remained healthy, he would have set records nobody would have been able to touch for a long time."

Mention of Mantle's bad wheels brought to mind that DiMaggio almost didn't get a chance to play in the majors because of a trick knee, which he injured while playing with the old San Francisco Seals of the PCL.

Until the injury, the Seals were asking in excess of $100,000 for DiMaggio . . . but after he was hurt, the Yankees were the only ones willing to take a chance on him, even though his price tag dropped to $25,000.

DiMAG, MAYS AND MANTLE have won so many honors, established so many records that it would be impossible to list them all in this space, so we'll just touch on a few.

DiMaggio's career batting average will be the highest of the three when Mays becomes the final one to hang up his spikes — .325 for 13 years with the Yankees. Mays' lifetime average currently is .308 over 18 years, while one of Mantle's biggest disappointments was to see his average dip to .298 before he quit.

Mays is the top home run hitter of the trio; in fact, second only to Babe Ruth in that department. The Bambino had 714, while Willie entered this season with 587 and should pass the 600 mark by July.

When Mantle retired in February, he was third on the all-time list with 536, but among them were some tape-measure blasts which already are legend. He has delivered some of the mightiest blows in history, including a 565-foot homer over the left-centerfield bleachers in Washington's Griffith Stadium, which is reputed to be the longest home run ever hit.

The top switch-hitter the game has ever known, Mantle also holds a niche in baseball lore for the feat of hitting homers from both the left and right sides of the plate in nine games.

DiMaggio hit only 361 homers, but nobody ever questioned his rating as one of baseball's greatest sluggers. He established one of two records baseball men feel never will be broken — his phenomenal 56-game hitting streak in 1941. The other mark is Lou Gehrig's appearance in 2,130 consecutive games.

JOE'S AWESOME HITTING STREAK began on May 15 of '41 and during those 56 games he batted .408, drove in 55 runs, scored 56 more himself, blasted 15 home runs, four triples and 16 doubles as well as 56 singles. He also walked 21 times and got on base twice more when hit by pitched balls. In that period, he struck out only seven times.

The day after the string was halted, Joe started another which lasted 16 more games. But hitting streaks were nothing new for him. Most fans — and even the experts — have forgotten that in his early days with the Seals, Joe hit in 61 consecutive games in 1933. That record also still stands.

Mays, who will be 38 on May 6, doesn't figure ever again to have the kind of season that used to be typical of him, but he still manages to make the diffirence in a lot of ball games.

The captain of the Giants had 19 game-winning hits last year, tops for the club. And he set up numerous other wins with his hitting, base-running and his classic fielding.

In addition to closing in on the 600-homer plateau, Mays is nearing another great accomplishment, that of becoming only the sixth man in baseball history to record over 3,000 hits.

Willie started this season with 2,812 and should reach 3,000 by early in 1970 at the latest. In comparison, Mantle just barely topped 2,400, while DiMaggio wound up with 2,214.

THE CAREERS OF THESE THREE great centerfielders crossed only once — in the 1951 World Series between the Yankees and Giants. It was DiMaggio's last year and the first for Willie and Mickey.

Actually, only DiMag and Mays played centerfield in that series. Mantle was in right, shifting to center the following year.

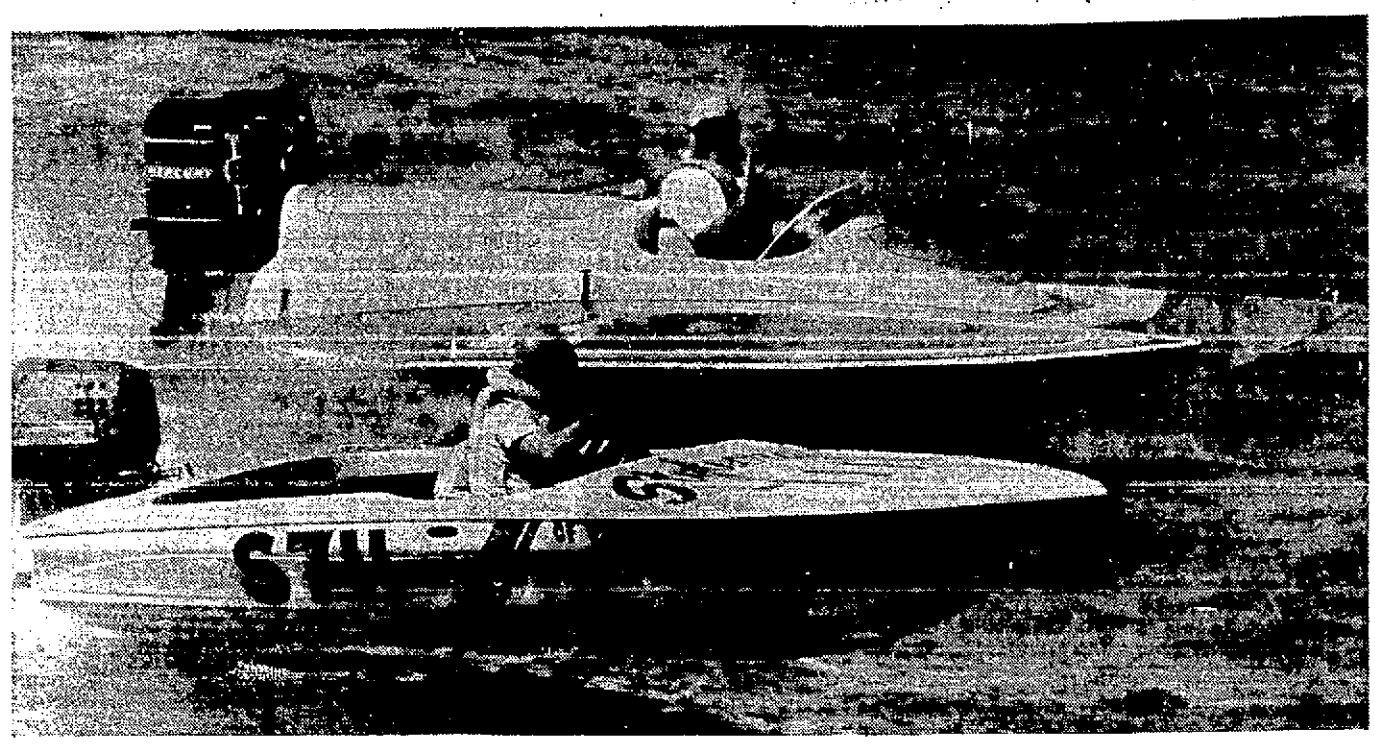

Ironically, DiMaggio broke in with the Yankees in a similar manner. When he went up in 1936, New York had Ben Chapman in center, so Joe started the season in right. However, Chapman was traded within a month, allowing Joe to move over.

The climax to the meeting of the three greats in '51 came on one dramatic play in the fifth inning of the second game. Mantle drifted over to right-center for a fly ball, tripped over a sprinkler cap, fell hard and twisted his knee.

Racing over from center, DiMaggio reached out, caught the ball and threw it back to the infield, then went to Mantle's aid.

Mickey had to sit out the rest of the series and was replaced by Hank Bauer, who now manages the Oakland A's for whom DiMaggio now serves as a coach — by choice. He has no desire to manage.

Oh, yes. The man who hit the ball to Mantle was none other than Willie Mays!

Luck Smiles on 49ers at Last

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

Pete Espinosa, with help from Ben Withers and Lady Luck, saved Cal State Long Beach from a blank in its three-game series with Cal Poly, Pomona, by beating the visiting Mustangs, 2-1, at Blair Field.

The Mustangs, who had won Friday's first game, 12-11, scored six runs in the first two innings to beat John Keisler, 6-2, in the opener of Saturday's California Collegiate Athletic Assn. doubleheader.

Espinosa had quite an afternoon, although in winning his second game he gave up his first run this season, a span of 22 2-3 innings.

Lady Luck and Withers, however, came to his aid and protected his victory.

Leading 2-0 in the sixth Espinosa surrendered a double to leadoff hitter Fred Carroll. Bob Lastoskie then sent a ground ball back through the middle that appeared certain to drive in Carroll.

The ball, however, hit second base and caromed to 49er shortstop Bill Hackett, who threw Lastoskie out at first, Carroll stopping at third.

Jay Zaunich then doubled to the leftfield wall, scoring Carroll on a hit that would have tied the game had Lastoskie been at first.

Wither appeared at this juncture and retired the five men he faced to earn the save.

The 49ers scored a run in the first on Dale Duncan's double and two groundouts. Duncan had five hits for the afternoon.

The winning run came in the second when Larry Albright walked, went to second on a two-out single by Mike Burns and scored on Espinosa's line drive to left.

49ers Appear Well Grounded

When Jim Stangeland became head football coach at Cal State Long Beach, he said he hoped to blend the running attack of USC with the passing attack of Tulsa.

Saturday in the 49ers' first full-scale scrimmage of the spring practice, it was the USC-type rushing game which dominated.

Led by flanker Clarence Palmer, a transfer from Harbor College; Mickey McCullough, up from the 49er frosh, and Jeff Riggen, from Ventura College, the 49er running game gained 236 yards in 46 attempts, a 5.1 average.

An overflow crowd of 1,500 spectators at the campus field saw Palmer carry the ball four times for 51 yards, McCullough nine times for 50 yards and Riggen eight times for 46 yards.

"I have been very pleased with our progress," Stangeland said after the hour-long scrum. "I feel that we have improved tremendously, especially in our running attack."

There were two touchdowns scored by the offense, Riggen running four yards for one and McCullough lofting a 13-yard halfback pass to split end Tony McNeil for the other.

Line coach Bill Miller had strong praise for the right side of his offensive line, guard Brodie Dunn and tackle Bill Perry.

Defensively, two former Long Beach City College stars, John Kahler and Joe Meyers, stood out. Kahler played at tackle and end, Meyers at tackle.

49ER CREW TURNS TIDE ON CALIFORNIA

Cal State Long Beach's varsity crew scored its first victory over the California Bears since 1962 when coach Bill Lockyer's 49er oarsmen led wire-to-wire in a four-way race Saturday at L.A. Harbor.

Clocked in 6:23.7, Long Beach was chased across the finish line by San Diego State, 6:27.7; USC, 6:30.6, and Cal, 6:35.0.

Cal's junior varsity caught the 49ers at the finish line and won the JV race with a time of 6:37.2. Cal State was second in 6:37.8 and San Diego finished third, 6:44.5.

The Bears won the frosh event in 6:12.6. San Diego and USC trailed with times of 6:22.2 and 6:23. The 49ers didn't compete.

Sanders' 71 Leads Troy to Golf Title

STANFORD (UPI) — Gary Sanders of Southern California shot a final-round 71 Saturday to capture individual honors and lead his team to the U.S. Collegiate Invitational golf championship.

Sanders' even-par round gave him a 54-hole total of 219, two strokes better than runnerup Greg Pitzer of Stanford. Pitzer had a 75.

Tom Watson of Stanford, the leader after the first two rounds, blew to a 10-over-par 81 for the final round to drop into fourth place.

The team title went to USC with 896. Stanford was second at 902 and San Jose State College third at 933. Other team scores were Seattle University (937), Oregon (949), Santa Clara (952), Oregon State (955) and San Jose City College (957).

Vaulter Fails But UCLA Swamps Cal

BERKELEY (UPI) — Despite upsets in the pole vault, discus and long jump, UCLA relied on superior depth Saturday to whip California, 85-68, in a Pacific-8 Conference track meet.

Each team grabbed nine firsts.

UCLA's Dick Railsback, who only last week cleared 17-5½ for his lifetime best and the top 1969 pole vault mark, couldn't get over 15-6 Saturday and was beaten by Cal's Greg Miguel. Both athletes cleared the opening height of 15 feet but neither vaulter could get over the bar in three tries after it was raised to 15-6.

On another go-round at 15-6, Miguel cleared the bar, but Railsback missed while complaining of a dip in the runway.

Bob Waldon of Cal broke his own school record in the three-mile run with a 13:58.0 clocking.

Despite nearly a full-arm cast, Bob McLennan of Cal sprinted to victory in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles in his lifetime best of 52.8. McLennan broke his wrist in practice Tuesday and there was some doubt that he would be competing against UCLA.

Bill Toomey, Olympic gold medalist, is far ahead in the decathlon with 4,214 points, but a muscle injury may force him to drop out of today's final five events (11 a.m.).

His achievements Saturday were 10.7 100 meters, 24-4¼ long jump, 46-1¾ shotput, 6-4¾ high jump, and 48.3 400 meters.

George Frenn of the Pacific Coast won the hammer throw with a career best of 224-4, followed by four-time Olympian Hal Connolly, 214-10.

Gary Ordway of the PCC put together a world-class double, 195-2 in the discus, 59-10¼ in the shotput.

RYUN FIZZLES AGAIN

Rain Mars Relays; Villanova Shines

Combined News Services

Marred by a soaking rain, disqualifications and a fadeout by Jim Ryun, the 60th Drake Relays windup Saturday brought only two meet marks in the 23-event program before a crowd of 16,000.

An expected heavy record-breaking assault on Drake University's new Tartan track faded into fresh meet marks only in a special 100-yard dash with a 9.4 victory by world record co-holder Charlie Greene and Jack Bachelor's six-mile triumph in 27:22.2 for the two-day meet's only double.

Ryun, asserting "I was tired," dropped out of his anchor 880 laps for Kansas' sprint medley team after running fourth at the time.

Friday, the world record holder at the mile and 880 turned in a poor 4:11.0 anchor mile for second-place Kansas in the four-mile relay.

Kansas' Steve Salb won the shotput with a toss of 62-½. The pole vault literally failed to finish. Thirty-three athletes entered, 10 scratched and only one cleared the starting height of 15 feet — Andy Steben of Oxy.

VILLANOVA, for the second time in the history of the Penn Relays won five relay championships, climaxing its performance with a 3:07.2 victory in the mile relay before 29,449.

Jim Elliott's Wildcats set two records, a 3:17.0 triumph in the sprint medley and a 7:20.1 win in the two-mile relay.

Bill Skinner of Tennessee led the individual winners with a meet record javelin toss of 259-6. Teammate Richmond Flowers won the 120 high hurdles in 13.6.

Sid Sink, Bowling Green Ohio sophomore, ran 8:47.6 in the 2-mile, Joe David of Maryland leaped 6-10 in the high jump, Ken Piersol of Furman took the triple jump at 50-11½.

Oregon sprinters swept the 220 and took a first and third in the 100 en route to a 93-61 Pacific-8 victory over Stanford.

Stanford's Tom Colby threw the javelin 253-8½. Observers said the throw could have reached another 20 feet had the javelin not hit a fence at the end of the field.

Another Home Run for Babe Ruth!

NEW YORK (AP)—Babe Ruth's lifetime home run record, which has withstood the assault of every modern day slugger to date, will be just a bit further out of reach in 1970, The New York Times says.

Ruth's all-time mark will jump from 714 to 715 when the next official record book appears this fall.

Researchers for a new, computerized baseball encyclopedia discovered that the Babe was deprived of a 1918 homer by an antiquated rule and a special baseball records committee has authorized the change, the story related.

Ruth, a pitcher-outfielder for the Boston Red Sox that year, broke a scoreless 10th-inning tie against Cleveland on July 8 by slamming a Stanley Covaleskie pitch into the right-field bleachers at Fenway Park. But he was not credited with a home run because there was a runner on first base when he unloaded.

Under the rule in force before 1920, the game was considered over, with the score 1-0, when the preceding runner crossed the plate. Ruth's wallop went into the book as a triple. Had the runner been on third base, Ruth would have been credited with a single.

Vaulter Fails But UCLA Swamps Cal

BERKELEY (UPI) — Despite upsets in the pole vault, discus and long jump, UCLA relied on superior depth Saturday to whip California, 85-68, in a Pacific-8 Conference track meet.

Each team grabbed nine firsts.

UCLA's Dick Railsback, who only last week cleared 17-5½ for his lifetime best and the top 1969 pole vault mark, couldn't get over 15-6 Saturday and was beaten by Cal's Greg Miguel. Both athletes cleared the opening height of 15 feet but neither vaulter could get over the bar in three tries after it was raised to 15-6.

On another go-round at 15-6, Miguel cleared the bar but Railsback missed while complaining of a dip in the runway.

Bob Waldon of Cal broke his own school record in the three-mile run with a 13:58.0 clocking.

Despite nearly a full-arm cast, Bob McLennan of Cal sprinted to victory in the 440-yard intermediate hurdles in his lifetime best of 52.8. McLennan broke his wrist in practice Tuesday and there was some doubt that he would be competing against UCLA.

RYUN FIZZLES AGAIN

Rain Mars Relay; Villanova Shines

Combined News Services

Marred by a soaking rain, disqualifications and a fadeout by Jim Ryun, the 60th Drake Relays windup Saturday brought only two meet marks in the 23-event program before a crowd of 16,000.

An expected heavy record-breaking assault on Drake University's new Tartan track faded into fresh meet marks only in a special 100-yard dash with a 9.4 victory by world record co-holder Charlie Greene and Jack Bachelor's six-mile triumph in 27:22.2 for the two-day meet's only double.

Ryun, asserting "I was tired," dropped out of his anchor 880 laps for Kansas' sprint medley team after running fourth at the time.

Friday, the world record holder at the mile and 880 turned in a poor 4:11.0 anchor mile for second-place Kansas in the four-mile relay.

Kansas' Steve Salb won the shotput with a toss of 62-½. The pole vault literally failed to finish. Thirty-three athletes entered, 10 scratched and only one cleared the starting height of 15 feet — Andy Steben of Oxy.

VILLANOVA, for the second time in the history of the Penn Relays won five relay championships, climaxing its performance with a 3:07.2 victory in the mile relay before 29,449.

Jim Elliott's Wildcats set two records, a 3:17.0 triumph in the sprint medley and a 7:20.1 win in the two-mile relay.

Bill Skinner of Tennessee led the individual winners with a meet record javelin toss of 259-6. Teammate Richmond Flowers won the 120 high hurdles in 13.6.

Sid Sink, Bowling Green Ohio sophomore, ran 8:47.6 in the 2-mile, Joe David of Maryland leaped 6-10 in the high jump, Ken Piersol of Furman took the triple jump at 40-11¼.

Oregon sprinters swept the 220 and took a first and third in the 100 en route to a 93-61 Pacific-8 victory over Stanford.

Stanford's Tom Colby threw the javelin 253-8½. Observers said the throw could have reached another 20 feet had the javelin not hit a fence at the end of the field.

PREP SETS 2-MILE RECORD

CORVALLIS, Ore. (UPI) — Steven Prefontaine of Marshfield High School at Coos Bay bettered the national high school two-mile record Friday night with a time of 8:41.5 in the Corvallis Invitational track meet.

The listed national record is 8:48.3 set by Rick Riley of Spokane, Wash., in 1966.

Crowley Opening Expected May 10

The hassle involving the opening of Crowley Lake for trout fishing remained just that last week — a big, fat HASSLE, with whipped cream (snow) on top and around the edges.

The board of directors of the Los Angeles City Recreation and Parks Department met Friday and went over all the facts and decided to set a tentative date of May 10 for Crowley's opening, BUT, in so doing, reserved the right to reset the opening date for the following Saturday, which would be May 17, two weeks after the statewide opening of trout season.

The decision was made after a report from Lloyd Beavers, generalissimo of LACPRD operations at Crowley, which, as all fishermen should know, lies in a valley north of Bishop and which is regarded as the nation's top trout-producing lake. Beavers said that a windstorm had broken up more ice on the lake Wednesday night and that there was some open water now at the south end, but not enough to permit the launching of boats.

The directors in Los Angeles admitted that there were more factors involved than just fishing and boating. Safety of the public must come first, said one board member. Traffic conditions also had to be considered, including the campgrounds where ground covered with snow is so soft that virtually any vehicle would be stuck if the driver attempted to make camp.

JOHN PEEBLES, A COORDINATOR of the Parks and Recreation Department, the City of Los Angeles, Crowley and all others involved in the odd situation, made this flat statement about anglers who had obtained those early reservations for May 3 and the week of May 4, except Saturday, the 10th:

"The early birds who got the worms definitely are out of the opening. All those who reserved rental boats, motorized or plain, for the first seven days are being notified and their money refunded. It's a shame, but this is the only way.

"If the board decides to reset the opening for May 17, those holding reservations through May 16 will face the same situation. This is something that Mother Nature, in all her snowy glory, created, and not one official in the City of Los Angeles can do anything about it."

It is interesting to note that the press and television boats which have been reserved for the opening day will not be available whenever Crowley opens because the Parks and Recreation Department had made no hold orders on such boats. So the public can well see that the officials are trying to be fair about the entire situation.

There is this much to be said about Crowley: It always produces some kind of excitement — a record catch of fish, a closing due to wind and snow, but this is the first time that it has been closed for the first full week of the trout season, perhaps two. Who knows and are the trout laughing? A decision on the May 10 opening is expected next Thursday.

LEAVING CROWLEY TO ICE AND SNOW, let's take a look at something closer to home — Big Bear Lake, full, ice-free and clear for the first time in many years. Already it is being fished, although the winter limit of five fish remains on until May 3 when it goes to 10.

Gloria Holt, secretary of the Big Bear Chamber of Commerce and who likes to fish just as much as anybody, said that she was on the lake last Sunday and saw limits being taken from shore and from boats. Most of those fish were holdovers from last year's plants.

Big Bear is planning for a tremendous fishing year, with the Big Bear Valley Recreation and Park District going 50-50 with the Department of Fish and Game in trout plants. In all, 34 tons will be stocked. Most of those fish will be in the 10-12-inch category, with some lunkers going larger than that.

The first of the Big Bear "bonus" rainbows will be stocked next Thursday in time for the May 3 crowd. Bi-weekly plants are scheduled through May and June and weekly plants from July 1 through Labor Day.

Money for buying privately reared rainbows comes from a special tax levied on Big Bear Valley property owners, who stand to benefit from the influx of anglers and their families to the resorts in that area.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS — Fred E. Gordon, P.O. Box 1584, Havasu Lake, Calif. 92363, a retired Long Beach City employe, thinks that it's about time somebody mentioned Havasu Landing, a resort which is on the California side of that lake and which, says Gordon, has produced some wonderful fishing this year.

He mentions Elmer Allen, West Covina, who caught striped bass weighing 21, 15, and 13 pounds at Blankenship Bend and weighed them at Havasu Landing. He also says that Robert B. Zeller, Hemet, and Ray Quincy, Havasu Landing, caught 20 catfish totaling 93 pounds.

The Department of Fish and Game is giving the salmon fingerlings a hitch-hiking ride from hatcheries in the Sacramento, American and Feather Rivers to the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta for the next five months in the hope that the movement of 15 million baby salmon by tankers to the delta area will bring rich returns in future years when the fish return to spawn.

Canadiens Play Blues for Big Cup

MONTREAL (AP)— The St. Louis Blues, who haven't beaten Montreal since they came into the National Hockey League two years ago, will put their stout defense against the powerful Canadiens in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final round which opens today.

There's good reason to believe that the Blues will have more success against the Canadiens than they have in the 14 previous tries. The St. Louis club, coached by Scotty Bowman, a former Canadien employee, moved into the final round on an eight-game sweep, four each against the Philadelphia Flyers and the Kings. They are well rested, having worked out only a couple of times since eliminating the Kings last Sunday.

The Canadiens come off a bruising six-game series against the Boston Bruins, climaxed Thursday night by Jean Beliveau's goal at 11:28 of a second overtime period.

* * * *

THE SAME teams met in the cup final a year ago and, although the heavily-favored Canadiens, who've won the post-season title a record 13 times, knocked off the Blues in four games, each victory was by a single goal and Montreal was forced into overtime twice.

Each team won divisional titles in the 1968-69 campaign, Montreal in the East and St. Louis in the West. So far, the players on both clubs have earned $6,750 — $2,250 for their teams' first place finish and $4,500 for winning the playoffs' first two rounds. The Cup winners will get an additional $3,000 apiece and the losers $1,500.

The second game of the series will also be played in Montreal Tuesday night. The third and fourth games will be played in St. Louis Thursday night and Sunday.

PAUL BROWN
Leads Realignment Fight

Brown Runs Interference as NFL Balks at Merger Contract

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Brown sat at his desk in the Cincinnati Bengals' office, the pro football merger agreement and his own eight-page report at his fingertips — the two forming the foundation for the American Football League's insistence on realignment.

The lengthy and legal merger agreement was put together almost three years ago, but Brown's report, terse and simple by comparison, was written just prior to last month's pro football meetings and is the major reason the Bengals' owner is being cast in the role of a revolutionary.

For it was Brown's report which swayed the AFL owners off the status quo path that would have continued the 16-10 arrangement now in existence and on to the road to realignment that will be surveyed again this week when the 26 club owners meet in New York City.

Brown explained that the 16-10 ratio had permitted and would continue to permit the NFL to get more quality players as a whole than the AFL and therefore more national exposure.

"Anything less than 13-13 would leave us numerically submerged by numbers," Brown said. "On waivers, the NFL teams at the bottom would have more players to choose from. They'd have the advantage in an All-Star game and in the Championship Game the law of odds being what they are the NFL would have a ratio comparable to 16-10."

* * * *

HE THEN ticked off the five points in his report that amplified his position on the financial aspects of the overall situation. They included:

— a financial summary of visitors' shares of gate receipts from all 26 clubs in both leagues, which showed that the AFL teams were taking about one-third less money out of road games than NFL teams.

— A chart of AFL and NFL stadium seating capacities, which showed only two AFL teams in the top half.

— A chart of season ticket sales which showed the average greater in the NFL than the AFL.

— A chart of home game attendances and receipts, showing various rivalries, that again gave the NFL the edge.

— A summary of television rating that showed the NFL had consistently higher ratings because its teams were in the larger markets and therefore reaching more homes.

And he totaled that all up in summary and concluded that the 16-10 arrangement, if allowed to continue, would mean that a "franchise in the NFL would be worth so much more than a franchise in the AFL."

Then he emphasized that was not what the AFL had agreed to pay $25 million for — $18 million in indemnity to the NFL plus the approximately $7.5 million turned over to the NFL as the purchase price of the Cincinnati franchise.

ROCHE, NEWCOMBE

Top-Seeds Gain Semis in Italy

ROME (AP) — Determined Tony Roche and angry John Newcombe, the top-seeded pros from Australia, took different routes Saturday as they advanced to the semifinals of the Italian International Open tennis tournament.

Roche, the No. 1 seed, wore down Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, with little display of emotion.

Newcombe, the No. 2 seed, had it easier in a 7-5, 6-4, 6-0 victory over Martin Mulligan of Italy but several times burst into angry displays.

Roche and Newcombe joined Friday's two winners — Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia — in the semifinals.

In a men's doubles quarterfinal match, Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Tom Okker of the Netherlands defeated Istvan Gulyas of Hungary and Nikolas Kalogeropnulos of Greece, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

In women's doubles, Billie Jean King of Long Beach and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco advanced to the final along with Francoise Durr of France and Ann Haydon Jones of Britain.

The King-Casals team defeated Kerry Melville and Karen Krancze of Australia, 6-0, 6-4.

The Durr-Jones team defeated Virginia Wade of Britain and Leslie Turner Bowrey of Australia, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Cal Clippers vs. All-Stars in Soccer Special

One of the largest soccer crowds ever at Rancho Cienega Stadium is expected today when the California Clipper professionals face the Southern California All-Stars in a challenge match at 2:45.

The program will start at 11 a.m. with a Greater L.A. League tilt between Club Nacional and Maccabee of the major division.

In the second game of the day, Rio Guayas will face St. Istvan Club in a first division contest that will decide if the St. Istvan team goes up to the major division next season.

The Clippers and the Southland All-Stars both defeated the U.S. National World Cup team recently.

The California pros are planning international games at the Coliseum in May.

L.B. Soccer Club Stars Play in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO — Three members of the Long Beach Soccer Club will play for the Pacific League Oldtime Stars against the Northern California Oldtimers at noon today.

The game is a preliminary to a Western National Cup match at 2:30.

The LBSC is idle today.

Money for buying privately reared rainbows comes from a special tax levied on Big Bear Valley property owners, who stand to benefit from the influx of anglers and their families to the resorts in that area.

OUTDOOR PERSONALS — Fred E. Gordon, P.O. Box 1584, Havasu Lake, Calif. 92363, a retired Long Beach City employe, thinks that it's about time somebody mentioned Havasu Landing, a resort which is on the California side of that lake and which, says Gordon, has produced some wonderful fishing this year.

He mentions Elmer Allen, West Covina, who caught striped bass weighing 21, 15, and 13 pounds at Blankenship Bend and weighed them at Havasu Landing. He also says that Robert B. Zeller, Hemet, and Ray Quincy, Havasu Landing, caught 20 catfish totaling 93 pounds.

The Department of Fish and Game is giving the salmon fingerlings a hitch-hiking ride from hatcheries in the Sacramento, American and Feather Rivers to the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta for the next five months in the hope that the movement of 15 million baby salmon by tankers to the delta area will bring rich returns in future years when the fish return to spawn.

Canadiens Play Blues for Big Cup

MONTREAL (AP)— The St. Louis Blues, who haven't beaten Montreal since they came into the National Hockey League two years ago, will put their stout defense against the powerful Canadiens in the best-of-seven Stanley Cup final round which opens today.

There's good reason to believe that the Blues will have more success against the Canadiens than they have in the 14 previous tries. The St. Louis club, coached by Scotty Bowman, a former Canadien employee, moved into the final round on an eight-game sweep, four each against the Philadelphia Flyers and the Kings. They are well rested, having worked out only a couple of times since eliminating the Kings last Sunday.

The Canadiens come off a bruising six-game series against the Boston Bruins, climaxed Thursday night by Jean Beliveau's goal at 11:28 of a second overtime period.

* * * *

THE SAME teams met in the cup final a year ago and, although the heavily-favored Canadiens, who've won the post-season title a record 13 times, knocked off the Blues in four games, each victory was by a single goal and Montreal was forced into overtime twice.

Each team won divisional titles in the 1968-69 campaign, Montreal in the East and St. Louis in the West. So far, the players on both clubs have earned $6,750 — $2,250 for their teams' first place finish and $4,500 for winning the playoffs' first two rounds. The Cup winners will get an additional $3,000 apiece and the losers $1,500.

The second game of the series will also be played in Montreal Tuesday night. The third and fourth games will be played in St. Louis Thursday night and Sunday.

PAUL BROWN
Leads Realignment Fight

Brown Runs Interference as NFL Balks at Merger Contract

CINCINNATI (AP) — Paul Brown sat at his desk in the Cincinnati Bengals' office, the pro football merger agreement and his own eight-page report at his fingertips — the two forming the foundation for the American Football League's insistence on realignment.

The lengthy and legal merger agreement was put together almost three years ago, but Brown's report, terse and simple by comparison, was written just prior to last month's pro football meetings and is the major reason the Bengals' owner is being cast in the role of a revolutionary.

For it was Brown's report which swayed the AFL owners off the status quo path that would have continued the 16-10 arrangement now in existence and on to the road to realignment that will be surveyed again this week when the 26 club owners meet in New York City.

Brown explained that the 16-10 ratio had permitted and would continue to permit the NFL to get more quality players as a whole than the AFL and therefore more national exposure.

"Anything less than 13-13 would leave us numerically submerged by numbers," Brown said. "On waivers, the NFL teams at the bottom would have more players to choose from. They'd have the advantage in an All-Star game and in the Championship Game the law of odds being what they are the NFL would have a ratio comparable to 16-10."

* * * *

HE THEN ticked off the five points in his report that amplified his position on the financial aspects of the overall situation: They included:

— a financial summary of visitors' shares of gate receipts from all 26 clubs in both leagues, which showed that the AFL teams were taking about one-third less money out of road games than NFL teams.

— A chart of AFL and NFL stadium seating capacities, which showed only two AFL teams in the top half.

— A chart of season ticket sales which showed the average greater in the NFL than the AFL.

— A chart of home game attendances and receipts, showing various rivalries, that again gave the NFL the edge.

— A summary of television rating that showed the NFL had consistently higher ratings because its teams were in the larger markets and therefore reaching more homes.

And he totaled that all up in summary and concluded that the 16-10 arrangement, if allowed to continue, would mean that a "franchise in the NFL would be worth so much more than a franchise in the AFL."

Then he emphasized that was not what the AFL had agreed to pay $25 million for — $18 million in indemnity to the NFL plus the approximately $7.5 million turned over to the NFL as the purchase price of the Cincinnati franchise.

ROCHE, NEWCOMBE

Top-Seeds Gain Semis in Italy

ROME (AP) — Determined Tony Roche and angry John Newcombe, the top-seeded pros from Australia, took different routes Saturday as they advanced to the semifinals of the Italian International Open tennis tournament.

Roche, the No. 1 seed, wore down Cliff Drysdale of South Africa, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0, 7-5, with little display of emotion.

Newcombe, the No. 2 seed, had it easier in a 7-5, 6-4, 6-0 victory over Martin Mulligan of Italy but several times burst into angry displays.

Roche and Newcombe joined Friday's two winners — Tom Okker of the Netherlands and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia — in the semifinals.

In a men's doubles quarterfinal match, Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., and Tom Okker of the Netherlands defeated Istvan Gulyas of Hungary and Nikolas Kalogeropoulos of Greece, 6-2, 6-4, 7-5.

In women's doubles, Billie Jean King of Long Beach and Rosemary Casals of San Francisco advanced to the final along with Francoise Durr of France and Ann Haydon Jones of Britain.

The King-Casals team defeated Kerry Melville and Karen Krancze of Australia, 6-0, 6-4.

The Durr-Jones team defeated Virginia Wade of Britain and Leslie Turner Bowrey of Australia, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

Cal Clippers vs. All-Stars in Soccer Special

One of the largest soccer crowds ever at Rancho Cienega Stadium is expected today when the California Clipper professionals face the Southern California All-Stars in a challenge match at 2:45.

The program will start at 11 a.m. with a Greater L.A. League tilt between Club Nacional and Maccabee of the major division.

In the second game of the day, Rio Guayas will face St. Istvan Club in a first division contest that will decide if the St. Istvan team goes up to the major division next season.

The Clippers and the Southland All-Stars both defeated the U.S. National World Cup team recently.

The California pros are planning international games at the Coliseum in May.

L.B. Soccer Club Stars Play in S.F.

SAN FRANCISCO — Three members of the Long Beach Soccer Club will play for the Pacific League Oldtime Stars against the Northern California Oldtimers at noon today.

The game is a preliminary to a Western National Cup match at 2:30.

The LBSC is idle today.

OLYMPIANS HELP DEBUT FRENCH POOL

VERSAILLES, France (UPI) — American Olympic gold medalists Mark Spitz and Debbie Meyer easily dominated an international swimming meet opening the new Versailles indoor pool Saturday.

Spitz won the men's 200-meter freestyle in 2:10.7, 200-meter medley in 2:18.7 and 100-meter butterfly in 59 seconds.

Miss Meyer took the 100-meter butterfly in 1:9.9 and 100-meter freestyle in 1:2.4.

Gurney Unveils '69 Indy Models

Race driver and auto builder Dan Gurney unveiled his latest models Saturday as Santa Ana celebrated "Dan Gurney Day."

Gurney, whose Eagle series cars took three of the top four places in last year's Indianapolis 500, said, "This car evolved directly from our first Eagle in 1966. Our second model was an improvement and we expect our third model to be even better."

Bobby Unser drove Gurney's second generation Eagle to first place at Indy last year.

Gurney will drive one of the cars at Indy and Dennis Hulme will drive another. Who will drive which combination is still undecided.

KILLED IN VIETNAM

Death Ends Hopes of Basketball Career

Les Powell was only 6-feet-2 but he was an excellent basketball rebounder. He led Cerritos College to an unbeaten season in 1965 and was named the Metro Conference's most valuable player.

He excelled at Utah State and led the Aggies to the National Invitation Tournament and a ranking as the 13th best team in the nation. He was one of the top collegiate field goal shooters.

He signed a contract to play professional basketball with the Anaheim Amigos, who later became the L.A. Stars.

This week, the family of Cpl. Les Powell was notified he had been killed by land mines in South Vietnam.

The same day he signed his contract with the Amigos, he received his induction notice from the Army. He never got a chance to play," said brother Larry, an Army enlisted man stationed in Germany but home on emergency leave to take care of funeral arrangements.

Les went to Vietnam in January and was attached to a heavy weapons outfit.

The body of Cpl. Les Powell, 22, will be buried this week.

FORMER Czech Olympic runner, Emil Zatopek, will accept an offer to coach in Sweden if the National Czech Sports Federation agrees, he told the Stockholm Aftonbladet in an exclusive interview Saturday.

ZATOPEK

However, it is thought unlikely that the Czech authorities will allow Zatopek to leave the country because of his outspoken criticism of the Russian invasion and his support for former Czech party chief Alexander Dubeck.

POLICE battled fans who tried to tear down the goal nets during a soccer match in Glasgow.

At least 50 were arrested and about 60 were taken to hospital for treatment. Struggles between police and fans continued after the game as the huge crowd filed away from the stadium. A posse of mounted police was attacked by fans.

Two California Girls With U.S. Skiing Team

DENVER (AP) — Dennis Agee, the new head coach of the U.S. women's ski team, named 19 girls to the U.S. National women's training squad for 1970 Saturday.

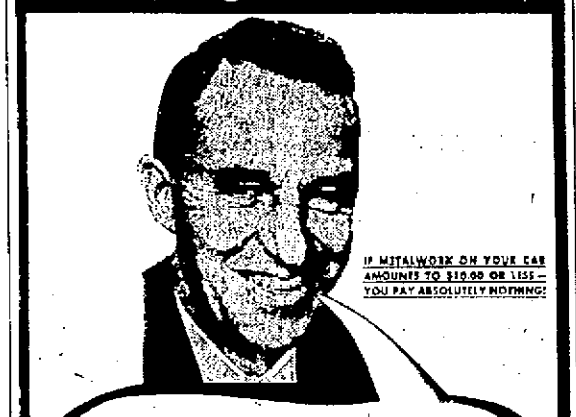

Only two of the girls are new to the squad, Karen Middleton, 17, Brattleboro, Vt., and Debbi Flanders, 16, Candia, N.H.

Miss Middleton was the winner of the 1968-69 Eastern Ski Writers' Cup series of races. High school junior Debbi Flanders finished fourth in the National Alpine championships and giant slalom last year.

Seven of the girls are from Vermont.

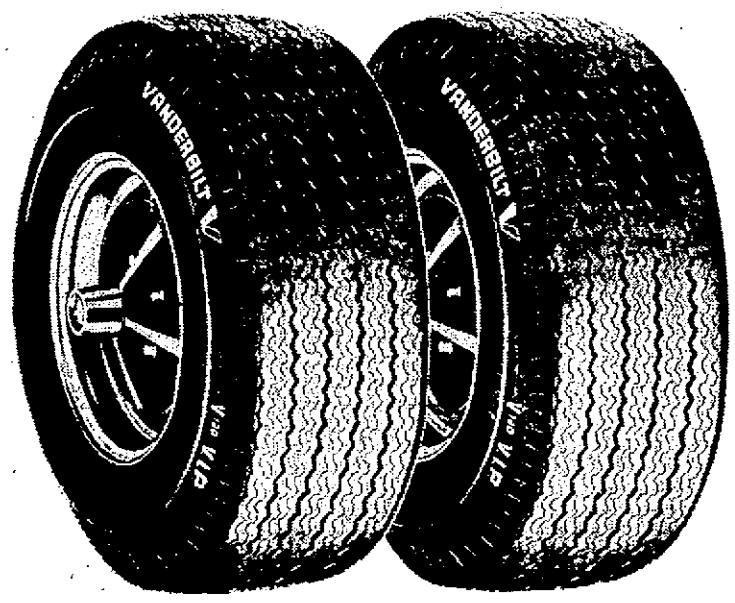

Californians are Cheryl Rechdolt, 17, Tahoe City, and Penny McCoy, 19, Bishop.

Vanderbilt Premium tires
Your choice of 11 popular sizes at one low price guaranteed for 3 years any size listed $18 with trade-in.

Tubeless blackwalls
600/650x13 735x14 855x14 735x15
700x13 775x14 825x14 775x15
695/645x14 685x15 815x15
Whitewalls $3 extra per tire
Sizes 885x14, 845x15, 915/885x15 available in whitewalls only. All tubeless blackwalls and whitewalls plus fed. exc. tax, 1.79 to 2.57, depending on size. Without a trade-in, add $1 per tire.
You could pay more for a comparable tire with the quality features of the V-120, but why should you?
• Full 4-ply nylon cord construction for a structurally strong tire that helps resist damage from road hazards.
• Wrap-around "Cat Grip" tread design puts tread grooves around the tire shoulder for safer turning and cornering.
Vanderbilt Tire Guarantee
Every Vanderbilt Tire is guaranteed for the life of the original tread, against manufacturing defects and workmanship, and against all failures from road hazards. If tire fails, we will — at our option — repair it at no cost, or in exchange for a new tire, charging only for the tread used. The amount charged will be on a pro-rata basis against the current selling price at time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax.
Every Vanderbilt Tire is guaranteed against wear-out for the number of months specified. If tread wear out within the stated period (less than 2/32") return the tire to any auto center selling Vanderbilt Tires. We will exchange it for a new tire, charging the current selling price at time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax, less a stated allowance.
*Since no industry-wide system of standards exists, the representations to "grade," "line," "level," or "quality" relate only to the private standard of the marketer (e.g. Vanderbilt Premium Grade.
Just charge it . . . no money down, months to pay

KILLED IN VIETNAM

Death Ends Hopes of Basketball Career

LES POWELL was only 6-feet-2 but he was an excellent basketball rebounder. He led Cerritos College to an unbeaten season in 1965 and was named the Metro Conference's most valuable player.

He excelled at Utah State and led the Aggies to the National Invitation Tournament and a ranking as the 13th best team in the nation. He was one of the top collegiate field goal shooters.

He signed a contract to play professional basektball with the Anaheim Amigos, who later became the L.A. Stars.

This week, the family of Cpl. Les Powell was notified he had been killed by land mines in South Vietnam.

"The same day he signed his contract with the Amigos, he received his induction notice from the Army. He never got a chance to play," said brother Larry, an Army enlisted man stationed in Germany but home on emergency leave to take care of funeral arrangements.

Les went to Vietnam in January and was attached to a heavy weapons outfit.

The body of Cpl. Les Powell, 22, will be buried this week.

FORMER Czech Olympic runner, Emil Zatopek, will accept an offer to coach in Sweden if the National Czech Sports Federation agrees, he told the Stockholm Aftonbladet in an exclusive interview Saturday.

ZATOPEK

However, it is thought unlikely that the Czech authorities will allow Zatopek to leave the country because of his outspoken criticism of the Russian invasion and his support for former Czech party chief Alexander Dubcek.

POLICE battled fans who tried to tear down the goal nets during a soccer match in Glasgow.

At least 50 were arrested and about 60 were taken to hospital for treatment. Struggles between police and fans continued after the game as the huge crowd filed away from the stadium. A posse of mounted police was attacked by fans.

Two California Girls With U.S. Skiing Team

DENVER (AP) — Dennis Agee, the new head coach of the U.S. women's ski team, named 19 girls to the U.S. National women's training squad for 1970 Saturday.

Only two of the girls are new to the squad, Karen Middleton, 17, Brattleboro, Vt., and Debbi Flanders, 16, Candia, N.H.

Miss Middleton was the winner of the 1968-69 Eastern Ski Writers' Cup series of races. High school junior Debbi Flanders finished fourth in the National Alpine championships and giant slalom last year.

Seven of the girls are from Vermont.

Californians are Cheryl Bechdolt, 17, Tahoe City, and Penny McCoy, 19, Bishop.

OLYMPIANS HELP DEBUT FRENCH POOL

VERSAILLES, France (UPI) — American Olympic gold medalists Mark Spitz and Debbie Meyer easily dominated an international swimming meet opening the new Versailles indoor pool Saturday.

Spitz won the men's 200-meter freestyle in 2:10.7, 200-meter medley in 2:18.7 and 100-meter butterfly in 59 seconds.

Miss Meyer took the 100-meter butterfly in 1:9.9 and 100-meter freestyle in 1:2.4.

Gurney Unveils '69 Indy Models

Race driver and auto builder Dan Gurney unveiled his latest models Saturday as Santa Ana celebrated "Dan Gurney Day."

Gurney, whose Eagle series cars took three of the top four places in last year's Indianapolis 500, said, "This car evolved directly from our first Eagle in 1966. Our second model was an improvement and we expect our third model to be even better."

Bobby Unser drove Gurney's second generation Eagle to first place at Indy last year.

Gurney will drive one of the cars at Indy and Dennis Hulme will drive another. Who will drive which combination is still undecided.

• Full 4-ply nylon cord construction for a structurally strong tire that helps resist damage from road hazards.
• Wrap-around "Cat Grip" tread design puts tread grooves around the tire shoulder for safer turning and cornering.

Vanderbilt Tire Guarantee
Every Vanderbilt Tire is guaranteed for the life of the original tread, against manufacturing defects and workmanship, and against all failures from road hazards. If tire fails, we will — at our option — repair it at no cost, or in exchange for a new tire, charging only for the tread used. The amount charged will be on a pro-rata basis against the current selling price at time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax.
Every Vanderbilt Tire is guaranteed against wear-out for the number of months specified. If tread wear out within the stated period (less than 2/32") return the tire to any auto center selling Vanderbilt Tires. We will exchange it for a new tire, charging the current selling price at time of adjustment plus Federal Excise Tax, less a stated allowance.

You Can 'Tell' Who's His Daddy

Tell is a lot of dollars and several records shy of matching his sire, Round Table, but he's even with him on one count — they both captured Hollywood Park's Will Rogers Stakes.

From that point, Round Table went on to win the Hollywood Derby, the Hollywood Gold Cup and become a three-time national grass champion, while earning $1.75 million.

But the manner in which Tell picked up his Will Rogers triumph Saturday indicates he has the potential to pull even with his millionaire pappy in other categories, too.

Responding to two laps of a right-hand whip from Bill Shoemaker at the head of the stretch, Tell easily drew clear from Modern Spirit, Greek Static and Cherokee Strip to tally handily by four lengths in 1:35 1/5.

The 7-10 choice of the crowd of 48,982, Tell returned $3.40, $2.60 and $2.40 as he ended a five-race battering absorbed by the chalk players.

Shoemaker summed up the triumph in one sentence: "He made it awful easy."

But at the head of the lane, it momentarily appeared that Shoe would have his hands full in nursing home the popular favorite.

Tell, forcing the pace of Fleet Kirsch through the first three furlongs in 23 1/5, 46 3/5 and 1:11 flat, eased to the lead as the field of six, reduced when Tell's runningmate, Makor, was an early afternoon scratch, headed into the lane on the lakewide turf course.

Shoemaker "showed" the whip, lefthanded, to Tell, but the handsome bay youngster failed to widen on his pressing rivals. The master reinsman quickly shifted the bat to his right hand and, after a pair of quick pops, it was all over but the shouting.

"He came out running," Shoemaker explained, "and I never had any problem with him. I hit him a couple of times righthanded in mid-stretch and he really started to stride out. Yes, he's a very nice colt."

The victory was worth $19,250 to Tell's comely owner, Mrs. Howard B. Keck, and it pushed the sophomore's career earnings to $45,438.

* * * *

PRIOR to Tell's triumph, form players had taken it on the chin in three straight outings. Vardor, the 7-5 choice in the mile and one-sixteenth fifth race, faltered in the drive and finished third as Miguel Yanez clicked with Hasty House Farms' Snow Tiger.

The Argentine-bred scored his first U.S. victory with a 1:42 3/5 clocking and returned $13.20.

The Buster Millerick-trained entry of Cayamore and First Mate was the 4-5 choice in the seven-furlong sixth race but the best they could fashion was a second with First Mate, as Key Rulla raced wire-to-wire in 1:21 flat.

The Phoenix-owned flash, racing for the partnership of Clay and Struck, paid $12.60 in picking up his second win of the meeting.

DODGERS---

was taken out attempting to steal second.

It was Reed's show until the Dodger attack — which features singles and speed for the most part — showed up in the ninth inning.

The Dodgers still are enjoying their first homestand, and no one is enjoying it any more than the ex-Yankee Kosco.

He has an 11-game hitting streak, which started in the Dodger's first home game, and all of his 12 RBI and his three homers have come at Dodger Stadium. He is 16-for-46 in the 11 games at Dodger Stadium and that's a .348 average. The longest Dodger hitting streak of last season was 12 by Wes Parker. Kosco can match that today.

"I've found this place to my liking," said Andy. And so have the Dodgers. It's not so much the moving of home plate. It's the moving the team has done to reach the top of the National League standings.

DODGER NOTES: The Dodgers conclude their first homestand today with Don Sutton (1-2) facing the Braves' Pat Jarvis (1-1) . . . Pitcher Don Drysdale will make the next trip, which starts Monday. "I'll run but I've been advised by Dr. (Frank) Jobe not to throw at all on the road trip," said Don. And that road trip is 17 days, indicating Drysdale won't be immediately available to pitch even after he gets off the disabled list in 21 days (starting Monday) . . . The first four games of the Dodger road trip — two in San Diego and two in San Francisco — will be televised by Channel 11. By unusual scheduling, the Angels also are on the tube Monday night (Channel 5) in a game from Seattle.

STANKY GETS HEAVE-HO

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane ran its winning streak to five games with a 9-8 baseball victory over South Alabama Saturday — and the umpires ran Eddie Stanky off the field.

Stanky, the South Alabama coach, was known during his major league playing and managing days as a fiery competitor. Plainly he has not cooled down.

The heave-ho came when Stanky snatched up a batter's helmet and hurled it into left field.

TELL broke slowly, rushed up to force the early pace from the outside, rallied to a clear lead in the upper stretch, hung tiredly then, under strong urging, drew off and won as if much the best. MODERN SPIRIT moved nearer on the far turn from along the rail, was blocked in the stretch, found room between horses mid-way in the drive to offer his best bid and finish GREEK STATIC raced close up early on his own courage, rallied wide on the final turn to be a threat and slackened in the final furlong.

Scratched—Makor.

Prince Wins Derby Prep by 6 Lengths

Combined News Services

Majestic Prince, 6-5 choice for the May 3 Kentucky Derby, easily won Saturday's Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs, missing the 7-furlong track record by only 1-5 second.

So fearsome was the West Coast flash that he frightened away all but two challengers in the Stepping Stone, second to last of the traditional Derby preps, and made it a betless exhibition.

Flying the colors of Frank McMahon, Majestic Prince soared down the long Churchill Downs stretch for a clocking of 1:21 3-5.

He worked an additional furlong for a mile in 1:35, galloped out to 1⅛ mile in 1:49 2-5 and was pulled up at the 1¼ mile Derby distance in 2:05.

Fast Hilarious finished second, six lengths behind. Texas Dancer was another 15 lengths back.

Only Tuesday's Derby Trial remains as a major testing ground for hopefuls for the 95th running of the $125,000-added Derby on May 3.

In the race before the Stepping Stone, Diane Crump became the first girl rider on the Kentucky race track when she finished fourth aboard Somebody's Devil, a 14-1 shot.

Persister beat the favored Red Spice 2nd in the $15,000 Appreciation Purse after a bristling stretch duel as Gulfstream Park closed Florida's longest racing season before 19,650 persons.

Persister paid $12, $4.20 and $3.40. Red Spice 2nd returned $2.80 and $2.60. Vis-A-Vis paid $3.60 to show.

Captain Action brought Mister Diz three-race winning streak up short as he easily won the 1⅛ miles of the $37,150 Survivor Stakes for Maryland-bred 3-year-olds at Pimlico.

Captain Action's backers received $9.20, $4.40 and $3.

Promise outlasted Master Bold by a neck to win the $25,000-added Cherry Hill Handicap at Garden State Park.

You Can 'Tell' Who's His Daddy

Tell is a lot of dollars and several records shy of matching his sire, Round Table, but he's even with him on one count — they both captured Hollywood Park's Will Rogers Stakes.

From that point, Round Table went on to win the Hollywood Derby, the Hollywood Gold Cup and become a three-time national grass champion, while earning $1.75 million.

But the manner in which Tell picked up his Will Rogers triupmph indicates he has the potential to pull even with his millionaire puppy in other categories, too.

Responding to two taps of a right-hand whip from Bill Shoemaker at the head of the stretch, Tell easily drew clear from Modern Spirit, Greek Static and Cherokee Strip to tally handily by four lengths in 1:35 1/5.

The 7-10 choice of the crowd of 48,982, Tell returned $3.40, $2.60 and $2.40 as he ended a five-race battering absorbed by the chalk players.

Shoemaker summed up the triumph in one sentence: "He made it awful easy."

But at the head of the lane, it momentarily appeared that Shoe would have his hands full in nursing home the popular favorite.

Tell, forcing the pace of Fleet Kirsch through the first three furlongs in 23 1/5, 46 3/5 and 1:11 flat, eased to the lead as the field of six, reduced when Tell's runningmate, Makor, was an early afternoon scratch, headed into the lane on the lakewide turf course.

Shoemaker "showed" the whip, lefthanded, to Tell, but the handsome bay youngster failed to widen on his pressing rivals. The master reinsman quickly shifted the bat to his right hand and, after a pair of quick pops, it was all over but the shouting.

"He came out running," Shoemaker explained, "and I never had any problem with him. I hit him a couple of times righthanded in mid-stretch and he really started to stride out. Yes, he's a very nice colt."

The victory was worth $19,250 to Tell's comely owner, Mrs. Howard B. Keck, and it pushed the sophomore's career earnings to $45,438.

* * * *

PRIOR to Tell's triumph, form players had taken it on the chin in three straight outings. Vardor, the 7-5 choice in the mile and one-sixteenth fifth race, faltered in the drive and finished third as Miguel Yanez clicked with Hasty House Farms' Snow Tiger.

The Argentine-bred scored his first U.S. victory with a 1:42 3/5 clocking and returned $13.20.

The Buster Millerick-trained entry of Cavamore and First Mate was the 4-5 choice in the seven-furlong sixth race but the best they could fashion was a second with First Mate, as Key Rulla raced wire-to-wire in 1:21 flat.

The Phoenix-owned flash, racing for the partnership of Clay and Struck, paid $12.60 in picking up his second win of the meeting.

Rich Desire and Apex II, stablemates of Tell in the Whittingham barn, were the choices in the seventh race, a mile and a furlong on the turf. But Shoemaker was unable to overhaul Het's Cadet, as he closed with a rush aboard Apex II.

Mario Valenzuela booted Het's Cadet to the wire in 1:48 3/5, the Wally Zagen colorbearer paying $44.80.

Tell ended the chalk players' drought and may have started them on a lengthy streak, if they stick with the son of Round Table.

DODGERS---

was taken out attempting to steal second.

It was Reed's show until the Dodger attack — which features singles and speed for the most part — showed up in the ninth inning.

The Dodgers still are enjoying their first homestand, and no one is enjoying it any more than the ex-Yankee Kosco.

He has an 11-game hitting streak, which started in the Dodger's first home game, and all of his 12 RBI and his three homers have come at Dodger Stadium. He is 16-for-46 in the 11 games at Dodger Stadium and that's a .348 average.. The longest Dodger hitting streak of last season was 12 by Wes Parker. Kosco can match that today.

"I've found this place to my liking," said Andy. And so have the Dodgers. It's not so much the moving of home plate. It's the moving the team has done to reach the top of the National League standings.

DODGER NOTES: The Dodgers conclude their first homestand today with Don Sutton (1-2) facing the Braves' Pat Jarvis (1-1) . . . Pitcher Don Drysdale will make the next trip, which starts Monday. "I'll run but I've been advised by Dr. (Frank) Jobe not to throw at all on the road trip," said Don. And that road trip is 17 days, indicating Drysdale won't be immediately available to pitch even after he gets off the disabled list in 21 days (starting Monday) . . . The first four games of the Dodger road trip — two in San Diego and two in San Francisco — will be televisedby Channel 11. By unusual scheduling, the Angels also are on the tube Monday night (Channel 5) in a game from Seattle.

STANKY GETS HEAVE-HO

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tulane ran its winning streak to five games with a 9-8 baseball victory over South Alabama Saturday — and the umpires ran Eddie Stanky off the field.

Stanky, the South Alabama coach, was known during his major league playing and managing days as a fiery competitor. Plainly he has not cooled down.

The heave-ho came when Stanky snatched up a batter's helmet and hurled it into left field.

Prince Wins Derby Prep by 6 Lengths

Combined News Services

Majestic Prince, 6-5 choice for the May 3 Kentucky Derby, easily won Saturday's Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs, missing the 7-furlong track record by only 1-5 second.

So fearsome was the West Coast flash that he frightened away all but two challengers in the Stepping Stone, second to last of the traditional Derby preps, and made it a betless exhibition.

Flying the colors of Frank McMahon, Majestic Prince soared down the long Churchill Downs stretch for a clocking of 1:21 3-5.

He worked an additional furlong for a mile in 1:35, galloped out to 1⅛ mile in 1:49 2-5 and was pulled up at the 1¼ mile Derby distance in 2:05.

Fast Hilarious finished second, six lengths behind. Texas Dancer was another 15 lengths back.

Only Tuesday's Derby Trial remains as a major testing ground for hopefuls for the 95th running of the $125,000-added Derby on May 3.

In the race before the Stepping Stone, Diane Crump became the first girl rider on the Kentucky race track when she finished fourth aboard Somebody's Devil, a 14-1 shot.

Persister beat the favored Red Spice 2nd in the $15,000 Appreciation Purse after a bristling stretch duel as Gulfstream Park closed Florida's longest racing season before 19,650 persons.

Persister paid $12, $4.20 and $3.40. Red Spice 2nd returned $2.80 and $2.60. Vis-A-Vis paid $3.60 to show.

Captain Action brought Mister Diz three-race winning streak up short as he easily won the 1⅛ miles of the $37,150 Survivor Stakes for Maryland-bred 3-year-olds at Pimlico.

Captain Action's backers received $9.20, $4.40 and $3.

Promise outlasted Master Bold by a neck to win the $25,000-added Cherry Hill Handicap at Garden State Park.

QUINCY RUNS AT ALAMITOS

Quincy Rocket, one of the nation's top 2-year-olds last year, will race durring the 78-night quarter horse racing season that gets underway at Los Alamitos Tuesday, June 24.

The Rocket Bar filly out of the Leo mare Leocila was the third leading money winner in quarter horse racing last year, banking a total of $133,780.

Quincy Rocket won nine of 16 starts in 1968, with five seconds and one third. Her only trip out of the money was a 10th-place finish in the $401,474 All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Goldwater, Van de Kamp in L.A. House Race Tuesday

BARRY GOLDWATER JR.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — He defeated two veteran Republican officeholders in the primary, and now to win a seat in Congresis Barry Goldwater Jr., a dark-haired, jut-jawed copy of his dad, must defeat a young Democrat who, like the younger Goldwater, never ran for public office before.

Goldwater, son of the 1964 Republican presidential candidate, is favored in Tuesday's runoff election. He polled 37,679 votes in the April 1 primary — 30.8 per cent of the 122,501 ballots cast.

Finishing second, with 16,758 votes — 13.5 per cent — was his Democratic opponent in the runoff, John K. Van de Kamp, 33, like Goldwater a bachelor, a former U.S. attorney in Los Angeles and chief of U.S. attorneys in Washington.

Because no candidate polled more than half the votes cast in the sprawling 27th Congressional District, made up of the San Fernando Valley and sections of rural Kern County, the runoff was needed.

The special election was called to fill the seat left vacant by Republican Ed Reinecke, who returned from Washington to become the state's lieutenant governor. And, although Democrats have a slight numerical edge in voter registration in the district — 109,519 to 106,882 — the district has long been considered a Republican stronghold.

Since the primary, Goldwater, a 30-year-old stockbroker, has been consolidating his strength by enlisting his defeated GOP opponents as honorary co-chairmen of his campaign. The list includes James Potter Jr., a Los Angeles city councilman; Pat McGee, state assemblyman; and John Lindsey, a former aide to Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan.

ZERO-SIDE YARD CONCEPT . . . Gives Suburbia Spaciousness

EACH SUBURBIA HOME . . . Takes Full Advantage of Lot Size

Last Major Seal Beach Development Selling Swiftly

Suburbia, Inc., is treading where two other building firms feared to tread.

Hundreds of homeowners are glad it is.

This week, the second and final unit of attractive garden - type homes are open at the Suburbia Homes Seal Beach site.

Unit One, only two blocks from the Long Beach Marina, quickly sold out.

But what about this 21-acre parcel which two major Southland developers had given the cold shoulder?

The Seal Beach property, the last sizable piece of land in that community, had these problems:

There was a city sewage disposal plant in the center of the parcel.

A railroad bisected it and an old Dow Chemical Co. plant bordered it.

There was an open drainage ditch and soil conditions were questionable.

BUT THE location — just off the marina — was something else.

R.D. Miller, vice president of planning for Suburbia, Inc. said:

"We felt these problems could be overcome since the location was ideal."

He was responsible for the successful and innovative solutions to the problems. Efforts to buy the land began in 1966.

To date, the first unit is completely sold out and the final group of homes are open for viewing at Marina Drive and Fifth Street.

Buyers purchased homes in Unit No-1 from preliminary designs in Suburiba's Santa Ana offices.

THE homes, ranging upward from $32,950, have two to four-bedroom plans with front yard landscaping and sprinklers. They have totally enclosed private garden patios with an 8-foot-high common wall separating dwellings.

Suburbia received approval from Seal Beach city officials for R-1 zoning on 3,000-square-foot lots through the use of the zero-side yard concept with a walled lot.

Grant Hornbeak, vice president of marketing, said each home takes full advantage of the entire homesite, while insuring maximum land use and complete privacy provided by the common wall.

HOMES have garden kitchen entertainment centers, double-car garages, open-beam and vaulted ceilings, cultured marble pullmans, natural wood cabinets and underground utilities. There are eight different plans in Suburiba.

Within the walled community will be a city-maintained recreation area and community center with a park, clubhlouse and tennis courts, green belts and a restaurant, all either under construction or in the planning stage.

Cerritos Area in Spurt

Reports of the new regional shopping center, now under construction just one minute away from El Ray Park in Cerritos, is partially responsible for the recent sales upsurge, according to sales officials of Boise Cascade Building Co.

Situated on 104 acres, the shopping complex will be on South Street at the San Gabriel Valley Freeway between the freeway and Gridley Road. Over 1,000,000 square feet of floor space will be utilized, with a 7,000-car parking space provided.

Seventy shops are expected to be in operation in 1970 when the center is scheduled to open. At least 2,400 persons will be employed to man the various business enterprises, it was reported by Ernest W. Hahn, representing the developers.

Sears Roebuck and the Broadway stores will occupy nearly 500,000 square feet.

SALES OFFICIALS AT Boise Cascade Building Co. cited the announcement of the shopping center as one of the major factors in sales increase at El Ray Park, but also noted that substantial monthly savings are now in effect at the popular community.

Payments as low as $172 per month are now available at El Ray Park, with prices from $29,950. The homes are also offered on the Equity Transfer Plan, which allows buyers to transfer the equity in their present home, as part of the financing arrangements.

Offered in a variety of one- and two-story and split-level stylings, with three and four bedrooms, the homes boast numerous luxury features, balanced power kitchens and a full line of built-in appliances.

El Ray Park may be reached from the Santa Ana or San Deigo freeways, to the San Gabriel Freeway (605) continuing on Freeway 605 to the South Street offramp and west on South Street to Studebaker Road, then south on Studebaker to the model homes, just north of Del Amo Boulevard.

Steward-Davis Buys Boeing Turbine Rights

Steward-Davis, Inc., Long Beach, has purchased the rights to manufacture a line of Boeing turbines used to power gun carriages, boats, helicopters, total energy packages and turbostarters.

Steward-Davis began manfacturing turbine components in 1962 after purchasing the rights to J34 gas turbine engines from Westinghouse. It is the only commercial source for these engines, and is supporting the operation of J34 engines used around the world.

Acquisition of the Boeing product line is expected to double the annual sales of Steward-Davis, and will be used as a springboard into the expanding ground-based turbine market, according to F. H. Steward, president of the Long Beach aircraft and engine company.

"We believe Boeing selected us to take over the family of turbines developed by Boeing because they knew that we would give these engines the same kind of loving care that the Boeing Company is now pouring into the 747, and that's just the way we feel about this program," Steward said.

UNDER THE AGREEMENT with Boeing, Steward-Davis has purchased the inventories of Model 502 spares and work-in-process of the turbine operations of Boeing.

The agreement also includes a complete package of manufacturing tools and manufacturing data.

Steward-Davis will continue the development, manufacturing, overhaul and sales of versions of the Boeing Model 502 and airborne configurations of the Model 550 Boeing turbine.

Purchase orders for spares and service for the Boeing turbines already are being received.

Wm. Lyon Homes Offered from Hillside to Seashore

BELMEADOW HOMES CHRISTENED

What does it take to become one of the nation's top volume builders in less than 15 years?

According to builder William Lyon, whose Newport Beach-based company ranks nationally among the industry s "Big Four," the answer is to build not only in multiple areas, but in a variety of locations and with wide price range within each area.

Another factor important to Lyon's success has been his ability to adapt features of his more expensive homes to lower-cost housing, thanks to nationwide building operations and excellent buying resources as the real estate subsidiary of American Standard Inc.

Coupled with the firm's outstanding reputation for highest standards of design and construction, results have been more than 11,500 sales of single family resieential units in a decade and a half.

* * * *

SINCE the compnay's merger with American Standard Inc. in 1968, its expansion program has been stepped up to include current out-of-state joint housing ventures in New York, New Jersey and Virginia.

A new multifamily division was recently formed with 1,000 apartment units to be built throughout Southern California, the first a luxury complex in Fullerton's Sunny Hills area.

Others are underway in Anaheim, Placentia, Yorba Linda, Santa Ana, and the Wildwood area of Thousand Oaks.

Probably the best known Wm. Lyon Homes development has been the California Classics Series built throughout California and ranked as the state's best-selling new homes with an average of three sales per day since introduction in September 1967.

* * * *

LOCALLY at 5961 Brannen Drive, the California Classics Huntington Series offers a new golf course location in Huntignton Beach and a new floor plan which converts from three bedrooms to five (the original four basic two to four bedroom plans also are available).

Price begin at $22,990 on VA, FHA or Conventional terms.

The Classics are a prime example of the development of material and labor saving devices by the Lyon staff to adapt luxury features to lower cost housing.

The all-glass "Terrace Kitchen," originally introduced in Lyon's expensive executive homes, now offers Classics' owners a cooking center filled with electric built-in appliances and surrounded by sliding walls of glass framed in gold-anodized aluminum.

* * * *

IN THE Long Beach-Orange Couny areas, homes by Lyon are available from hillside to seaside.

Another development — Huntington Shores — is like the Classics, designed and priced for young families and their budgets. One-story three and four-bedroom homes at Huntington Beach offer sloped ceilings, family rooms and "turnkey" extras such as electric appliances, carpeting, drapes fireplaces and fencing includeg, priced from $22,990 on VA, FHA and Conventional financing.

Lyon s Franciscan Fountains offers unusually large executive homes with up to five bedrooms in Huntington Beach. Prices start a $29,990 for these one and two story plans with no down payment to veterans, FHA and Conventional terms.

Luxury highlights all of these elegant homes with spectacular features such as curving staircases, "lanai dens," "Parent Saver Retreat" and the deluxe version of the all-glass "Terrace Kitchen".

* * * *

WITHIN walking distance of the ocean at 21851 Ocean View Lane, Huntington Beach, is Port Lido, the excitingly unique collection of "beach modern" one and two-story homes priced from $29,990.

Here the "Bay Window" kitchen is introduced with its V-shaped walls of glass framed in gold anodized aluminum and a sliding glass window to patio serving counter.

Two story - high living rooms, sloped ceilings, family rooms with fireplaces, and the "Parent Saver Retreat" are features of various plans at Port Lido. "Ready to move in" features are included and VA and FHA terms available.

* * * *

FULLERTON'S Sunny Hills West is one of the area's most prestigious developments by Lyon. Large, luxurious executive homes occupy some of the locale's fines view properties in this hillside country, offering a view from one, two-story and split-level plans.

Prices begin at $34,990 for the three to five-bedroom homes (one converts to seven bedrooms) and many architectural innovations are introduced such as the "Sun House Kitchen," "Galleria" and "Garden Room" entries and "Presidential Suite" bedrooms.

* * * *

NEWEST of the Lyon developments is Belmeadow, now under construction at Slater Stereet and Edwards Drive in Huntington Beach.

The three to five-bedroom homes for young executive families are priced from $24,990.

Master suites, "terrace" kitchens, fireplaces, sloped ceilings and an upstairs "bonus room" in one plan, are highlights of this new series.

Electric appliances, carpeting, drapes and many more extras are included, and choice of VA, FHA or Conventional financing is offered.

WHO SAYS IT'S A DOG'S LIFE?

Stanley is in the phone book

"THAT'S MY NAME" . . . Mrs. Bob McNerney of San Pedro shows Stanley where his name is found in telephone directory.

By DIANNE SMITH

Stanley is not an ordinary canine.

In fact, some people wonder if he is a dog at all.

He does romp through the ivy and roll in the dirt like most dogs. He likes to chase motorcycles, too, but rarely gets the chance — having instead to watch from behind the iron gate of his yard.

He has his own backyard, but he prefers to wander the streets, which, of course, is against regulations.

Stanley is a thoroughbred — a blue blood among canines — and has papers to prove it. On the German schnauzer variety, he is grey in color with big, brown, expressive eyes no human can resist.

Here, his similarity to dogs ends and his life as a "human" begins.

STANLEY BELONGS to the R. T. McNerneys, who live in the South Shores section of San Pedro.

Visitors to their home find the welcome mat says: "Bob, Donna and Stanley."

Stanley is also the only McNerney family member listed in the southern section telephone directory. He is found under Stanley K. McNerney.

By being listed in the phone book, Stanley has received unsolicited magazine subscriptions in the mail, numerous advertisements and often gets calls "as one of the lucky ones chosen to receive" whatever it is being sold.

Once, he was called by a Los Angeles radio station and "barked" into the phone.

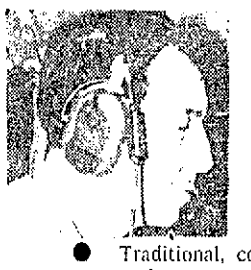

Here the similarity to man ends as Stanely has no desire for money.

He's having too much fun being an unemployed d-o-g and being man's best friend while living what might be called "The Life of Riley."

FUTURE OF CHIVALRY is entrusted to Tom of Warwick (Stephen Rabin), knighted here by King Arthur (Ed Cotter.)

Irvine, Huntington Beach in Subdivision Dead Heat

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

Irvine and Huntington Beach were in a dead heat in subdivision development in Orange County during the first quarter of this year.

In the three-month period, four tracts containing 328 lots in 79.754 acres were recorded for the Irvine area, while Huntington Beach had three subdivsiions with 322 lots in 72.910 acres.

Cypress was close behind with three tracts having 316 lots in 49.856 acres, according to First American Title Insurance Company, Santa Ana.

The greatest acreage went into subdivision development at Laguna Niguel, where two tracts with 164 lots in 226.610 acres were recorded. However, the major portion — 180 acres divided into 11 lots — is an industrial rather than residential development. It was recorded in February by North American Rockwell Corp. for the new Autonetics complex.

Between Jan. 1 and March 31, 2,853 lots were manufactured in 59 tracts recorded in the county. A total of 886.2232 acres went into subdivision development.

Totals for the comparable period of 1968 were 56 subdivisions comprising 3,016 lots in 864.3608 acres.

The first quarter totals for 1969 by area:

AREA	TRACTS	ACRES	LOTS
Anaheim	5	29.533	88
Buena Park	2	10.702	9
Costa Mesa	3	29.788	130
Cypress	3	49.856	316

A SHARP INCREASE IN PRICES has occurred in subdivision developments in the Mission Viejo-San Juan Capistrano area during the past year, according to First American Title Insurance Company.

A comparison of February 1968 prices with those of the same units presently selling showed an average increase of $1,875 for homes under $25,500 and $3,655 for dwellings in the $25,500 to $39,000 range, Dale J. Post, assistant vice president-marketing research, said.

He reported that the total number of unsold, completed houses in the 13 developments included in the firm's survey was a low 4.3 per cent. Unsold homes under construction totaled 50.7 per cent.

MOBILEHOME PARK OWNERS in California are again the target of a hefty hike in taxation — this time in the form of permit to operate fees, said Neil Y. Nordlander, executive director of Western Mobilehome Association.

Assembly Bill 1546, which calls for a substantial raise in the fee charged for operating mobilehome parks has been introduced in the state legislature, Nordlander said.

"The mobilehome industry fully intends to pay its share of the cost of administration and enforcement of any laws applying to it; however, the industry feels that any large increase in permit to operate fees should be commensurate with a corresponding increase in the workload incurred by the state.

"To date, we do not have any evidence that workload has jumped to this point," Nordlander said.

Western Mobilehome Association, a state-wide organization, represents mobilehome park owners and operators, park residents and allied businesses.

BY 1980, ORANGE COUNTY will have a population of 2,000,000, a labor force of more than 764,000 and its residents will have a personal income of nearly $11 billion, according to an economic study, "Focus on Orange County," released by the Bank of America.

R. Gene Conatser, vice president and senior economist for the bank in Southern California, outlined details of the study to members of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce during a luncheon meeting held at the Anaheim Convention Center.

"Orange County will continue to be one of the brightest economic spots of the nation for profitable investment in a wide range of industries. Its economy will continue to advance at a faster rate than that of California as a whole, which in turn will grow more rapidly than that of the nation," he said.

The economist pointed out that although the rate of future growth will be high, it will decline slowly from past record-breaking levels because of the lessened in-migration that is affecting the entire state of California.

CONTENDING THAT warranty practices of the automobile industry "are seriously undermining confidence in our economic system," Consumers Union has urged that the Federal Trade Commission and Congress take steps that would require automakers and dealers to tell the truth in their warranties, keep their promises and accept financial responsibility for their mistakes.

"The FTC should have stepped into the ring years ago," the nonprofit consumer advisory and testing organization says in an article in the April issue of its magazine, Consumer Reports.

Referring to an FTC report on warranties, made public in 1968, it says: "We can heartily endorse most of the report, especially the statement that 'the conclusion is inescapable that general performance under warranty often is unsatisfactory to a great many — actually millions — of new car buyers.'"

But, asks Consumers Union, "Why didn't the FTC start filing complaints against the manufacturers and dealers many years ago for making promises in those warranties that they would not or could not keep?"

IN THE APRIL issue of Advertising Age, Walter P. Margulies, president of Lippincott & Margulies, Inc., writes: "The concepts of social change inherent in the Black Power movement are beginning to make themselves felt in the marketplace.

"The growing affluence of 23 million consumers earning $30 billion annually and searching, like their white counterparts, for products that reflect their desire for status and recognition, can no longer be ignored.

"The Negro's new position in contemporary society poses a special challenge for the manufacturer with powerful equities in brands like Aunt Jemima and Uncle Ben that are based on out-dated stereotypes. Aunt Jemima is no longer a plantation mammy and Uncle Ben looks less like a butler and more like a bow-tied businessman.

"And while Cream of Wheats famous chef still dominates his package, both Aunt Jemima and Uncle Ben are now cameos, subtly endorsing large, mouth-watering illustrations of their products. Is this in preparation for the day they disappear completely from the package?" he speculates.

WHEN IT COMES TO borrowing money, the California real estate market isn't what it used to be.

Actually, real estate financing throughout the entire country is changing. In California, it only happens to be changing faster.

To keep up with the competition, the art and science of mortgage financing—particularly for income-producing properties—has had to turn to innovation, according to a spokesman of the state-wide California Mortgage Bankers Association.

In a presentation to the San Diego Building Contractors Association, Bernard W. Baker, vice president of the Los Angeles-headquartered Ralph C. Sutro Company, reported an increasing move away from traditional financing methods.

The California mortgage market for commercial property — apartments, office buildings, retail structures — can expect three new types of financing to become ever more commonplace: "joint ventures," whereby the mortgage lender becomes an equal partner in a property acquisition or development — in return however, for often providing up to 100 per cent of the financing; "conventional loans with-a-kicker" in which the lender shares in either the property's net or gross income; and "equity participations" whereby the lender receives a percentage of the equity ownership in addition to the interest yield.

Chartline Down as Auto Output Dips

A continued slip in auto production inched the chartline 0.1 per cent below a week ago.

Auto output fell 7.1 per cent, due to a combination of strikes and preparation for new-model production.

Steel production rose 0.2 per cent in the current week. Orders are down from a month ago, reflecting a seasonal slowdown and an increase of imported steel, due to settlement of the dock strike.

Crude oil refinery runs rose 0.6 per cent. The rise in motor oil indicates the start of the vacation season; Electric power output fell 1.5 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings slipped 2 per cent. The drop is due, in part, to a slowdown in auto shipments to dealers. All other carloadings dipped 6.2 per cent below last week's figures due to the coal miners' annual Mitchell Day holiday.

Paperboard production slipped 3.1 per cent and began to level off after the Easter rush.

SIGNAL HILL HELPS BOOST
Macmillan in All-Time High Sales

An increase in the sales volume of Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co.'s Signal Hill and Arkansas refineries pushed sales to an all-time high in 1968, according to Roy W. Waer, executive vice president and member of the board.

The consolidated net sale of $17,542,294 was announced to stockholders at the annual meeting at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles.

The 7.5 per cent increase over 1967 was attributed to the Signal Hill refinery's successful experimentation with Alaskan crude oil, which led to an increase in fuel oil business with public utilities, and the Arkansas refinery's success in marketing lubricating oils and asphalts.

GROSS profits, although up from 1967, did not adequately reflect the dramatic sales increase, due to higher expenses, international crises, and the 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge.

They amounted to 13 cents per share of the capital stock outstanding, as opposed to 19 cents a share on 1967, when there were fewer shares of stock.

Stock dividends of 2 per cent were declared in April and December of 1968.

"The profit picture is substantially brighter for 1969," said Robert A. Collier, board chairman.

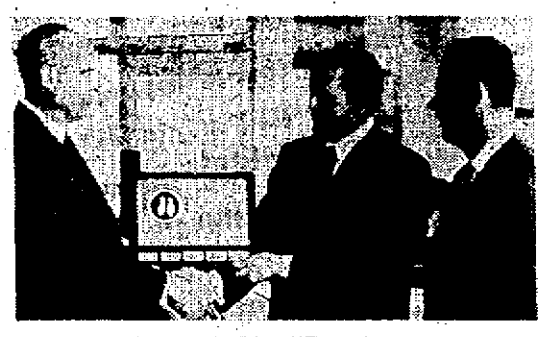

* * * *

"PROFITS began increasing in the last few months of 1968 and are continuing to show further progress."

In addition to the refineries in Signal Hill and Arkansas, Macmillan also markets a successful line of consumer oil products for racing cars, conventional automobiles, boats and all types of engines under the name of "Ring-Free" and owns substantial interests in radio station WSMB in New Orleans and Syracuse Television, Inc. in New York.

Can intelligent speculation achieve
AGGRESSIVE CAPITAL GAINS?
Attend this advanced lecture and discover what our experience shows.

Time: Wed.—April 30 OR Thurs.—May 1—7:30 pm.

Place: Paine Webber Jackson & Curtis
204 East 4th Street, Long Beach

Speaker: Dick Cadieu

Learn about an investment philosophy founded on informed, well-calculated investment speculation. With a potentially aggressive capital-gains program in mind, this philosophy is geared to change rather than stability.

Find out what nine well-defined factors cause changes in a stock. Learn how these factors have set off spectacular gains in recent years. And how to evaluate new candidate stocks using four yardsticks. Learn what we believe to be the proper ratios of risk versus potential reward. In the discussion period which follows, you are welcome to ask questions.

If your own investment philosophy aims for aggressive capital gains, we believe you will find it reinforced by this advanced lecture. For your reservation for this stimulating and educational lecture we suggest that you mail your name, address, zip and phone or telephone us without delay.

RANCHO CAPISTRANO
Land of the Dons

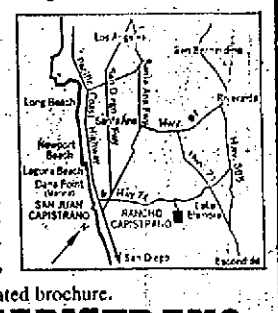

UNSPOILED, SECLUDED
2½ to 3 acre rancho sites amid the great oaks of Cleveland National Forest

Deep in the great oak region of the Cleveland National Forest lies a 300-acre island of rolling hills, warm valleys and grassy glades known as Rancho Capistrano. Vast reaches of the National Forest recreation area stretch in every direction, a Government-owned buffer against population and commercial encroachment.

Rancho Capistrano will belong to just 133 owners, in fee simple. Each of the 2½ to 3 acre sites is cleared and accessible to utilities and graded road. Ancient Spanish oaks still stand on most of the sites. This private preserve, once sold, can never be duplicated.

At Rancho Capistrano you'll enjoy assured seclusion for an infinite future, the beauty of two private, stream-fed lakes, a temperate year-round climate at 3300-ft. elevation, and 30-minute access to coastal recreation at Laguna, Dana Point, San Clemente, and Newport Beach. Only 23 scenic miles from San Juan Capistrano. Rancho Capistrano sites are priced from $8,000 to $18,000, terms 10% down, 15 years.

Pleasant Scenic Drive: Santa Ana/San Diego Freeway to historic San Juan Capistrano, then east on Hwy. 74 (Ortega Hwy.) and follow the signs. From Pomona or Riverside: Drive to Corona, then east on Hwy. 71 to Hwy. 74, south and follow the entrance sign.

Argentinians work and play-- on mission at Los Alamitos

By ALMA KIRKLAND

While stories of the "Ugly American" are widely circulated, a little known diplomatic effort to cement relations with our South American neighbors has long been in progress — right on our doorstep.

Certainly Capt. Edward Hunt and his wife, Ruth, never considered themselves diplomats. However, as officer in charge of the Antisubmarine Warfare School at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, Capt. Hunt has instructed fliers from Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay during the past three years.

This might strike at a taxpayer's nerve center except for this explanation;

"These people purchase planes from the U.S. and, under the Military Assistance Program, we give the crews post-graduate training at their government's expense. And these people pay their bills," said Capt. Lloyd Ruth, commanding officer, Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Exchanging air stories with the Hunts were Lt. Eduardo Broquen and wife Dolly, Lt. Antonio Vizioli and wife Carmen (affectionately called Kuky) and Lt. Orlando Gatica, who reluctantly left his wife at home in Argentina.

Brandishing a collection of photographs, Lt. Gatica showed the little 6-month-old reason. "My son is too young for his mother to leave him," he said.

AS FOR the "Ugly American," this latest group of Argentinians has yet to find him, describing their northern neighbors as "Muy sympatico!"

Recalling her first assignment as mini-diplomat, Mrs. Hunt told a joke on herself:

"I felt it might be rather difficult as I was sure I would be a bit sophisticated for these young wives," she said, then laughed, "Boy, was I surprised. Each wife had a live-in maid, cook and laundress and the fashions they brought from South America were straight from the French couturiers!"

"The military in South America is really part of an elite class of people," interjected Capt. Hunt.

The men speak beautiful English while the wives rely on an interpreter, Mrs. Dilly Henderson (Lt. Cmdr. Merle), or universal sign language.

"THEY ARE MOST amazing, these women. They just make a list of things they want to see, then they take off . . . they're completely fearless," marveled Ruth.

"You see, Dolly and Kuky are very lucky. They can drive perfectly on the freeways," said Lt. Broquen confidently.

"One is the pilot and one the navigator," quipped Lt. Vizioli.

The innerchanges and five o'clock traffic are mere child's play to those accustomed to driving in Argentina.

"I feel Americans are very kind, the way they wait for the pedestrian. In Argentina it is war . . . the driver pitted against the pedestrian," explained Lt. Broquen.

THREADED through the conversation were evidences of the Latin male's gallantry.

For instance: Orlando commutes 450 miles from Bahia Blanca to Buenos Aires each week because he feels his 6-month-old son is too young to move . . . and his wife would be lonely.

Says Lt. Broquen, "If you have machines you have to cooperate with them. We have a woman who likes to wash by hand . . . this saves my wife from lifting the clothes and putting soap in the machine."

But, the day of the live-in maid has all but vanished in Argentina and each year it becomes more difficult to find help, all agreed.

"Pretty soon we will be like here . . . cooperating with our machines," sighed Lt. Vizioli.

THERE ARE other changes. The image of the Latin father as absolute ruler of his household went out 20 years ago.

This was the first year of television in Argentina.

"A father was king of his family 20 to 30 years ago, but today it is necessary to maintain a dialogue," said Lt. Broquen, father of four.

To illustrate the "new way" in child rearing, Lt. Broquen said two of his children went to private school and two went to public. All go to English school half-day.

Why the different schools?

"Oh, you know how it is. They say, 'I want to go where Luis or Ricardo or Peter go, so . . .'"

As for their impressions of the golden state, there was mucho hand waving and animated conversation in Spanish.

"I knew it was, how you say, beautiful from what others say. But, no one said enough. Everything here is light and color," was the male consensus.

As for the ladies, what do they like best? They didn't even hesitate.

"Your super-markets!"

Yachters regale -on land, at sea

SOME 220 mothers and daughters — from 89 to 2 years of age — were in the merry throng gathered at Long Beach Yacht Club for a strictly-for-the-girls party and fashion show masterminded by Mrs. Frank Mansuy.

Honors for eldest mother went to 89-year-old Mrs. Alice MacCormack, who with daughter Mrs. Earl Vertrees, granddaughter Mrs. Bill Muntz and great-granddaughter Valerie Muntz accounted for a four-generation representation, all native Californians.

Youngest honors went to Marna Kral, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Steve Kral, while selection of eldest teen-ager added the evening's surprise. It ended in a tie when discovered 19-year-old Jackie Maxson and Melissa Buchanan both were born Oct. 3.

Commentary for the show of teen fashions was given by Mary Linehan, Cal State Long Beach student, with her sisters, Kelly and Melissa, Sandra and Laura Shadden, Doris Kupfer and Peggy Stangeland as models.

THE PACIFIC OCEAN was one large poker table when 15 boats from Marina Yacht Club officially openend the 1969 yachting season with harbor games.

Groping through the fog, the boats first pulled along side Soaleta II skippered by the Marvin Tinchers where they received the first card to a poker hand along with instructions on reaching the first of four other picket boats. The Frederick Taylors, aboard Cheri, won the game and were awarded a chartlight for navigational prowess AND luck at cards.

Commodore and Mrs. Forrest Kellogg, their own craft not yet ready for the season, guested aboard the Rowe Boat with Dr. and Mrs. John Rowe.

MRS. W. E. DOBBERPUHL

Dobberpuhls honeymoon in Mexico

Mexico is destination of a wedding trip by Mr. and Mrs. William Ervin Dobberpuhl (nee Constance Joan Dow) who exchanged wedding vows Saturday in St. Matthew Catholic Church.

Among guests witnessing the wedding ceremony were parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clifford Dow, 138 W. 52nd St., and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dobberpuhl of Rialto.

The bride wore a rose patterned chantilly lace gown with cathedral train and a bouffant skirt formed by cascading ruffles.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Thomas Harrington. The bride's sister, Debbie Dow, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cheryl Pohlman, Joanna Garcia, Jane Dobberpuhl, Mrs. Ronald Tipton, Carolyn Hodapp and Linda Visser.

Cameron Monk was best man. Ushering guests were Jeffrey Hodge, Gregory Hovaten, Gregory Fries, John Fries, David Menninger, Ronald Tipton, Michael Zenft and Steven Kenyon.

Following the ceremony a buffet and champagne reception at the Long Beach Elks club honored the newlyweds. The new Mrs. Dobberpuhl is a senior at California State College at Long Beach where she received the Gold Nugget Award and is AWS Treasurer. The bridegroom graduated from University of California at Riverside.

FOUR NEW PLANS . . . Offered By Casa Bonita

New Plans Attract Casa Bonita Visitors

New and exciting plans at Casa Bonita Homes in Cerritos are causing much enthusiastic comment from visitors to the community, sales agent Joe Cooper says.

The variety of functional plans, which range from three to five bedrooms include many innovations that are bound to please the style-conscious buyer.

Some models offer a music room and upstairs study gallery.

All plans have both formal and informal dining rooms and cozy family rooms, formal living rooms with fireplace of brick or stone and dramatic cathedral ceilings.

* * * *

GARDEN kitchens have a generous amount of hardwood cabinetry and tiled work space.

Pantries and separate utility rooms offer extra convenience. Carpeting, custom mirrors and lighting fixtures, deluxe marble pullmans in baths and powder rooms are all included.

Casa Bonita is a development of builders Henry and Myron Reichert, father and son team and the Swan Construction Co., both well-known builders of custom and semi-custom homes.

Prices are in the medium range with VA, FHA and conventional financing. Casa Bonita is located on Artesia Boulevard, just east of 605 Freeway.

Do your own thing at Spring happening

A "Spring Happening" is planned by the Women's Auxiliary to the Long Beach Pharmaceutical Association Tuesday at the Edgewater Inn.

Vogue Agency will provide models for the fashion show narrated by Elda Berry, with clothes from Chris Miller of the Edgewater Inn and Bixby Knolls.

Mrs. Ron Owen is chairman of the affair, which begins at 11 a.m. Mrs. Stan Nickle is assisting her.

Decorations chairmen, Mrs. Don Wolter and Mrs. Val Moore Jr., will decorate the tables with brightly colored animal pinatas of crocodiles, tigers, elephants, llamas, donkeys and the ever popular Snoopy.

Grand prize will be a round-trip flight and hotel reservations in San Francisco.

Mrs. Michael Crawford will offer 100 grab-bag items at bargain prices.

Following the fashion show, there will be a card session for bridge or canasta buffs.

Other chairmen helping with arrangements are Mmes. John Lower, Robert Warren, Leon Thomas and Don Salvatori.

Newlyweds to reside in Compton

On Friday in Long Beach Sixth Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints, Kerron Anne Imboden became the bride of Gary Allan Hartung. Their marriage was solemnized Saturday in the Los Angeles Mormon Temple.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Imboden, 334 Heath Lane, and Mr and Mrs. Robert M. Hartung of Compton.

During the ceremony the bride wore a gown of rose brocade satin with Peter Pan collar and large puff sleeves. In her entourage were Diane A. Patton, maid of honor, and Bonnie Walker.

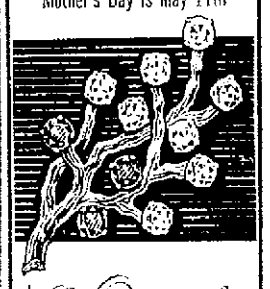

Best man was Robert Hartung Jr. Stanley Klock ushered guests.

A small reception was held Friday at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, and a second reception Saturday night at the Compton First Ward honored the newlyweds. After a honeymoon trip to Idyllwild they will make their first home in Compton.

Foundation sets fiesta celebration

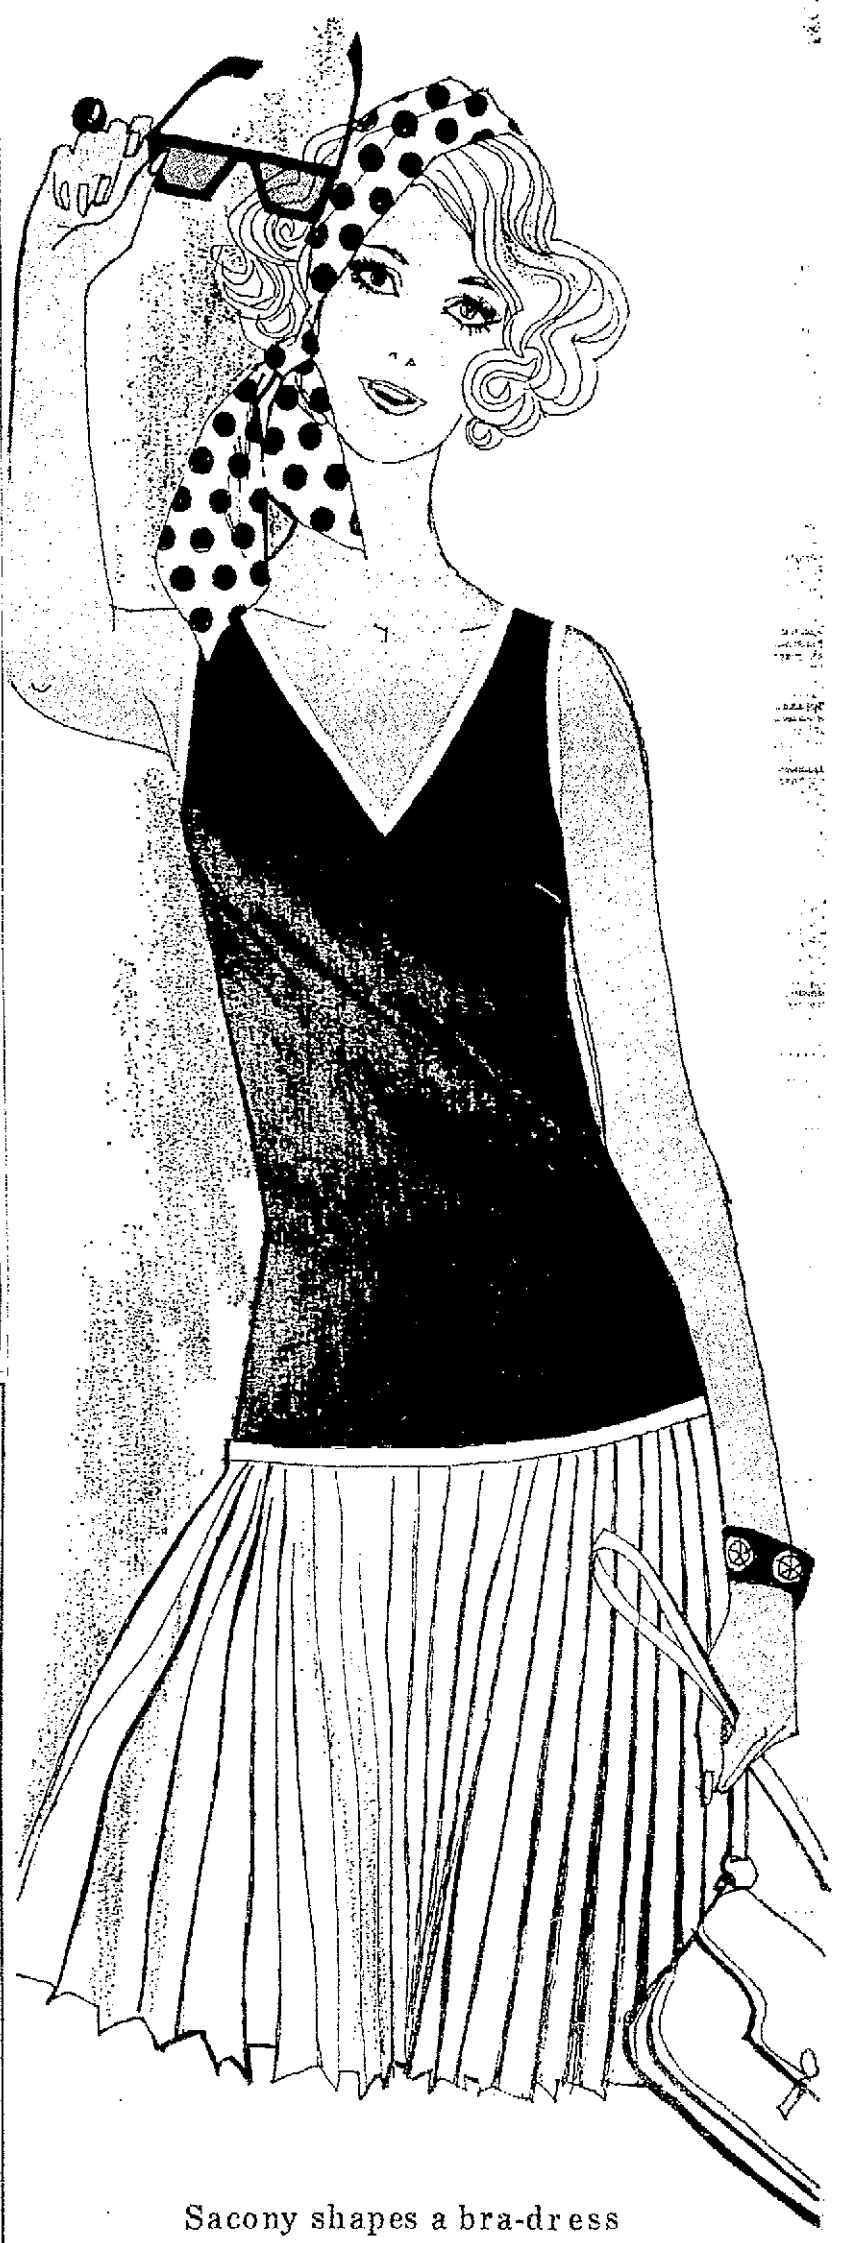

Cinco de Mayo will be celebrated a day early next Sunday when the Long Beach Retarded Childrens Foundation holds an open house at the school, 4519 E. Stearns St.

A Mexican dinner will be served from noon to 5 p.m. under the direction of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Group reservations may be made by calling the school. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children.

The foundation was founded as a non-profit corporation in June, 1954, by parents of retarded children.

The parents and friends of the approximately 100 children attending the school maintain the facility with volunteer help and contributions.

MRS. G. K. PREGILL

Ann Leath is bride of G. K. Pregill

Nuptial vows were exchanged Saturday in the Church of the Incarnation, Dallas, Tex., by Ann Flake Leath and Gregory Kent Pregill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noble Pregill of Hawaii.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Brooks Leath of La Palma wore an Edwardian silhouette gown of pearl-toned silk organza over peau de soie with a watteau train attached to the empire bodice.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Beard, was matron of honor. Joelle Leath was bridesmaid.

Philip N. Pregill was best man for his brother. Ushering guests were Ronald T. Oglesby, Randy K. Orkisch and Roger Slone.

A small gathering of friends and relatives in Dallas, Tex. honored the newlyweds at a reception. Following a wedding trip through the western United States the couple will live in San Diego.

The bride will graduate in May from Caruth School of Dental Hygiene at Baylor University College of Dentistry. Her husband graduated from Baylor University where he was president of Lambda Sigma Chi.

Dental Assistants set 29th convention at Century Plaza

Six members of Harbor Dental Assistants Society will be in attendance at 29th annual convention of Southern California Dental Assistants Association May 3 to 6 at Century Plaza Hotel.

Fancy stripes

Striped shades can help to vary the monotony of the average box-like apartment. Hung reverse-roll for clean line, and trimmed with gimp to match the stripe, they will rivet attention to the window treatment and distracts from the "squareness" of the room.

Wall Street Briefs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A slight softening of interest rates developed when the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae) auctioned 180-day home loan purchase commitments at an average yield to the buyer of 7.62 per cent compared with 7.63 per cent.

SEATTLE (UPI) — Boeing Co. has obtained an order for a Boeing 727 C jetliner from Ariana Afghan Airlines, Inc., to cost $8.1 million. Of the price $5.2 million will be loaned by the Export-Import Bank in Washington.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Southern Railway System has ordered 45 diesel electric locomotives from General Motors Corp.'s La Grange, Ill., plant at a cost of $10 million.

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Electric Power Co. has given Babcock & Wilcox Co. a commitment to buy four boilers with steam capacity to generate 1.3 million kilowatts of power each — or the conversions to steam of 9.775 million pounds of water hourly. The order, is fully consummated, will be the largest in the history of the electric utility industry.

TORONTO (UPI) — Revenue Properties Co. and Seaway Mutli-Corp. will spend $6.5 million to build a plant on a 40-acre site at Weston, Ont., for CCM Co., a seaway subsidiary which makes bicycles, skates and other leisure time equipment.

TIMONIUM, Md. (UPI) — Unitec Industries, Inc., has agreed to buy for stock Polarized Corp. of America of Beverly Hills, a maker of polarized illuminating fixtures.

NEW YORK (UPI) — General Cigar Co. has bought Tiparillo Co. of Hamburg and West Berlin, Germany, which makes Tiparillo cigars for the German market under license from General Cigar.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Horn & Hardart Baking Co., announced it will sell its 82,784 shares of the parent firm in New York which operates the Automat Restaurant chain.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Standard Oil Co. of California has ordered four more supertankers of 250,000 deadweight tons or more for its ocean fleet. The company now has 11 supertankers on order. In addition, the company ordered a 70,000-ton tanker that will fly the U.S. flag. Two of the four supertankers just ordered will be built at Rotterdam and two of 260,000 tons each at Nagasaki, Japan. The 70,000-ton craft will be built at Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Sparrows Point, Md., yard.

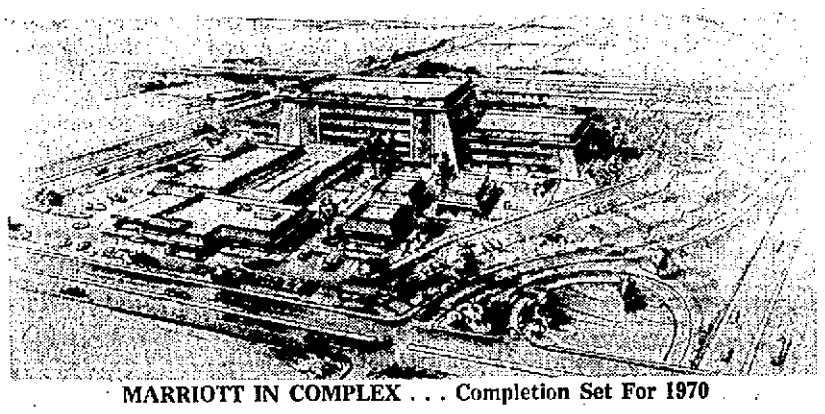

ODESSA, Tex. (UPI) — Dixilyn Corp. has taken a one-quarter working interest in a 7,300 square mile oil exploration concessions between the Great Barrier Reef and the east coast of the Australian State of Queensland. Odessa Natural Gasoline, Ltd., a subsidiary of El Paso Natural Gas Co. and Corbett Reef, Ltd., are the other partners.

MARRIOTT IN COMPLEX . . . Completion Set For 1970

Marriott Inn Will Rise on Town Center Property

First increment of a 250-room hotel, destined to be the Orange County harbor area's largest facility of its kind when fully developed, was jointly announced last week by the Segerstrom family, owners and developers of South Coast Plaza & Town Center, and Reuben G. and Allen S. Musikantow, of Chicago.

The deluxe hotel, to be called the Marriott Inn, will be one of the first of the chain to be located in Southern California.

The new inn will be constructed on six and one-half acres of the Town Center property located on Bristol Street at San Diego Freeway in Costa Mesa, directly across from South Coast Plaza.

Land cost of the new hotel is in excess of $5 million.

* * * *

THE Musikkantows, who recently concluded an agreemnt with the Marriott Corporation in Washington, D.C. for a franchise to own and operate a West Coast Marriott Hotel, plan to begin construction before the end of this year.

Scheduled for completion in the fall of 1970, the first increment includes 250 rooms within a multi-structed complex.

One six-story building, flanked by a three-story building and a separate grouping of three structures containing eight deluxe VIP suites complete with individual balconies, constitute the sleeping facilities of the complex.

There will be parking for over 450 cars.

* * * *

SPECIALLY designed paraplegic rooms and hospitality suites, in addition to banquet and convention facilities for 500 persons, a supper club, cocktail lounge and 24-hour coffee shop are also included in the initial general development plan, Musikantow said:

One of the nation's outstanding food managers will oversee all food preparations and operations.

Emphasis, Musikantow said, will be given to the restaurant, coffee shop and banquet facilities because "we recognize how important a role quality food and service play in the operation of a major hotel."

Reuben Musikantow and his son, Allen, successful owners and operators of several hotels, motor inns and apartments in the midwest, plan to develop similar Marriott Inns in at least four other areas in California.

Australians Tour Lyons' Home Series

Brian Sharkey and Roy Edwards, executives of A. V. Jennings Industries Ltd., Australia's largest homebuilding firm, were in Southern California last week to visit William Lyon's California Classics statewide home series.

These homes attracted the attention of the A. V. Jennings Company, wanting additional information on the design, construction and marketing of one of California's best-selling home series.

* * * *

SHARKEY and Edwards were taken on a tour of Lyon's California Classics at Huntington Beach and Thousand Oaks.

The Classics series, which has achieved a statewide sales rate averaging three sales daily for the past 18 months, was designed for young first-time buyers who have not yet achieved their maximum income potential.

World Inn Opens

World Inn's Corporation has announced the opening this week of the new World Inn's Restaurant in the Bank of Long Beach Building, 5199 E. Pacific Coast Highway, Long Beach.

The restaurant will be billed as "Long Beach's most fashionable dining salon," featuring delicacies from all over the world.

Grand opening is scheduled Thursday through Saturday.

Interior design is by J. Lyle of DEC Associates.

Robert Dickerson, known as one of the most versatile restaurant operators in Southern California, is director of restaurant operations. He has been associated with fine dinner houses throughout the Northwest, Hawaii and Southern California since 1947.

* * * *

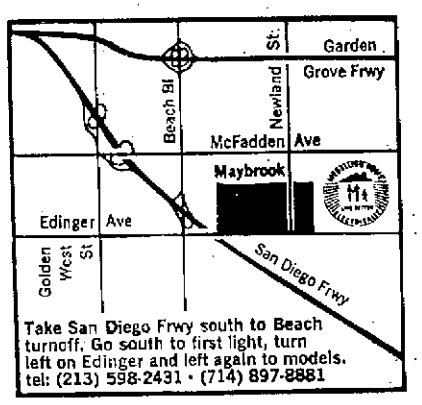

DICKERSON is married and a resident of Long Beach, active in clubs and organizations.

Dickerson has assembled a top staff including Robert Stanley, Mrs. Gayle Fohring and Ed Armstrong.

E. Enwood Thompson, Southland contractor and developer and president of World Inn's Corporation said "this restaurant is the first step in a projected program of building motor hotels and restaurants in choice locations throughout Southern California."

Couples repeat vows in Saturday services

Bates-Roop

Saturday in Faith Chapel, Long Beach Naval Station, Valerie Paulette Roop became the bride of Lt. Allen W. Bates Jr. USN.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Eugene Roop of Cypress and Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Bates of Scituate, Mass.

The bride was attired in a floor length gown of nylon lace over taffeta with an A-line skirt and flowing panel in back.

Honor attendants were the bride's sister, Maureen Roop, and Cmdr. George Powell, USN.

Following a reception at the Long Beach Naval Station Officer's Club the couple departed on a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas. They will live in Newport, R.I. The bridegroom is a graduate of University of Massachusetts.

Bechen-Robison

Wearing a traditional gown of Chantilly lace and satin Louise Anne Robison became the bride of Kevin Russel Bechen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Bechen of San Francisco, Saturday in Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church.

Evelyn Wheaten was maid of honor for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Robison, 4510 Cervato St. Bridesmaids were Mary Anderson, Ann-Corinne Fisher, Chris Bagwill and Lucinda Bay. Jody-Marie Adams was flower girl.

Best man was Richard Sobaski. The bride's brother, Wade Robison, Robert Pitalo, Steven Maxedon and Edward Braithwaite ushered guests. Ring bearer was Gary Griffin.

Following a reception at the church the couple departed on a wedding trip to Bishop and Mammoth. They will make their first home in Long Beach.

Winning contract

by Howard Schenken and Richard L. Frey

You are more likely to hold a hand containing two four-card suits than any other type of hand.

When you happen to have 17 h.c.p. or more it is seldom difficult to decide which of these two suits to bid first. If playing the Big Club there is no problem, and even if not, you have more freedom of maneuver with a strong hand than with a weak one.

But with 16 points or fewer it is very important to choose the right suit to bid originally. For any misjudgment is apt to cost heavily later in the auction.

Which suit should South open in each of these hands?

♠ A 10 9 5 ♡ Q 10 8
◇ A K 9 6 ♣ 7 3

♠ Q J 6 4 ♡ 5 2
◇ A J 8 4 ♣ K Q 10

3.
♠ A Q J 6 ♡ 7 2
◇ A Q 9 4 ♣ Q 10 3

♠ 10 8 7 4 ♡ Q 5 3 2
◇ A K 10 ♣ A 2

ANSWERS:

1. One spade. When two four-card suits are not adjacent, the question of whether to open with the higher or lower ranking suit is a matter for individual judgment. It depends on the hand.

In this instance, if you were to open this hand with a bid of one diamond, it would become impossible to find a satisfactory move if your partner happened to respond two clubs. Whatever you bid next would mislead your partner.

On the other hand, by opening one spade you can raise a response of two hearts to three hearts and can bid two diamonds over a response of two clubs.

2. One diamond. Over one heart from partner you can rebid one spade, and if partner bids two clubs instead you can raise to three.

3. One spade. This hand is different from the previous hands because it is appreciably stronger. Therefore if you open one spade and your partner bids two hearts, you can describe your hand perfectly by bidding two no trump.

While if your partner bids two clubs over your one spade, you can bid two diamonds. Whatever happens, you are in no difficulty.

4. One Diamond. This is an unusual situation, for South holds two weak four-card majors, neither of which is an attractive vehicle for an opening bid. With 13 h.c.p. however, it would be wrong to pass and therefore it is permissible to open the strong three-card diamond combination.

In the unlikely event that partner raises diamonds, there will be no need to panic, for partner will surely be unbalanced, with four-card diamond support and a singleton somewhere.

AS OPENING NIGHT NEARS---

Maestro rules at Camelot

chorus, the principals, rehearses the orchestra and, on opening night steps in the pit to direct 24 expert musicians.

"I pride myself on the musicians I hire," he explained during a rehearsal pause. "All are from symphonic or name bands or both. Many of them have long experience in Hollywood and New York studios. They must be of this caliber because rehearsal time with the orchestra is limited."

Limited!

Saturday the orchestra read through the score without the cast. Tuesday they will polish musical sequences. Wednesday will be dress rehearsal.

Thursday at 8:30 p.m. the curtain will rise on Arthur's mythical kingdom with Ed Cotter as King, Laura Killingsworth as his Queen Guenevere and William Jennings as Lancelot, ready to re-create the romantic triangle in Lerner and Loewe's words and music.

OTHER principals are humbling King Pellinore (T. Ellsworth Clark), villainous Mordred (Glenn Bradley) and young Tom of Warwick (Stephen Rabin) with whom the future rests.

Kroesen's association with CLO began by chance in 1961 when he attended a club meeting at Lafayette Hotel. Harvey Waggoner, CLO's general manager was there to sing, relying on a pick-up accompanist. Kroesen was chosen. "It was a spontaneous thing that just clicked," Kroesen remembered. "Later, Harvey asked me to submit my background for CLO board's consideration — they were looking for a music director."

That background began when Kroesen was 9 and his mother made him come in from sandlot baseball to practice the piano in Kansas City, Mo.

The youngster got his first professional job at the age of 13, got a job in a road show revue as a dancer when he was 15 — "I loved every minute" — joined the musicians' union at 16 which enabled him to become pit orchestra director with the revue.

HE WOULD have stayed on the road longer than two years if his mother hadn't insisted that he go to college.

"She knew better than I did what I needed," the director admitted.

Then World War II snatched Kroesen out of college for almost four years of duty with special services in Europe. After that, he finished B.A. requirements, earned his master's degree in music, and taught for 10 years in Kansas schools.

"I never could be satisfied with one job," though. He was music director for the prestigious Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City which brought in top professional shows out of Chicago; he directed revues, staged musical comedy.

In 1959, Kroesen decided to come to Southern California. He spent a week here looking over school districts, then went back to Kansas with teaching offers from Long Beach, Glendale and Arcadia.

"I FLEW home to talk it over with my wife, Millie. There really wasn't much question. The music program in Long Beach schools was superior by far. Teaching is exciting — working with young, alert minds eager to learn."

Kroesen regards his CLO job as an extension of teaching — and because of his fine professional background, singers and actors consider it a privilege to work with him.

"I take singers with strong, basic talent and work the devil out of them for six weeks," he said.

"Camelot is a beautiful show. We did it in 1966 with Laura and Ed and the same director, James Brittain. But you can't do a show exactly the same way twice — a different cast makes a different show."

At the conclusion of Camelot's eight performances May 11, the music director will have completed 290 performances for CLO.

"Every moment is tense. You don't know what might happen — that's why musical comedy is more exiting than any other form of music!"

Final Unit of Morningside Homes Open

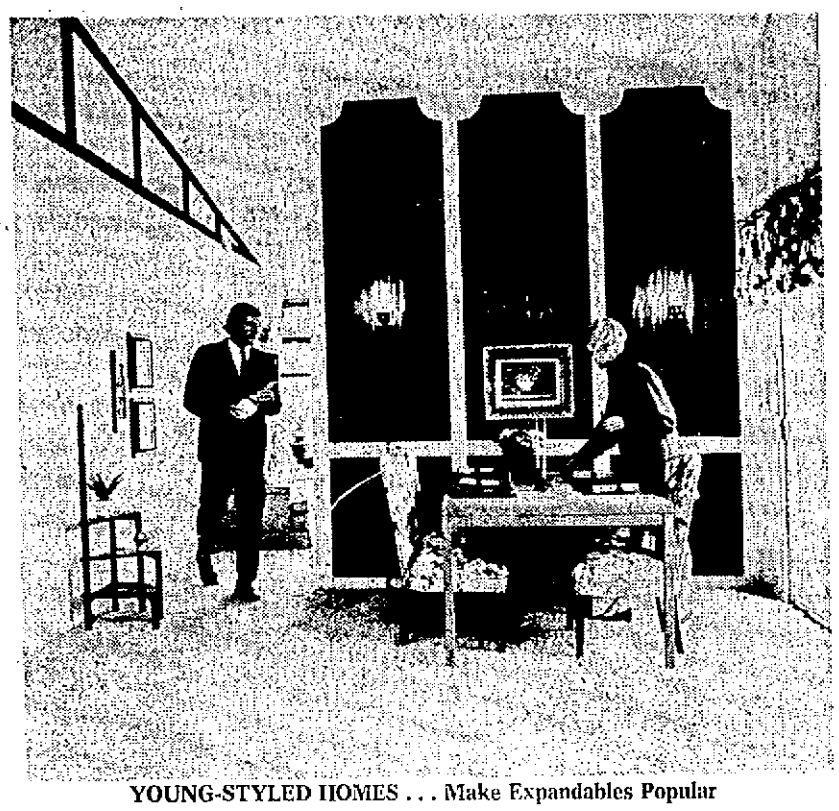

Grand opening of the third and last unit at Morningside, in Cerritos, is expected to attract crowds of prospective homebuyers, say sales officials of Boise Cascade Building Co.

Right pricing and terms were credited with the rapid sell-out of the first and second unit, the officials explained.

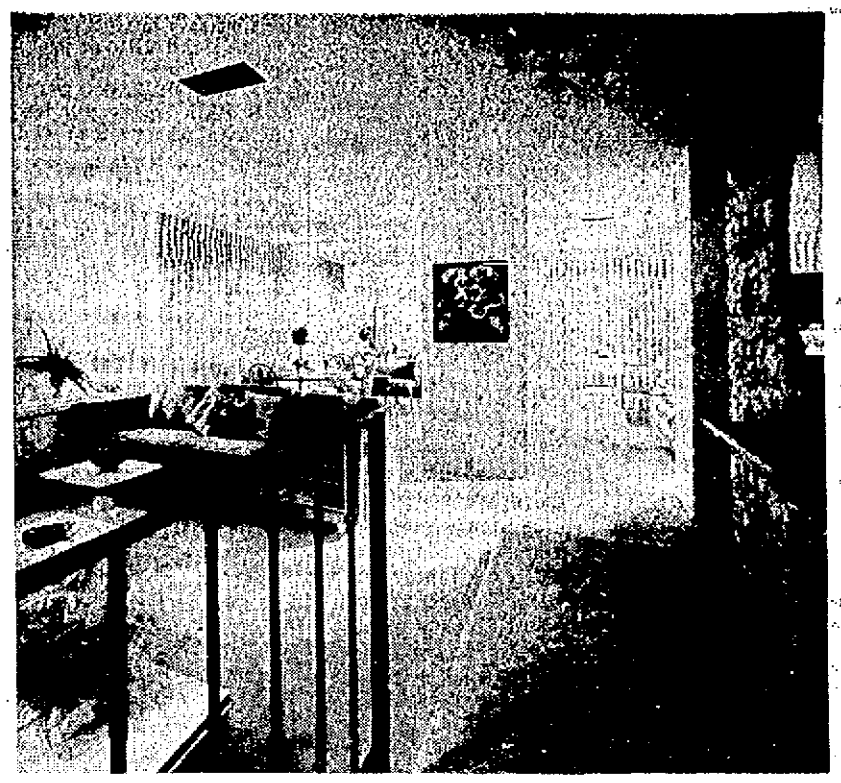

Priced from $22,995, the homes may be purchased on terms, with 90 per cent financing and monthly payments as low as $145, including principal and interest.

MORNINGSIDE features the exciting "New Homes for Young Americans," a group of homes especially designed to meet the needs and requirements of young, growing families. The spacious homes are available in a number of exterior stylings, with plans providing three and four bedrooms, with two and three baths.

Model homes are open daily for inspection and may be reached from the San Gabriel Valley Freeway (605) by taking the South St. offramp and continuing west on South St. to Studebaker Rd., then left to the models, just opposite 195th St.

L.B. Realtors Schedule Talk by Lou Von Dyl

Members of the Long Beach District Board of Realtors will hear Lou Von Dyl, Encino Realtor, discuss "A Trade-In Plan—Who Needs It " at their 7:30 a.m. breakfast meeting Tuesday at the Crown Cafeteria.

Program chairman Bob Westmyer said Von Dyl, head of his own firm, has been active in San Fernando Valley, California and national real estate board work.

He is past president of the San Fernando Valley Board of Realtors.

'The Beach' Chosen as Development of Month

The Beach, Kaufman and Broad's community in Huntington Beach, has been selected as "Development of the Month" by the Sales and Marketing Council of the Building Industry Association.

The council has inaugurated a program to select a development each month which has proved itself to be a marketing success and has made a substantial impact upon the homebuying market in Southern California.

The Council's directors selected The Beach as the first of these successful developments.

* * * *

THE expandables, a new concept in home design, were introduced by Kaufman and Broad at The Beach. These homes are designed to fit the budgets of young families but which can be expanded simply and economically with a family's needs.

When a family purchases an Expandable, it purchases a completely finished home at a popular price; they start at $21,990. When the family grows, The Expandable will grow too.

It may be expanded by two bedrooms, enlargement of the master bedroom and addition of a large playroom all on the first floor. Floor plans and specifications for this expansion are provided by Kaufman and Broad.

* * * *

THE homes at The Beach were designed by Barry Berkus and have bright and breezy styling including dramatic interior treatments and imaginative floor plans. The price range is from $21,990 to $29,500.

The Sales and Marketing Council commended The Beach for its explanation of the Expandables through signs and displays.

The council also praised the development's sales office and displays, noting that they carried out The Beach theme effectively and assisted customers. The sales office and all graphics were designed by Richard L. Casey.

* * * *

THE BEACH will be a community of 350 homes with an elementary school and a three-acre park. It may be reached via the San Diego or Santa Ana Freeways, taking the Brookhurst exit south.

All homes at The Beach are sold with Kaufman and Broad's five-year warranty. In addition, the homes are inspected 12 times during construction and double-checked 10 days after move-in by Kaufman and Broad's customer service staff.

This year's event will be staged May 23-25 and will feature for the first time an evening performance on Saturday, May 24 with the Long Beach Mounted Police opening the show.

Harold Dakan is managing the show and Mrs. F. B. Mosher is chairman. Assisting them are Mmes. Byron Brown and William Howell.

Tickets are priced at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 12. Proceeds will go to help build the cardiac care unit at the hospital.

Committee chairmen helping with arrangements are Mmes. Carleton Peters, Richmond Barker, Harold Kaiser, Bernie Heim, Ed Jasqewski, Alden Carder, Stephanie Swanson, Leonard Haynes, John H. Coffee, Harold Utteley, Albert Derian, Robert Nichols, Arthur Doherty, Frank Dutcher and Bryant Armstrong.

Steinhoffs to live in Seal Beach

MRS. G. L. STEINHOFF

Nuptial vows were exchanged in a Saturday evening ceremony in Los Altos Methodist Church by Toni Lynn Gladstone and Gary Lee Steinhoff.

The daughter of Mrs. Dottie Gladstone, 225 14th St., and Oliver Gladstone of Westminster wore a candlelight satin dress with yoke and chapel length train of Alencon lace.

In the bride's entourage were Sally Shepherd, maid of honor, Janene Huber and Diane Hanson.

Donald Lehman was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur O. Steinhoff of Downey. Ushering guests were Martin Reed and Dennis Geurin.

A reception in the church hall honored the newlyweds. Following a wedding trip to northern California the couple will live in Seal Beach.

Wright-Wilky families to join in August rite

Mr. and Mrs. W. Odie Wright entertained Saturday evening at a family dinner in their Long Beach home to reveal engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Norman L. Wilky Jr.

The prospective bridegroom is son of Mrs. Robert McElrath of Long Beach and the late Lt. N. L. Wilky, U.S.N.

The wedding will take place Aug 23.

Sabins reveal engagement of daughter

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker Sabin of Long Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Michael Carl Yanko.

Parents of the benedict-elect are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Yanko of San Pedro.

A July 26 wedding is being planned.

MOST THINGS COME to the driver's attention while he is peering through the front windshield, but here's a situation that puzzled the driver when he looked into his rear-view mirror and saw stairsteps with finials. Mystery was solved when he drove up the hill. Finial arrangements were ornamental decorations atop the roofs of stepped-dormitories near the University of San Diego.

WORLD OF WHEELS

Southern California residents who became the proud owners of new Cadillac cars last month helped Cadillac set sales records nationally, regionally and locally.

Last month 2,263 factory-fresh Cadillacs began riding the local highways. George W. Harrison, Los Angeles zone manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division, reports that the figure represents a 22.5 per cent increase in sales over March of last year.

The success recorded in March demonstrates this area's continued demand for the new-model Cadillacs. Sales from January through March of this year have totaled 6,020 cars, which is a 17.4 increase over last year's mark for the same period.

This exceptional demand for Cadillacs has helped to increase western regional sales by 18.2 per cent over last March, and sales for the first quarter are up 13.3 per cent from last year, according to W. H. Niven, western regional sales manager.

Cadillac's marked success in the west has also been an important contributor to the 7 per cent national increase in sales recorded for the first quarter of this year.

Niven said: "We are tremendously gratified by the excellent acceptance of this year's Cadillac line, and we are confident that the record sales pace will continue for the remainder of the year."

SALE OF DODGE PASSENGER CARS and trucks rose substantially for the first 10 days of April in the western area, according to N. K. Harris, western area sales manager.

Harris said the Los Angeles region Dodge dealers sold 815 passenger cars and 304 trucks in the ten day period, up 13.8 per cent and 32.8 per cent respectively, over the same period in 1968, or a combined increase of 18.4 per cent.

These sales break all previous records for April 1-10 in the Los Angeles region to continue the best model-year-to-date for the L.A. dealers.

San Fmacisco Dodge dealers recorded sales of 670 cars and trucks, up 6.9 per cnet over the same period last year.

PORTLAND DODGE DEALERS recorded sales of 538 cars and trucks, up 2.3 per cent over the same period in 1968.

Denver continues to break all records in the history of the region with passenger car sales up 36.2 pe cent and truck sales up 12.2 per cent. Model year to date sales are up 6.5 per cent on cars and trucks.

Combining all western area regions, Harris reported that collective sales for the first ten days of April were up 10.1 per cent in passenger cars and 21 per cent in truck sales, over the 1968 period.

Nationally, Dodge dealers recorded an increase of 2 per cent in the sale of passenger cars, and a 24 per cent increase in truck sales — a record for truck sales for the April 1-10 period.

FORD DIVISION DEALERS IN THE Los Angeles sales district received orders of 1,495 Mavericks during the first three days the new car was on public display.

"The people visiting the dealership liked what they saw and order immediately," L. S. Grey, Los Angeles district sales manager, reported.

An additional 485 orders received before introduction day — Thurday, April 17 — raised total sales of the new 1970 car in the Los Angeles district to 1,980.

Of the cars traded in by Maverick purchasers, 66 per cent were competitors' products and more than one-fourth were foreign imports, Mr. Grey said. Two-thirds of the imports were Volkswagens.

The Maverick is a sporty two-door, four-passenger sedan. In size, it is between the sub-compact imports and the domestic compacts. It has a 102-inch wheelbase. Overall length is 197.3 inches.

Look! It's Spring!

THERE NEVER WILL BE A BETTER TIME TO BUY A HOME

LOOK! The price of land is going up. Economists predict a 20% increase in real estate prices within the next 3 years. The pressure of growing population in this area exerts an upward pressure on land prices.

LOOK! Right now, you can find real bargains in new homes. The selection was never better regardless of type or size home you want. And you can find it where you want to live and most convenient to work.

LOOK! Interest rates may go up. The actual difference between present and past interest rates is only a small factor in the cost of a home. For example: A one-half percent increase in interest rates is only $6 per month on a 25-year- $20,000 loan.

LOOK! Real estate is an excellent hedge against inflation. Each monthly payment builds equity in your property. At the same time, the home can be increasing in value.

LOOK! Building costs are going up. Wages in the highly unionized building industry continue to rise. Building materials, affected by higher wages, higher taxes, higher costs of doing business continue to rise. In the pages of this newspaper, you will find excellent homes and locations advertised. Look for them now . . . and decide to make one of them yours.

Assessor Trainees Tour Dimension-70 Homes

A class of 20 trainees from the Los Angeles county assessor's office visited the new 200-home community of Dimension-70 in Cerritos last week as part of an assessor trainee program.

Dimension-70's unusual "easement swap" land plan and moderate price range were two of the major reasons why the new development was selected for the field exercise, said Senior Appraiser Glenn Quinn.

Trainees who visited the Cerritos development were the 25th class to be processed through the year-long training program which was inaugurated in 1954.

* * * *

OPEN three months, Dimension-70 has recorded sales averaging one home per day. Over 75 per cent of the 116 homes in the first and second units have been sold and a 78-home third unit has just been opened, said Clyde Wikom, sales manager for builder-developer Robert H. Grant and Company.

The new community's "easement swap" is actually an exchange of property between adjoining homeowners that permits use of at least 50 per cent of the space normally wasted by straight property lines.

* * * *

PRICE range at Dimension-70 is $21,995 to $26,495.

A model home complex that displays these features plus the "easement swap" land plan is now open on the site.

Freeway access to the site is via San Gabriel Freeway (605) to Del Amo Boulevard, then east to Pioneer and one block north to 195th.

Big mouths add up to trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm the kind of wife who tells her husband everything. And I am married to the kind of son who tells his mother everything.

Well, his mother has a big mouth, and she's the kind of woman who tells everybody everything, so now everyone in town knows all my personal business. How do you suggest I go about getting Friend Husband to keep his trap shut? Or maybe I should tell his mother to keep HERS shut. NO PRIVACY.

DEAR NO: I have a better idea. Why not simplify things and keep YOURS shut?

DEAR ABBY: I have it on very good authority that up until about 50 years ago it was the custom for Eskimo women to leave their villages just before their babies were due, go off by themselves, and give birth all alone.

This seems to be a very barbaric practice, and I can't figure out the reason for it. I know it is true because someone who has lived above the Arctic Circle for more than 50 years told me this himself.

What are the facts? CURIOUS.

DEAR CURIOUS: The facts (as obtained for me from Mr. Tobert B. Atwood, my esteemed friend and editor and publisher of the Anchorage Daily Times) are:

"No one has any proof that such a custom ever existed.

Father John P. Fox, a Catholic priest, who has spent 50 years in the Arctic Circle, stated:

"Once, 43 years ago I knew a young Eskimo woman who left her village to have her child alone. The reason. She was 19, unmarried and didn't want anyone to know of her disgrace. She had been running around with a native trader who had THREE wives.

The baby apparently died at birth or shortly after, and was hidden somewhere out on the tundra by the young mother. That is the only such case I have ever heard of.

"The so-called 'custom' is in a class with the 'wife-swapping' stories one hears about Eskimos, and the practice of 'loaning' one's wife to a guest. An occasional drunken native may have used his friend's wife, but that would hardly make it a custom."

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine has owed me $100 for a very long time. I have had no success in collecting even a part of it, so I decided to get even with him.

I borrowed his library card and checked out an arm load of magazines, from which I tore all the articles I wanted.

On one of my visits to the library, I met a young librarian for whom I fell very hard. He was most attentive at first, and I know he was about to ask me out when he learned of my vandalism. Since then he has been very cold and unfriendly. Should I explain to him the circumstances, or what? NEEDS ADVICE.

DEAR NEEDS: What could you "explain"? Your childish retaliation trick? I doubt if the young librarian would feel that your vandalism was justified. Putting another further into debt is a strange way of collecting what is owed you.

DEAR ABBY: I received a telephone call the other evening. A woman with a pleasant voice asked for me by name, so of course I let her talk.

She said she couldn't tell me who she was, but she thought I should know that my husband was stepping out with a woman he works with.

It would have really upset me terribly except that I'M NOT MARRIED!

Continue to tell your readers to pay no attention to nuts who make anonymous phone calls. GWEN.

OWENS (L), MOFFETT, STEINLEITNER . . . At Lemonair Sites

Each Lemonair Home Treated As Lone 'Masterpiece' Setting

A steady increase in sales pace at Lemonair, beautiful hilltop retreat in the Cowan Heights area, is forcing new construction speed up, says Chet Owens, sales agent.

The demand for above-the-ordinary quality homes in a location that is secluded above the hustle of burgeoning Orange County is met at Lemonair Estates.

Proponents of peace and quiet, the Lemonair building team is carefully planning each new home with special attention to details of view, privacy and maximum land use.

With the shortage of high elevation building sites, Robert Moffett, project manager, feels each lot should be individually treated as a masterpiece setting for a fine quality home.

QUALITY cannot be only surface, but must be equally significant in functional features, floors and walls, points out Lemonair's construction superintendent, John Steinleitner.

Models now open for inspection include several sophisticated plans in a choice of handsome exteriors. Three, four and five-bedroom plans with four baths are offered, all with formal dining room, over sized family room and fully equipped garden kitchen.

Pantries and utility closets provide more than adequate storage space.

Family rooms feature mirrored bars, elevated ceilings and decorator wall treatment.

* * * *

MASTER suites, large enough to serve as bedroom and sitting room, are elegantly done, with mirrored wardrobes, large dressing areas, marble dressing table with double pullman and king-size shower.

Many custom appointments are included, such as decorator lighting fixtures, floor to ceiling windows, double fireplaces, three-car garages.

Rancho Capistrano Attracts

Attracted by the unspoiled beauty and old-world charm of Rancho Capistrano, horse lovers have turned out in numbers to visit the Land of the Dons and see rancho living as in the days of Early California.

In one week more than 200 caballeros have visited Rancho Capistrano, many of them bringing horses and trailers. New stables and white-rail fenced paddock area are available for care and boarding of horses, and miles of equestrian trails provide many hours for riding pleasure.

You don't have to be a horse lover to enjoy Rancho Capistrano. Other recreational facilities include picnic areas in shaded groves, a completely furnished tile-roofed recreation building, two sparkling lakes, a dock, and a sailboat. The whole family will enjoy a visit to Rancho Capistrano.

Take a drive to see the fabled swallows of Mission San Juan Capistrano, then east on Hwy. 74 for 23 miles, and follow the signs. People and horses are welcome at Rancho Capistrano!

'Talking Apartment' Heralds Unveiling of South Hampton

Another "first" for California — a unique Talking Apartment — will be unveiled to the public May 4 at the grand opening of South Hampton, a new 600-unit adult apartment community in North Long Beach.

"That Talking Apartment feature has proven a successful and an informative innovation throughout the country but this is the first time it will be introduced in Los Angeles County," said Douglass Martin, Boise Cascade Building Company's general manager of the apartment division.

South Hampton, located on Ackerfield Ave., marks the entry of Boise Cascade into the apartment field in Long Beach.

One of the nations largest home builders, Boise Cascade has built more than 30,000 homes in California, but will be launching its first apartment community in this rapidly growing area.

* * * *

THE TALKING Apartment at South Hampton, which will be open daily from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Sundays noon to 7 p.m. for an eight day period concluding May 11, will answer any and all questions visitors may have concerning the apartment and the complex.

While many people may have been known to talk to "the four walls" of an apartment in the past, this is probably the first opportunity they'll have to hear an apartment talk back, as many little voices are hidden at vantage points inside and outside of the attractive apartment.

At South Hampton, the Talking Apartment will be a large, three bedroom domicile, providing 1,200 square feet of "talkative living space.

It features a large living room, all-electric kitchen, dining room, and a large king size master bedroom suite. One of the bedrooms is being furnished as a den, by Lane Bennett, the head decoartor at Edwards Fine Funiture.

"WE ARE entering this key market with a quality product created to meet the needs of active young moderns, in the medium income bracket," Martin said. "South Hampton is within easy access of employment and shopping centers in South Los Angeles County, yet it's location in North Long Beach gives the feel of openess and freedom not found in city living."

"Lucile Valek will be sales and rental agent for South Hampton" announced Martin.

Apartments at South Hampton will be in the medium price range, the Talking Apartment being $190 a month, unfurnished. Providing a feeling of spaciousness with plenty of room, receretional facilities, eight pools, laundry facilities and covered parking spaces, South Hampton will offer one, two and three-bedroom plans.

'SHINE HERE AND THOU ART EVERYWHERE'
... from Donne series, lithographs, by June Wayne, 1956

LITHOGRAPHER JUNE WAYNE

Artist says 'job is done'

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"Francis, Kanemitsu-Moses, Wayne" is an exhibit not to be missed. Not only is it a beautiful show of artists who have exhibited and been recognized world-wide, but it marks the close of a significant chapter of the history of the art of our time.

This chapter began with a woman with an idea, and it is she who is writing the last line. June Wayne, a self-taught lithographer of surpassing eloquence, was unable to have her stones printed in a satisfactory manner.

Ten years later, the Tamarind Workshop of Hollywood was established. Underwritten by the Ford Foundation for the last decade, Tamarind has brought printers and artists together on the basis of two-month grants. The artists were provided with a unique situation in which to create; the apprentices became master printers, returning to their home bases all over the country with highly developed skills.

The roster of artists who are Tamarind alumni reads like a "Who's Who" of contemporary art (including all those who participated in the CSLB International Sculpture Symposium). The workshop has produced, as well, a number of publications on the graphic media.

JUNE WAYNE has had the courage to look at her project and to say that the job is done. (How many institutions founded for worthy purposes, not fulfilled or no longer needed, still jog on with their annual fund-raising events and membership drives!)

The art of lithography, exploited by Daumier, Toulouse, Munch, Kollwitz, Matisse and Picasso, lay dormant for lack of master-printers. Since Tamarind was established, lithography has had a brilliant renaissance in art schools.

New possibilities in the medium have been explored, particularly well by the four artists in the Downey show. A retrospective of June Wayne's own work in the last 20 years reflects a sensitive, figurative development of the medium in black and white.

SAM FRANCIS, a giant in the field, has worked all over the world. His lithos in splashes, swords and dribbles of primary color relate to the surrealism of Gorky and Miro, the freedom of the abstract expressionists, and the white spaces of the minimalists.

Matsumi Kanemitsu's bold areas of saturated color relate to the joyous decorative quality of Matisse with a contemporary focus. Ed Moses (born in Long Beach in 1926) brings a precisionist finesse of exquisite linear pattern and blushes of color as well as a third dimension to the medium.

Hours at the Downey Museum of Art, 10419 South Rives Ave., Downey, are 1 to 5 p.m. every day but Mondays. This show continues through May 18.

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

A reception today from 2 to 4 p.m. will introduce three new exhibits at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. The hosts, Friends of the Museum, cordially invite the public to the opening.

First to meet the eye is an exhibit of monumental ceramics by Michael Arntz, on display in the sculpture garden.

Like Peter Voulkos, Arntz is a California artist who experiments without inhibition, innovating and exploring. An assistant professor of art at UC, Santa Barbara, he has been represented in such shows as the Everson Museum of Art Ceramic National Annuals, San Diego Museum of Art exhibits, the Collectors' Show at Santa Barbara Museum of Art and many one-man shows.

He uses slabs of clay to fashion massive, bold forms which have no relation to timid pots.

Inside the museum, are contrasting displays, "Master Prints of the 15th and 16th Centuries," in the upstairs gallery, and "The Hearings," drawings by Arnold Mesches in the downstairs show space.

"Master Prints" is made up of 48 rare Renaissance works by printmakers from Italy, Germany and the Low Countries done by such artists as Mantegna, Durer, Cranach, Beham, Caracci and Schongauer.

The collection illustrates the development of style from late Gothic to the Renaissance. From the Library of Congress, the exhibit is circulating throughout the United States and Canada under auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mesches' drawings for "The Hearings" were chosen from hundreds documenting the Sirhan B. Sirhan pre-trial hearings, the Navy's Court of Inquiry into the Pueblo incident and the Sealab III tragedy, all done for the Walter Cronkite Show, CBS TV news.

FOR SEVERAL years George Brecht has been preoccupied by aspects of randomness and chance.

His research has culminated in "The Book of the Tumbler on Fire" soon to be published. At Los Angeles County Museum of Art, until May 18, are 33 of Brecht's works which he discusses in early chapters of the book that "researches the continuity of unlike things, of objects, and of events in time." "Pigeonholing and being pigeonholed are anathema to me" says Brecht.

Also on exhibit are 15 chair sculptures, constructions painted in bright, clear, gloss enamel and decorated with selected random objects.

Brecht has been included in "The Art of Assemblage" at the Museum of Modern Art, "Environments, Situations, Spaces" at the Martha Jackson Gallery, New York, and other shows.

LONG BEACH artist Athena Hall has 22 watercolors, oils and collages on exhibit at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. They will hang through May 17. The paintings include landscapes, florals and abstracts.

MORE THAN 50 paintings by 13 students from the University of Sonora, Mexico, will be featured in a four-day show which opens Monday at Cerritos College, 11110 Alondra Blvd.

All students are visiting the Norwalk area as part of a citywide celebration honoring Norwalk's sister city, Hermosillo. The exhibit is under sponsorship of the Norwalk-Hermosillo Friendship Commission and the Cerritos Art Gallery.

The college gallery will be open from noon to 4:30 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. each day.

WATERCOLORS by Paul Komme will be on view at Bowers Memorial Museum, 2002 N. Main St., Santa Ana, through May 11.

'Aquarius' Opens in Paramount

John and Michael Holder, brothers and partners have opened the Aquarius, a gift and pottery shop with psychedelic theme, at 14735 Garfield St., Paramount.

Also involved in the operation is John's wife, the former Gail Van der Most, exotic dancer and, more recently, a movie starlet.

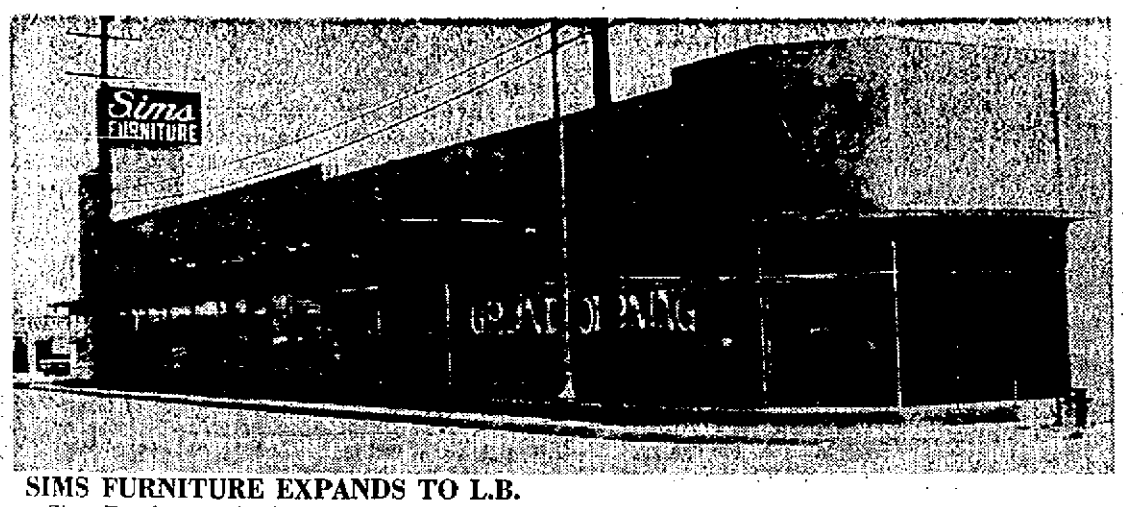

Opened April 5, the Holders quickly saw the ready market in rock group posters, rings, pendants, beads and India imports and the gift shop now has taken on the "new look."

* * * *

A WEEK ago Saturday, rock singer Roger Collins rehearsed at the Aquarius and the new management reported an overflow crowd ranging from teenagers to grandparents.

Said Mrs. Holder, who has just completed her part in the filming of "The Hunting," bubbles: "From early astrological reports, Aquarius just might turn out to be the swingingest little constellation ever to hit the airy trigon of Paramount."

The Aquarius hours: noon to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday; 4 to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

Holstein's Final Westmont Homes Go for '66 Prices

The final homes in George M. Holstein and Sons' big Westmont community will be offered today with the builders selling the homes at the 1966 government insured price, the builder declared.

"You might not be able to buy food, a new car, or clothing at those 1966 prices, but at Westmont we will sell you a home for that 'good old days' valuation," a spokesman for the building firm explained.

* * * *

THE homes include built-in kitchens; wall to wall carpet, fenced yards, landscaping, sprinklers, and the massive over-the-garage "Bonus Room." The upstairs room is ideal as playroom, rumpus area or as extra bedrooms.

Both FHA and veteran terms are available at the site with no down payment offered to the veteran. The location is just off the San Diego Freeway Warner-Ave (East) off-ramp. Models are on Bushard Street just North of Warner and just West of Brookhurst.

Aggress to Buy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dolly Madison Industries, Inc. has agreed in principle to buy Creative Carpet Co. of Dalton, Ga., for cash, notes and convertible preferred stock.

Refreshments Offered to Casa de Santiago Visitors

Hot dogs and light refreshments will be served to all visitors from noon until dark at the model home area.

Final unit of new homes at Casa de Santiago are priced from $31,300 to $37,900. Three and four bedrooms, plus bonus AIA plans are offered that include carpeting, landscapping, fencing and sprinklers. This fact, verified by sales director, Ben Hare, is reportedly responsible for the success enjoyed at the private walled community.

* * * *

OF SPECIAL importance to many buyers is the closeness of the homes to the excellent shopping centers that include Fashion Square, Town & Country and the Honer Plaza.

An additional feature that many house-hunting families have mentioned as being of prime importance is the excellent location with regard to schools, churches, freeways, shopping centers, recreational and employment centers.

Many professional people have already selected the homesite of their choice at the county's finest most convenient location, it was added. Immediate occupancy is offered.

* * * *

CASA DE Santiago Homes are located in one of the finest areas of Santa Ana, adds Hare.

The model homes are located at Bristol Street and Memory Lane in North Santa Ana, and the builders point out that the single, most attractive feature responsible for the fast sales pace to date has been the prime location.

Shirt Expert Appearing at Buffums'

George Zimmerman, one of the nation's noted authorities on custom shirts, will ake a personal appearance Monday and Tuesday at Buffums' downtown Long Beach store.

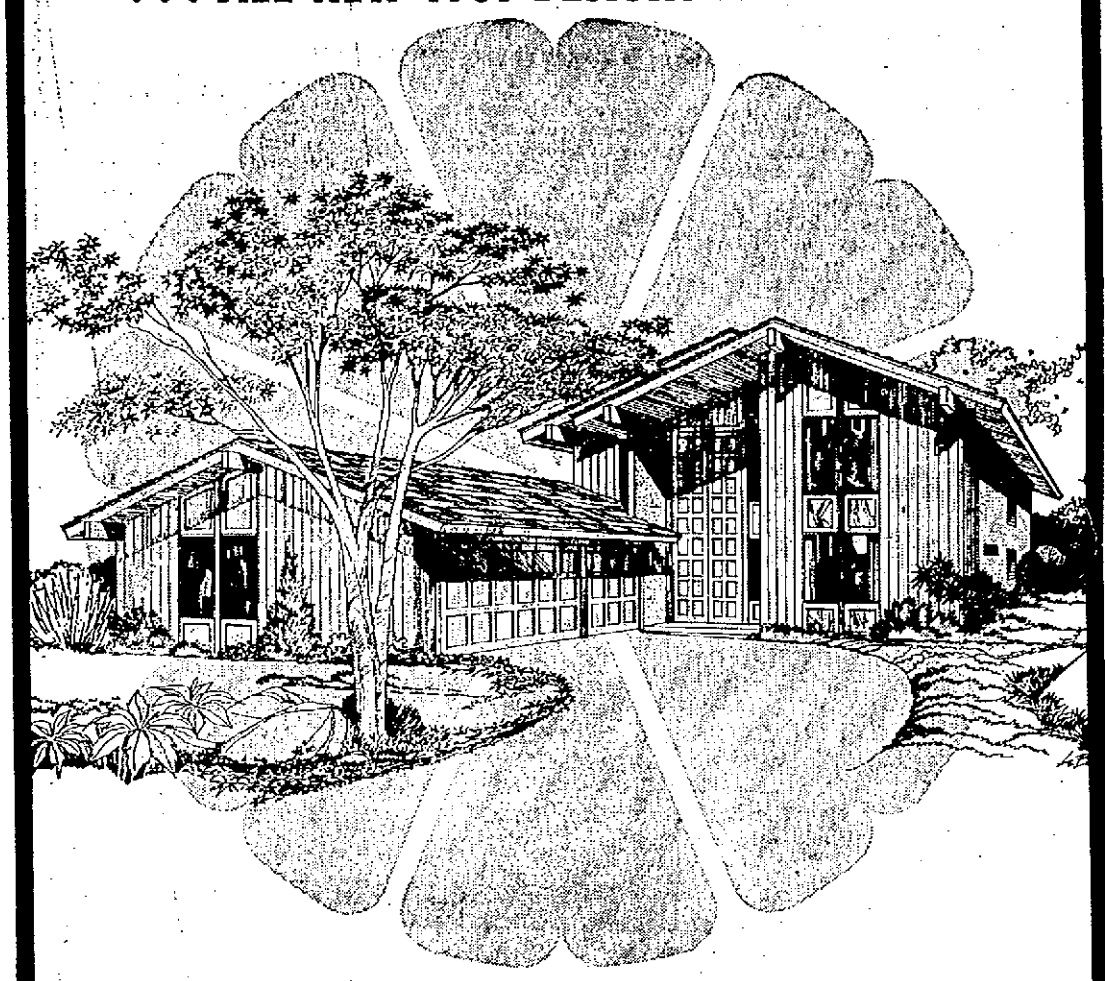

He will supervise the fitting of individualized custom shirts chosen from any of 250 fabrics.

Not only will customers wanting $12 shirts have Zimmerman's assistance, but they will try on collars and be measured for accurate fitting.

Best reasons not to clean house

By ERMA BOMBECK

Some women do everything right. I have a friend who had the foresight to pick ugly bridesmaids so she'd look good. (I know. I was one of 'em.)

I have another who, when the priest came to bless her house, was sitting in a rocker in a maternity dress reading a book by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen. I have still another who has her spring cleaning done four days after Christmas.

All three get on my nerves, but the latter, Mavis Doermeister, really bugs me. She's about as subtle as a blonde on a barstool. On the first warm day of the year she calls me up and chirps, "Started your spring cleaning yet?"

"No," I say stiffly, "I had my teeth cleaned this morning and very frankly didn't know how I'd feel when the anesthetic wore off."

"You and your excuses," she giggled. "What was it last month?"

"My plastic bucket had a crack in it."

"And the month before that?"

"I entered a Miss America pageant and didn't want to get involved in case I won."

Mavis could ramble on back to September a year ago and I'd still have enough excuses to go around.

"I am waiting until I turn the furnace off." (I let it run all summer.)

"I am waiting until I can open the windows. (They were painted shut three years ago.)

"I am waiting until I can close the doors. (It chills my scrub water.)

"I am waiting for the kids to grow up and leave home."

"I am waiting for my tax refund."

"I AM GOING to a wedding and don't want my fingers shriveled from scrubbing."

"I was going to clean the basement but couldn't find the shovel."

"It depresses my husband to have the curtains down over the weekend."

"I am waiting for the right wind to dry my blankets . . . a gentle one at six miles per hour, northeasterly off the Gulf of Mexico."

"I am waiting for my new truss so I can move the piano."

"The Avon Lady is allergic to ammonia."

"I am waiting for my husband to get out of bed so I can turn the mattress."

"I am waiting until they make 'Hints from Heloise' into a movie."

"I clean only during Lent."

"I have an infected blackhead."

"My horoscope told me not to get out of bed today."

"I lost the claim check to my sweeper last summer."

That Mavis . . . she's a worker all right. The trouble with her is she has no imagination.

Low-cost shipping for tourists

A new low-cost system enabling tourists to ship personal effects and purchases from Europe to the U.S. was announced today by E. K. Hicks, Senior Vice President and General Manager, International Freight Division, American Express Company.

"The convenient 'thru-rate' system of baggage shipment is designed to eliminate confusion and reduce expenses for the tourist," Mr. Hicks said. "Baggage can be transported to the U.S. from all the major cities in Europe under our new carefree baggage system."

American Express with 42 freight offices throughout Europe, will provide a full line of services for the new system. These include: local pick-up and European handling fees at city of origin, European port expenses (loading, etc.), ocean freight to destination port, clearance through U.S. customs, and delivery in New York or Boston. After clearance in New York or Boston, shipments can be forwarded to any destination in the U.S. In the future, direct shipments will be available to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago.

The new rate system is based on the weight of the baggage shipment with the lowest rate being 20 cents per pound. Under the system, a tourist can transport two or three suitcases weighing 125 pounds from Bremen to New York for $25.

TIPS FOR TRAVELERS

Planning Trip?-Get passport in order

By GENE BURKE
Agent in Charge
L.A. Passport Agency

QUESTION: I wonder if I can get my passport renewed by mail. It was issued in 1959. G.M.O.

ANSWER: No, you cannot renew your passport by mail since it is more than 8 years old. The new regulations require that you execute an application for a new passport in the presence of a passport agent or clerk of a Federal or State Court having naturalization jurisdiction, submitting your 1959 passport, two new passport photographs taken within 6 months and the fee of $12.

QUESTION: On page 4 of my passport issued last year there is a list of countries which are restricted to travel. Have more countries been added or deleted lately? A.B.

Travel and RESORTS

ANSWER: The current list of countries not valid for travel to or through insofar as U.S. passports are concerned is Cuba, Mainland China, North Korea and North Vietnam.

QUESTION: Do I need my shot card when I apply for my passport? A.L.

ANSWER: Your International Certificate of Vaccination is not required to secure a passport.

QUESTION: Since applying for my passport I have decided to go to several more countries not listed on my application. Is it necessary that I notify you of this change of plans? K.F.

ANSWER: We do require a general itinerary of travel plans at the time you apply for a passport, however, it is not necessary that you notify us each time you have a change of travel plans.

QUESTION: I do not want my minor son to go out of the country. Please tell me how I can stop a passport being made out to him? He is 5 years old. MRS. Z.

ANSWER: The Passport Office may disapprove an application for a passport for a minor if a written objection is submitted by a parent of guardian. If a controversy exists between the parents, then a court order giving custody of the minor to the objecting parent must be submitted to the Passport Office in order to assure denial of passport services.

QUESTION: We have a family passport and we are migrating to Australia. There is a limitation on our passport excluding my son when he is 18 years old. We will be in transit when the limitation comes due. What will happen in this case? I.L.

ANSWER: You must bring the passport and your son into the Passport Office before you leave the United States, since your passport will not be valid for travel on his 18th birthday. You will need two new photographs for him to apply for his own passport and the fee of $12.

QUESTION: I am 75 and am going to travel with my sister who is 70. Can we go on the same passport? R.J.

ANSWER: No. Everyone over 18 years of age must have their own passport with one exception — a wife may be included on a husband's passport.

QUESTION: My current passport is issued to me and my wife. My new one would be the same. Can I apply by mail in this situation? If so, please send the pink application form DSP-82. T.M.H.

ANSWER: Passports may NOT be applied for by mail if the bearer wishes to include a member of his family. Since your wife was included in your previous passport you must both appear in person before a clerk of a Federal or State court having naturalization jurisdiction or a passport agent.

Long Beach woman named Altrusa District governor

Helen Folsom, personnel director for the Independent, Press-Telegram, will take office as governor of District 11, Altrusa International, during conference Thursday through Sunday at the Dunes Hotel, Las Vegas.

Altrusa Club of Long Beach, which Miss Folsom served as president in 1961-63, will hostess the governor's reception Saturday night following the installation banquet. Taking part will be Alice Armour, reception chairman, Lorraine Howell, president, Shirley Casterlon, Virginia Crosby, Pat Dawson, Jessie Denning, Odette Gulley, Kay Langen, Marie Sam and Helen Smith.

As governor of District 11 which covers Sonora, Mex., California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii, Miss Folsom will become a member of the international executive board and will attend that convention in Minneapolis in July.

Appointed by Miss Folsom to serve as her district secretary is Virginia Crosby, past president of General Telephone Company, also a past president of the Long Beach club.

International representative at the Las Vegas conclave will be Mary Resh of Washington, D. C., Altrusa International president. She will speak at the Friday night banquet on the Altrusa Foundation which has been established to accept tax free donations to its two international projects.

They are Grants In Aid — outright grants to women studying on graduate level in a country other than their own and Founders Fund Vocational Aid, grants to assist women in reentering the labor market.

MR. AND MRS. T. W. KNOX

Thomas Knoxes mark golden wedding date

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Knox, 1026 Vina Ave., celebrated their 50th year of marriage at a dinner party in the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Gibson, 1027 Gardena St.

The couple was married in Winfield, Kan., in 1919, and have resided in Long Beach since 1929.

In addition to Mrs. Gibson, the Knoxes have a son, Thomas K. Knox of Long Beach, and another daughter, Mrs. John Kelso, currently living in New Delhi, India.

They are the grandparents of seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

Maday plans new series of lectures

"To clutch the golden moment in our lives, which is not a moment at all, but an eternity within us" will be the goal of Henry Maday in his new lecture series beginning this week.

The seven-week course will be held Tuesdays at 8 p.m. at the Edgewater Inn Marina Hotel.

Tuition is $15 for the entire series, or $2.50 per lecture. Student price is $10 or $1.50 per lecture.

During the course, Maday will discuss such topics as "What is Cosmic Consciousness," "The Soul's Destiny" and "Intuition."

Maday is a publisher, writer and lecturer who has given numerous courses at the Institute of Lifetime Learning.

He founded the Detroit Truth Forum in 1947, is a lifetime member of the International New Thought Alliance and a pioneer UFO researcher.

PRINCESS CRUISES

Lafayette in Open House

An open house emphasizing the showing of large, luxurious Long Beach condominium homes priced to $24,900 at the Lafayette Condominiums, 140 Linden Ave., has been announced by owner Robert Campbell.

Coffee and snacks will be served and a full staff of helpful sales people will be on hand to answer questions from the public.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

* * * *

CAMPBELL reported that nearly half of the Lafayette's all-electric condominium units have been sold and that public interest in the advantages of condominium home living remains high.

"We invite all Long Beach area residents to come down and see first hand our handsomely furnished, spacious luxury models," Campbell said.

Franchise Show on 3 Days

Everything from Jiggle Corn machines to completely stocked bridal shops will be offered for sale or lease to the public when the annual Franchise and Business Opportunities Show of Orange County opens Friday at Disneyland Hotel, according to Brewster Gallup, president of Franchise Exhibits Co., Inc., Newport Beach producers of the show.

More than 75 exhibitors will line the Embassy Room with working models, displays and prototypes of nationally-advertised restaurants, convenience markets, inns, brake centers, printing plants and custom-fitted bras and girdles, all available for nominal investment as "independently - owned" businesses, Gallup said.

The show, third annual exhibit for Orange County, will be open to the public daily from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m., except Sunday, May 4, when it will close at 6 p.m.

New Spires Restaurant in Opening

Largest of the Spires Family Restaurants, located at 17th and Parton Streets, Santa Ana, has been constructed at a cost exceeding $250,000 and will officially open its doors Monday, announced John Haretakis, president.

With more than 5,080 square feet of ground space, the new Spires will seat 138 persons. Fourth unit to be completed by the Orange County-based coffee shop.

Tax Shelter Seminar Is Set Tuesday

"Tax Shelter Investment and Financial Planning" will be the subject of a seminar to be conducted Tuesday evening by Financial Concepts, Inc., a firm specializing in providing professional planning for those in the $20,000 per year and up income bracket.

Lawrence M. Schulner, president, will conduct the seminar which starts at 8 p.m. at The Saddleback Inn, Santa Ana.

There is no charge for the seminar; however, those interested in attending must register in advance.

HUB'S 'NEW' STORE

Hub Furniture has unveiled newly refurbished Inglewood store after a five-month, $50,000 remodeling and expansion program. Hub principals Nick and Sol Goldberg and store manager Tom Turner said Inglewood endeavor is a pilot in a program that could result in store-wide modernization project and in addition of new locations to present 17-store chain.

Young Homebuyers Flock to Morningside, Cerritos

Sales at Morningside have increased steadily in the past two weeks as young homebuyers take advantage of purchasing one of these spacious and attractive homes in the third and final unit of the development in Cerritos.

Officials of Boise Cascade Building Co., developers of the community, said the sales pace for this last unit is following the pattern set by the initial units, both of which set records from the standpoint of time and volume.

Location, price and the new design concept of the homes were among the major factors cited by officials for the continuing success. The homes are priced from $22,995 and they may be purchased on conventional terms with 90 per cent financing and monthly payments as low as $145, including principal and interest.

* * * *

MORNINGSIDE features the New Homes for Young Americans series, homes that were designed following a series of surveys to determine the housing needs of young growing families.

Floor plans were designed in accordance with these requirements. The homes are available in a number of handsome exterior stylings and contain three or four bedrooms and two or three baths. Numerous luxury features and built-in items are included.

Model homes are open daily for inspection and may be reached from the San Gabriel (605) Freeway by taking the South Street off-ramp and continuing west on South Street to Studebaker Road, then left to the models just opposite 195th Street.

VISITORS BUREAU MOVES

Noel Cady (bottom), president of Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Bob Lichtenhan, manager, get started on moving huge files from bureau's old quarters in Municipal Auditorium to new offices in Fidelity Federal Plaza, 555 E. Ocean Blvd.

Opens Two Stores

A double grand opening celebration is being held this week to celebrate Ortho Mattress Company's new stores in North Long Beach and Garden Grove, according to Sherman Mickell, sales vice president.

The two new stores, bringing Ortho's nationwide total to 44, are located at 4334 Atlantic Blvd., in North Long Beach, and at 9766 Chapman Ave., Garden Grove.

Mickell, who owns and operates the Ortho chain with his brothers, Herman and Jerry, said the stores are open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Westhaven's Grand Opening Continues

Grand opening celebrations continue for the eighth unit of builder-developer Larry Shield's popular Westhaven community in the Westminster-Fountain Valley area, according to Frank McFarland Sr., sales agent.

"We're going to have refreshments, including roast beef sandwiches," McFarland said. Refreshments are through the courtesy of the Edison Company and the sandwiches through the O'Keefe & Merrit Company, the sales agent explained.

Westhaven is a master-planned community, that, when fully completed, will contain some 800 homes, together with a variety of community projects and services, including a park, school, business and professional structure and complete shopping center.

* * * *

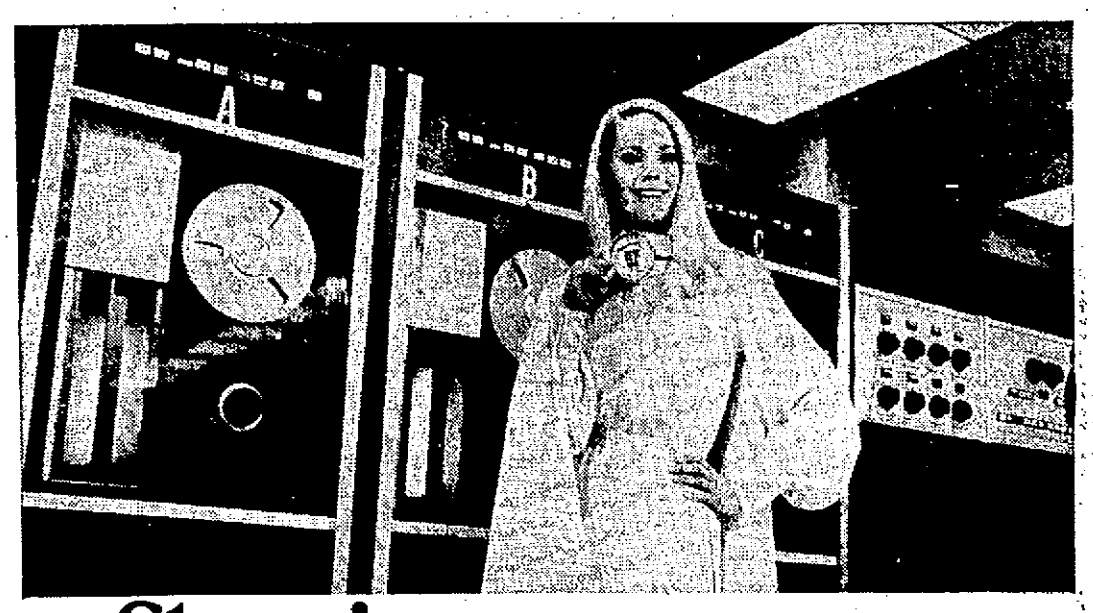

THE eighth unit will include three completely new models; two two-story homes and a one-story home. Buyers will now have a choice of six floor plans and 18 handsome exterior stylings.

The homes contain three or four bedrooms, family rooms, the popular Patio Kitchens and numerous other luxury features.

Priced from $29,995, the homes may be purchased under a variety of financing programs, including VA, FHA and conventional terms.

Model homes illustrating the floor plans and stylings available, are located in a park-like setting adjacent to the strikingly designed Mediterranean sales and information pavilion. Also included in the model homes complex is a completely equipped children's playground.

Westhaven may be reached from the Garden Grove Freeway by driving south on Brookhurst past McFadden in Westminster.

Brussels key stop on Europe tour

By G. QUARNSTROM

BRUSSELS — The courteous people of Brussels continue to provide a warm welcome to tourists who find the Belgian capital a delightful addition to any European itinerary.

Brussels is indeed a city of two languages and of two cultures, Flemish and French. In Brussels almost everyone speaks both languages, since it is becoming more important than ever to be bilingual in order to find a good job. English and German are spoken commonly also, so the Long Beach visitors will have no serious language barrier to overcome.

Brussels has much to offer the vacationist. I can see many of the attractions from the spot where I am making these notes, En Plein Ciel (Place in the Sky, or High in the Sky, take your choice) atop the city's newest and finest hotel, the Brussels Hilton.

Below this rooftop rendezvous atop the commodious Hilton are the evening lights of a great metropolis. This is the highest point in the city, since the Hilton is built on the loftiest point in Brussels and is itself 28 stories tall.

* * * *

ON THE HORIZON is Brussel's famed Atomium, a silver-colored giant with nine spheres constructed for the World's Fair of 1958 and still attracting 1,000 visitors daily, according to Jean Gyory of the Belgian Tourist Commission.

New offices and apartment buildings dot the city's skyline. Shining new structures have risen alongside buildings erected in past centuries. Brussels has some one million residents and expectations are for a spectacular growth by 1975.

The Brussels Hilton was filled to capacity from the time it opened in 1967, and already it has been necessary to add more rooms to meet the demand. Business relating to NATO, now headquartered near here, is one obvious reason.

Other hotels include the Westbury, built in recent years, and the venerable Metropole and Olympia, both known to generations of tourists but both still popular and well kept.

Brussels has many parks to add to its beauty. There are excellent shops and fine art galleries, the Grand Square in the heart of the city is one of the finest anywhere in Europe, and all visitors must see the Manikin Pis, the statue of a little boy which has become the city's trademark.

* * * *

BRUSSELS can be the headquarters for several days spent visiting the art cities of Bruges and Ghent, or for a visit to the great port of Antwerp. Belgium is compact and has excellent roads, so travel by either car or bus is easy. Both plane and rail service link Brussels with other leading cities, with a special treat coming to those who travel by the Trans Europe Express to either Amsterdam or Paris. This rail trip is short, but it gives the tourist an opportunity to ride on one of the fine trains of the world and be served gourmet food while passing through a countryside dotted with small villages, bustling factories, verdant farmlands and historic sites.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

Vegas, a neon playland

By STAN DELAPLANE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The best shows in the world play here. There's more neon per acre blazing in the desert night. More show girls per square foot of stage — and showing more per square inch of girl. And, of course, more cash money changing hands. That's the name of the game out here where the West begins.

Show and dinner run about $15. A bargain, for the casino hopes the stuffed diner will come out and stuff the slot machines. They're seldom wrong. In three nights in the theater-restaurants we saw "Mame," "The Lido" from Paris, and "Folies Bergere." (The last two were better than when I saw them in Paris.)

Least expensive trips here are by all-inclusive charter tours that stop here and then go on to Hawaii.

"We crossed the border into Mexico and bought some French perfume I am sure has been watered or some other perfume substituted . . ."

I haven't bought perfume in Mexico for years, but it used to be regular practice to cut imported perfume. Maybe they're still doing it. The way to buy French perfume is from export gift shops in Paris. Even with U.S. duty and airmail, we find it a good buy.

"We will be driving in Europe. I heard there are ways you can get coupons for a discount on gasoline . . ."

Italy is the only country I know doing that now. But here's what happened to me so you can avoid the same things. I rented a car in Rome with Italian plates. No discount coupons for cars with Italian license. Next time I rented a car with Belgian plates. But it was Sunday. The offices were closed. In smaller towns I couldn't find any office that could issue coupons. The tourist office says you can get coupons in Rome or at border stations.

A note from the Bulgarian tourist office says they will GIVE gasoline to tourists based on a scale of the number of nights they are staying in the country.

Some rental agencies will give you a car filled with cheap gas. I had one that I couldn't shut off — it went right on firing with the key turned off. (The trick on this is to jam the gas pedal to the floor and flood it.)

Be sure you know where the jack is. Some French cars have it tucked away alongside the engine. (I learned this after an hour trying to lift a car with a fence rail in a driving rain in Spain.)

Sometimes you can get a reduced price from Hertz if they have a car to be returned in the direction you are going. Some gas stations have free maps, but it drives the station owner wild to give them away. Offer to pay for a map and he will "find" one for you.

Fly to the SS Lurline-
Hawaii's most unusual hotel
It floats from island to island, for 10 days, starting May 4, May 25.
The Hotel SS Lurline has everything—everything a grand hotel has. Smart rooms. Internationally famous restaurant. Headline entertainment. Continental service. And it floats from island to island. What other grand hotel does that?
Stay and Play 10 Days. On May 4 and May 25, the Hotel SS Lurline will be at:
Honolulu, Oahu 3 days
Nawiliwili, Kauai 2 days
Lahaina, Maui 2 days
Hilo, Hawaii 1 day
Kona, Hawaii 2 days
Total: 5 ports, 4 islands 10 days
This means you can visit the major islands without hopping about in different planes. Without touching your baggage once. Without bothering about reservations. You can enjoy the beauty and excitement of life at sea and the beauty and excitement of life ashore. You can take all kinds of tours. You can enjoy the beaches. You can shop, golf, fish, whatever you wish. You can roam through lush, tropical gardens. You can see everything any way you like, while we take care of anything you want 24 hours a day.
Fly to Hawaii and back. Fly over anytime you wish to meet the May 4 or May 25 cruise. The Hotel SS Lurline will be waiting for you. Then fly back anytime you wish after the cruise. Just see your travel agent; he'll take care of everything. Or contact Mr. Paul Thompson, our cruise consultant, and he'll take care of everything.
SAFETY INFORMATION: SS Lurline, registered in the U.S., substantially meets International Safety Standards for new ships developed in 1960 and meets the 1966 Fire Safety Requirements.

Quality in College Park Estates Homes Quickly Noted by Public

The "tax-season" doldrums have had very little effect on College Park Estates' sales, according to Gerry Dirksen, sales and marketing manager for S & S Construction Co., the Seal Beach community's developers.

"Although taxes have a sobering effect on the homebuyer, he also realizes that now is the time to buy before skyrocketing construction and lumber costs send prices still higher," Dirksen said.

The excellent financing which covers the spectrum from no-down VA to minimum-down FHA to conventional also has been an aid to College Park sales.

* * * *

BUT the intrinsic value of a College Park home must be credited most heavily for the high sales factor, Dirksen feels.

"People today are very much aware of value and high quality and we are determined to provide these qualities in every College Park home," Dirksen said.

Some of the outstanding features offered at no additional cost are lath and plaster wall construction, imported marble entries, custom cut crystal chandeliers, and wall to wall carpeting throughout.

* * * *

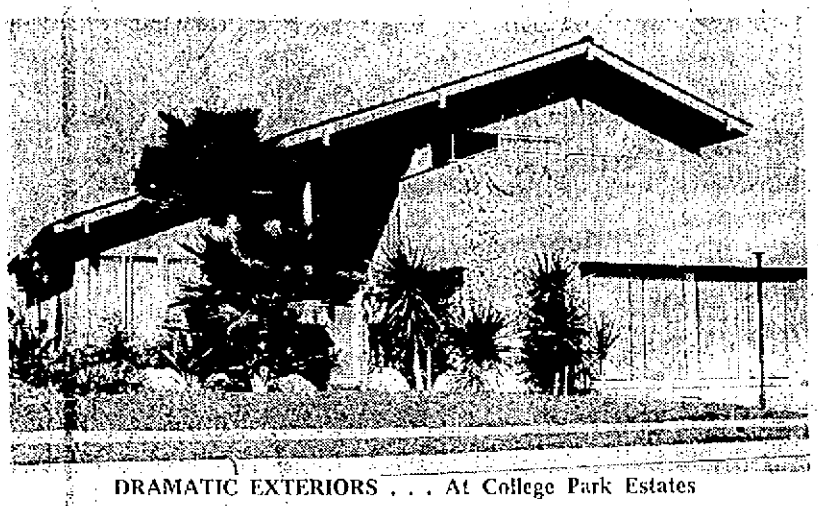

BUYERS can also choose from more than two dozen fireplace designs when selecting a home which offers many other opportunities for personalization.

Among the many other appealing features are the medallion "Flower Fresh" kitchens with luminous ceilings, generous ceramic tile counters, triple sinks with mixing valves, walk-in pantries and master-crafted cabinets with fine furniture finishes.

* * * *

COLLEGE Park homes, priced from $31,590, range from three to six bedrooms in one-story, or split level plans.

Furnished models can be visited daily. Take the San Diego Garden Grove Freeways to the Valley View turnoff, go north on Valley View and turn left to models at Cerulean.

NAMED

William Lybrook of Bellflower has been named assistant vice president for Orange County region, United States National Bank. He formerly was manager of Lennox office of USNB.

Buying Power

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports the purchasing power of the nation's rank and file workers rose in December. The gain in real earnings resulted mostly from an increase in average weekly hours, which more than offset a moderate rise in consumer prices.

Founding SSI Officer From L.B.

George Rasmussen of Long Beach, active in Boy Scouts and Long Beach Model T Club, has been named acting president and vice president-engineering of newly formed Survival Systems, Inc., Ontario.

SSI is an investor-owned corporation organized to supply rescue aid and survival equipment to military and commercial centers.

A line of pyrotechnic and chaff rocket-propelled distress signals will be marketed during the first year of operation, Rasmussen said.

Rasmussen formerly was associated with Atlantic Research Corporation and Aeronutronic Division, Ford Motor Company.

THE WEEK'S PATENTS

Business Planning Inside 'Cube'

New York Times Service

Paul G. Williams Jr., head of a management consulting firm in Westport, Conn., believes he has given business planning a third dimension.

He was granted a patent for problem-solving equipment that displays charts in two directions, and in some ways resembles an indexed book with transparent pages.

Users of the device, which Williams calls a pattern-finding tool, include Lever Brothers, the Singer Company and Union Carbide Corporation.

Modern executives, in making decisions sometimes use a mechanical chart such as the planalog, patented in 1964 by Stanley Mendell.

Williams offers a frame shaped like an open-sided cube. On one side hangs a transparent chart of the whole project under consideration, with vertical lines representing the separate steps, spaced apart to indicate time duration.

Patent 3,418,730 is assigned to the Williams Inlan Corporation, which the inventor founded. An enthusiastic former advertising man, Williams composed the name "Inlan" from "instant language."

An electronic system has been patented that is designed to check the location of every police car in the metroploitan area, such as New York, every five seconds.

Prof. John P. Chisholm, founder and former president of the Sierra Research Corporation, Buffalo, N.Y., who was granted Patent 3,419,865, wants to make it easier to catch criminals red-handed.

The patent says the location of police units, although they may be moving, can be indicated to an accuuacy of less than a city block. Each car has a pulse transmitter adjusted to send a signal.

According to the patent, the position of each of 1,000 vehicles can be rechecked every five seconds. A car going 30 miles an hour will move only 220 feet between checks.

Urban Scientific Corporation, Greenvale, N.Y., the exclusive licensee under the patent, reports the New York City Police Department has shown interest in the system. But so far it has not placed an order. The system includes concealed foot switches in vehicles, which could sound immediate alarm in case of attack.

University of Missouri received a patent on an oral contraceptive for birds. The inventor is Dr. William H. Elder, a member of the faculty.

The contraceptive is a steroid compound that is mixed with the seed or applied to it as a coating. The specific chemical agents listed in Patent 3,419,661 are said to make the male sterile and to keep the female from laying eggs.

Some people gag or choke while swallowing medicinal pills, and Donald W. Davis of Milwaukee has patented an answer to the problem.

The first thing, he says in Patent 3,418,999, is to make sure the pill floats. Put it into the mouth with a quantity of water, bow forward and, with the head still down, swallow. There will be no trouble, he predicts. Davis suggests ways of making capsules, tablets and pills suitably buoyant by using foam and light materials and enclosing air.

Contact lenses that distort the view, two Californians say, help to control the behavior of animals, including fowl.

The wearers' inability to see clearly obviates the need for sedatives and reduces fighting, quarreling over food and nervousness.

Irvin L. Wise of Santa Rosa and Lester M. Hall of Merced obtained Patent 3,418,978 for Vison Control, Inc., on several forms of distorting lenses.

Investment Seminar to Start May 6

Harry Hughes, manager of the Long Beach office of McCombs Securities Co., Inc. has announced a series of free investment seminars catering especially to the needs of widows, widowers and divorced persons.

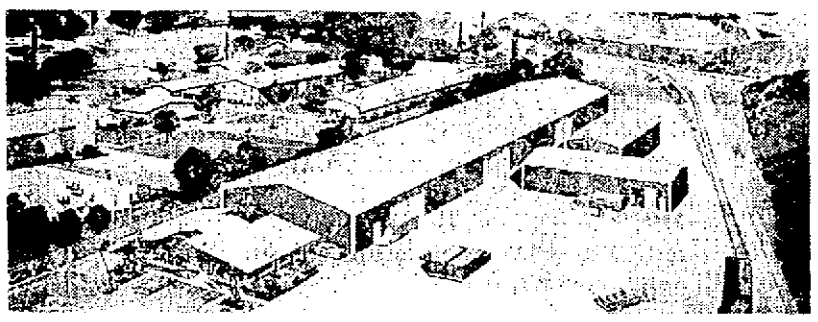

The series will be held at the Elks Club beginning Tuesday, May 6, 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Speaker, discussing tax shelters, real estate equities, equiterm insurance and mutual funds, will be the former broadcaster, Al Jarvis.

For five years prior to his entrance into broadcasting and radio station ownership, Jarvis was associated with banking.

NEW MONARCH HOME . . . Spacious To Fit Firm's Growth

Monarch Wood's New Home Rising in City of Cerritos

Construction is underway for the Monarch Wood Products Company's headquarters and manufacturing complex — a new industry for the City of Cerritos.

The all-electric facilities, featuring a unique treated-pole, all-wood design, will be located on a four-acre site at 17600 Crusader Ave. It is being constructed on a long-term lease arrangement with the Associated Southern Investment Company.

Among those participating in groundbreaking ceremonies were Ed Radomski, president of Monarch; Gene Harvey, representing Associated Southern Investment Co. as its vice president; Frank C. Leal, mayor of Cerritos; R. R. Verrue, district manager for Southern California Edison Company, and Jack Kiningham of Southern Pacific.

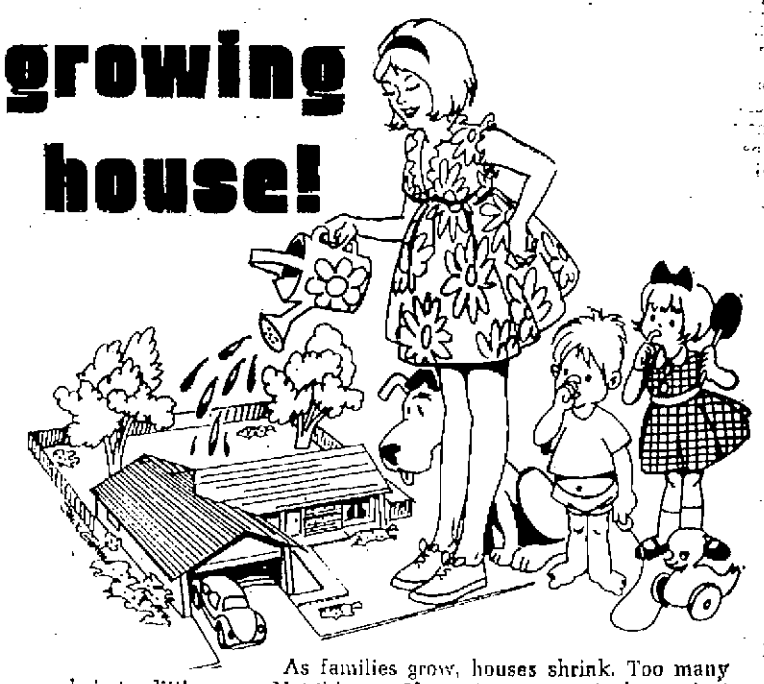

* * * *

NOW located on Garfield Avenue in Paramount, the Monarch Wood Products Company has been a manufacturer of hardwood dimension wood components for 21 years.

"We are happy to be moving to Cerritos where Monarch can grow with the community," Radomski said. "The firm now employs more than 50 people and Monarch has plans for more than doubling its capacity at the new plant.

"When completed in mid-summer, ther will be four structures totaling approximately 45,000 square feet of manufacturing facilities with an "H" shaped office building with 2200 square feet of space," he said.

thank goodness it's a growing house!

As families grow, houses shrink. Too many people in too little space. Not this one. If ever it starts to pinch, you just let out the seams. It's pre-planned to grow in three different directions, and it won't ever look like an afterthought. Rooflines and structure were designed to welcome your changes . . . and we give you the plans when you move in. Think about it.

One day your kitchen/family area may not measure up to your family's size. "O.K., house — time to grow a big new activity room." Or the kids may declare they can't share rooms any more (they'll go through that stage, you can bet on it). Fine. Add a big new master suite and give the oldest one your old room. As your family grows more, you may need to extend your dining table — into a big formal dining room. Simple. A little add-on, a little re-arrangement. It's all pre-planned. Just let the growing house grow.

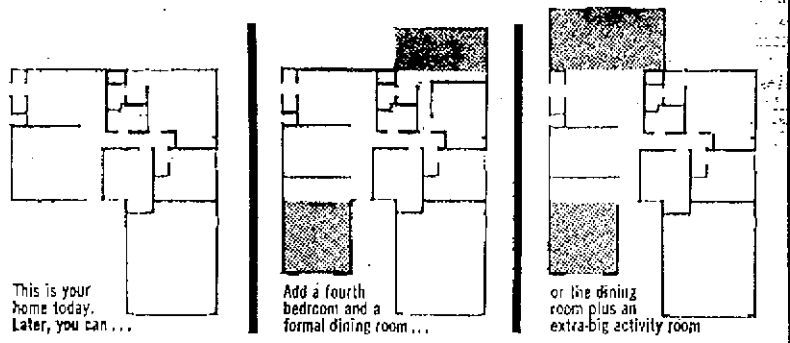

For right now — your house is everything you'll need, and then some. Three bedrooms, two baths, a separate service room, and a big kitchen/family room that opens up wide to the outdoors. High sloping ceilings in the living room. And quality you'll seldom find at these prices.

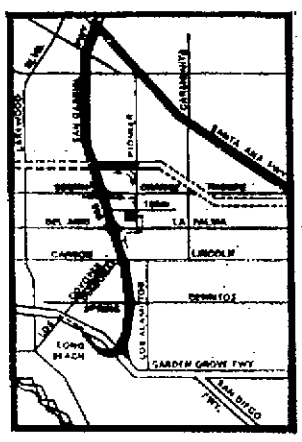

Concrete drives, garden court entryways, cedar grapestake fencing, insulated ceilings, built-in TV and phone jacks, quality Schlage locks, cultured marble pullman tops in baths, wood panelled walls. A great house for a long, long time.

But the day will come, we promise you, when you'll say "Thank goodness it's a growing house!"

Turtle races frog instead of rabbit

A tortoise will race, not the traditional rabbit, but a frog in one of the rollicking events in store for Southern California during May.

The Southern California Visitors Council, which uses the colorful events in building the $1.250 billion tourist business, lists also an exhibit of thousands of trout and thousands of wildflowers, two school band contests, parachuting and dune buggy racing, a college cowboy and cowgirl rodeo, and a pet show and treasure hunt for youngsters.

The matched race of a Calaveras County frog from Angels Camp versus the fastest turtle will be a feature of the Grand National Turtles Sweepstakes which started as a gag 24 years ago at Joshua Tree and now probably will draw 15,000 people to the desert town next Saturday and Sunday. The racers are loosed at the center of a big circle and the first one out wins. Last year the turtle won at Angels Camp but lost at Joshua Tree.

* * * *

THE ANNUAL Intercollegiate Championship Rudeo at Pierce College in the San Fernando Valley May 16 and 17 will be most unusual. Participants are college cowboys and cowgirls from western college campuses. Just as the RCA pros, they ride broncs and Brahma bulls, wrestle steers and rope calves, the cowgirls sticking on spinning horses in the barrel race, under lights in the football stadium.

Fishermen will display their first day caiches at the opening of trout season next Saturday at Bishop in the east of the High Sierras sportsmen's region. It's a 50 year tradition. The first 50 trout caught by boys and girls under 15 win cash prizes.

For the 43rd year women of the old mining town of Julian in the San Diego "back country" will gather thousands of wildflowers from the nearby desert and mountains and display them, botanically classified, in the Town Hall May 10 to 25.

About 50 of the Southland's best junior and senior high school bands will compete in a musical parade, the 22nd annual Maytime Band Review, at National City next Saturday.

* * * *

TOP SCHOOL bands from as far away as Texas will compete for $5000 in prizes at La Mesa May 16 and 17.

Sky divers will aim at a point on the beach near the Hermosa Beach pier in the annual Sport Parachute Competition on May 11.

Other sky divers will jump over the Algodones San Mountains near Brawley while dune buggies perform on the sand below in the annual Sand and Air Show next Saturday and Sunday.

And still other dune buggies will compete on the river bed at San Jacinto May 31 to June 1. They will race only 100 yards — but reach 100 mph.

Long Beach youngsters will bring everything from rats to roosters to the annual Pet Show starting at 10 a.m. on May 31 at Bixby Park. The city recreation department arranges to make every child a winner.

Also in Long Beach some 500 youngsters in the colorful costumes of 19 nations will perform in the 36th annual May Festival on May 24 at Recreation Park. The pageantry and dancing will climax with a simultaneous twirling of 22 maypoles.

* * * *

EVERY CHILD in San Diego County aged 6 to 12 will be eligible for the gigantic treasure hunt May 30 at Pacific Beach. At the crack of a gun at 10 a.m. they start digging in the sand of the beach for capsules exchangable for prizes; no child goes home without a prize.

The annual Mother's Day Rose Show will be held May 10 and 11 at the Pageant of Roses garden at Rose Hills Park in Whittier. 4000 rose plants in over 400 varieties including tints of green and lavender.

Antique cars will chug in a parade while antique planes roar overhead in the Old Time Days parade at Lemon Grove on May 24. Children will have an old time costume contest.

Capitol on go

The Louisiana capitol has been located in New Orleans, Donaldsonville and Baton Rouge. The Confederate capitol of the state was located in Baton Rouge, Opelousas and Shreveport. The Louisiana Tourist Commission says Baton Rouge has been the capital since 1882.

Travel and RESORTS

High, low trails A hiker's dream

This is the season for hiking the highest and lowest foot trails in the United States.

As the crow flies, the destinations are about 75 miles apart. Horizontally, that is. Vertically, the distance is almost three miles from top to bottom.

More than 6000 people a year hike to the top of Mt. Whitney, looming 14,495 feet high over this valley town in the East of the High Sierra region of spectacular mountain scenery, good deer hunting, and thousands of lakes and streams well stocked with trout.

Mt. Whitney is our highest mountain south of Alaska and higher than any other peak in the country that can be reached by foot trail. Other higher peaks are scaled only by skilled mountain climbers.

So many make the jaunt up Mt. Whitney on holiday weekends that traffic is heavy on the trail. The hike starts at the end of the auto road at Whitney Portal, 8371 feet high. A wise hiker will spend at least a night here getting acclimated.

After an all day's climb, the first of the trail being the hardest, there's another overnight camp and then the hike to the peak the next forenoon, making the trip down again before dark.

The peak flattens out on a slant. There's a stone hut built years ago by the Smithsonian Institution for study of solar radiation. The view is not as spectacular as might be expected because Mt. Whitney is nested among so many other peaks nearly as high. To the east the view is out over Death Valley — and this is where the other extreme in hiking occurs.

As a publicity stunt a few years ago a man hiked across Death Valley in the summer heat drinking a certain brand of soft drink. Now the fad has grown to such proportions that the Death Valley Monument has had to issue a special summer hiking sheet of regulations and suggestions.

The floor of the valley dips to 202 feet below sea level, lowest point in the Western Hemisphere, but the route of the summer hikers will be more like 170 feet below.

Summer temperatures can soar to 120 degrees and above — for years Death Valley held the world's heat record of 134 degrees.

As many as 15,000 people a month visit the valley in summer. But their automobiles are air conditioned. Hikers aren't.

Princess adds resort stops

Princess Cruises will offer a pair of special 15-day California-Caribbean cruises this fall and winter including two new destinations for the Los Angeles-based line, Fort Lauderdale in Florida and Montego Bay in Jamaica.

Both cruises, with rates starting at $575, will be aboard the Princess Carla, according to Bruce A. Beatty, general manager. Each cruise will transit the Panama Canal in full daylight.

The first 15-day cruise will leave Los Angeles on Sept. 27. Ports of call include Acapulco; Balboa on the Pacific side of the Panama Canal; Cartagena on the Atlantic side of Colombia in South America; Montego Bay; Nassau; and Fort Lauderdale. Westbound, the second 15-day cruise will leave Fort Lauderdale for Los Angeles on Dec. 1 and will include the same ports of call.

Both cruises, particularly the latter, offer excellent opportunities for some selective Christmas shopping.

Facilities aboard the 754-passenger Princess Carla, largest cruise liner ever to be based in Los Angeles, makes the concept "floating resort" come alive. A nightclub with live entertainment, dancing floors, cocktail lounges, blends with two swimming pools, a theater, sauna and massage center to offer passengers an exciting daily bill of fare. There is also an intriguing variety of public rooms on the spacious liner.

Cuisine, memorably gourmet, is continental in style. And the Italian crew, naturally exuberant, have established a reputation for believing the age of royalty has never ended — as far as passengers are concerned.

The ship is fully air-conditioned. Each cabin has individual climate controls, pribate facilities and a music system.

The new ports of call continue the dramatic expansion of service and ships by Princess Cruises, a subsidiary of the Boise Cascade Corp. Earlier this year the line linked California with the Caribbean in a series of 34-day sailings, also available as 17-day air-sea combinations (with the last in this series leaving April 28). Other new services include cruises to Alaska, out of San Francisco aboard the Carla's companion ship, the Princess Italia, marking the first regular cruise service to Far North from California since Gold Rush Days.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Loan on Life Insurance Triggers Success Story

By DON CAMPBELL

There's an eternal fascination with even a modest success, and no feature of it arouses more curiosity than the individual's beginnings.

What's the first question that a reporter asks a famous personage? "Tell me, Miss LaBubble, just how did you break into fan dancing in the first place?" That's right: how did you get a start? The following letter, chronicling how one man financed his first real estate deal, gets us into a subject that has attracted a lot of attention in the past couple of years.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I would like to relate my moderate success story. I borrowed on my life insurance for the down payment on my home. Most people overlook this source of easy-credit, low-interest money. Pay back on your terms.

After my children graduated from school, my expenses dropped, partly because I was no longer acquiring new personal property, only replacing it. I paid cash for everything, avoiding finance charges. I put my wife to work and banked all her salary.

I bought my first rental. It was a four-apartment building, a very profitable venture. I sold that and bought a much larger building. The custodian does the work for a free apartment. One can claim enough depreciation so that one pays no federal taxes, and time it so that the property will be fully depreciated when one is 65.

Sell then, and pay taxes for the first time on long-term basis, with four exemptions. I now take my cash and invest in U.S. Treasury bills at 6.35 per cent. With our federal old age benefits and company pensions, life is beautiful. —H.H.

ANSWER: I couldn't be happier for H.H., and particularly so in light of the fact that the policy he has pursued is exactly the formula that I have discussed several times, myself, as a practical means of building a retirement nest egg through real estate — a stand that has brought me more than a few angry letters pointing out how it simply cannot be done that way.

But, of course, it quite clearly can be done.

The point that should be brought out here, however, is H.H.'s comments on how he got his start — by borrowing on his life insurance, a technique that "most people overlook." Is this a good idea, or isn't it?

Well, it is and it isn't.

While this advantage of life insurance is as old as life insurance, itself, and has been utilized countless millions of times, it has been only in the past two or three years that it has really attracted much attention.

Why? Because it has been in that time span that conventional interest rates on loans have soared so decisively above the 5 per cent level — the rate at which most of the policies that have a loan provision in them (and which are well established enough to have a loan value in the first place) give the policyholder the right to borrow money, in effect, against his own life.

Obviously, the minute it became difficult to get a conventional loan — with collateral — at less than 6¼ per cent interest, the 5 per cent life insurance loans (with no collateral except the policy, itself) became all the rage.

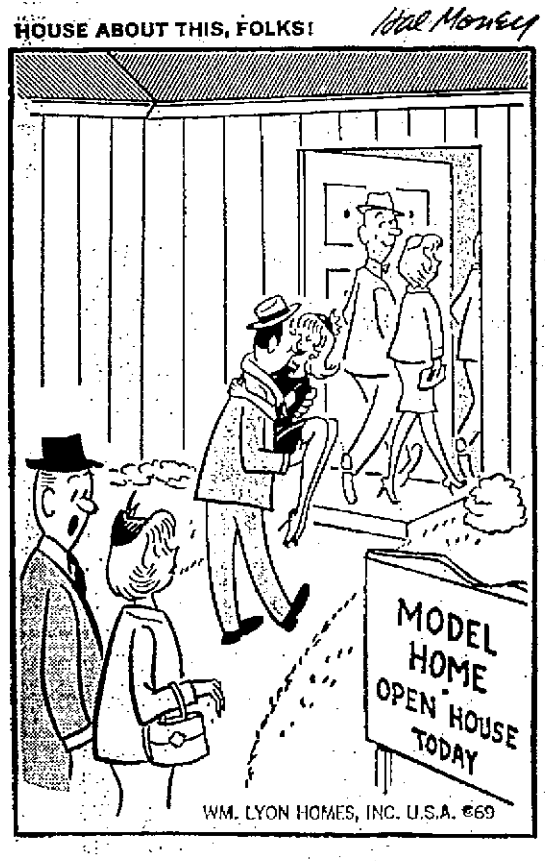

As H.H. has proved, it is an inexpensive way to garner a nest egg for a real estate investment.

The catch in this business of borrowing against your life insurance policy, of course, is contained in H.H.'s happy observation that you "pay back on your terms." There is, in other words, no pressure from the insurance company to pay back the amount you have borrowed.

While they aren't quite making the money on these loans that they once were, they are still more than making ends meet at 5 per cent and have certainly locked you in as a customer who is not going to let his policy drop for a long, long time to come.

9 A.M. TUESDAY

Pre-Business Seminar Set by SBA in L.B.

How to start and manage a small business will be the topic of a one day Pre-Business Workshop to be conducted by the Small Business Administration in Long Beach Tuesday at the Belmont Savings & Loan Building, 5200 E. Second St.

Workshop sessions, which will be led by financial, legal and management specialists will begin at 9 a.m.

There is no charge to participants.

* * * *

ACCORDING to Alvin P. Meyers, regional director of SBA's Los Angeles office, the program points out three major factors to prospective small businessmen and women: the ability to determine critically whether or not they should go into business; a knowledge of the fundamental principles of running a business, and a list of the sources of information and assistance available to them in starting and operating their own business.

The SBA officials said that information presented in the Workshop will be applicable to all kinds of small business enterprises.

Reservations are not necessary. Ample seating capacity is assured.

California Home Health Services in L.B. Quarters

California Home Health Services, Inc., a private enterprise sponsored by the U.S. Government, has recently moved into its permanent Long Beach home in Fidelity Federal Plaza, according to F. P. Droesch and Associates, exclusive leasing representatives.

Initial leased space involved 2,300 square feet in the $5 million high-rise office complex.

California Home Health Services, Inc. provides a new way to extend professional health care into the home for the patient's faster return to more normal life.

Its coordinated comprehensive services, provided under the direction of the patient's own physician, include professional nursing, home health aides, physical, occupational and speech therapy, medical-social services, nutritional guidance, supplies and medical equipment such as hospital beds and wheelchairs.

It's a big idea.

A big 3 bedroom Spacemaster that gets bigger.

The Spacemaster I is made to grow into. Not out of.

To begin with it's a big home. 3 bedrooms and 2 baths.

Then we've left a big portion unfinished upstairs. You can finish it later. Or if you like we can do it for you at a budget price.

Imagine. You can add up to 4 additional rooms. Now it's a 7 bedroom home. Smart.

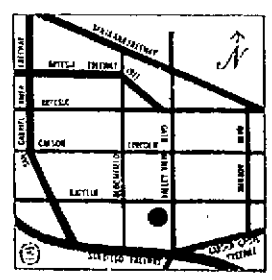

We've got Starters, too. For budget-minded families. You can add rooms as you need them. Wow.

We've also got all the exciting features that are available in expensive homes.

If you're living in a drab go-nowhere apartment or just another home in a crowded neighborhood, forget it.

MAESTRO OF 30 PRODUCTIONS---

Kroesen--'Music Man'

BY ELISE EMERY

It's a "hell week" for Long Beach Civic Light Opera—final, intense, nerve-fraying, bone-wearying days before "Camelot" opens Thursday night in the Concert Hall.

"This is normal for any production," said Jack Kroesen, as singers, dancers, stars and a big, shaggy sheep dog kaleidoscoped across a stage set with mystic scenery of King Arthur's realm.

Kroesen, who has earned the title of CLO's Mr. Music Man through 30 productions, is the company's music director.

From first auditions to the ringing down of the final curtain, Kroesen is involved in each show. He works with the

WHO SAYS IT'S A DOG'S LIFE?

Stanley is in the phone book

"THAT'S MY NAME" . . . Mrs. Bob McNerney of San Pedro shows Stanley where his name is found in telephone directory.

By DIANNE SMITH

Stanley is not an ordinary canine.

In fact, some people wonder if he is a dog at all.

He does romp through the ivy and roll in the dirt like most dogs. He likes to chase motorcycles, too, but rarely gets the chance — having instead to watch from behind the iron gate of his yard.

He has his own backyard, but he prefers to wander the streets, which, of course, is against regulations.

Stanley is a thoroughbred — a blue blood among canines — and has papers to prove it. On the German schnauzer variety, he is grey in color with big, brown, expressive eyes no human can resist.

Here, his similarity to dogs ends and his life as a "human" begins.

STANLEY BELONGS to the R. T. McNerneys, who live in the South Shores section of San Pedro.

Visitors to their home find the welcome mat says: "Bob, Donna and Stanley."

Stanley is also the only McNerney family member listed in the southern section telephone directory. He is found under Stanley K. McNerney.

By being listed in the phone book, Stanley has received unsolicited magazine subscriptions in the mail, numerous advertisements and often gets calls "as one of the lucky ones chosen to receive" whatever it is being sold.

Once, he was called by a Los Angeles radio station and "barked" into the phone.

Here the similarity to man ends as Stanely has no desire for money.

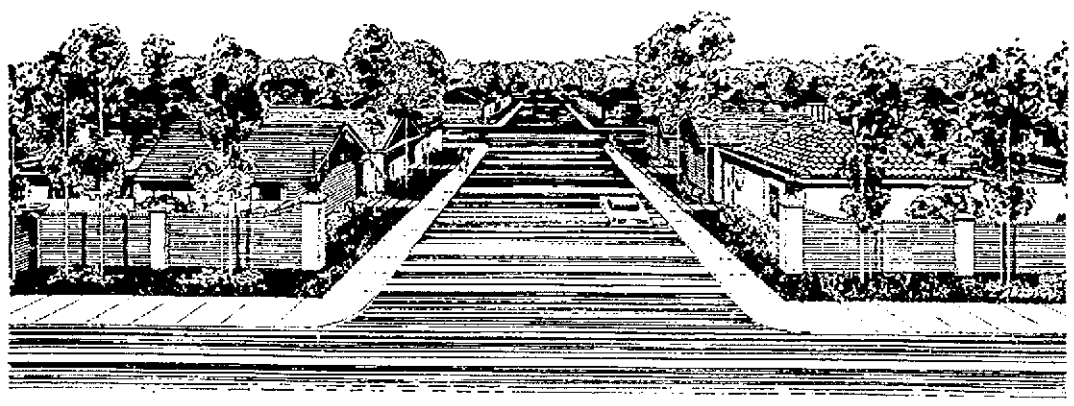

He's having too much fun being an unemployed d-o-g and being man's best friend while living what might be called "The Life of Riley."

ZERO-SIDE YARD CONCEPT . . . Gives Suburbia Spaciousness

EACH SUBURBIA HOME . . . Takes Full Advantage of Lot Size

Last Major Seal Beach Development Selling Swiftly

Suburbia, Inc., is treading where two other building firms feared to tread.

Hundreds of homeowners are glad it is.

This week, the second and final unit of attractive garden - type homes are open at the Suburbia Homes Seal Beach site.

Unit One, only two blocks from the Long Beach Marina, quickly sold out.

But what about this 21-acre parcel which two major Southland developers had given the cold shoulder?

The Seal Beach property, the last sizable piece of land in that community, had these problems:

There was a city sewage disposal plant in the center of the parcel.

A railroad bisected it and an old Dow Chemical Co. plant bordered it.

There was an open drainage ditch and soil conditions were questionable.

BUT THE location — just off the marina — was something else.

R.D. Miller, vice president of planning for Surubia, Inc. said:

"We felt these problems could be overcome since the location was ideal."

He was responsible for the successful and innovative solutions to the problems. Efforts to buy the land began in 1966.

To date, the first unit is completely sold out and the final group of homes are open for viewing at Marina Drive and Fifth Street.

Buyers purchased homes in Unit No-1 from preliminary designs in Suburiba's Santa Ana offices.

THE homes, ranging upward from $32,950, have two to four-bedroom plans with front yard landscaping and sprinklers. They have totally enclosed private garden patios with an 8-foot-high common wall separating dwellings.

Suburbia received approval from Seal Beach city officials for R-1 zoning on 3,000-square-foot lots through the use of the zero-side yard concept with a walled lot.

Grant Hornbeak, vice president of marketing, said each home takes full advantage of the entire homesite, while insuring maximum land use and complete privacy provided by the common wall.

HOMES have garden kitchen entertainment centers, double-car garages, open-beam and vaulted ceilings, cultured marble pullmans, natural wood cabinets and underground utilities. There are eight different plans in Suburiba.

Within the walled community will be a city-maintained recreation area and community center with a park, clubhouse and tennis courts, green belts and a restaurant, all either under construction or in the planning stage.

Cerritos Area in Spurt

Reports of the new regional shopping center, now under construction just one minute away from El Ray Park in Cerritos, is partially responsible for the recent sales upsurge, according to sales officials of Boise Cascade Building Co.

Situated on 104 acres, the shopping complex will be on South Street at the San Gabriel Valley Freeway between the freeway and Gridley Road. Over 1,000,000 square feet of floor space will be utilized, with a 7,000-car parking space provided.

Seventy shops are expected to be in operation in 1970 when the center is scheduled to open. At least 2,400 persons will be employed to man the various business enterprises, it was reported by Ernest W. Hahn, representing the developers.

Sears Roebuck and the Broadway stores will occupy nearly 500,000 square feet.

SALES OFFICIALS AT Boise Cascade Building Co. cited the announcement of the shopping center as one of the major factors in sales increase at El Ray Park, but also noted that substantial monthly savings are now in effect at the popular community.

Payments as low as $172 per month are now available at El Ray Park, with prices from $29,950. The homes are also offered on the Equity Transfer Plan, which allows buyers to transfer the equity in their present home, as part of the financing arrangements.

Offered in a variety of one- and two-story and split-level stylings, with three and four bedrooms, the homes boast numerous luxury features, balanced power kitchens and a full line of built-in appliances.

El Ray Park may be reached from the Santa Ana or San Deign freeways, to the San Gabriel Freeway (605) continuing on Freeway 605 to the South Street offramp and west on South Street to Studebaker Road, then south on Studebaker to the model homes, just north of Del Amo Boulevard.

Steward-Davis Buys Boeing Turbine Rights

Steward-Davis, Inc., Long Beach, has purchased the rights to manufacture a line of Boeing turbines used to power gun carriages, boats, helicopters, total energy packages and turbostarters.

Steward-Davis began manfacturing turbine components in 1962 after purchasing the rights to J34 gas turbine engines from Westinghouse. It is the only commercial source for these engines, and is supporting the operation of J34 engines used around the world.

Acquisition of the Boeing product line is expected to double the annual sales of Steward-Davis, and will be used as a springboard into the expanding ground-based turbine market, according to F. H. Steward, president of the Long Beach aircraft and engine company.

"We believe Boeing selected us to take over the family of turbines developed by Boeing because they knew that we would give these engines the same kind of loving care that the Boeing Company is now pouring into the 747, and that's just the way we feel about this program," Steward said.

UNDER THE AGREEMENT with Boeing, Steward-Davis has purchased the inventories of Model 502 spares and work-in-process of the turbine operations of Boeing.

The agreement also includes a complete package of manufacturing tools and manufacturing data.

Steward-Davis will continue the development, manufacturing, overhaul and sales of versions of the Boeing Model 502 and airborne configurations of the Model 550 Boeing turbine.

Purchase orders for spares and service for the Boeing turbines already are being received.

BELMEADOW HOMES CHRISTENED

What does it take to become one of the nation's top volume builders in less than 15 years?

According to builder William Lyon, whose Newport Beach-based company ranks nationally among the industry's "Big Four," the answer is to build not only in multiple areas, but in a variety of locations and with wide price range within each area.

Another factor important to Lyon's success has been his ability to adapt features of his more expensive homes to lower-cost housing, thanks to nationwide building operations and excellent buying resources as the real estate subsidiary of American Standard Inc.

Coupled with the firm's outstanding reputation for highest standards of design and construction, results have been more than 11,500 sales of single family residential units in a decade and a half.

* * * *

SINCE the company's merger with American Standard Inc. in 1968, its expansion program has been stepped up to include current out-of-state joint housing ventures in New York, New Jersey and Virginia.

A new multifamily division was recently formed with 1,000 apartment units to be built throughout Southern California, the first a luxury complex in Fullerton's Sunny Hills area.

Others are underway in Anaheim, Placentia, Yorba Linda, Santa Ana, and the Wildwood area of Thousand Oaks.

Probably the best known Wm. Lyon Homes development has been the California Classics Series built throughout California and ranked as the state's best-selling new homes with an average of three sales per day since introduction in September 1967.

* * * *

LOCALLY at 5961 Brannen Drive, the California Classics Huntington Series offers a new golf course location in Huntington Beach and a new floor plan which converts from three bedrooms to five (the original four basic two to four bedroom plans also are available).

Price begin at $22,990 on VA, FHA or Conventional terms.

The Classics are a prime example of the development of material and labor saving devices by the Lyon staff to adapt luxury features to lower cost housing.

The all-glass "Terrace Kitchen," originally introduced in Lynn's expensive executive homes, now offers Classics' owners a cooking center filled with electric built-in appliances and surrounded by sliding walls of glass framed in gold-anodized aluminum.

* * * *

IN THE Long Beach-Orange County areas, homes by Lyon are available from hillside to seaside.

Another development — Huntington Shores — is like the Classics, designed and priced for young families and their budgets. One-story three and four-bedroom homes at Huntington Beach offer sloped ceilings, family rooms and "turnkey" extras such as electric appliances, carpeting, drapes fireplaces and fencing includeg, priced from $22,990 on VA, FHA and Conventional financing.

Lyon's Franciscan Fountains offers unusually large executive homes with up to five bedrooms in Huntington Beach. Prices start a $29,990 for these one and two story plans with no down payment to veterans, FHA and Conventional terms.

Luxury highlights all of these elegant homes with spectacular features such as curving staircases, "lanai dens," "Parent Saver Retreat" and the deluxe version of the all-glass "Terrace Kitchen".

* * * *

WITHIN walking distance of the ocean at 21851 Ocean View Lane, Huntington Beach, is Port Lido, the excitingly unique collection of "beach modern" one and two-story homes priced from $29,990.

Here the "Bay Window" kitchen is introduced with its V-shaped walls of glass framed in gold anodized aluminum and a sliding glass window to patio serving counter.

Two story - high living rooms, sloped ceilings, family rooms with fireplaces, and the "Parent Saver Retreat" are features of various plans at Port Lido. "Ready to move in" features are included and VA and FHA terms available.

* * * *

FULLERTON'S Sunny Hills West is one of the area's most prestigious developments by Lyon. Large, luxurious executive homes occupy some of the locale's finest view properties in this hillside country, offering a view from one, two-story and split-level plans.

Prices begin at $34,990 for the three to five-bedroom homes (one converts to seven bedrooms) and many architectural innovations are introduced such as the "Sun House Kitchen," "Galleria" and "Garden Room" entries and "Presidential Suite" bedrooms.

* * * *

NEWEST of the Lyon developments is Belmeadow, now under construction at Slater Stereet and Edwards Drive in Huntington Beach.

The three to five-bedroom homes for young executive families are priced from $24,990.

Master suites, "terrace" kitchens, fireplaces, sloped ceilings and an upstairs "bonus room" in one plan, are highlights of this new series.

Electric appliances, carpeting, drapes and many more extras are included, and choice of VA, FHA or Conventional financing is offered.

Argentinians work and play-- on mission at Los Alamitos

By ALMA KIRKLAND

While stories of the "Ugly American" are widely circulated, a little known diplomatic effort to cement relations with our South American neighbors has long been in progress — right on our doorstep.

Certainly Capt. Edward Hunt and his wife, Ruth, never considered themselves diplomats. However, as officer in charge of the Antisubmarine Warfare School at Los Alamitos Naval Air Station, Capt. Hunt has instructed fliers from Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay during the past three years.

This might strike at a taxpayer's nerve center except for this explanation;

"These people purchase planes from the U.S. and, under the Military Assistance Program, we give the crews post-graduate training at their government's ex;pense. And these people pay their bills," said Capt. Lloyd Ruth, commanding officer, Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Exchanging air stories with the Hunts were Lt. Eduardo Broquen and wife Dolly, Lt. Antonio Vizioli and wife Carmen (affectionately called Kuky) and Lt. Orlando Gatica, who reluctantly left his wife at home in Argentina.

Brandishing a collection of photographs, Lt. Gatica showed the little 6-month-old reason. "My son is too young for his mother to leave him," he said.

AS FOR the "Ugly American," this latest group of Argentinians has yet to find him, describing their northern neighbors as "Muy sympatico!"

Recalling her first assignment as mini-diplomat, Mrs. Hunt told a joke on herself:

"I felt it might be rather difficult as I was sure I would be a bit sophisticated for these young wives," she said, then laughed, "Boy, was I surprised. Each wife had a live-in maid, cook and laundress and the fashions they brought from South America were straight from the French couturiers!"

"The military in South America is really part of an elite class of people," interjected Capt. Hunt.

The men speak beautiful English while the wives rely on an interpreter, Mrs. Dilly Henderson (Lt. Cmdr. Merle), or universal sign language.

"THEY ARE MOST amazing, these women. They just make a list of things they want to see, then they take off . . . they're completely fearless," marveled Ruth.

"You see, Dolly and Kuky are very lucky. They can drive perfectly on the freeways," said Lt. Broquen confidently.

"One is the pilot and one the navigator," quipped Lt. Vizioli.

The innerchanges and five o'clock traffic are mere child's play to those accustomed to driving in Argentina.

"I feel Americans are very kind, the way they wait for the pedestrian. In Argentina it is war . . . the driver pitted against the pedestrian," explained Lt. Broquen.

THREADED through the conversation were evidences of the Latin male's gallantry.

For instance: Orlando commutes 450 miles from Bahia Blanca to Buenos Aires each week because he feels his 6-month-old son is too young to move . . . and his wife would be lonely.

Says Lt. Broquen, "If you have machines you have to cooperate with them. We have a woman who likes to wash by hand . . . this saves my wife from lifting the clothes and putting soap in the machine."

But, the day of the live-in maid has all but vanished in Argentina and each year it becomes more difficult to find help, all agreed.

"Pretty soon we will be like here . . . cooperating with our machines," sighed Lt. Vizioli.

THERE ARE other changes. The image of the Latin father as absolute ruler of his household went out 20 years ago.

This was the first year of television in Argentina.

"A father was king of his family 20 to 30 years ago, but today it is necessary to maintain a dialogue," said Lt. Broquen, father of four.

To illustrate the "new way" in child rearing, Lt. Broquen said two of his children went to private school and two went to public. All go to English school half-day.

Why the different schools?

"Oh, you know how it is. They say, 'I want to go where Luis or Ricardo or Peter go, so . . .'"

As for their impressions of the golden state, there was mucho hand waving and animated conversation in Spanish.

"I knew it was, how you say, beautiful from what others say. But, no one said enough. Everything here is light and color," was the male consensus.

As for the ladies, what do they like best? They didn't even hesitate.

"Your super-markets!"

Yachters regale -on land, at sea

SOME 220 mothers and daughters — from 89 to 2 years of age — were in the merry throng gathered at Long Beach Yacht Club for a strictly-for-the-girls party and fashion show masterminded by Mrs. Frank Mansuy.

Honors for eldest mother went to 89-year-old Mrs. Alice MacCormack, who with daughter Mrs. Earl Vertrees, granddaughter Mrs. Bill Muntz and great-granddaughter Valerie Muntz accounted for a four-generation representation, all native Californians.

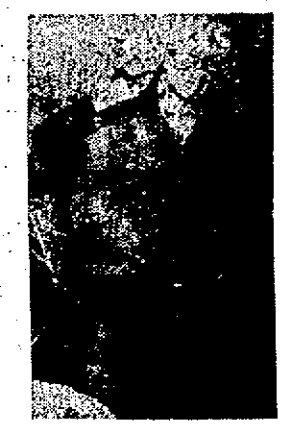

Youngest honors went to Marna Kral, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Steve Kral, while selection of eldest teen-ager added the evening's surprise. It ended in a tie when discovered 19-year-old Jackie Maxson and Melissa Buchanan both were born Oct. 3.

Commentary for the show of teen fashions was given by Mary Linehan, Cal State Long Beach student, with her sisters, Kelly and Melissa, Sandra and Laura Shadden, Doris Kupfer and Peggy Stangeland as models.

THE PACIFIC OCEAN was one large poker table when 15 boats from Marina Yacht Club officially openend the 1969 yachting season with harbor games.

Groping through the fog, the boats first pulled along side Soaleta II skippered by the Marvin Tinchers where they received the first card to a poker hand along with instructions on reaching the first of four other picket boats. The Frederick Taylors, aboard Cheri, won the game and were awarded a chartlight for navigational prowess AND luck at cards.

Commodore and Mrs. Forrest Kellogg, their own craft not yet ready for the season, guested aboard the Rowe Boat with Dr. and Mrs. John Rowe.

MRS. W. E. DOBBERPUHL

Dobberpuhls honeymoon in Mexico

Mexico is destination of a wedding trip by Mr. and Mrs. William Ervin Dobberpuhl (nee Constance Joan Dow) who exchanged wedding vows Saturday in St. Matthew Catholic Church.

Among guests witnessing the wedding ceremony were parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clifford Dow, 138 W. 52nd St., and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Dobberpuhl of Rialto.

The bride wore a rose patterned chantilly lace gown with cathedral train and a bouffant skirt formed by cascading ruffles.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Thomas Harrington. The bride's sister, Debbie Dow, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Cheryl Pohlman, Joanna Garcia, Jane Dobberpuhl, Mrs. Ronald Tipton, Carolyn Hodapp and Linda Visser.

Cameron Monk was best man. Ushering guests were Jeffrey Hodge, Gregory Hovaten, Gregory Fries, John Fries, David Menninger, Ronald Tipton, Michael Zenft and Steven Kenyon.

Following the ceremony a buffet and champagne reception at the Long Beach Elks club honored the newlyweds. The new Mrs. Dobberpuhl is a senior at California State College at Long Beach where she received the Gold Nugget Award and is AWS Treasurer. The bridegroom graduated from University of California at Riverside.

Irvine, Huntington Beach in Subdivision Dead Heat

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Progress Section Editor

Irvine and Huntington Beach were in a dead heat in subdivision development in Orange County during the first quarter of this year.

In the three-month period, four tracts containing 328 lots in 79.754 acres were recorded for the Irvine area, while Huntington Beach had three subdivsiions with 322 lots in 72.910 acres.

Cypress was close behind with three tracts having 316 lots in 49.856 acres, according to First American Title Insurance Company, Santa Ana.

The greatest acreage went into subdivision development at Laguna Niguel, where two tracts with 164 lots in 226.610 acres were recorded. However, the major portion — 180 acres divided into 11 lots — is an industrial rather than residential development. It was recorded in February by North American Rockwell Corp. for the new Autonetics complex.

Between Jan. 1 and March 31, 2,853 lots were manufactured in 59 tracts recorded in the county. A total of 886.2232 acres went into subdivision development.

Totals for the comparable period of 1968 were 56 subdivisions comprising 3,016 lots in 864.3608 acres.

The first quarter totals for 1969 by area:

AREA	TRACTS	ACRES	LOTS
Anaheim	5	29.533	88
Buena Park	2	10.702	9
Costa Mesa	3	29.788	130

A SHARP INCREASE IN PRICES has occurred in subdivision developments in the Mission Viejo-San Juan Capistrano area during the past year, according to First American Title Insurance Company.

A comparison of February 1968 prices with those of the same units presently selling showed an average increase of $1,875 for homes under $25,500 and $3,655 for dwellings in the $25,500 to $39,000 range, Dale J. Post, assistant vice president-marketing research, said.

He reported that the total number of unsold, completed houses in the 13 developments included in the firm's survey was a low 4.3 per cent. Unsold homes under construction totaled 50.7 per cent.

MOBILEHOME PARK OWNERS in California are again the target of a hefty hike in taxation — this time in the form of permit to operate fees, said Neil Y. Nordlander, executive director of Western Mobilehome Association.

Assembly Bill 1546, which calls for a substantial raise in the fee charged for operating mobilehome parks has been introduced in the state legislature, Nordlander said.

"The mobilehome industry fully intends to pay its share of the cost of administration and enforcement of any laws applying to it; however, the industry feels that any large increase in permit to operate fees should be commensurate with a corresponding increase in the workload incurred by the state.

"To date, we do not have any evidence that workload has jumped to this point," Nordlander said.

Western Mobilehome Association, a state-wide organization, represents mobilehome park owners and operators, park residents and allied businesses.

BY 1980, ORANGE COUNTY will have a population of 2,600,000, a labor force of more than 764,000 and its residents will have a personal income of nearly $11 billion, according to an economic study, "Focus on Orange County," released by the Bank of America.

R. Gene Conatser, vice president and senior economist for the bank in Southern California, outlined details of the study to members of the Orange County Chamber of Commerce during a luncheon meeting held at the Anaheim Convention Center.

"Orange County will continue to be one of the brightest economic spots of the nation for profitable investment in a wide range of industries. Its economy will continue to advance at a faster rate than that of California as a whole, which in turn will grow more rapidly than that of the nation," he said.

The economist pointed out that although the rate of future growth will be high, it will decline slowly from past record-breaking levels because of the lessened in-migration that is affecting the entire state of California.

CONTENDING THAT warranty practices of the automobile industry "are seriously undermining confidence in our economic system," Consumers Union has urged that the Federal Trade Commission and Congress take steps that would require automakers and dealers to tell the truth in their warranties, keep their promises and accept financial responsibility for their mistakes.

"The FTC should have stepped into the ring years ago," the nonprofit consumer advisory and testing organization says in an article in the April issue of its magazine, Consumer Reports.

Referring to an FTC report on warranties, made public in 1968, it says: "We can heartily endorse most of the report, especially the statement that 'the conclusion is inescapable that general performance under warranty often is unsatisfactory to a great many — actually millions — of new car buyers.'"

But, asks Consumers Union, "Why didn't the FTC start filing complaints against the manufacturers and dealers many years ago for making promises in those warranties that they would not or could not keep?"

IN THE APRIL issue of Advertising Age, Walter P. Margulies, president of Lippincott & Margulies, Inc., writes: "The concepts of social change inherent in the Black Power movement are beginning to make themselves felt in the marketplace.

"The growing affluence of 23 million consumers earning $30 billion annually and searching, like their white counterparts, for products that reflect their desire for status and recognition, can no longer be ignored.

"The Negro's new position in contemporary society poses a special challenge for the manufacturer with powerful equities in brands like Aunt Jemima and Uncle Ben that are based on out-dated stereotypes. Aunt Jemima is no longer a plantation mammy and Uncle Ben looks less like a butler and more like a bow-tied businessman.

"And while Cream of Wheats famous chef still dominates his package, both Aunt Jemima and Uncle Ben are now cameos, subtly endorsing large, mouth-watering illustrations of their products. Is this in preparation for the day they disappear completely from the package?" he speculates.

WHEN IT COMES TO borrowing money, the California real estate market isn't what it used to be.

Actually, real estate financing throughout the entire country is changing. In California, it only happens to be changing faster.

To keep up with the competition, the art and science of mortgage financing—particularly for income-producing properties—has had to turn to innovation, according to a spokesman of the state-wide California Mortgage Bankers Association.

In a presentation to the San Diego Building Contractors Association, Bernard W. Baker, vice president of the Los Angeles-headquartered Ralph C. Sutro Company, reported an increasing move away from traditional financing methods.

The California mortgage market for commercial property — apartments, office buildings, retail structures — can expect three new types of financing to become ever more commonplace: "joint ventures," whereby the mortgage lender becomes an equal partner in a property acquisition or development — in return however, for often providing up to 100 per cent of the financing; "conventional loans with-a-kicker" in which the lender shares in either the property's net or gross income; and "equity participations" whereby the lender receives a percentage of the equity ownership in addition to the interest yield.

Chartline Down as Auto Output Dips

A continued slip in auto production inched the chartline 0.1 per cent below a week ago.

Auto output fell 7.1 per cent, due to a combination of strikes and preparation for new-model production.

Steel production rose 0.2 per cent in the current week. Orders are down from a month ago, reflecting a seasonal slowdown and an increase of imported steel, due to settlement of the dock strike.

Crude oil refinery runs rose 0.6 per cent. The rise in motor oil indicates the start of the vacation season; Electric power output fell 1.5 per cent.

Miscellaneous carloadings slipped 2 per cent. The drop is due, in part, to a slowdown in auto shipments to dealers. All other carloadings dipped 6.2 per cent below last week's figures due to the coal miners' annual Mitchell Day holiday.

Paperboard production slipped 3.1 per cent and began to level off after the Easter rush.

SIGNAL HILL HELPS BOOST

Macmillan in All-Time High Sales

An increase in the sales volume of Macmillan Ring-Free Oil Co.'s Signal Hill and Arkansas refineries pushed sales to an all-time high in 1968, according to Roy W. Waer, executive vice president and member of the board.

The consolidated net sale of $17,542,294 was announced to stockholders at the annual meeting at the Century Plaza Hotel, Los Angeles.

The 7.5 per cent increase over 1967 was attributed to the Signal Hill refinery's successful experimentation with Alaskan crude oil, which led to an increase in fuel oil business with public utilities, and the Arkansas refinery's success in marketing lubricating oils and asphalts.

GROSS profits, although up from 1967, did not adequately reflect the dramatic sales increase, due to higher expenses, international crises, and the 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge.

They amounted to 13 cents per share of the capital stock outstanding, as opposed to 19 cents a share on 1967, when there were fewer shares of stock.

Stock dividends of 2 per cent were declared in April and December of 1968.

"The profit picture is substantially brighter for 1969," said Robert A. Collier, board chairman.

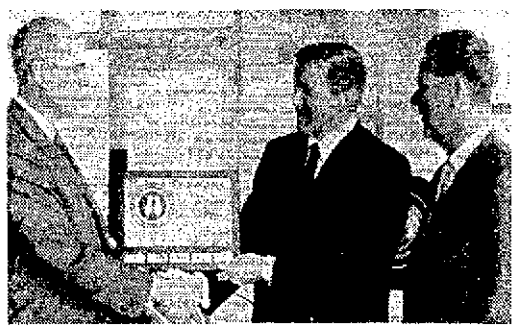

* * * *

"PROFITS began increasing in the last few months of 1968 and are continuing to show further progress."

In addition to the refineries in Signal Hill and Arkansas, Macmillan also markets a successful line of consumer oil products for racing cars, conventional automobiles, boats and all types of engines under the name of "Ring-Free" and owns substantial interests in radio station WSMB in New Orleans and Syracuse Television, Inc. in New York.

Controlled

President Richard Nixon expressed the belief that the U.S. can control inflation without an increase in unemployment. In his first press conference, the President said his administration is weighing those actions to take which will not trigger an unacceptable rise in joblessness.

Can intelligent speculation achieve
AGGRESSIVE CAPITAL GAINS?
Attend this advanced lecture and discover what our experience shows.
Time: Wed.—April 30 OR Thurs.—May 1—7:30 pm.
Place: Paine Webber Jackson & Curtis
204 East 4th Street, Long Beach
Speaker: Dick Cadieu
Learn about an investment philosophy founded on informed, well-calculated investment speculation. With a potentially aggressive capital-gains program in mind, this philosophy is geared to change rather than stability.
Find out what nine well-defined factors cause changes in a stock. Learn how these factors have set off spectacular gains in recent years. And how to evaluate new candidate stocks using four yardsticks. Learn what we believe to be the proper ratios of risk versus potential reward. In the discussion period which follows, you are welcome to ask questions.
If your own investment philosophy aims for aggressive capital gains, we believe you will find it reinforced by this advanced lecture. For your reservation for this stimulating and educational lecture we suggest that you mail your name, address, zip and phone or telephone us without delay.

RANCHO CAPISTRANO
Land of the Dons

UNSPOILED, SECLUDED
2½ to 3 acre rancho sites amid the great oaks of Cleveland National Forest
Deep in the great oak region of the Cleveland National Forest lies a 300-acre island of rolling hills, warm valleys and grassy glades known as Rancho Capistrano. Vast reaches of the National Forest recreation area stretch in every direction, a Government-owned buffer against population and commercial encroachment.
Rancho Capistrano will belong to just 133 owners, in fee simple. Each of the 2½ to 3 acre sites is cleared and accessible to utilities and graded road. Ancient Spanish oaks still stand on most of the sites. This private preserve, once sold, can never be duplicated.
At Rancho Capistrano you'll enjoy assured seclusion for an infinite future, the beauty of two private, stream-fed lakes, a temperate year-round climate at 3300-ft. elevation, and 30-minute access to coastal recreation at Laguna, Dana Point, San Clemente, and Newport Beach. Only 23 scenic miles from San Juan Capistrano. Rancho Capistrano sites are priced from $8,000 to $18,000, terms 10% down, 15 years.

It's time for the 'Swinging Years'

Anticipating the Encore Club of St. Joseph Parish's annual variety show are sailors (from left) Bill Green, Jack Cameron and Rick Garcia, who have eyes only for Dolores Ramos. The show will be presented on four weekends beginning Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. in the parish hall, Palo Verde and Willow Streets. Proceeds will go to construction of a permanent stage at the hall. Reservations are being taken by Mrs. Raymond O'Neill, 1816 Josie Ave.

Do your own thing at Spring happening

A "Spring Happening" is planned by the Women's Auxiliary to the Long Beach Pharmaceutical Association Tuesday at the Edgewater Inn.

Vogue Agency will provide models for the fashion show narrated by Elda Berry, with clothes from Chris Miller of the Edgewater Inn and Bixby Knolls.

Mrs. Ron Owen is chairman of the affair, which begins at 11 a.m. Mrs. Stan Nickle is assisting her.

Decorations chairmen, Mrs. Don Wolter and Mrs. Val Moore Jr., will decorate the tables with brightly colored animal pinatas of crocodiles, tigers, elephants, llamas, donkeys and the ever popular Snoopy.

Grand prize will be a round-trip flight and hotel reservations in San Francisco.

Mrs. Michael Crawford will offer 100 grab-bag items at bargain prices.

Following the fashion show, there will be a card session for bridge or canasta buffs.

Other chairmen helping with arrangements are Mmes. John Lower, Robert Warren, Leon Thomas and Don Salvatori.

Foundation sets fiesta celebration

Cinco de Mayo will be celebrated a day early next Sunday when the Long Beach Retarded Childrens Foundation holds an open house at the school, 4519 E. Stearns St.

A Mexican dinner will be served from noon to 5 p.m. under the direction of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Group reservations may be made by calling the school. Tickets are $1.25 for adults and 75 cents for children.

The foundation was founded as a non-profit corporation in June, 1952, by parents of retarded children.

The parents and friends of the approximately 100 children attending the school maintain the facility with volunteer help and contributions.

Newlyweds to reside in Compton

On Friday in Long Beach Sixth Ward of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints, Kerron Anne Imboden became the bride of Gary Allan Hartung. Their marriage was solemnized Saturday in the Los Angeles Mormon Temple.

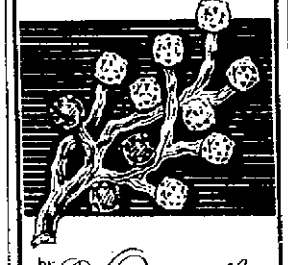

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Curtis L. Imboden, 334 Heath Lane, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hartung of Compton.

During the ceremony the bride wore a gown of rose brocade satin with Peter Pan collar and large puff sleeves. In her entourage were Diane A. Patton, maid of honor, and Bonnie Walker.

Best man was Robert Hartung Jr. Stanley Klock ushered guests.

A small reception was held Friday at the home of the bride's parents following the ceremony, and a second reception Saturday night at the Compton First Ward honored the newlyweds. After a honeymoon trip to Idyllwild they will make their first home in Compton.

MRS. G. K. PREGILL

Ann Leath is bride of G. K. Pregill

Nuptial vows were exchanged Saturday in the Church of the Incarnation, Dallas, Tex., by Ann Flake Leath and Gregory Kent Pregill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Noble Pregill of Hawaii.

The daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Paul Brooks Leath of La Palma wore an Edwardian silhouette gown of pearl-toned silk organza over peau de soie with a watteau train attached to the empire bodice.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Robert Beard, was matron of honor. Joelle Leath was bridesmaid.

Philip N. Pregill was best man for his brother. Ushering guests were Ronald T. Oglesby, Randy K. Orkisch and Roger Slone.

A small gathering of friends and relatives in Dallas, Tex. honored the newlyweds at a reception. Following a wedding trip through the western United States the couple will live in San Diego.

The bride will graduate in May from Caruth School of Dental Hygiene at Baylor University College of Dentistry. Her husband graduated from Baylor University where he was president of Lambda Sigma Chi.

Dental Assistants set 29th convention at Century Plaza

FOUR NEW PLANS . . . Offered By Casa Bonita

New Plans Attract Casa Bonita Visitors

New and exciting plans at Casa Bonita Homes in Cerritos are causing much enthusiastic comment from visitors to the community, sales agent Joe Cooper says.

CHOICE
Robert Amster, former Long Beach-Orange County branch manager for Friden Division, Singer Company, has been assigned to head newly formed Southern California Office Products District.

The variety of functional plans, which range from three to five bedrooms include many innovations that are bound to please the style-conscious buyer.

Some models offer a music room and upstairs study gallery.

All plans have both formal and informal dining rooms and cozy family rooms, formal living rooms with fireplace of brick or stone and dramatic cathedral ceilings.

* * * *

GARDEN kitchens have a generous amount of hardwood cabinetry and tiled work space.

Pantries and separate utility rooms offer extra convenience. Carpeting, custom mirrors and lighting fixtures, deluxe marble pullmans in baths and powder rooms are all included.

Casa Bonita is a development of builders Henry and Myron Reichert, father and son team and the Swan Construction Co., both well-known builders of custom and semi-custom homes.

Prices are in the medium range with VA, FHA and conventional financing. Casa Bonita is located on Artesia Boulevard, just east of 605 Freeway.

Rights Offer

BOSTON (UPI)—Standard International Corp. has announced a rights offering to existing shareholders of 250,000 shares of its subsidiary, Edward Weck & Co., at $5.25 a share on a basis of one share of Weck for each 15 shares of Standard International held.

Instant Eggnog

Michigan State Scientists have developed an instant eggnog powder, which requires no refrigeration and is reconstituted by adding milk.

LBCC's Industrial Relations Conference Slated

Long Beach City College's annual Industrial Relations Conference will be held Wednesday afternoon and evening at the Business and Technology Campus, 1305 E. Pacific Coast Highway.

This year's theme: "Manpower Planning for the Future."

More than 175 industrial relations specialists from business, industry and educational institutions are expected.

Following a social hour and registration starting at 4:45 p.m., the program includes an afternoon session, the 7 p.m. awards banquet in the BTC cafeteria, and an evening session.

* * * *

SPEAKERS will be Lawrence T. Cooper, president of the Management Council of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and Peter Weinberger, director of the Department of Employment, California State Employment Service. Their respective topics: "Revolution in Manpower Development" and "Manpower: Today's Frontier."

Chairman for the conference is Harvey H. Hefner, deputy director of employee relations at McDonnell Douglas Aircraft and member of LBCC's industrial relations education advisory committee.

* * * *

DURING the awards banquet, Dr. Wiley D. Garner, president of City College, will present certificates to 17 students who have successfully completed the industrial relations curriculum at the college.

A special award to the outstanding student, including a $50 U.S. Saving Bond, will be presented by Dr. Keith F. James, Dean of Occupational Preparation.

Other members of the LBCC advisory committee involved in planning the Industrial Relations Conference are Thomas E. Burke, General Telephone Co.; W. P. Evans, Cement Mason Local Union 791; Arthur T. Gaines, formerly with the Division of Apprenticeship Standards, Department of Industrial Relations; Clarence B. Gariss, Building Trades Council, AFL-CIO; George D. Hart, Robertshaw Controls Co., Crayson Controls Division; David M. Hendrickson, Long Beach Naval Shipyard; Wayne J. Hull, Harbor Foundation; Omer P. Rivard, Painters District Council 36 and Local 256, AFL-CIO; W. S. Rule, Van Camp Sea Food; James H. Simmons, Los Angeles County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO; and James T. Stevens, Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union 681, AFL-CIO.

FROM KELLY-SPRINGFIELD
Hallmark G/P, a new tire constucted of polyester and fiber glass, has been introduced by Kelly-Springfield Tire Company and Long Beach area dealer, Don Richardson, vice president of Richardson Tire Co. Hallmark G/P, available in full range of sizes, should provide up to double mileage of standard new car tires, Richardson said.

Beacon Sells

NEW YORK (UPI) — National Distillers & Chemical Corp. has bought the remaining half of Beacon Manufacturing Co. of Beacon, N.Y., one of the nation's leading makers of blankets. The remainder of the stock was bought from the Owen family, which founded Beacon 70 years ago.

MRS. A. W. BATES JR.

MRS. K. R. BECHEN

Couples repeat vows in Saturday services

Bates-Roop

Saturday in Faith Chapel, Long Beach Naval Station, Valerie Paulette Roop became the bride of Lt. Allen W. Bates Jr. USN.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Eugene Roop of Cypress and Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Bates of Scituate, Mass.

The bride was attired in a floor length gown of nylon lace over taffeta with an A-line skirt and flowing panel in back.

Honor attendants were the bride's sister, Maureen Roop, and Cmdr. George Powell, USN.

Following a reception at the Long Beach Naval Station Officer's Club the couple departed on a honeymoon trip to Las Vegas. They will live in Newport, R.I. The bridegroom is a graduate of University of Massachusetts.

Bechen-Robison

Wearing a traditional gown of Chantilly lace and satin Louise Anne Robison became the bride of Kevin Russel Bechen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Bechen of San Francisco, Saturday in Our Lady of Refuge Catholic Church.

Evelyn Wheaten was maid of honor for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Robison, 4510 Cervato St. Bridesmaids were Mary Anderson, Ann-Corinne Fisher, Chris Bagwill and Lucinda Bay. Jody-Marie Adams was flower girl.

Best man was Richard Sobaski. The bride's brother, Wade Robison, Robert Pitalo, Steven Maxedon and Edward Braithwaite ushered guests. Ring bearer was Gary Griffin.

Following a reception at the church the couple departed on a wedding trip to Bishop and Mammoth. They will make their first home in Long Beach.

Winning contract

by Howard Schenken and Richard L. Frey

You are more likely to hold a hand containing two four-card suits than any other type of hand.

When you happen to have 17 h.c.p. or more it is seldom difficult to decide which of these two suits to bid first. If playing the Big Club there is no problem, and even if not, you have more freedom of maneuver with a strong hand than with a weak one.

But with 16 points or fewer it is very important to choose the right suit to bid originally. For any misjudgment is apt to cost heavily later in the auction.

Which suit should South open in each of these hands?

1. ♠ A 10 9 5 ♡ Q 10 8 ◇ A K 9 6 ♣ 7 3

2. ♠ Q J 6 4 ♡ 5 2 ◇ A J 8 4 ♣ K Q 10

3. ♠ A Q J 6 ♡ 7 2 ◇ A Q 9 4 ♣ Q 10 3

4. ♠ 10 8 7 4 ♡ Q 5 3 2 ◇ A K 10 ♣ A 2

ANSWERS:

1. One spade. When two four-card suits are not adjacent, the question of whether to open with the higher or lower ranking suit is a matter for individual judgment. It depends on the hand.

In this instance, if you were to open this hand with a bid of one diamond, it would become impossible to find a satisfactory move if your partner happened to respond two clubs. Whatever you bid next would mislead your partner.

On the other hand, by opening one spade you can raise a response of two hearts to three hearts and can bid two diamonds over a response of two clubs.

2. One diamond. Over one heart from partner you can rebid one spade, and if partner bids two clubs instead you can raise to three.

3. One spade. This hand is different from the previous hands because it is appreciably stronger. Therefore if you open one spade and your partner bids two hearts, you can describe your hand perfectly by bidding two no trump.

While if your partner bids two clubs over your one spade, you can bid two diamonds. Whatever happens, you are in no difficulty.

4. One Diamond. This is an unusual situation, for South holds two weak four-card majors, neither of which is an attractive vehicle for an opening bid. With 13 h.c.p. however, it would be wrong to pass and therefore it is permissible to open the strong three-card diamond combination.

In the unlikely event that partner raises diamonds, there will be no need to panic, for partner will surely be unbalanced, with four-card diamond support and a singleton somewhere.

AS OPENING NIGHT NEARS---

Maestro rules at Camelot

chorus, the principals, rehearses the orchestra and, on opening night steps in the pit to direct 24 expert musicians.

"I pride myself on the musicians I hire," he explained during a rehearsal pause. "All are from symphonic or name bands or both. Many of them have long experience in Hollywood and New York studios. They must be of this caliber because rehearsal time with the orchestra is limited."

Limited!

Saturday the orchestra read through the score without the cast. Tuesday they will polish musical sequences. Wednesday will be dress rehearsal.

Thursday at 8:30 p.m. the curtain will rise on Arthur's mythical kingdom with Ed Cotter as King, Laura Killingsworth as his Queen Guenevere and William Jennings as Lancelot, ready to re-create the romantic triangle in Lerner and Loewe's words and music.

OTHER principals are bumbling King Pellinore (T. Ellsworth Clark), villainous Mordred (Glenn Bradley) and young Tom of Warwick (Stephen Rabin) with whom the future rests.

Kroesen's association with CLO began by chance in 1961 when he attended a club meeting at Lafayette Hotel. Harvey Waggoner, CLO's general manager was there to sing, relying on a pick-up accompanist. Kroesen was chosen. "It was a spontaneous thing that just clicked," Kroesen remembered. "Later, Harvey asked me to submit my background for CLO board's consideration — they were looking for a music director."

That background began when Kroesen was 9 and his mother made him come in from sandlot baseball to practice the piano in Kansas City, Mo.

The youngster got his first professional job at the age of 13, got a job in a road show revue as a dancer when he was 15 — "I loved every minute" — joined the musicians' union at 16 which enabled him to become pit orchestra director with the revue.

HE WOULD have stayed on the road longer than two years if his mother hadn't insisted that he go to college.

"She knew better than I did what I needed," the director admitted.

Then World War II snatched Kroesen out of college for almost four years of duty with special services in Europe. After that, he finished B.A. requirements, earned his master's degree in music, and taught for 10 years in Kansas schools.

"I never could be satisfied with one job," though. He was music director for the prestigious Muehlebach Hotel in Kansas City which brought in top professional shows out of Chicago; he directed revues, staged musical comedy.

In 1959, Kroesen decided to come to Southern California. He spent a week here looking over school districts, then went back to Kansas with teaching offers from Long Beach, Glendale and Arcadia.

"I FLEW home to talk it over with my wife, Millie. There really wasn't much question. The music program in Long Beach schools was superior by far. Teaching is exciting — working with young, alert minds eager to learn."

Kroesen regards his CLO job as an extension of teaching — and because of his fine professional background, singers and actors consider it a privilege to work with him.

"I take singers with strong, basic talent and work the devil out of them for six weeks," he said.

"Camelot is a beautiful show. We did it in 1966 with Laura and Ed and the same director, James Brittain. But you can't do a show exactly the same way twice — a different cast makes a different show."

At the conclusion of Camelot's eight performances May 11, the music director will have completed 290 performances for CLO.

"Every moment is tense. You don't know what might happen — that's why musical comedy is more exiting than any other form of music!"

MARRIOTT IN COMPLEX . . . Completion Set For 1970

Marriott Inn Will Rise on Town Center Property

First increment of a 250-room hotel, destined to be the Orange County harbor area's largest facility of its kind when fully developed, was jointly announced last week by the Segerstrom family, owners and developers of South Coast Plaza & Town Center, and Reuben G. and Allen S. Musikantow, of Chicago.

The deluxe hotel, to be called the Marriott Inn, will be one of the first of the chain to be located in Southern California.

The new inn will be constructed on six and one-half acres of the Town Center property located on Bristol Street at San Diego Freeway in Costa Mesa, directly across from South Coast Plaza.

Land cost of the new hotel is in excess of $5 million.

* * * *

THE Musikkantows, who recently concluded an agreemnt with the Marriott Corporation in Washington, D.C. for a franchise to own and operate a West Coast Marriott Hotel, plan to begin construction before the end of this year.

Scheduled for completion in the fall of 1970, the first increment includes 250 rooms within a multi-structed complex.

One six-story building, flanked by a three-story building and a separate grouping of three structures containing eight deluxe VIP suites complete with individual balconies, constitute the sleeping facilities of the complex.

There will be parking for over 450 cars.

* * * *

SPECIALLY designed paraplegic rooms and hospitality suites, in addition to banquet and convention facilities for 500 persons, a supper club, cocktail lounge and 24-hour coffee shop are also included in the initial general development plan, Musikantow said.

One of the nation's outstanding food managers will oversee all food preparations and operations.

Emphasis, Musikantow said, will be given to the restaurant, coffee shop and banquet facilities because "we recognize how important a role quality food and service play in the operation of a major hotel."

Reuben Musikantow and his son, Allen, successful owners and operators of several hotels, motor inns and apartments in the midwest, plan to develop similar Marriott Inns in at least four other areas in California.

Australians Tour Lyons' Home Series

Brian Sharkey and Roy Edwards, executives of A. V. Jennings Industries Ltd., Australia's largest homebuilding firm, were in Southern California last week to visit William Lyon's California Classics statewide home series.

These homes attracted the attention of the A. V. Jennings Company, wanting additional information on the design, construction and marketing of one of California's best-selling home series.

* * * *

SHARKEY and Edwards were taken on a tour of Lyon's California Classics at Huntington Beach and Thousand Oaks.

The Classics series, which has achieved a statewide sales rate averaging three sales daily for the past 18 months, was designed for young first-time buyers who have not yet achieved their maximum income potential.

World Inn Opens

World Inn's Corporation has announced the opening this week of the new World Inn's Restaurant in the Bank of Long Beach Building, 5199 E. Pacific Coast Highway, Long Beach.

The restaurant will be billed as "Long Beach's most fashionable dining salon," featuring delicacies from all over the world.

Grand opening is scheduled Thursday through Saturday.

Interior design is by J. Lyle of DEC Associates.

Robert Dickerson, known as one of the most versatile restaurant operators in Southern California, is director of restaurant operations. He has been associated with fine dinner houses throughout the Northwest, Hawaii and Southern California since 1947.

* * * *

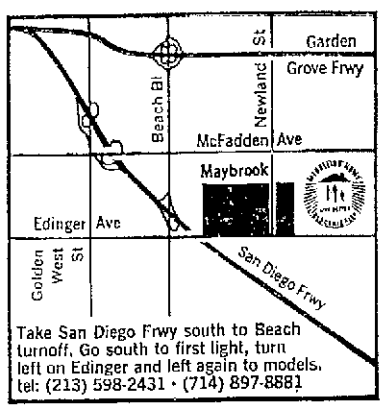

DICKERSON is married and a resident of Long Beach, active in clubs and organizations.

Dickerson has assembled a top staff including Robert Stanley, Mrs. Gayle Fohring and Ed Armstrong.

E. Enwood Thompson, Southland contractor and developer and president of World Inn's Corporation said "this restaurant is the first step in a projected program of building motor hotels and restaurants in choice locations throughout Southern California."

Steinhoffs to live in Seal Beach

MRS. G. L. STEINHOFF

Nuptial vows were exchanged in a Saturday evening ceremony in Los Altos Methodist Church by Toni Lynn Gladstone and Gary Lee Steinhoff.

The daughter of Mrs. Dottie Gladstone, 225 14th St., and Oliver Gladstone of Westminster wore a candlelight satin dress with yoke and chapel length train of Alencon lace.

In the bride's entourage were Sally Shepherd, maid of honor, Janene Huber and Diane Hanson.

Donald Lehman was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur O. Steinhoff of Downey. Ushering guests were Martin Reed and Dennis Geurin.

A reception in the church hall honored the newlyweds. Following a wedding trip to northern California the couple will live in Seal Beach.

Wright-Wilky families to join in August rite

Mr. and Mrs. W. Odie Wright entertained Saturday evening at a family dinner in their Long Beach home to reveal engagement of their daughter, Virginia, to Norman L. Wilky Jr.

The prospective bridegroom is son of Mrs. Robert McElrath of Long Beach and the late Lt. N. L. Wilky, U.S.N.

The wedding will take place Aug 23.

Sabins reveal engagement of daughter

Mr. and Mrs. John Baker Sabin of Long Beach have announced the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jean, to Michael Carl Yanko.

Parents of the benedict-elect are Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Yanko of San Pedro.

A July 26 wedding is being planned.

Final Unit of Morningside Homes Open

Grand opening of the third and last unit at Morningside, in Cerritos, is expected to attract crowds of prospective homebuyers, say sales officials of Boise Cascade Building Co.

Right pricing and terms were credited with the rapid sell-out of the first and second unit, the officials explained.

Priced from $22,995, the homes may be purchased on terms, with 90 per cent financing and monthly payments as low as $145, including principal and interest.

MORNINGSIDE features the exciting "New Homes for Young Americans," a group of homes especially designed to meet the needs and requirements of young, growing families. The spacious homes are available in a number of exterior stylings, with plans providing three and four bedrooms, with two and three baths.

Model homes are open daily for inspection and may be reached from the San Gabriel Valley Freeway (605) by taking the South St. offramp and continuing west on South St. to Studebaker Rd., then left to the models, just opposite 195th St.

YOUNG-STYLED HOMES . . . Make Expandables Popular

'The Beach' Chosen as Development of Month

The Beach, Kaufman and Broad's community in Huntington Beach, has been selected as "Development of the Month" by the Sales and Marketing Council of the Building Industry Association.

The council has inaugurated a program to select a development each month which has proved itself to be a marketing success and has made a substantial impact upon the home-buying market in Southern California.

The Council's directors selected The Beach as the first of these successful developments.

* * * *

THE expandables, a new concept in home design, were introduced by Kaufman and Broad at The Beach. These homes are designed to fit the budgets of young families but which can be expanded simply and economically with a family's needs.

When a family purchases an Expandable, it purchases a completely finished home at a popular price; they start at $21,990. When the family grows, The Expandable will grow too.

It may be expanded by two bedrooms, enlargement of the master bedroom and addition of a large playroom all on the first floor. Floor plans and specifications for this expansion are provided by Kaufman and Broad.

* * * *

THE homes at The Beach were designed by Barry Berkus and have bright and breezy styling including dramatic interior treatments and imaginative floor plans. The price range is from $21,990 to $29,500.

The Sales and Marketing Council commended The Beach for its explanation of the Expandables through signs and displays.

The council also praised the development's sales office and displays, noting that they carried out The Beach theme effectively and assisted customers. The sales office and all graphics were designed by Richard L. Casey.

* * * *

THE BEACH will be a community of 350 homes with an elementary school and a three-acre park. It may be reached via the San Diego or Santa Ana Freeways, taking the Brookhurst exit south.

All homes at The Beach are sold with Kaufman and Broad's five-year warranty. In addition, the homes are inspected 12 times during construction and double-checked 10 days after move-in by Kaufman and Broad's customer service staff.

MOST THINGS COME to the driver's attention while he is peering through the front windshield, but here's a situation that puzzled the driver when he looked into his rear-view mirror and saw stairsteps with finials. Mystery was solved when he drove up the hill. Finial arrangements were ornamental decorations atop the roofs of stepped-dormitories near the University of San Diego.

WORLD OF WHEELS

By ART STEPHAN
Auto Editor

Southern California residents who became the proud owners of new Cadillac cars last month helped Cadillac set sales records nationally, regionally and locally.

Last month 2,263 factory-fresh Cadillacs began riding the local highways. George W. Harrison, Los Angeles zone manager of the Cadillac Motor Car Division, reports that the figure represents a 22.5 per cent increase in sales over March of last year.

The success recorded in March demonstrates this area's continued demand for the new-model Cadillacs. Sales from January through March of this year have totaled 6,020 cars, which is a 17.4 increase over last year's mark for the same period.

This exceptional demand for Cadillacs has helped to increase western regional sales by 18.2 per cent over last March, and sales for the first quarter are up 13.3 per cent from last year, according to W. H. Niven, western regional sales manager.

Cadillac's marked success in the west has also been an important contributor to the 7 per cent national increase in sales recorded for the first quarter of this year.

Niven said: "We are tremendously gratified by the excellent acceptance of this year's Cadillac line, and we are confident that the record sales pace will continue for the remainder of the year."

SALE OF DODGE PASSENGER CARS and trucks rose substantially for the first 10 days of April in the western area, according to N. K. Harris, western area sales manager.

Harris said the Los Angeles region Dodge dealers sold 815 passenger cars and 304 trucks in the ten day period, up 13.8 per cent and 32.8 per cent respectively, over the same period in 1968, or a combined increase of 18.4 per cent.

These sales break all previous records for April 1-10 in the Los Angeles region to continue the best model-year-to-date for the L.A. dealers.

San Fmacisco Dodge dealers recorded sales of 670 cars and trucks, up 6.9 per cnet over the same period last year.

PORTLAND DODGE DEALERS recorded sales of 538 cars and trucks, up 2.3 per cent over the same period in 1968.

Denver continues to break all records in the history of the region with passenger car sales up 36.2 pe cent and truck sales up 12.2 per cent. Model year to date sales are up 6.5 per cent on cars and trucks.

Combining all western area regions, Harris reported that collective sales for the first ten days of April were up 10.1 per cent in passenger cars and 21 per cent in truck sales, over the 1968 period.

Nationally, Dodge dealers recorded an increase of 2 per cent in the sale of passenger cars, and a 24 per cent increase in truck sales — a record for truck sales for the April 1-10 period.

FORD DIVISION DEALERS IN THE Los Angeles sales district received orders of 1,495 Mavericks during the first three days the new car was on public display.

"The people visiting the dealership liked what they saw and order immediately," L. S. Grey, Los Angeles district sales manager, reported.

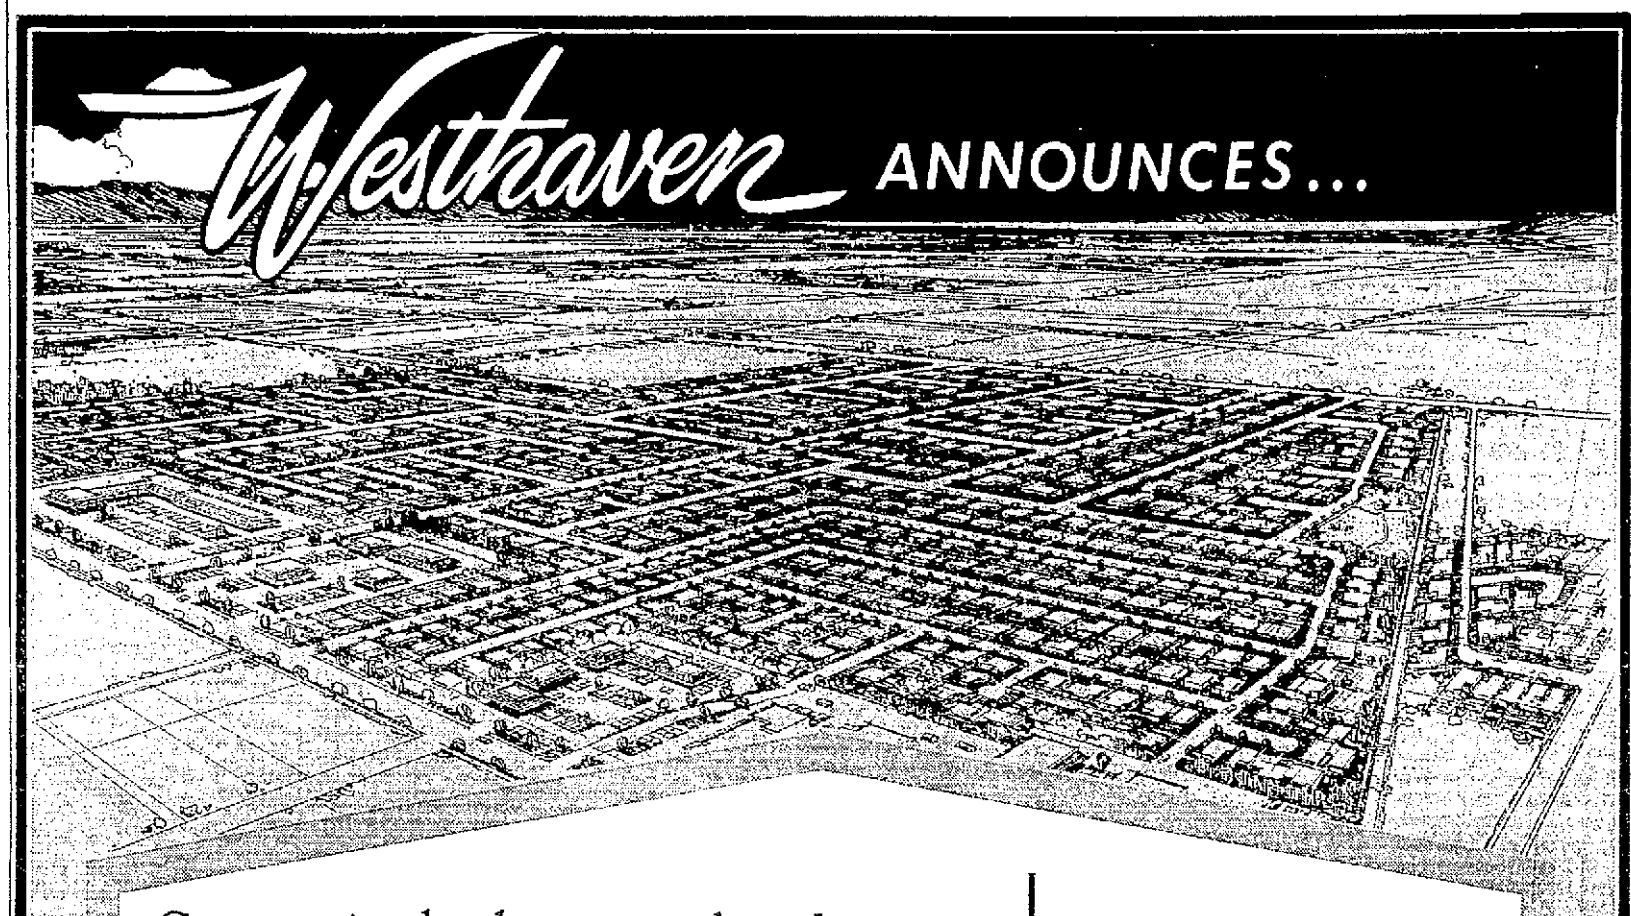

An additional 485 orders received before introduction day — Thurday, April 17 — raised total sales of the new 1970 car in the Los Angeles district to 1,980.

Of the cars traded in by Maverick purchasers, 66 per cent were competitors' products and more than one-fourth were foreign imports, Mr. Grey said. Two-thirds of the imports were Volkswagens.

The Maverick is a sporty two-door, four-passenger sedan. In size, it is between the sub-compact imports and the domestic compacts. It has a 102-inch wheelbase. Overall length is 197.3 inches.

Look! It's Spring!

THERE NEVER WILL BE A BETTER TIME TO BUY A HOME

LOOK! The price of land is going up. Economists predict a 20% increase in real estate prices within the next 3 years. The pressure of growing population in this area exerts an upward pressure on land prices.

LOOK! Right now, you can find real bargains in new homes. The selection was never better regardless of type or size home you want. And you can find it where you want to live and most convenient to work.

LOOK! Interest rates may go up. The actual difference between present and past interest rates is only a small factor in the cost of a home. For example: A one-half percent increase in interest rates is only $6 per month on a 25-year- $20,000 loan.

LOOK! Real estate is an excellent hedge against inflation. Each monthly payment builds equity in your property. At the same time, the home can be increasing in value.

LOOK! Building costs are going up. Wages in the highly unionized building industry continue to rise. Building materials, affected by higher wages, higher taxes, higher costs of doing business continue to rise. In the pages of this newspaper, you will find excellent homes and locations advertised. Look for them now . . . and decide to make one of them yours.

Big mouths add up to trouble

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I'm the kind of wife who tells her husband everything. And I am married to the kind of son who tells his mother everything.

Well, his mother has a big mouth, and she's the kind of woman who tells everybody everything, so now everyone in town knows all my personal business. How do you suggest I go about getting Friend Husband to keep his trap shut? Or maybe I should tell his mother to keep HERS shut. NO PRIVACY.

DEAR NO: I have a better idea. Why not simplify things and keep YOURS shut?

DEAR ABBY: I have it on very good authority that up until about 50 years ago, it was the custom for Eskimo women to leave their villages just before their babies were due, go off by themselves, and give birth all alone.

This seems to be a very barbaric practice, and I can't figure out the reason for it. I know it is true because someone who has lived above the Arctic Circle for more than 50 years told me this himself.

What are the facts? CURIOUS.

DEAR CURIOUS: The facts (as obtained for me from Mr. Tobert B. Atwood, my esteemed friend and editor and publisher of the Anchorage Daily Times) are:

"No one has any proof that such a custom ever existed.

Father John P. Fox, a Catholic priest, who has spent 50 years in the Arctic Circle, stated:

"Once, 43 years ago I knew a young Eskimo woman who left her village to have her child alone. The reason. She was 19, unmarried and didn't want anyone to know of her disgrace. She had been running around with a native trader who had THREE wives.

The baby apparently died at birth or shortly after, and was hidden somewhere out on the tundra by the young mother. That is the only such case I have ever heard of.

"The so-called 'custom' is in a class with the 'wife-swapping' stories one hears about Eskimos, and the practice of 'loaning' one's wife to a guest. An occasional drunken native may have used his friend's wife, but that would hardly make it a custom."

DEAR ABBY: A friend of mine has owed me $100 for a very long time. I have had no success in collecting even a part of it, so I decided to get even with him.

I borrowed his library card and checked out an arm load of magazines, from which I tore all the articles I wanted.

On one of my visits to the library, I met a young librarian for whom I fell very hard. He was most attentive at first, and I know he was about to ask me out when he learned of my vandalism. Since then he has been very cold and unfriendly. Should I explain to him the circumstances, or what? NEEDS ADVICE.

DEAR NEEDS: What could you "explain"? Your childish retaliation trick? I doubt if the young librarian would feel that your vandalism was justified. Putting another further into debt is a strange way of collecting what is owed you.

DEAR ABBY: I received a telephone call the other evening. A woman with a pleasant voice asked for me by name, so of course I let her talk.

She said she couldn't tell me who she was, but she thought I should know that my husband was stepping out with a woman he works with.

It would have really upset me terribly except that I'M NOT MARRIED!

Continue to tell your readers to pay no attention to nuts who make anonymous phone calls. GWEN.

Assessor Trainees Tour Dimension-70 Homes

A class of 20 trainees from the Los Angeles county assessor's office visited the new 200-home community of Dimension-70 in Cerritos last week as part of an assessor trainee program.

Dimension-70's unusual "easement swap" land plan and moderate price range were two of the major reasons why the new development was selected for the field exercise, said Senior Appraiser Glenn Quinn.

Trainees who visited the Cerritos development were the 25th class to be processed through the year-long training program which was inaugurated in 1954.

* * * *

OPEN three months, Dimension-70 has recorded sales averaging one home per day. Over 75 per cent of the 116 homes in the first and second units have been sold and a 78-home third unit has just been opened, said Clyde Wixom, sales manager for builder-developer Robert H. Grant and Company.

The new community's "easement swap" is actually an exchange of property between adjoining homeowners that permits use of at least 50 per cent of the space normally wasted by straight property lines.

* * * *

PRICE range at Dimension-70 is $21,995 to $26,495.

A model home complex that displays these features plus the "easement swap" land plan is now open on the site.

Freeway access to the site is via San Gabriel Freeway (605) to Del Amo Boulevard, then east to Pioneer and one block north to 195th.

A close-in new home for $22,000?

You must be kidding!

Now, you can live in a spacious, family-sized Leadership Home at Casa Dominguez. And you own the land in this prestige community. It's just minutes away from where you work and where you play.

Casa Dominguez offers 2, 3, 4 and 5-bedroom homes. You'll find patio kitchens with built-ins, formal dining rooms, family rooms, carpeting—and plenty of other extras. But you don't pay extra. It's all covered by the purchase price. You live in one of Los Angeles' last close-in locations, too. Leading employment centers minutes away. Schools and shopping are nearby. The community, itself, is served by the Harbor, Long Beach and San Diego Freeways. You just couldn't ask for more convenience.

Casa Dominguez homes range from a low $22,000. At this price, who can afford to rent?

Take San Diego Freeway to Avalon Boulevard. Then straight to corner of Avalon and Del Amo Boulevards, site of Casa Dominguez Sales Pavilion.

'SHINE HERE AND THOU ART EVERYWHERE'
... from Donne series, lithographs, by June Wayne, 1956

LITHOGRAPHER JUNE WAYNE

Artist says 'job is done'

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"Francis, Kanemitsu-Moses, Wayne" is an exhibit not to be missed. Not only is it a beautiful show of artists who have exhibited and been recognized world-wide, but it marks the close of a significant chapter of the history of the art of our time.

This chapter began with a woman with an idea, and it is she who is writing the last line. June Wayne, a self-taught lithographer of surpassing eloquence, was unable to have her stones printed in a satisfactory manner.

Ten years later, the Tamarind Workshop of Hollywood was established. Underwritten by the Ford Foundation for the last decade, Tamarind has brought printers and artists together on the basis of two-month grants. The artists were provided with a unique situation in which to create; the apprentices became master printers, returning to their home bases all over the country with highly developed skills.

The roster of artists who are Tamarind alumni reads like a "Who's Who" of contemporary art (including all those who participated in the CSLB International Sculpture Symposium). The workshop has produced, as well, a number of publications on the graphic media.

JUNE WAYNE has had the courage to look at her project and to say that the job is done. (How many institutions founded for worthy purposes, not fulfilled or no longer needed, still jog on with their annual fund-raising events and membership drives!)

The art of lithography, exploited by Daumier, Toulouse, Munch, Kollwitz, Matisse and Picasso, lay dormant for lack of master-printers. Since Tamarind was established, lithography has had a brilliant renaissance in art schools.

New possibilities in the medium have been explored, particularly well by the four artists in the Downey show. A retrospective of June Wayne's own work in the last 20 years reflects a sensitive, figurative development of the medium in black and white.

SAM FRANCIS, a giant in the field, has worked all over the world. His lithos in splashes, sworls and dribbles of primary color relate to the surrealism of Gorky and Miro, the freedom of the abstract expressionists, and the white spaces of the minimalists.

Matsumi Kanemitsu's bold areas of saturated color relate to the joyous decorative quality of Matisse with a contemporary focus. Ed Moses (born in Long Beach in 1926) brings a precisionist finesse of exquisite linear pattern and blushes of color as well as a third dimension to the medium.

Hours at the Downey Museum of Art, 10419 South Rives Ave., Downey, are 1 to 5 p.m. every day but Mondays. This show continues through May 18.

Arts

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Editor

A reception today from 2 to 4 p.m. will introduce three new exhibits at Long Beach Museum of Art, 2300 E. Ocean Blvd. The hosts, Friends of the Museum, cordially invite the public to the opening.

First to meet the eye is an exhibit of monumental ceramics by Michael Arntz, on display in the sculpture garden.

Like Peter Voulkos, Arntz is a California artist who experiments without inhibition, innovating and exploring. An assistant professor of art at UC, Santa Barbara, he has been represented in such shows as the Everson Museum of Art Ceramic National Annuals, San Diego Museum of Art exhibits, the Collectors' Show at Santa Barbara Museum of Art and many one-man shows.

He uses slabs of clay to fashion massive, bold forms which have no relation to timid pots.

Inside the museum, are contrasting displays, "Master Prints of the 15th and 16th Centuries," in the upstairs gallery, and "The Hearings," drawings by Arnold Mesches in the downstairs show space.

"Master Prints" is made up of 48 rare Renaissance works by printmakers from Italy, Germany and the Low Countries done by such artists as Mantegna, Durer, Cranach, Beham, Caracci and Schongauer.

The collection illustrates the development of style from late Gothic to the Renaissance. From the Library of Congress, the exhibit is circulating throughout the United States and Canada under auspices of the Smithsonian Institution.

Mesches' drawings for "The Hearings" were chosen from hundreds documenting the Sirhan B. Sirhan pre-trial hearings, the Navy's Court of Inquiry into the Pueblo incident and the Sealab III tragedy, all done for the Walter Cronkite Show, CBS TV news.

FOR SEVERAL years George Brecht has been preoccupied by aspects of randomness and chance.

His research has culminated in "The Book of the Tumbler on Fire" soon to be published. At Los Angeles County Museum of Art, until May 18, are 33 of Brecht's works which he discusses in early chapters of the book that "researches the continuity of unlike things, of objects, and of events in time." "Pigeonholing and being pigeonholed are anathema to me" says Brecht.

Also on exhibit are 15 chair sculptures, constructions painted in bright, clear, gloss enamel and decorated with selected random objects.

Brecht has been included in "The Art of Assemblage" at the Museum of Modern Art, "Environments, Situations, Spaces" at the Martha Jackson Gallery, New York, and other shows.

LONG BEACH artist Athena Hall has 22 watercolors, oils and collages on exhibit at Community Playhouse, 5021 E. Anaheim St. They will hang through May 17. The paintings include landscapes, florals and abstracts.

MORE THAN 50 paintings by 13 students from the University of Sonora, Mexico, will be featured in a four-day show which opens Monday at Cerritos College, 11110 Alondra Blvd.

All students are visiting the Norwalk area as part of a citywide celebration honoring Norwalk's sister city, Hermosillo. The exhibit is under sponsorship of the Norwalk-Hermosillo Friendship Commission and the Cerritos Art Gallery.

The college gallery will be open from noon to 4:30 p.m. and 6 to 9 p.m. each day.

WATERCOLORS by Paul Komme will be on view at Bowers Memorial Museum, 2002 N. Main St., Santa Ana, through May 11.

Film festival begins Saturday at LBCC

A New Cinema film festival will open at 8 p.m. Saturday in Long Beach City College Auditorium with nine prize-winning short films by internationally noted directors.

The series includes Program I on May 3, Program II on May 11 and Harold Lloyd's "Funny Side of Life" on May 31. At the conclusion of the second New Cinema program May 11, Saturday Review film critic Arthur Knight will be present in the LBCC auditorium to discuss current and future trends in cinema.

Saturday's opening program includes "Enter Hamlet" (Mogubgub, U.S.A.), "Renaissance" (Borowczyk, Poland), "Les Mistons '67" (Truffant, France), "The Running, Jumping and Standing Still Film" (Lester, England), "Two Castles" (Bozzetto, Italy), "The Fat and Lean" (Polanski, Poland), "Corrida Interdite" (de Daunant, France), "Allures" (Belson, U.S.A.) and "La Jetee" (Marker, France).

LES McCANN

Jazz benefit today

Les McCann and His Men will play a benefit concert for Compton Civic Symphony Orchestra today at 3 p.m. in Compton High School, 601 S. Acacia St., Compton.

In addition, there will be a Jazz-Art Extravaganza Show featuring creative arts and crafts by Compton High School art students with items on sale from 2 p.m. through intermission.

Tickets will be available at the door for $2 general admission. Reserved seats, which include admission to a reception after the concert, are $5.

McCann, whose album "Much Les" on the Atlantic label was released in January and hit the top 10 list, has toured the United States, and Europe with such musicians as Ray Charles, Count Basie, Charlie Bird, Zoot Sims and others.

OWENS (L), MOFFETT, STEINLEITNER . . . At Lemonair Sites

Each Lemonair Home Treated As Lone 'Masterpiece' Setting

A steady increase in sales pace at Lemonair, beautiful hilltop retreat in the Cowan Heights area, is forcing new construction speed up, says Chet Owens, sales agent.

The demand for above-the-ordinary quality homes in a location that is secluded above the hustle of burgeoning Orange County is met at Lemonair Estates.

Proponents of peace and quiet, the Lemonair building team is carefully planning each new home with special attention to details of view, privacy and maximum land use.

With the shortage of high elevation building sites, Robert Moffett, project manager, feels each lot should be individually treated as a masterpiece setting for a fine quality home.

QUALITY cannot be only surface, but must be equally significant in functional features, floors and walls, points out Lemonair's construction superintendent, John Steinleitner.

Models now open for inspection include several sophisticated plans in a choice of handsome exteriors. Three, four and five-bedroom plans with four baths are offered, all with formal dining room, over sized family room and fully equipped garden kitchen.

Pantries and utility closets provide more than adequate storage space.

Family rooms feature mirrored bars, elevated ceilings and decorator wall treatment.

* * * *

MASTER suites, large enough to serve as bedroom and sitting room, are elegantly done, with mirrored wardrobes, large dressing areas, marble dressing table with double pullman and king-size shower.

Many custom appointments are included, such as decorator lighting fixtures, floor to ceiling windows, double fireplaces, three-car garages.

Take the Garden Grove Freeway to Newport Freeway, south to 17th Street, east on 17th Street to Newport Boulevard, turn left to Skyline, right to Cowan Heights Boulevard to Travertine and Lemonair Estates.

Rancho Capistrano Attracts

Attracted by the unspoiled beauty and old-world charm of Rancho Capistrano, horse lovers have turned out in numbers to visit the Land of the Dons and see rancho living as in the days of Early California.

In one week more than 200 caballeros have visited Rancho Capistrano, many of them bringing horses and trailers. New stables and white-rail fenced paddock area are available for care and boarding of horses, and miles of equestrian trails provide many hours for riding pleasure.

You don't have to be a horse lover to enjoy Rancho Capistrano. Other recreational facilities include picnic areas in shaded groves, a completely furnished tile-roofed recreation building, two sparkling lakes, a dock, and a sailboat. The whole family will enjoy a visit to Rancho Capistrano.

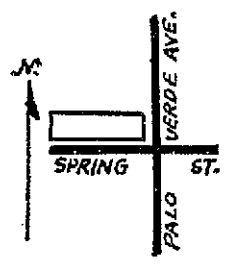

Take a drive to see the fabled swallows of Mission San Juan Capistrano, then east on Hwy. 74 for 23 miles, and follow the signs. People and horses are welcome at Rancho Capistrano!

'Talking Apartment' Heralds Unveiling of South Hampton

Another "first" for California — a unique Talking Apartment — will be unveiled to the public May 4 at the grand opening of South Hampton, a new 600-unit adult apartment community in North Long Beach.

"That Talking Apartment feature has proven a successful and an informative innovation throughout the country but this is the first time it will be introduced in Los Angeles County," said Douglass Martin, Boise Cascade Building Company's general manager of the apartment division.

South Hampton, located on Ackerfield Ave., marks the entry of Boise Cascade into the apartment field in Long Beach.

One of the nations largest home builders, Boise Cascade has built more than 30,000 homes in California, but will be launching its first apartment community in this rapidly growing area.

* * * *

THE TALKING Apartment at South Hampton, which will be open daily from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. and Sundays noon to 7 p.m. for an eight day period concluding May 11, will answer any and all questions visitors may have concerning the apartment and the complex.

While many people may have been known to talk to "the four walls" of an apartment in the past, this is probably the first opportunity they'll have to hear an apartment talk back, as many little voices are hidden at vantage points inside and outside of the attractive apartment.

At South Hampton, the Talking Apartment will be a large, three bedroom domicile, providing 1,200 square feet of "talkative living space.

It features a large living room, all-electric kitchen, dining room, and a large king size master bedroom suite. One of the bedrooms is being furnished as a den, by Lane Bennett, the head decoartor at Edwards Fine Furniture.

"WE ARE entering this key market with a quality product created to meet the needs of active young moderns, in the medium income bracket," Martin said. "South Hampton is within easy access of employment and shopping centers in South Los Angeles County, yet it's location in North Long Beach gives the feel of openess and freedom not found in city living."

"Lucile Valek will be sales and rental agent for South Hampton" announced Martin.

Apartments at South Hampton will be in the medium price range, the Talking Apartment being $190 a month, unfurnished. Providing a feeling of spaciousness with plenty of room, recereational facilities, eight pools, laundry facilities and covered parking spaces, South Hampton will offer one, two and three-bedroom plans.

Best reasons not to clean house

By ERMA BOMBECK

Some women do everything right. I have a friend who had the foresight to pick ugly bridesmaids so she'd look good. (I know. I was one of 'em.)

I have another who, when the priest came to bless her house, was sitting in a rocker in a maternity dress reading a book by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen. I have still another who has her spring cleaning done four days after Christmas.

All three get on my nerves, but the latter, Mavis Doermeister, really bugs me. She's about as subtle as a blonde on a barstool. On the first warm day of the year she calls me up and chirps, "Started your spring cleaning yet?"

"No," I say stiffly, "I had my teeth cleaned this morning and very frankly didn't know how I'd feel when the anesthetic wore off."

"You and your excuses," she giggled. "What was it last month?"

"My plastic bucket had a crack in it."

"And the month before that?"

"I entered a Miss America pageant and didn't want to get involved in case I won."

Mavis could ramble on back to September a year ago and I'd still have enough excuses to go around.

"I am waiting until I turn the furnace off." (I let it run all summer.)

"I am waiting until I can open the windows. (They were painted shut three years ago.)

"I am waiting until I can close the doors. (It chills my scrub water.)

"I am waiting for the kids to grow up and leave home."

"I am waiting for my tax refund."

"I AM GOING to a wedding and don't want my fingers shriveled from scrubbing."

"I was going to clean the basement but couldn't find the shovel."

"It depresses my husband to have the curtains down over the weekend."

"I am waiting for the right wind to dry my blankets . . . a gentle one at six miles per hour, northeasterly off the Gulf of Mexico."

"I am waiting for my new truss so I can move the piano."

"The Avon Lady is allergic to ammonia."

"I am waiting for my husband to get out of bed so I can turn the mattress."

"I am waiting until they make 'Hints from Heloise' into a movie."

"I clean only during Lent."

"I have an infected blackhead."

"My horoscope told me not to get out of bed today."

"I lost the claim check to my sweeper last summer."

That Mavis . . . she's a worker all right. The trouble with her is she has no imagination.

Low-cost shipping for tourists

A new low-cost system enabling tourists to ship personal effects and purchases from Europe to the U.S. was announced today by E. K. Hicks, Senior Vice President and General Manager, International Freight Division, American Express Company.

"The convenient 'thru-rate' system of baggage shipment is designed to eliminate confusion and reduce expenses for the tourist," Mr. Hicks said. "Baggage can be transported to the U.S. from all the major cities in Europe under our new carefree baggage system."

American Express with 42 freight offices throughout Europe, will provide a full line of services for the new system. These include: local pick-up and European handling fees at city of origin, European port expenses (loading, etc.), ocean freight to destination port, clearance through U.S. customs, and delivery in New York or Boston. After clearance in New York or Boston, shipments can be forwarded to any destination in the U.S. In the future, direct shipments will be available to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Chicago.

The new rate system is based on the weight of the baggage shipment with the lowest rate being 20 cents per pound. Under the system, a tourist can transport two or three suitcases weighing 125 pounds from Bremen to New York for $25.

TIPS FOR TRAVELERS

Planning Trip? - Get passport in order

By GENE BURKE
Agent in Charge
L.A. Passport Agency

QUESTION: I wonder if I can get my passport renewed by mail. It was issued in 1959. G.M.O.

ANSWER: No, you cannot renew your passport by mail since it is more than 8 years old. The new regulations require that you execute an application for a new passport in the presence of a passport agent or clerk of a Federal or State Court having naturalization jurisdiction, submitting your 1959 passport, two new passport photographs taken within 6 months and the fee of $12.

QUESTION: On page 4 of my passport issued last year there is a list of countries which are restricted to travel. Have more countries been added or deleted lately? A.B.

Travel and RESORTS

ANSWER: The current list of countries not valid for travel to or through insofar as U.S. passports are concerned is Cuba, Mainland China, North Korea and North Vietnam.

QUESTION: Do I need my shot card when I apply for my passport? A.L.

ANSWER: Your International Certificate of Vaccination is not required to secure a passport.

QUESTION: Since applying for my passport I have decided to go to several more countries not listed on my application. Is it necessary that I notify you of this change of plans? K.F.

ANSWER: We do require a general itinerary of travel plans at the time you apply for a passport, however, it is not necessary that you notify us each time you have a change of travel plans.

QUESTION: I do not want my minor son to go out of the country. Please tell me how I can stop a passport being made out to him? He is 5 years old. MRS. Z.

ANSWER: The Passport Office may disapprove an application for a passport for a minor if a written objection is submitted by a parent of guardian. If a controversy exists between the parents, then a court order giving custody of the minor to the objecting parent must be submitted to the Passport Office in order to assure denial of passport services.

QUESTION: We have a family passport and we are migrating to Australia. There is a limitation on our passport excluding my son when he is 18 years old. We will be in transit when the limitation comes due. What will happen in this case? I.L.

ANSWER: You must bring the passport and your son into the Passport Office before you leave the United States, since your passport will not be valid for travel on his 18th birthday. You will need two new photographs for him to apply for his own passport and the fee of $12.

QUESTION: I am 75 and am going to travel with my sister who is 70. Can we go on the same passport? R.J.

ANSWER: No. Everyone over 18 years of age must have their own passport with one exception — a wife may be included on a husband's passport.

QUESTION: My current passport is issued to me and my wife. My new one would be the same. Can I apply by mail in this situation? If so, please send the pink application form DSP-82. T.M.H.

ANSWER: Passports may NOT be applied for by mail if the bearer wishes to include a member of his family. Since your wife was included in your previous passport you must both appear in person before a clerk of a Federal or State court having naturalization jurisdiction or a passport agent.

Long Beach woman named Altrusa District governor

Helen Folsom, personnel director for the Independent, Press-Telegram, will take office as governor of District 11, Altrusa International, during conference Thursday through Sunday at the Dunes Hotel, Las Vegas.

Altrusa Club of Long Beach, which Miss Folsom served as president in 1961-63, will hostess the governor's reception Saturday night following the installation banquet. Taking part will be Alice Armour, reception chairman, Lorraine Howell, president, Shirley Casterton, Virginia Crosby, Pat Dawson, Jessie Denning, Odette Gulley, Kay Langen, Marie Sam and Helen Smith.

As governor of District 11 which covers Sonora, Mex., California, Arizona, Nevada and Hawaii, Miss Folsom will become a member of the international executive board and will attend that convention in Minneapolis in July.

Appointed by Miss Folsom to serve as her district secretary is Virginia Crosby, past president of General Telephone Company, also a past president of the Long Beach club.

International representative at the Las Vegas conclave will be Mary Resh of Washington, D. C., Altrusa International president. She will speak at the Friday night banquet on the Altrusa Foundation which has been established to accept tax free donations to its two international projects.

They are Grants In Aid — outright grants to women studying on graduate level in a country other than their own and Founders Fund Vocational Aid, grants to assist women in reentering the labor market.

'Aquarius' Opens in Paramount

John and Michael Holder, brothers and partners have opened the Aquarius, a gift and pottery shop with psychedelic theme, at 14735 Garfield St., Paramount.

Also involved in the operation is John's wife, the former Gail Van der Most, exotic dancer and, more recently, a movie starlet.

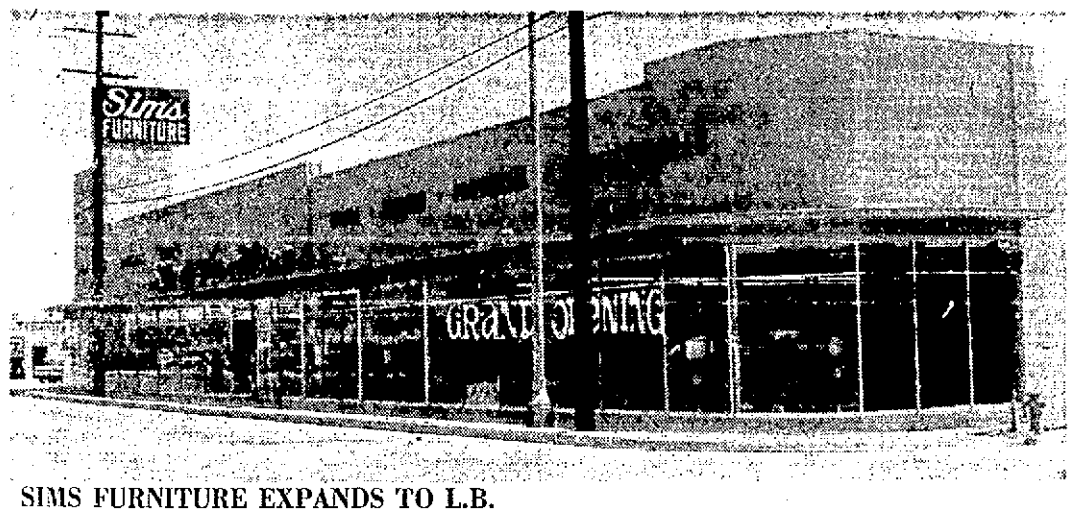

Opened April 5, the Holders quickly saw the ready market in rock group posters, rings, pendants, beads and India imports and the gift shop now has taken on the "new look."

* * * *

A WEEK ago Saturday, rock singer Roger Collins rehearsed at the Aquarius and the new management reported an overflow crowd ranging from teenagers to grandparents.

Said Mrs. Holder, who has just completed her part in the filming of "The Hunting," bubbles: "From early astrological reports, Aquarius just might turn out to be the swingingest little constellation ever to hit the airy trigon of Paramount."

The Aquarius hours: noon to 9 p.m. Saturday, Sunday and Monday; 4 to 9 p.m. Tuesday through Friday.

SIMS FURNITURE EXPANDS TO L.B.

Sims Furniture, a landmark for 20 years in Los Angeles, has expanded and last week opened a bright new store at 1830 E. Artesia Blvd., Long Beach, complete with grand opening special bargains. Sims emphasizes good design and service ability at medium prices, attractive to young and old. Sims officials said North Long Beach area offered best opportunity for that firm's "tried-and-true" merchandising that has pleased Los Angeles customers for 28 years.

Holstein's Final Westmont Homes Go for '66 Prices

The final homes in George M. Holstein and Sons' big Westmont community will be offered today with the builders selling the homes at the 1966 government insured price, the builder declared.

"You might not be able to buy food, a new car, or clothing at those 1966 prices, but at Westmont we will sell you a home for that 'good old days' valuation," a spokesman for the building firm explained.

* * * *

THE homes include built-in kitchens; wall to wall carpet, fenced yards, landscaping, sprinklers, and the massive over-the-garage "Bonus Room" The upstairs room is ideal as playroom, rumpus area or as extra bedrooms.

Both FHA and veteran terms are available at the site with no down payment offered to the veteran. The location is just off the San Diego Freeway Warner-Ave (East) off-ramp. Models are on Bushard Street just North of Warner and just West of Brookhurst.

Aggress to Buy

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Dolly Madison Industries, Inc. has agreed in principle to buy Creative Carpet Co. of Dalton, Ga., for cash, notes and convertible preferred stock.

Refreshments Offered to Casa de Santiago Visitors

Hot dogs and light refreshments will be served to all visitors from noon until dark at the model home area.

Final unit of new homes at Casa de Santiago are priced from $31,300 to $37,900. Three and four bedrooms, plus bonus AIA plans are offered that include carpeting, landscaping, fencing and sprinklers. This fact, verified by sales director, Ben Hare, is reportedly responsible for the success enjoyed at the private walled community.

* * * *

OF SPECIAL importance to many buyers is the closeness of the homes to the excellent shopping centers that include Fashion Square, Town & Country and the Honer Plaza.

An additional feature that many house-hunting families have mentioned as being of prime importance is the excellent location with regard to schools, churches, freeways, shopping centers, recreational and employment centers.

Many professional people have already selected the homesite of their choice at the county's finest most convenient location, it was added. Immediate occupancy is offered.

* * * *

CASA DE Santiago Homes are located in one of the finest areas of Santa Ana, adds Hare.

The model homes are located at Bristol Street and Memory Lane in North Santa Ana, and the builders point out that the single, most attractive feature responsible for the fast sales pace to date has been the prime location.

Shirt Expert Appearing at Buffums'

George Zimmerman, one of the nation's noted authorities on custom shirts, will ake a personal appearance Monday and Tuesday at Buffums' downtown Long Beach store.

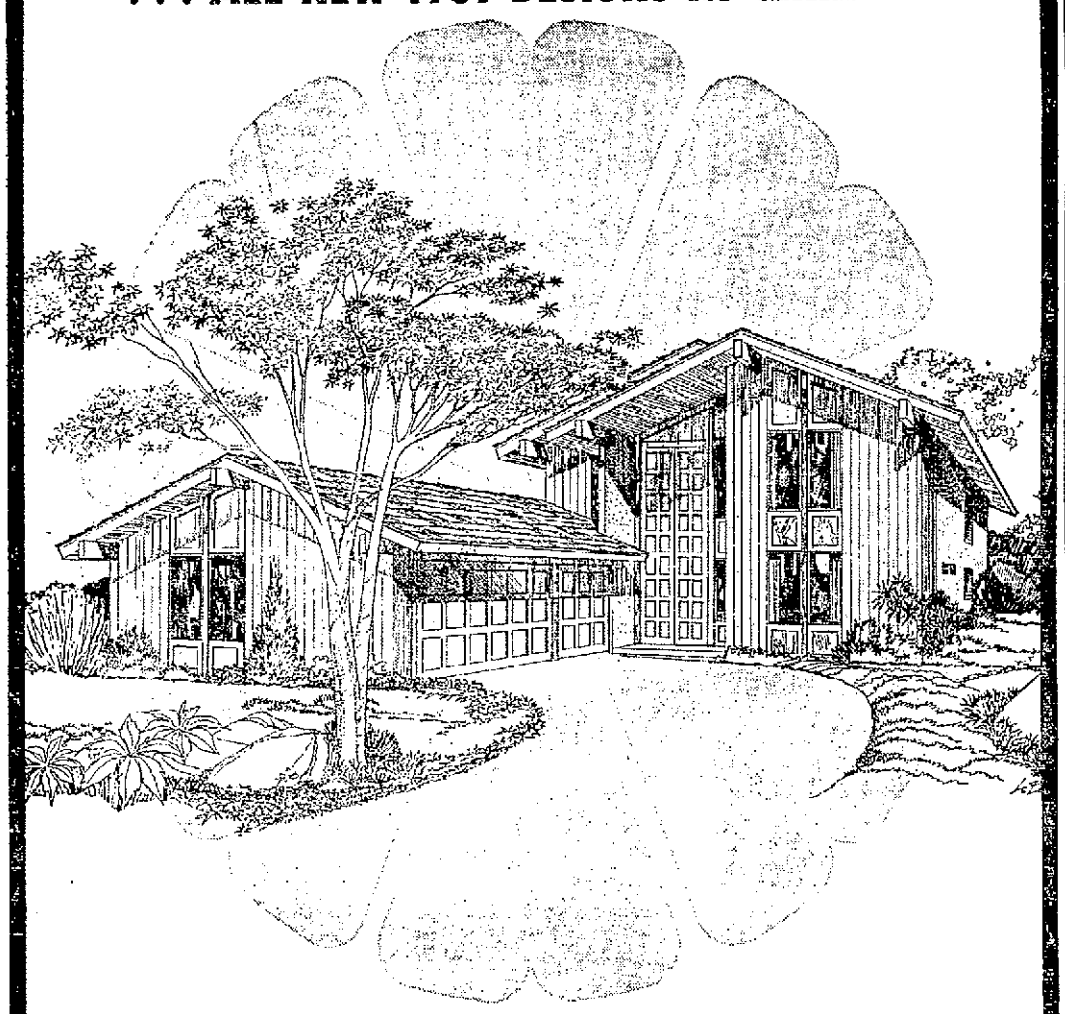

He will supervise the fitting of individualized custom shirts chosen from any of 250 fabrics.

Not only will customers wanting $12 shirts have Zimmerman's assistance, but they will try on collars and be measured for accurate fitting.

Brussels key stop on Europe tour

By G. QUARNSTROM

BRUSSELS — The courteous people of Brussels continue to provide a warm welcome to tourists who find the Belgian capital a delightful addition to any European itinerary.

Brussels is indeed a city of two languages and of two cultures, Flemish and French. In Brussels almost everyone speaks both languages, since it is becoming more important than ever to be bilingual in order to find a good job. English and German are spoken commonly also, so the Long Beach visitors will have no serious language barrier to overcome.

Brussels has much to offer the vacationist. I can see many of the attractions from the spot where I am making these notes, En Plein Ciel (Place in the Sky, or High in the Sky, take your choice) atop the city's newest and finest hotel, the Brussels Hilton.

Below this rooftop rendezvous atop the commodious Hilton are the evening lights of a great metropolis. This is the highest point in the city, since the Hilton is built on the loftiest point in Brussels and is itself 28 stories tall.

* * * *

ON THE HORIZON is Brussel's famed Atomium, a silver-colored giant with nine spheres constructed for the World's Fair of 1958 and still attracting 1,000 visitors daily, according to Jean Gyory of the Belgian Tourist Commission.

New offices and apartment buildings dot the city's skyline. Shining new structures have risen alongside buildings erected in past centuries. Brussels has some one million residents and expectations are for a spectacular growth by 1975.

The Brussels Hilton was filled to capacity from the time it opened in 1967, and already it has been necessary to add more rooms to meet the demand. Business relating to NATO, now headquartered near here, is one obvious reason.

Other hotels include the Westbury, built in recent years, and the venerable Metropole and Olympia, both known to generations of tourists but both still popular and well kept.

Brussels has many parks to add to its beauty. There are excellent shops and fine art galleries, the Grand Square in the heart of the city is one of the finest anywhere in Europe, and all visitors must see the Manikin Pis, the statue of a little boy which has become the city's trademark.

* * * *

BRUSSELS can be the headquarters for several days spent visiting the art cities of Bruges and Ghent, or for a visit to the great port of Antwerp. Belgium is compact and has excellent roads, so travel by either car or bus is easy. Both plane and rail service link Brussels with other leading cities, with a special treat coming to those who travel by the Trans Europe Express to either Amsterdam or Paris. This rail trip is short, but it gives the tourist an opportunity to ride on one of the fine trains of the world and be served gourmet food while passing through a countryside dotted with small villages, bustling factories, verdant farmlands and historic sites.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH DELAPLANE

Vegas, a neon playland

By STAN DELAPLANE

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — The best shows in the world play here. There's more neon per acre blazing in the desert night. More show girls per square foot of stage — and showing more per square inch of girl. And, of course, more cash money changing hands. That's the name of the game out here where the West begins.

Show and dinner run about $15. A bargain, for the casino hopes the stuffed diner will come out and stuff the slot machines. They're seldom wrong. In three nights in the theater-restaurants we saw "Mame," "The Lido" from Paris, and "Folies Bergere." (The last two were better than when I saw them in Paris.)

Least expensive trips here are by all-inclusive charter tours that stop here and then go on to Hawaii.

"We crossed the border into Mexico and bought some French perfume I am sure has been watered or some other perfume substituted . . ."

I haven't bought perfume in Mexico for years, but it used to be regular practice to cut imported perfume. Maybe they're still doing it. The way to buy French perfume is from export gift shops in Paris. Even with U.S. duty and airmail, we find it a good buy.

"We will be driving in Europe. I heard there are ways you can get coupons for a discount on gasoline . . ."

Italy is the only country I know doing that now. But here's what happened to me so you can avoid the same things. I rented a car in Rome with Italian plates. No discount coupons for cars with Italian license. Next time I rented a car with Belgian plates. But it was Sunday. The offices were closed. In smaller towns I couldn't find any office that could issue coupons. The tourist office says you can get coupons in Rome or at border stations.

A note from the Bulgarian tourist office says they will GIVE gasoline to tourists based on a scale of the number of nights they are staying in the country.

Some rental agencies will give you a car filled with cheap gas. I had one that I couldn't shut off — it went right on firing with the key turned off. (The trick on this is to jam the gas pedal to the floor and flood it.)

Be sure you know where the jack is. Some French cars have it tucked away alongside the engine. (I learned this after an hour trying to lift a car with a fence rail in a driving rain in Spain.)

Sometimes you can get a reduced price from Hertz if they have a car to be returned in the direction you are going. Some gas stations have free maps, but it drives the station owner wild to give them away. Offer to pay for a map and he will "find" one for you.

Fly to the SS Lurline— Hawaii's most unusual hotel

It floats from island to island, for 10 days, starting May 4, May 25.

The Hotel SS Lurline has everything—everything a grand hotel has. Smart rooms. Internationally famous restaurant. Headline entertainment. Continental service. And it floats from island to island. What other grand hotel does that?

Stay and Play 10 Days. On May 4 and May 25, the Hotel SS Lurline will be at:

Honolulu, Oahu	3 days
Nawiliwili, Kauai	2 days
Lahaina, Maui	2 days
Hilo, Hawaii	1 day
Kona, Hawaii	2 days
Total: 5 ports, 4 islands	10 days

This means you can visit the major islands without hopping about in different planes. Without touching your baggage once. Without bothering about reservations. You can enjoy the beauty and excitement of life at sea and the beauty and excitement of life ashore. You can take all kinds of tours. You can enjoy the beaches. You can shop, golf, fish, whatever you wish. You can roam through lush, tropical gardens. You can see everything any way you like, while we take care of anything you want 24 hours a day.

Fly to Hawaii and back. Fly over anytime you wish to meet the May 4 or May 25 cruise. The Hotel SS Lurline will be waiting for you. Then fly back anytime you wish after the cruise. Just see your travel agent; he'll take care of everything. Or contact Mr. Paul Thompson, our cruise consultant, and he'll take care of everything.

Lafayette in Open House

An open house emphasizing the showing of large, luxurious Long Beach condominium homes priced to $24,900 at the Lafayette Condominiums, 140 Linden Ave., has been announced by owner Robert Campbell.

Coffee and snacks will be served and a full staff of helpful sales people will be on hand to answer questions from the public.

Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

* * * *

CAMPBELL reported that nearly half of the Lafayette's all-electric condominium units have been sold and that public interest in the advantages of condominium home living remains high.

"We invite all Long Beach area residents to come down and see first hand our handsomely furnished, spacious luxury models," Campbell said.

Franchise Show on 3 Days

Everything from Jiggle Coin machines to completely stocked bridal shops will be offered for sale or lease to the public when the annual Franchise and Business Opportunities Show of Orange County opens Friday at Disneyland Hotel, according to Brewster Gallup, president of Franchise Exhibits Co., Inc., Newport Beach producers of the show.

More than 75 exhibitors will line the Embassy Room with working models, displays and prototypes of nationally-advertised restaurants, convenience markets, inns, brake centers, printing plants and custom-fitted bras and girdles, all available for nominal investment as "independently - owned" businesses, Gallup said.

The show, third annual exhibit for Orange County, will be open to the public daily from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m., except Sunday, May 4, when it will close at 6 p.m.

HUB'S 'NEW' STORE

Hub Furniture has unveiled newly refurbished Inglewood store after a five-month, $50,000 remodeling and expansion program. Hub principals Nick and Sol Goldberg and store manager Tom Turner said Inglewood endeavor is a pilot in a program that could result in store-wide modernization project and in addition of new locations to present 17-store chain.

Young Homebuyers Flock to Morningside, Cerritos

Sales at Morningside have increased steadily in the past two weeks as young homebuyers take advantage of purchasing one of these spacious and attractive homes in the third and final unit of the development in Cerritos.

Officials of Boise Cascade Building Co., developers of the community, said the sales pace for this last unit is following the pattern set by the initial units, both of which set records from the standpoint of time and volume.

Location, price and the new design concept of the homes were among the major factors cited by officials for the continuing success. The homes are priced from $22,995 and they may be purchased on conventional terms with 90 per cent financing and monthly payments as low as $145, including principal and interest.

* * * *

MORNINGSIDE features the New Homes for Young Americans series, homes that were designed following a series of surveys to, determine the housing needs of young growing families.

Floor plans were designed in accordance with these requirements. The homes are available in a number of handsome exterior stylings and contain three or four bedrooms and two or three baths. Numerous luxury features and built-in items are included.

Model homes are open daily for inspection and may be reached from the San Gabriel (605) Freeway by taking the South Street off-ramp and continuing west on South Street to Studebaker Road, then left to the models just opposite 195th Street.

VISITORS BUREAU MOVES

Noel Cady (bottom), president of Long Beach Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Bob Lichtenhan, manager, get started on moving huge files from bureau's old quarters in Municipal Auditorium to new offices in Fidelity Federal Plaza, 555 E. Ocean Blvd.

Opens Two Stores

A double grand opening celebration is being held this week to celebrate Ortho Mattress Company's new stores in North Long Beach and Garden Grove, according to Sherman Mickell, sales vice president.

The two new storee, bringing Ortho's nationwide total to 44, are located at 4834 Atlantic Blvd., in North Long Beach, and at 9766 Chapman Ave., Garden Grove.

Mickell, who owns and operates the Ortho chain with his brothers, Herman and Jerry, said the stores are open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Westhaven's Grand Opening Continues

Grand opening celebrations continue for the eighth unit of builder-developer Larry Shield's popular Westhaven community in the Westminster-Fountain Valley area, according to Frank McFarland Sr., sales agent.

"We're going to have refreshments, including roast beef sandwiches," McFarland said. Refreshments are through the courtesy of the Edison Company and the sandwiches through the O'Keefe & Merrit Company, the sales agent explained.

Westhaven is a master-planned community, that, when fully completed, will contain some 800 homes, together with a variety of community projects and services, including a park, school, business and professional structure and complete shopping center.

* * * *

THE eighth unit will include three completely new models; two two-story homes and a one-story home. Buyers will now have a choice of six floor plans and 18 handsome exterior stylings.

The homes contain three or four bedrooms, family rooms, the popular Patio Kitchens and numerous other luxury features.

Priced from $29,995, the homes may be purchased under a variety of financing programs, including VA, FHA and conventional terms.

Model homes illustrating the floor plans and stylings available, are located in a park-like setting adjacent to the strikingly designed Mediterranean sales and information pavilion. Also included in the model homes complex is a completely equipped children's playground.

Westhaven may be reached from the Garden Grove Freeway by driving south on Brookhurst past McFadden in Westminster.

Who is Mary Medallion? She's the All-Electric Girl, that's who. And she can save you from traffic jams, endless driving and lost weekends.

Just fill in the House-hunters Computer Input form. It will lead you to newly-constructed Medallion Electric Homes in new housing developments in Central and Southern California. All the computer needs to know is what kind of home you want, and it will match you up. Thousands of homes are listed by size, price and area.

At Edison we call it our SHE® program. SHE stands for Select-Homes-Electronically. And SHE can go to work for you right now.

A few days after sending in the form, you'll receive a computer printout of available new Medallion Homes that suit your requirements. Also, ask your local Realtor to show you his selection of Medallion Homes.

Sure beats driving all over with a car full of kids and maps, doesn't it?

And this computer service won't cost you a cent.

Turtle races frog instead of rabbit

A tortoise will race, not the traditional rabbit, but a frog is one of the rollicking events in store for Southern California during May.

The Southern California Visitors Council, which uses the colorful events in building the $1.250 billion tourist business, lists also an exhibit of thousands of trout and thousands of wildflowers, two school band contests, parachuting and dune buggy racing, a college cowboy and cowgirl rodeo, and a pet show and treasure hunt for youngsters.

The matched race of a Calaveras County frog from Angels Camp versus the fastest turtle will be a feature of the Grand National Turtles Sweepstakes which started as a gag 24 years ago at Joshua Tree and now probably will draw 15,000 people to the desert town next Saturday and Sunday. The racers are loosed at the center of a big circle and the first one out wins. Last year the turtle won at Angels Camp but lost at Joshua Tree.

* * * *

THE ANNUAL Intercollegiate Championship Rodeo at Pierce College in the San Fernando Valley May 16 and 17 will be most unusual. Participants are college cowboys and cowgirls from western college campuses. Just as the RCA pros, they ride broncs and Brahma bulls, wrestle steers and rope calves, the cowgirls sticking on spinning horses in the barrel race, under lights in the football stadium.

Fishermen will display their first day catches at the opening of trout season next Saturday at Bishop in the east of the High Sierras sportsmen's region. It's a 50 year tradition. The first 50 trout caught by boys and girls under 15 win cash prizes.

For the 43rd year women of the old mining town of Julian in the San Diego "back country" will gather thousands of wildflowers from the nearby desert and mountains and display them, botanically classified, in the Town Hall May 10 to 25.

About 50 of the Southland's best junior and senior high school bands will compete in a musical parade, the 22nd annual Maytime Band Review, at National City next Saturday.

* * * *

TOP SCHOOL bands from as far away as Texas will compete for $5000 in prizes at La Mesa May 16 and 17.

Sky divers will aim at a point on the beach near the Hermosa Beach pier in the annual Sport Parachute Competition on May 11.

Other sky divers will jump over the Algodones San Mountains near Brawley while dune buggies perform on the sand below in the annual Sand and Air Show next Saturday and Sunday.

And still other dune buggies will compete on the river bed at San Jacinto May 31 to June 1. They will race only 100 yards — but reach 100 mph.

Long Beach youngsters will bring everything from cats to roosters to the annual Pet Show starting at 10 a.m. on May 31 at Bixby Park. The city recreation department arranges to make every child a winner.

Also in Long Beach some 500 youngsters in the colorful costumes of 19 nations will perform in the 36th annual May Festival on May 24 at Recreation Park. The pageantry and dancing will climax with a simultaneous twirling of 22 maypoles.

* * * *

EVERY CHILD in San Diego County aged 6 to 12 will be eligible for the gigantic treasure hunt May 30 at Pacific Beach. At the crack of a gun at 10 a.m. they start digging in the sand of the beach for capsules exchangable for prizes; no child goes home without a prize.

The annual Mother's Day Rose Show will be held May 10 and 11 at the Pageant of Roses garden at Rose Hills Park in Whittier, 4000 rose plants in over 400 varieties including tints of green and lavender.

Antique cars will chug in a parade while antique planes roar overhead in the Old Time Days parade at Lemon Grove on May 24. Children will have an old time costume contest.

Capitol on go

The Louisiana capitol has been located in New Orleans, Donaldsonville and Baton Rouge. The Confederate capitol of the state was located in Baton Rouge, Opelousas and Shreveport. The Louisiana Tourist Commission says Baton Rouge has been the capital since 1882.

Travel and RESORTS

High, low trails A hiker's dream

This is the season for hiking the highest and lowest foot trails in the United States.

As the crow flies, the destinations are about 75 miles apart. Horizontally, that is. Vertically, the distance is almost three miles from top to bottom.

More than 6000 people a year hike to the top of Mt. Whitney, looming 14,495 feet high over this valley town in the East of the High Sierra region of spectacular mountain scenery, good deer hunting, and thousands of lakes and streams well stocked with trout.

Mt. Whitney is our highest mountain south of Alaska and higher than any other peak in the country that can be reached by foot trail. Other higher peaks are scaled only by skilled mountain climbers.

So many make the jaunt up Mt. Whitney on holiday weekends that traffic is heavy on the trail. The hike starts at the end of the auto road at Whitney Portal, 8371 feet high. A wise hiker will spend at least a night here getting acclimated.

After an all day's climb, the first of the trail being the hardest, there's another overnight camp and then the hike to the peak the next forenoon, making the trip down again before dark.

The peak flattens out on a slant. There's a stone hut built years ago by the Smithsonian Institution for study of solar radiation. The view is not as spectacular as might be expected because Mt. Whitney is nested among so many other peaks nearly as high. To the east the view is out over Death Valley — and this is where the other extreme in hiking occurs.

As a publicity stunt a few years ago a man hiked across Death Valley in the summer heat drinking a certain brand of soft drink. Now the fad has grown to such proportions that the Death Valley Monument has had to issue a special summer hiking sheet of regulations and suggestions.

The floor of the valley dips to 202 feet below sea level, lowest point in the Western Hemisphere, but the route of the summer hikers will be more like 170 feet below.

Summer temperatures can soar to 120 degrees and above — for years Death Valley held the world's heat record of 134 degrees.

As many as 15,000 people a month visit the valley in summer. But their automobiles are air conditioned. Hikers aren't.

Princess adds resort stops

Princess Cruises will offer a pair of special 15-day California-Caribbean cruises this fall and winter including two new destinations for the Los Angeles-based line, Fort Lauderdale in Florida and Montego Bay in Jamaica.

Both cruises, with rates starting at $575, will be aboard the Princess Carla, according to Bruce A. Beatty, general manager. Each cruise will transit the Panama Canal in full daylight.

The first 15-day cruise will leave Los Angeles on Sept. 27. Ports of call include Acapulco; Balboa on the Pacific side of the Panama Canal; Cartagena on the Atlantic side of Colombia in South America; Montego Bay; Nassau; and Fort Lauderdale. Westbound, the second 15-day cruise will leave Fort Lauderdale for Los Angeles on Dec. 1 and will include the same ports of call.

Both cruises, particularly the latter, offer excellent opportunities for some selective Christmas shopping.

Facilities aboard the 764-passenger Princess Carla, largest cruise liner ever to be based in Los Angeles, makes the concept "floating resort" come alive. A nightclub with live entertainment, dancing floors, cocktail lounges, blends with two swimming pools, a theater, sauna and massage center to offer passengers an exciting daily bill of fare. There is also an intriguing variety of public rooms on the spacious liner.

Cuisine, memorably gourmet, is continental in style. And the Italian crew, naturally exuberant, have established a reputation for believing the age of royalty has never ended — as far as passengers are concerned.

The ship is fully air-conditioned. Each cabin has individual climate controls, private facilities and a music system.

The new ports of call continue the dramatic expansion of service and ships by Princess Cruises, a subsidiary of the Boise Cascade Corp. Earlier this year the line linked California with the Caribbean in a series of 34-day sailings, also available as 17-day air-sea combinations (with the last in this series leaving April 28). Other new services include cruises to Alaska, out of San Francisco aboard the Carla's companion ship, the Princess Italia, marking the first regular cruise service to Far North from California since Gold Rush Days.

Quality in College Park Estates Homes Quickly Noted by Public

The tax-season doldrums have had very little effect on College Park Estates' sales, according to Gerry Dirksen, sales and marketing manager for S & S Construction Co., the Seal Beach community's developers.

"Although taxes have a sobering effect on the homebuyer, he also realizes that now is the time to buy before skyrocketing construction and lumber costs send prices still higher," Dirksen said.

The excellent financing which covers the spectrum from no-down VA to minimum-down FHA to conventional also has been an aid to College Park sales.

* * * *

BUT the intrinsic value of a College Park home must be credited most heavily for the high sales factor, Dirksen feels.

"People today are very much aware of value and high quality and we are determined to provide these qualities in every College Park home," Dirksen said.

Some of the outstanding features offered at no additional cost are lath and plaster wall construction, imported marble entries, custom cut crystal chandeliers, and wall to wall carpeting throughout.

* * * *

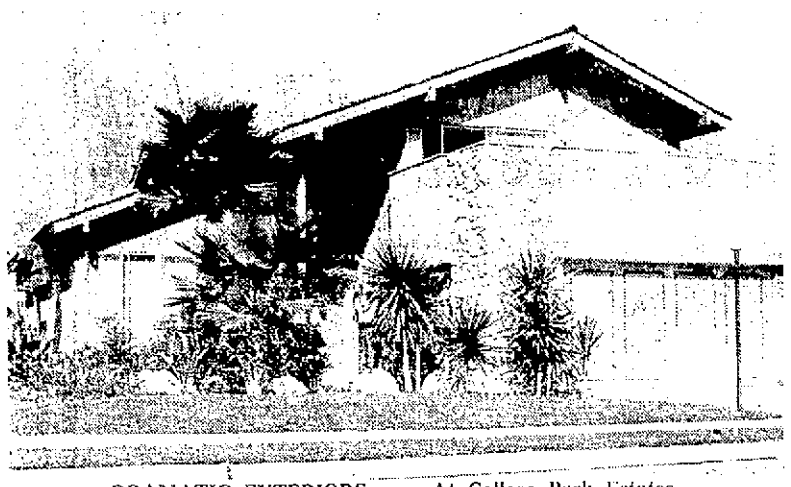

BUYERS can also choose from more than two dozen fireplace designs when selecting a home which offers many other opportunities for personalization.

Among the many other appealing features are the medallion "Flower Fresh" kitchens with luminous ceilings, generous ceramic tile counters, triple sinks with mixing valves, walk-in pantries and master-crafted cabinets with fine furniture finishes.

* * * *

COLLEGE Park homes, priced from $31,590, range from three to six bedrooms in one-story, or split level plans.

Furnished models can be visited daily. Take the San Diego Garden Grove Freeways to the Valley View turnoff, go north on Valley View and turn left to models at Cerulean.

Paul G. Williams Jr., head of a management consulting firm in Westport, Conn., believes he has given business planning a third dimension.

He was granted a patent for problem-solving equipment that displays charts in two directions, and in some ways resembles an indexed book with transparent pages.

Users of the device, which Williams calls a pattern-finding tool, include Lever Brothers, the Singer Company and Union Carbide Corporation.

Modern executives, in making decisions sometimes use a mechanical chart such as the planalog, patented in 1964 by Stanley Mendell.

Williams offers a frame shaped like an open-sided cube. On one side hangs a transparent chart of the whole project under consideration, with vertical lines representing the separate steps, spaced apart to indicate time duration.

Patent 3,418,730 is assigned to the Williams Inlan Corporation, which the inventor founded. An enthusiastic former advertising man, Williams composed the name "Inlan" from "instant language."

An electronic system has been patented that is designed to check the location of every police car in the metropolitan area, such as New York, every five seconds.

Prof. John P. Chisholm, founder and former president of the Sierra Research Corporation, Buffalo, N.Y., who was granted Patent 3,419,865, wants to make it easier to catch criminals red-handed.

The patent says the location of police units, although they may be moving, can be indicated to an accuuacy of less than a city block. Each car has a pulse transmitter adjusted to send a signal.

According to the patent, the position of each of 1,000 vehicles can be rechecked every five seconds. A car going 30 miles an hour will move only 220 feet between checks.

Urban Scientific Corporation, Greenvale, N.Y., the exclusive licensee under the patent, reports the New York City Police Department has shown interest in the system. But so far it has not placed an order. The system includes concealed foot switches in vehicles, which could sound immediate alarm in case of attack.

University of Missouri received a patent on an oral contraceptive for birds. The inventor is Dr. William H. Elder, a member of the faculty.

The contraceptive is a steroid compound that is mixed with the seed or applied to it as a coating. The specific chemical agents listed in Patent 3,419,661 are said to make the male sterile and to keep the female from laying eggs.

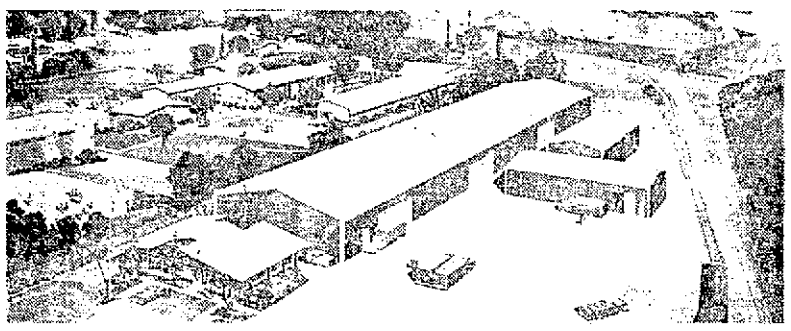

Some people gag or choke while swallowing medicinal pills, and Donald W. Davis of Milwaukee has patented an answer to the problem.

The first thing, he says in Patent 3,418,999, is to make sure the pill floats. Put it into the mouth with a quantity of water, bow forward and, with the head still down, swallow. There will be no trouble, he predicts. Davis suggests ways of making capsules, tablets and pills suitably buoyant by using foam and light materials and enclosing air.

Contact lenses that distort the view, two Californians say, help to control the behavior of animals, including fowl.

The wearers' inability to see clearly obviates the need for sedatives and reduces fighting, quarreling over food and nervousness.

Irvin L. Wise of Santa Rosa and Lester M. Hall of Merced obtained Patent 3,418,978 for Vison Control, Inc., on several forms of distorting lenses.

NEW MONARCH HOME . . . Spacious To Fit Firm's Growth

Monarch Wood's New Home Rising in City of Cerritos

Construction is underway for the Monarch Wood Products Company's headquarters and manufacturing complex — a new industry for the City of Cerritos.

The all-electric facilities, featuring a unique treated-pole, all-wood design, will be located on a four-acre site at 17600 Crusader Ave. It is being constructed on a long-term lease arrangement with the Associated Southern Investment Company.

Among those participating in groundbreaking ceremonies were Ed Radomski, president of Monarch; Gene Harvey, representing Associated Southern Investment Co. as its vice president; Frank C. Leal, mayor of Cerritos; R. R. Verrue, district manager for Southern California Edison Company, and Jack Kininghan of Southern Pacific.

* * * *

NOW located on Garfield Avenue in Paramount, the Monarch Wood Products Company has been a manufacturer of hardwood dimension wood components for 21 years.

"We are happy to be moving to Cerritos where Monarch can grow with the community," Radomski said. "The firm now employs more than 50 people and Monarch has plans for more than doubling its capacity at the new plant.

"When completed in mid-summer, ther will be four structures totaling approximately 45,000 square feet of manufacturing facilities with an "H" shaped office building with 2200 square feet of space," he said.

Buying Power

The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports the purchasing power of the nation's rank and file workers rose in December. The gain in real earnings resulted mostly from an increase in average weekly hours, which more than offset a moderate rise in consumer prices.

thank goodness it's a growing house!

As families grow, houses shrink. Too many people in too little space. Not this one. If ever it starts to pinch, you just let out the seams. It's pre-planned to grow in three different directions, and it won't ever look like an afterthought. Rooflines and structure were designed to welcome your changes . . . and we give you the plans when you move in. Think about it.

One day your kitchen/family area may not measure up to your family's size. "O.K., house — time to grow a big new activity room." Or the kids may declare they can't share rooms any more (they'll go through that stage, you can bet on it). Fine. Add a big new master suite and give the oldest one your old room. As your family grows more, you may need to extend your dining table . . into a big formal dining room. Simple. A little add-on, a little re-arrangement. It's all pre-planned. Just let the growing house grow.

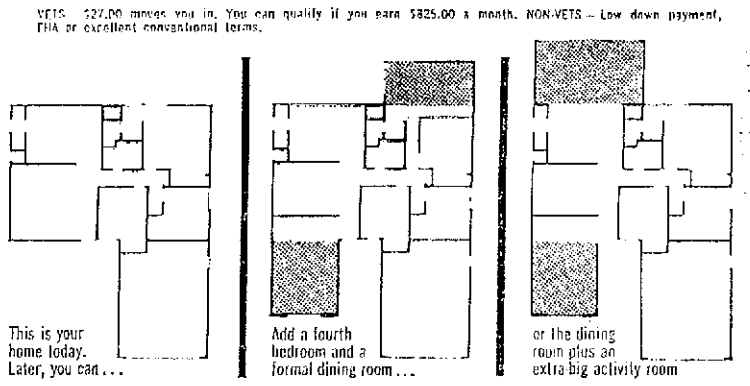

For right now . . your house is everything you'll need, and then some. Three bedrooms, two baths, a separate service room, and a big kitchen/family room that opens up wide to the outdoors. High sloping ceilings in the living room. And quality you'll seldom find at these prices.

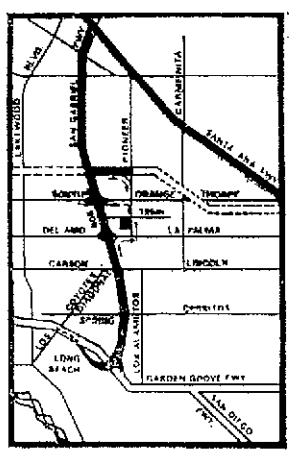

Concrete drives, garden court entryways, cedar grapestake fencing, insulated ceilings, built-in TV and phone jacks, quality Schlage locks, cultured marble pullman tops in baths, wood panelled walls. A great house for a long, long time.

But the day will come, we promise you, when you'll say "Thank goodness it's a growing house!"

MRS. VERNON L. CLARK

Newlyweds will make homes in Southland

Castro-Abbott

Nuptial vows were exchanged Saturday in St. Lucy's Church by Barbara Ann Abbott and Paul Flores Castro.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James D. Ryan, 2566 Webster Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Castro, 2719 Hayes Ave.

The bride wore an empire gown with a satin rose holding her veil.

Peggy Beeman was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters, Paula and Billie Abbott, Phyllis Leich and Debbie Powell. Flower girl was Rudy Perez.

Emeterio Cruz was best man. Seating guests were the bridegroom's brothers, Larry and Roke Castro, Vincent Pangelinan and Richard Asari. Tommy Pickle was ring bearer.

A buffet supper reception in the American Legion Hall honored the newlyweds. They will make their first home in Long Beach. Both were graduated from Polytechnic High School. The bridegroom attended Long Beach City College and is serving with the U.S. Army.

Clark-Smith

Vows were exchanged Saturday in Anaheim Central Baptist Church by Devina Marie Smith and Vernon L. Clark.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mr. and Mrs. Fred. M. Gebhard, 1237 South St., and Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clark of Buena Park.

In the bride's entourage were Sandra Romeras, maid of honor, Shelly Brown, Kathleen Montoya and Jan Hachgescherz. Lisa Bisogni was flower girl.

Ronald Clark was best man. Ushering guests were Vern West, Jack Lace and Harrell Pinker. Ring bearer was Theron Pyle.

Following a reception at the church the couple departed on a wedding trip to Torrey Pines. They will make their first home in Buena Park. The bridegroom attended Fullerton Junior College.

Emblem meets in L.A.

California State Association of Emblem Clubs and Nevada Clubs will meet for the 17th annual convention Wednesday through Saturday at International Hotel, Los Angeles.

Mrs. Dula Shining, convention chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. Arthur St. Martin, past president of Long Beach Emblem Club 106, and Mrs. James Frazer, past president of the Pasadena club.

Approximately 1,200 delegates will represent more than 12,500 members in 92 clubs of the association which is headed by Mrs. B. M. Cameron, Van Nuys.

AFFILIATED with the Elks Lodge, Emblem Clubs contributed to the California Elks Cerebral Palsy Fund and the Nevada Elks Crippled Children's Fund. Among community projects supported by Emblem Clubs are annual scholarships for teachers of the deaf and hard of hearing for which the association has given $10,000 this year.

Clow, DeMeneces wed in Catholic ceremony

A champagne reception at the Long Beach Yacht Club followed Saturday nuptials of Cecilia Ann De Meneces and William Curtis Clow in St. Bartholmew Catholic Church.

Parents of the newlyweds are Mrs. Geraldine De Meneces of Garden Grove, Frank X. De Meneces, Placentia, and Mr. and Mrs. Louis C. Clow, 4729 Blackthorne Ave.

The bride was attired in a lace gown with fitted bodice, long sleeves and a cathedral length train.

In the entourage were her sister, Diana De Meneces, maid of honor, Lynn De Meneces and Linda Underwood.

Keith Hawort was best man. Ushering guests were Edward Haworth and Malcom Underwood.

Following a honeymoon trip to Hawaii the couple will live in Carmichael.

The bride received her B.A. from California State College at Long Beach where she was a member of Phi Beta Speech Fraternity. Her husband graduated from Wilson High School and California Polytechnic College at Pomona where he belonged to Marketing Club.

WHAT'S YOUR PROBLEM?

Loan on Life Insurance Triggers Success Story

By DON CAMPBELL

There's an eternal fascination with even a modest success, and no feature of it arouses more curiosity than the individual's beginnings.

What's the first question that a reporter asks a famous personage? "Tell me, Miss LaBubble, just how did you break into fan dancing in the first place?" That's right: how did you get a start? The following letter, chronicling how one man financed his first real estate deal, gets us into a subject that has attracted a lot of attention in the past couple of years.

MR. CAMPBELL:

I would like to relate my moderate success story. I borrowed on my life insurance for the down payment on my home. Most people overlook this source of easy-credit, low-interest money. Pay back on your terms.

After my children graduated from school, my expenses dropped, partly because I was no longer acquiring new personal property, only replacing it. I paid cash for everything, avoiding finance charges. I put my wife to work and banked all her salary.

I bought my first rental. It was a four-apartment building, a very profitable venture. I sold that and bought a much larger building. The custodian does the work for a free apartment. One can claim enough depreciation so that one pays no federal taxes, and time it so that the property will be fully depreciated when one is 65.

Sell then, and pay taxes for the first time on long-term basis, with four exemptions. I now take my cash and invest in U.S. Treasury bills at 6.35 per cent. With our federal old age benefits and company pensions, life is beautiful. —H.H.

ANSWER: I couldn't be happier for H.H., and particularly so in light of the fact that the policy he has pursued is exactly the formula that I have discussed several times, myself, as a practical means of building a retirement nest egg through real estate — a stand that has brought me more than a few angry letters pointing out how it simply cannot be done that way.

But, of course, it quite clearly can be done.

The point that should be brought out here, however, is H.H.'s comments on how he got his start — by borrowing on his life insurance, a technique that "most people overlook." Is this a good idea, or isn't it?

Well, it is and it isn't.

While this advantage of life insurance is as old as life insurance, itself, and has been utilized countless millions of times, it has been only in the past two or three years that it has really attracted much attention.

Why? Because it has been in that time span that conventional interest rates on loans have soared so decisively above the 5 per cent level — the rate at which most of the policies that have a loan provision in them (and which are well established enough to have a loan value in the first place) give the policyholder the right to borrow money, in effect, against his own life.

Obviously, the minute it became difficult to get a conventional loan — with collateral — at less than 6¼ per cent interest, the 5 per cent life insurance loans (with no collateral except the policy, itself) became all the rage.

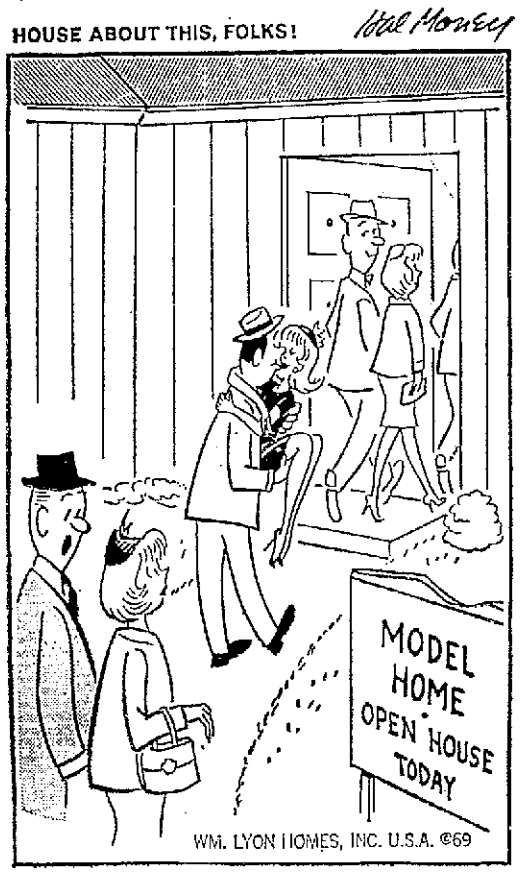

As H.H. has proved, it is an inexpensive way to garner a nest egg for a real estate investment.

The catch in this business of borrowing against your life insurance policy, of course, is contained in H.H.'s happy observation that you "pay back on your terms." There is, in other words, no pressure from the insurance company to pay back the amount you have borrowed.

While they aren't quite making the money on these loans that they once were, they are still more than making ends meet at 5 per cent and have certainly locked you in as a customer who is not going to let his policy drop for a long, long time to come.

9 A.M. TUESDAY

Pre-Business Seminar Set by SBA in L.B.

How to start and manage a small business will be the topic of a one day Pre-Business Workshop to be conducted by the Small Business Administration in Long Beach Tuesday at the Belmont Savings & Loan Building, 5200 E. Second St.

Workshop sessions, which will be led by financial, legal and management specialists will begin at 9 a.m.

There is no charge to participants.

* * * *

ACCORDING to Alvin P. Meyers, regional director of SBA's Los Angeles office, the program points out three major factors to prospective small businessmen and women: the ability to determine critically whether or not they should go into business; a knowledge of the fundamental principles of running a business, and a list of the sources of information and assistance available to them in starting and operating their own business.

The SBA officials said that information presented in the Workshop will be applicable to all kinds of small business enterprises.

Reservations are not necessary. Ample seating capacity is assured.

California Home Health Services in L.B. Quarters

California Home Health Services, Inc., a private enterprise sponsored by the U.S. Government, has recently moved into its permanent Long Beach home in Fidelity Federal Plaza, according to F. P. Droesch and Assoicates, exclusive leasing representatives.

Initial leased space involved 2,300 square feet in the $5 million high-rise office complex.

California Home Health Services, Inc. provides a new way to extend professional health care into the home for the patient's faster return to more normal life.

Its coordinated comprehensive services, provided under the direction of the patient's own physician, include professional nursing, home health aides, physical, occupational and speech therapy, medical-social services, nutritional guidance, supplies and medical equipment such as hospital beds and wheelchairs.

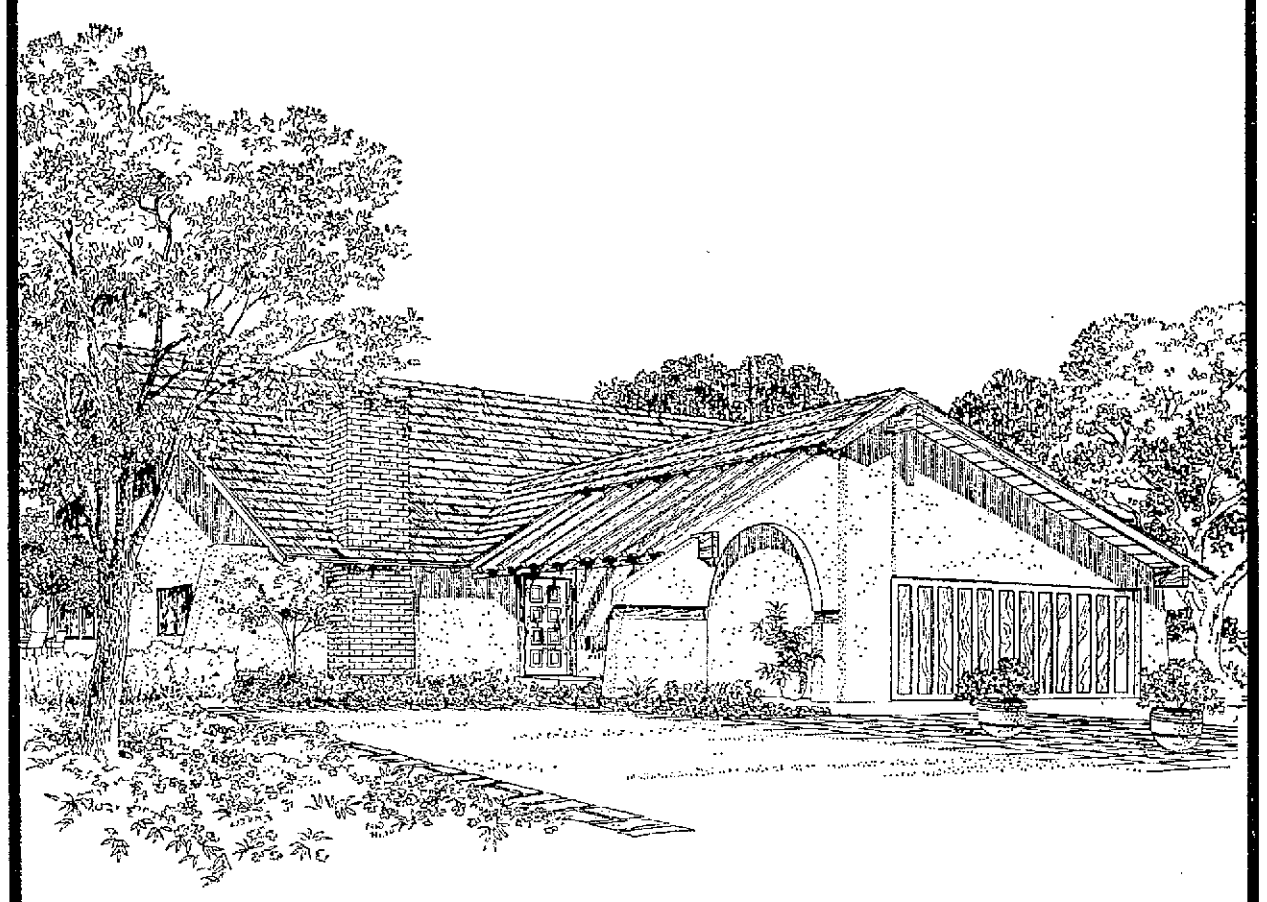

L.A. HOME SHOW

Virginia Dolan, queen of 1969 Los Angeles Home Show, puts royal talent to work painting sign calling attention to show which will run for 11 days, May 15-25, at Pan-Pacific Auditorium.

It's a big idea.

A big 3 bedroom Spacemaster that gets bigger.

The Spacemaster I is made to grow into. Not out of.

To begin with it's a big home. 3 bedrooms and 2 baths.

Then we've left a big portion unfinished upstairs. You can finish it later. Or if you like we can do it for you at a budget price.

Imagine. You can add up to 4 additional rooms. Now it's a 7 bedroom home. Smart.

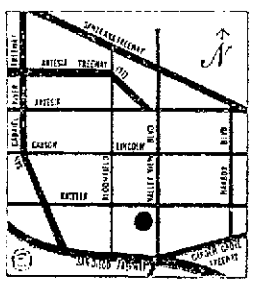

We've got Starters, too. For budget-minded families. You can add rooms as you need them. Wow.

We've also got all the exciting features that are available in expensive homes.

If you're living in a drab go-nowhere apartment or just another home in a crowded neighborhood, forget it.

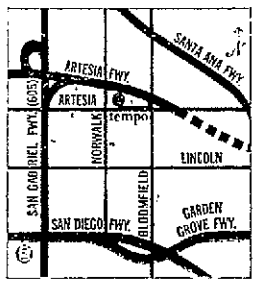

Get in Tempo.

It's a big idea.

Space age living

...new modern blasts off

By Judy Hazlett
Home Furnishings Editor

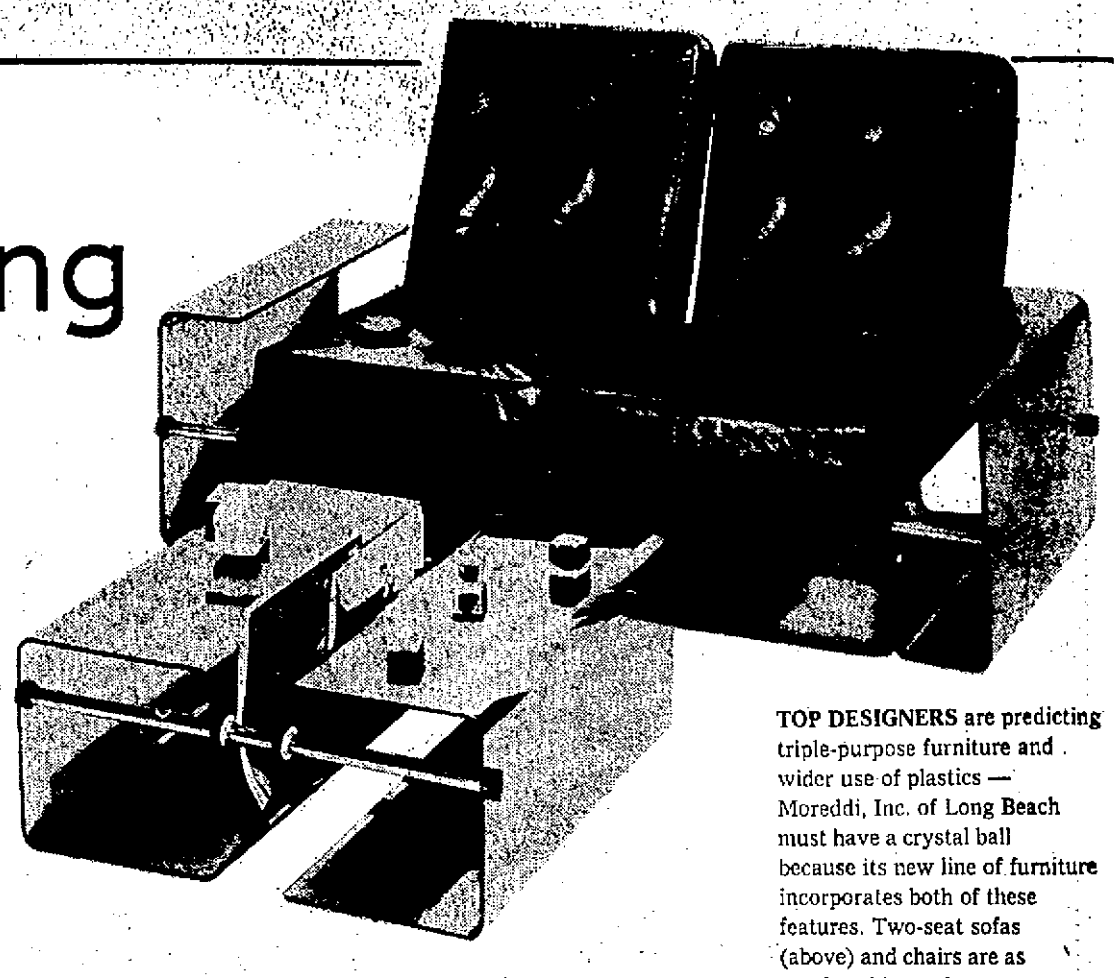

Space age living is here . . . original, experimental—really of today.

Modern designs for '69 have no link with the past—it does its "own thing", a product of new ideas, new applications and new materials like plastics, chrome, Plexiglas, fiberglas, molded shells in upholstered pieces; new fabrics like man-made suede, sprayed-on materials and stretch knits.

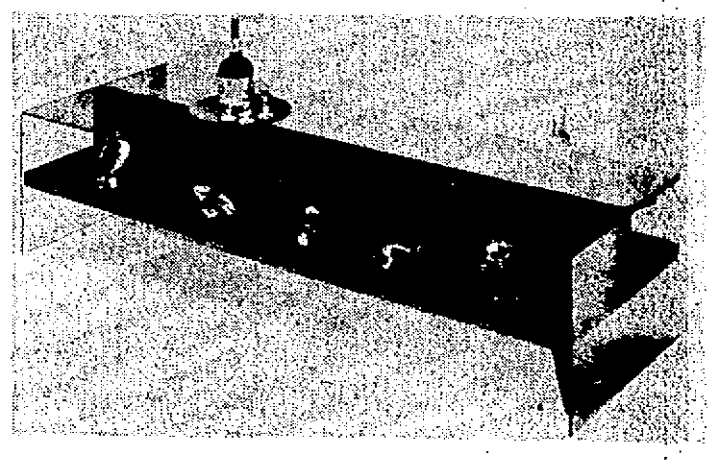

Furniture is no longer just something to sit on, eat on, or sleep on. Much of it is mobile, on casters, swivels or it reclines—real modern is seldom static. Even the shapes seem to move with their undulating curves and fabrics whose patterns swirl and gyrate.

The farout look is represented by "bubble" lights, free-form plastic chairs, hardly more than slim legs balanced by floating wrap around arms, "sitting" shapes in sofas and chairs, goblet - shaped "Cognac" chairs, a chair wired for sound—and the "air chairs, inflatable vinyl chairs with companion pillows.

Although many of the newest furniture pieces are still in experimental stages, 1969 will be the year for spaceage living to launch itself into reality.

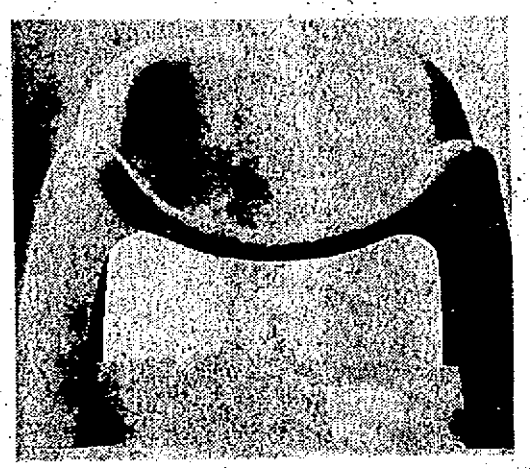

TOP DESIGNERS are predicting triple-purpose furniture and wider use of plastics — Moreddi, Inc. of Long Beach must have a crystal ball because its new line of furniture incorporates both of these features. Two-seat sofas (above) and chairs are as comfortable as they are exciting.

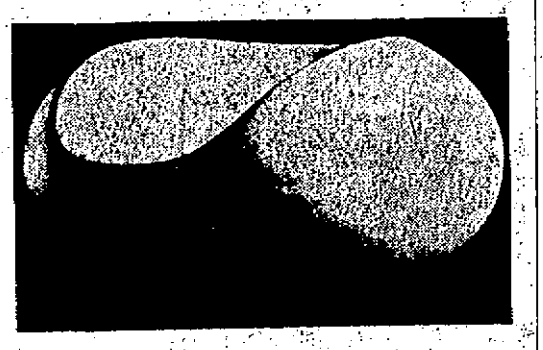

COFFEE TABLE designed by David Kline for Brown-Saltman features sides and top of gray solar glass with center structure of walnut for magazine storage.

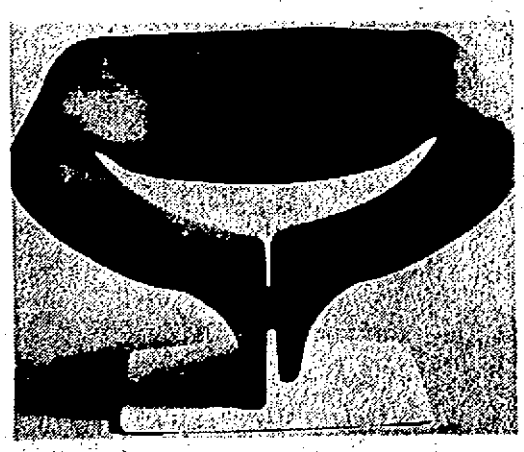

"FUTURAMA" chair by Berkline has such built-in conveniences as televison, telephone, stereo and vibrator. Recliner also has hood that slides into "privacy position".

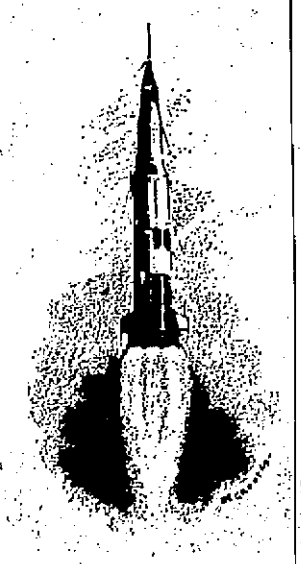

TOGA CHAIR, by Moreddi, is made of reinforced fiberglass which makes it suitable for indoor or outdoor use . . . ready to land in your pad for that all-in-one look.

CALLED THE "GYRO" chair—it could also be named the "dimple" chair, for it has an indentation (for seating) in what is otherwise a purely geometric form.

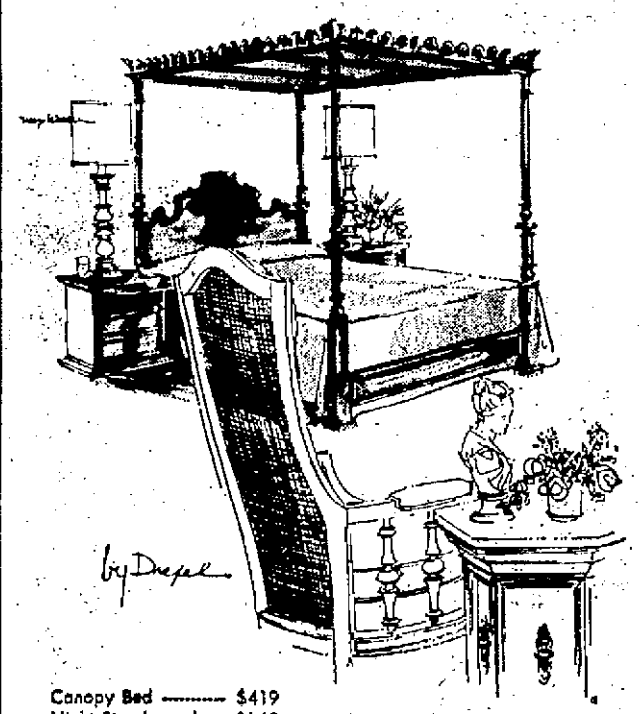

"RIBBON CHAIR" — it takes its name from its fluid form — a totally new shape in chairs, yet one which provides utter comfort. A tubular steel frame is covered by molded foam rubber and stretch fabric — the result is extreme comfort and fascinating shape.

Traditionals: ever-steady favorites

Traditional furniture styles—English, French, Italian, Early American and Colonial—are ever-steady favorites and not expected to alter in popularity since their reputation and status have long been an established way of life and their demand constant.

Designed to mix and serve

Surprise showing of modern mural

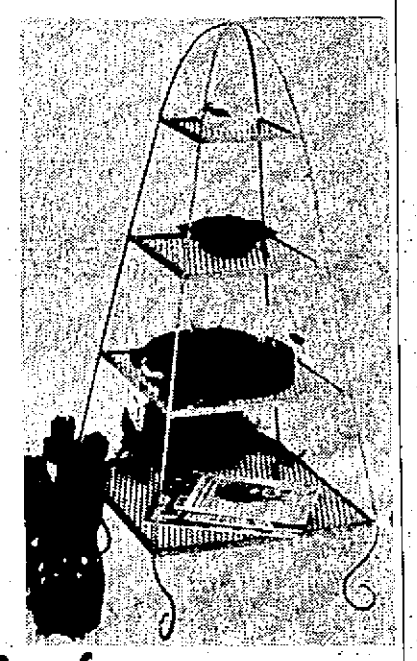

Modern mural framed against a brick chimney has surprise in store — it's made of thousands of pieces of mosaic vinyl flooring. But, whether you choose to create a masterpiece yourself, or purchase ready-made wall decor, a blank wall can become a home art gallery with a little imagination. Shown above, with the mural, are two carved wood gondola oar-locks flanking an 18th century iron prow ornament.

Potpourri of color, pattern for unity

In the environment of your home a professional decorator can assist with redecoration problems that can result in a decorating impact. The unusual assortment of fabric samples available through a decorator can be combined to launch a spirited scheme in any room. "Shop at Home Service" is available through the May Co., Lakewood Shopping Center.

Spruce up patio for summer

Will your home be "patio perfect" for the warm sunny days ahead?

Now's the time to take stock of what's needed to make your outdoor living area fulfill its potential for pleasure during the spring and summer months.

It's also the time to repair or replace outdoor furnishings that may be weather-worn or just plain run down with use.

"If you've been getting along with makeshift outdoor furnishings, give some thought to replacing them with good-looking sturdy wrought iron pieces," according to June Woodard, style consultants. "Quality wrought iron can be used outdoors for ten years and more and still retain its beauty."

"As a matter of fact, by using good wrought iron, you'll eliminate the painting and repairing of outdoor furniture so many families face every spring."

Miss. Woodard offers these suggestions for making your patio perfect:

- Take a look at the furniture you already have. Decide what's to be discarded, what pieces you want to keep.
- Now, with an inventory of useable outdoor furniture on hand, make a list of the new wrought iron pieces you'd like to have.
- Choose your new furnishings on the basis of your family's favorite outdoor activities.

This dog has high designs

"A dog's life and a merry one" might be accurate, even though a misquote. At least, one dog is living it up today . . . in his new glass house.

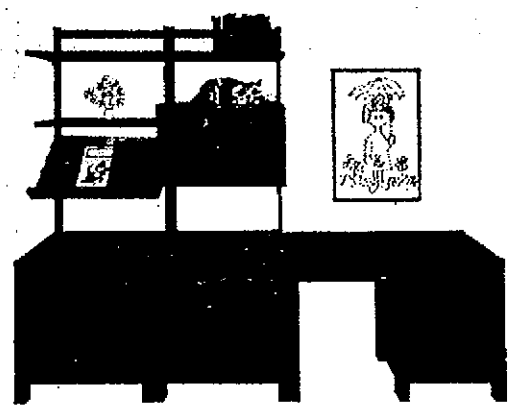

It all started when Southern California furniture designer Gerald McCabe came up with the idea for a glass cube table, which is constructed with a 7"-diameter hole in one side (to permit reaching inside for cleaning).

After the piece had been on display in the California Design Show, Jerry had a phone call requesting one of the tables . . . if it could be constructed with a 9" opening instead of the smaller one.

Agreeing that the hole could be enlarged, McCabe could not resist asking why.

"For an interior doghouse," he was told. And that is surely "putting on the dog."

Multi-purpose bedrooms are making scene

From the nursery to the master bedroom the latest thing in interior design is the multi-purpose bedroom.

Today's high pressured living makes it very necessary for the designer to provide a place where each member of the family can have a private retreat to read, study, pursue a hobby or just relax in peace.

The obvious room is the bedroom which already provides a private nighttime retreat.

Now, rearranged to serve many new important human needs, it can be a haven for hectic housewives, hyperactive executives, busy teenagers, and even younger children who want a quiet place to play. It can be a study, TV room, sewing room, playroom or even an extra living room.

Although the most luxurious of the multi-purpose bedrooms usually start with a large room, it is possible with careful planning to convert tiny rooms to serve through the entire day. The trick that produces success is found in the arrangements of furniture, the use of compact units, color, and even in the treatment of windows.

A SMALL ROOM may be made to look larger when light colors are used on the walls, and especially when the same colors are continued in the carpeting, the bedspread, and even in the draperies. Wall-to-wall carpeting is another trick that helps to make a small room appear larger. Placing a floor-to-ceiling mirror on a narrow wall will often almost double the apparent size of a room.

So, if redecorating the bedroom is next on your list of projects try a today look and plan for many relaxing hours in your living-bed room.

MIX . . . DON'T MATCH

'Anything goes' in today's decor

Today's homemaker has more opportunity than ever before to express her own personality and that of her family's in decorating the home.

In today's decorating schemes, "anything goes" — as long as it reflects the owner's likes, needs, wants and dreams.

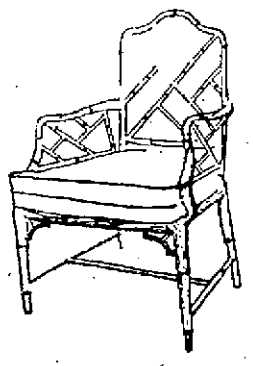

Gone are the days of matched living room suites and twin end-tables boasting duplicate lamps. Gone, too, are all the old decor rules and decorating taboos of Mother's day. Indeed, if there is any rule for home decor in 1969, it is "Mix" -- not "match."

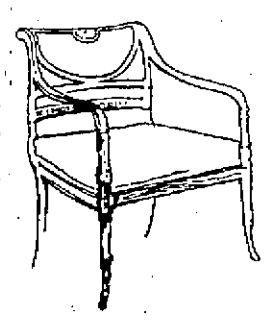

The smart homemaker today chooses her furnishings for both function and esthetic charm, with the result reflecting her likes and whims — rather than the duplication of a department store window display.

Manufacturers have recognized this growing awareness and sophistication of the modern homemaker and have reflected this attitude in their new lines for 1969.

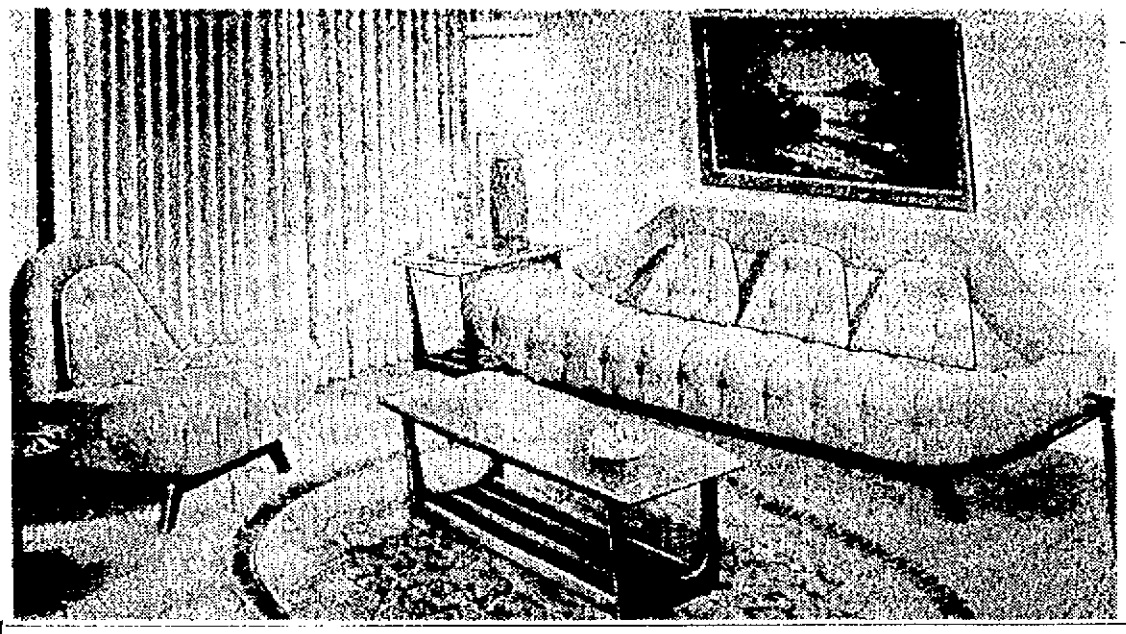

More and more manufacturers are showing collections that coordinate, rather than match. Leading case goods manufacturers are offering painted finishes as well as wood finishes in their new showings, enabling the consumer to blend her furnishings to suit her desire, while still retaining a certain continuity.

In today's rooms, homemakers are blending periods and styles; fabrics, finishes and woods, and accessories and accent pieces to create their own individual looks. However, careful consideration to selection of furnishings is still important to result in the "mixed" look — not a "mish-mash" look. The rule is to choose pieces to compliment, not complete.

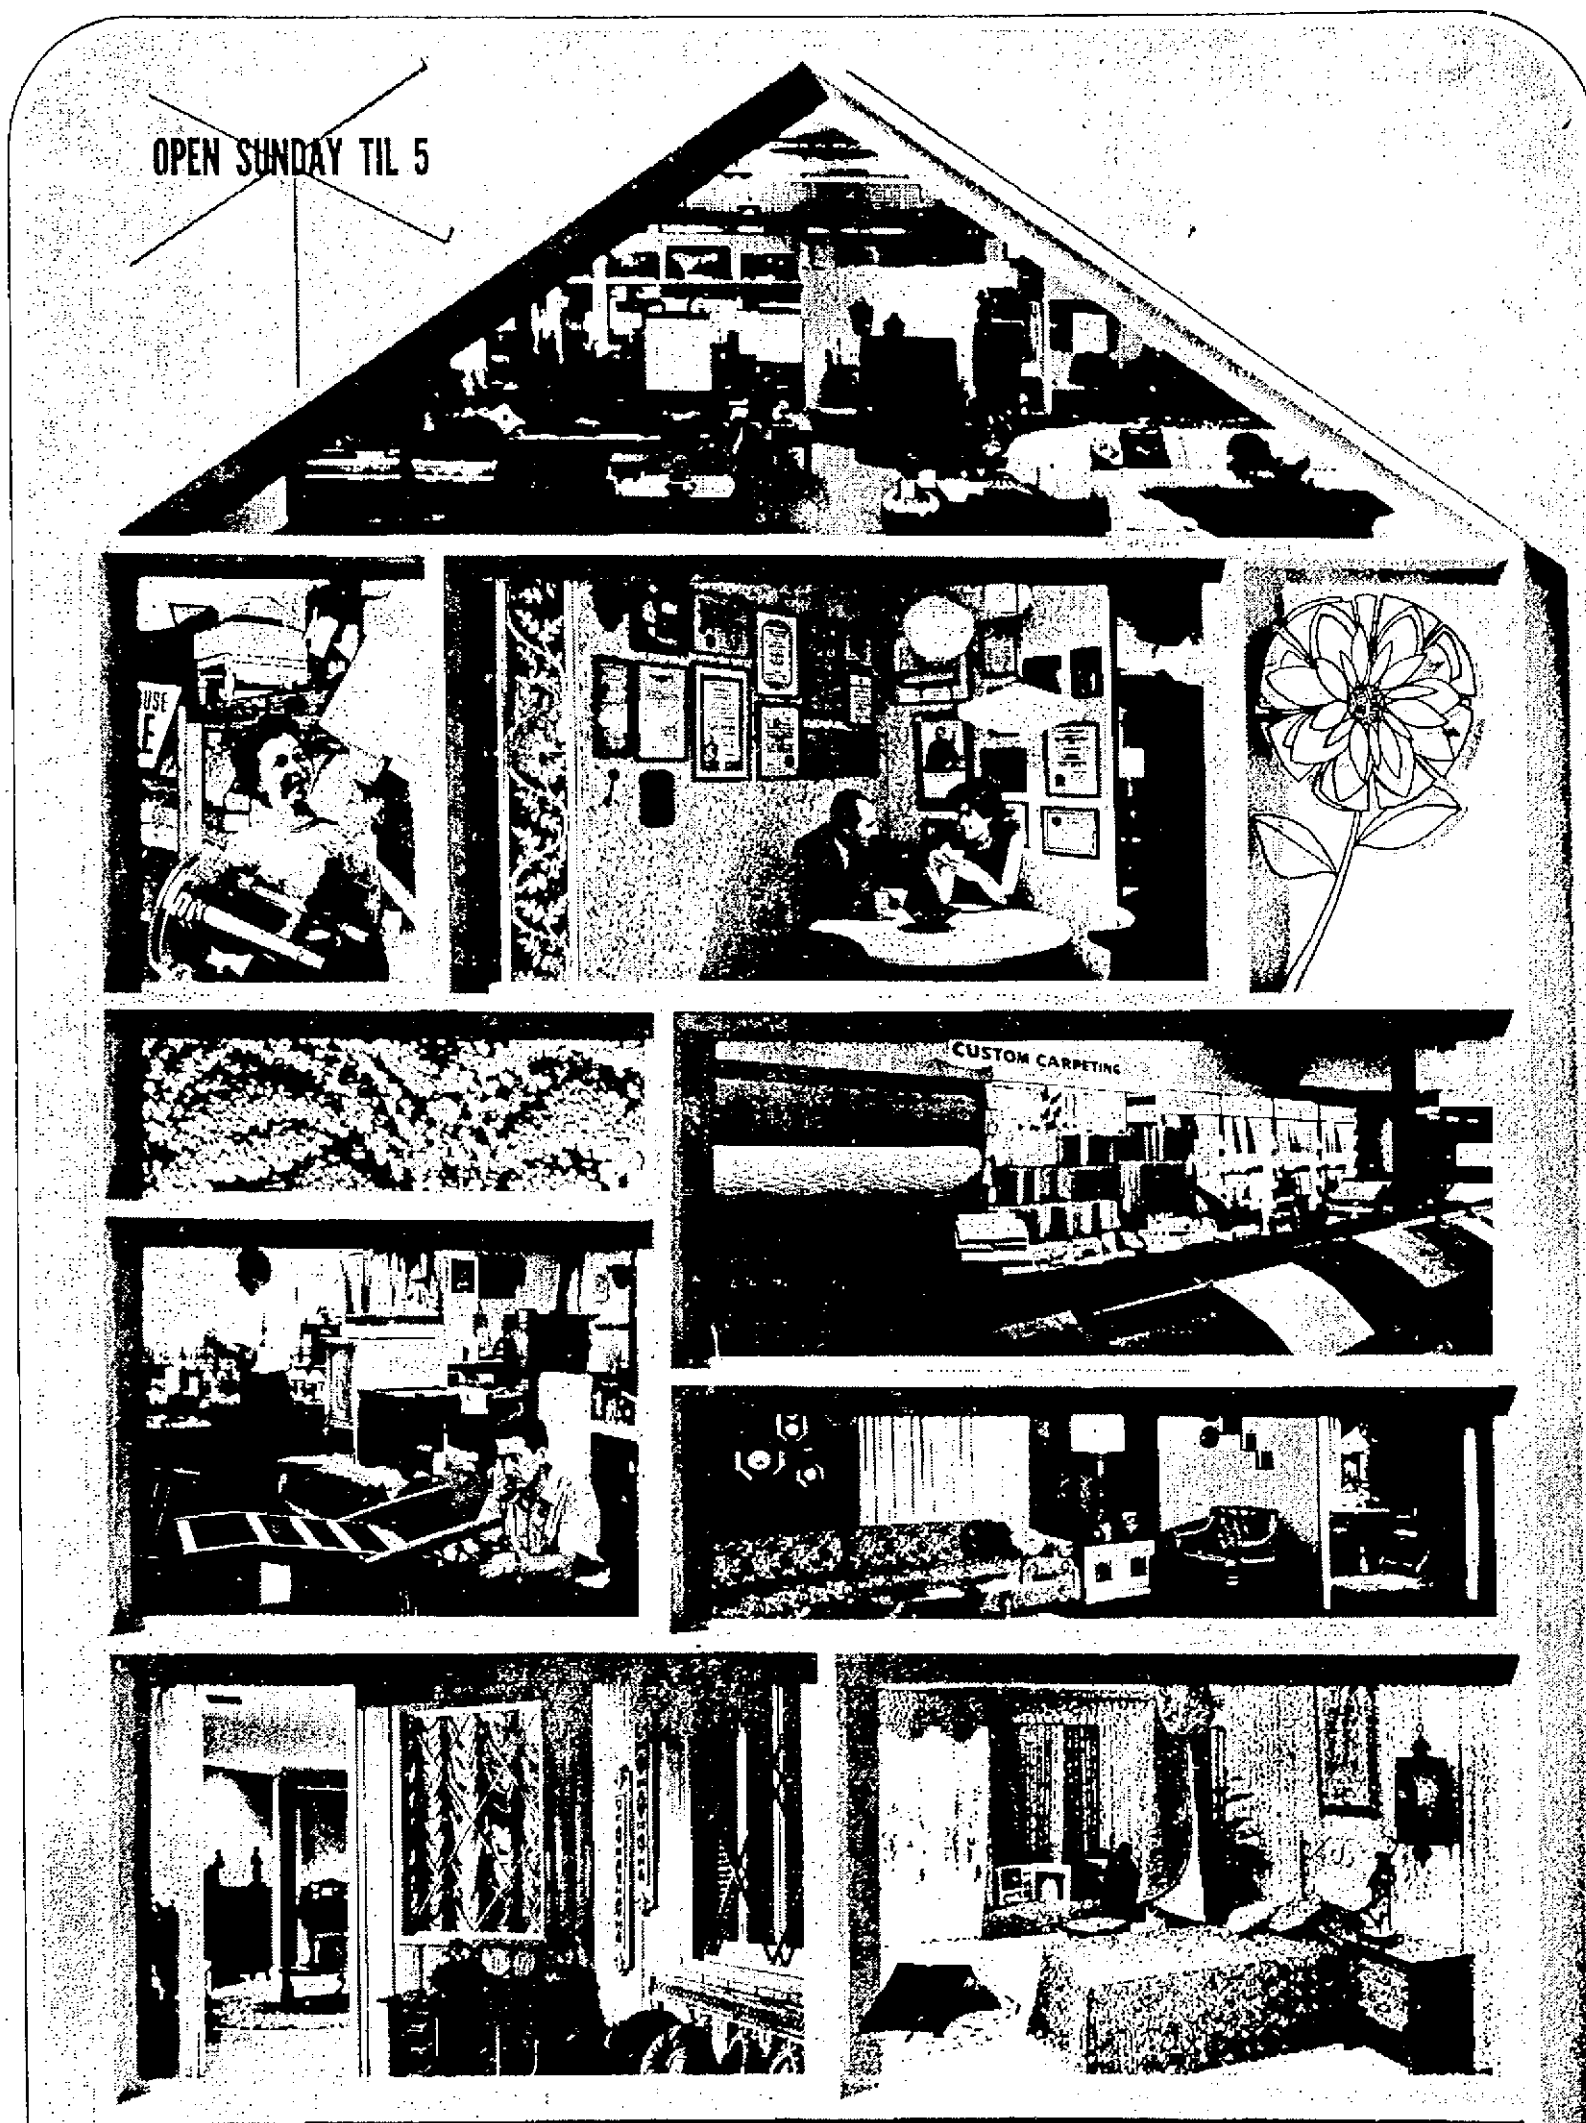

A safe start in adding personality to an existing room setting is with the addition of an "accent" piece.

The classic sweep accents firm seating pleasure

A great look is sweeping into home decor for '69 —the class sofa with reversible loose cushions and matching chair accented by firm sitting pleasure. The plush combination is covered with new Vectra fabric that's completely resistant to stains and fading. Available at McMahan's Furniture, 1895 E. Anaheim St., 317 Long Beach Blvd., 909 Avalon Blvd., Wilmington; 16810 Bellflower Blvd., Bellflower; and 1306 Sartori, Torrance.

Unlike many establishments, Aaron Schultz makes no charge for Decorator Advice and Counseling. You are welcome to come in just for advice . . . we'll be pleased to assist you in any way with competent "tailored" advice. MODEL HOMES . . . two complete Model Homes are constructed on our mezzanine to help you visualize the way Aaron Schultz can help you with your home decor. HOSPITALITY ROOM . . . our idea for casual, relaxed conversation . . . where customer and decorator can sit down and "talk it over". Courtesy coffee 'n coke of course. CARPET DEPARTMENT . . . rolls and rolls plus hundreds of samples of the latest textures, weaves, and decorator colors of the nation's leading brands of quality floor coverings. DRAPERY DEPARTMENT . . . dramatic backgrounds to give your home that decorator look. Bedspreads and custom slip-covers complete this fine department. WE SERVICE WHAT WE SELL . . . everything you purchase from Aaron Schultz is double-guaranteed. We stand behind workmanship and won't buy from any factory that won't. Trained craftsmen inspect, service and repair your merchandise in this area's largest and most modern shop.

Outdoor living can spoil you

Kailua is a contemporary look with uses as varied as contemporary needs demand.

This new design features a unique blending of the A-Form and sleigh-runner legs resulting in a pleasingly distinctive look. In addition, the design provides a structural form which results in unusual strength. And the sleigh-runner legs permit use of the seating pieces on grass and sand as well as on firm surfaces.

Kailua frames are made of round and oval tubular aluminum; ruggedly welded. Seating is provided by 2" wide vinyl straps, individually attached for easy 'at home' changes. And enough frame and vinyl strap colors are available to excite any interior designer.

In its look and uses, Kailua is contemporary. In its quality and durability, Kailua is traditional. By Brown-Jordan.

(Available locally)

Accent personality with accessories

The personality of your family should be reflected in the furnishings and accessories you select for your home . . . that is the advice of leading interior decorators.

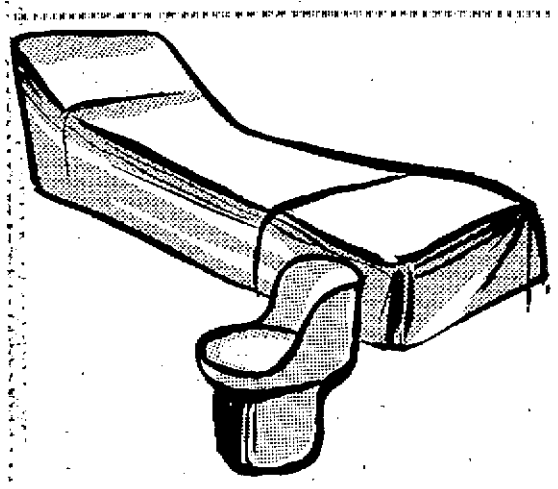

Hobbies, special interests, travel momentos . . . all make interesting focal points in a room and can add that personal touch to accessorizing.

A family's interest in music, books or art may be used to create a miniature library, instrument showcase or "art collection" center with paintings grouped on a wall for focal interest or to accent large furnishings, such as sofas or commodes.

A child's interest in toy soldiers, dolls, trains, flowers, etc., might be used as a decorating guide in electing wallpaper, spreads, or even the style of major pieces of furniture.

UNUSUAL TRAVEL souvenirs can be used as art objects, in curio cabinets, or grouped on tables. Furniture should be selected to offer complementary or contrasting design.

Colors, too, should reflect the family's tastes and interests. Each room should tell a visitor about the family occupying it — even before he meets its members.

Molded furniture has space-age flair

The world of tomorrow becomes more exciting every day with trips to the moon, to outer space, and travel around the world a simple day's journey.

Homemakers already are using and living with furnishings that have a space-age flair. Much of the news in furnishings this season concerns the use of man-made materials and plastics.

One such plastic is urethane. It is very versatile and capable of taking on many shapes, forms and colors. It is strong and can withstand much punishment . . . and yet it is flexible so as to be molded in the free-flowing shapes of today's chairs and sofas.

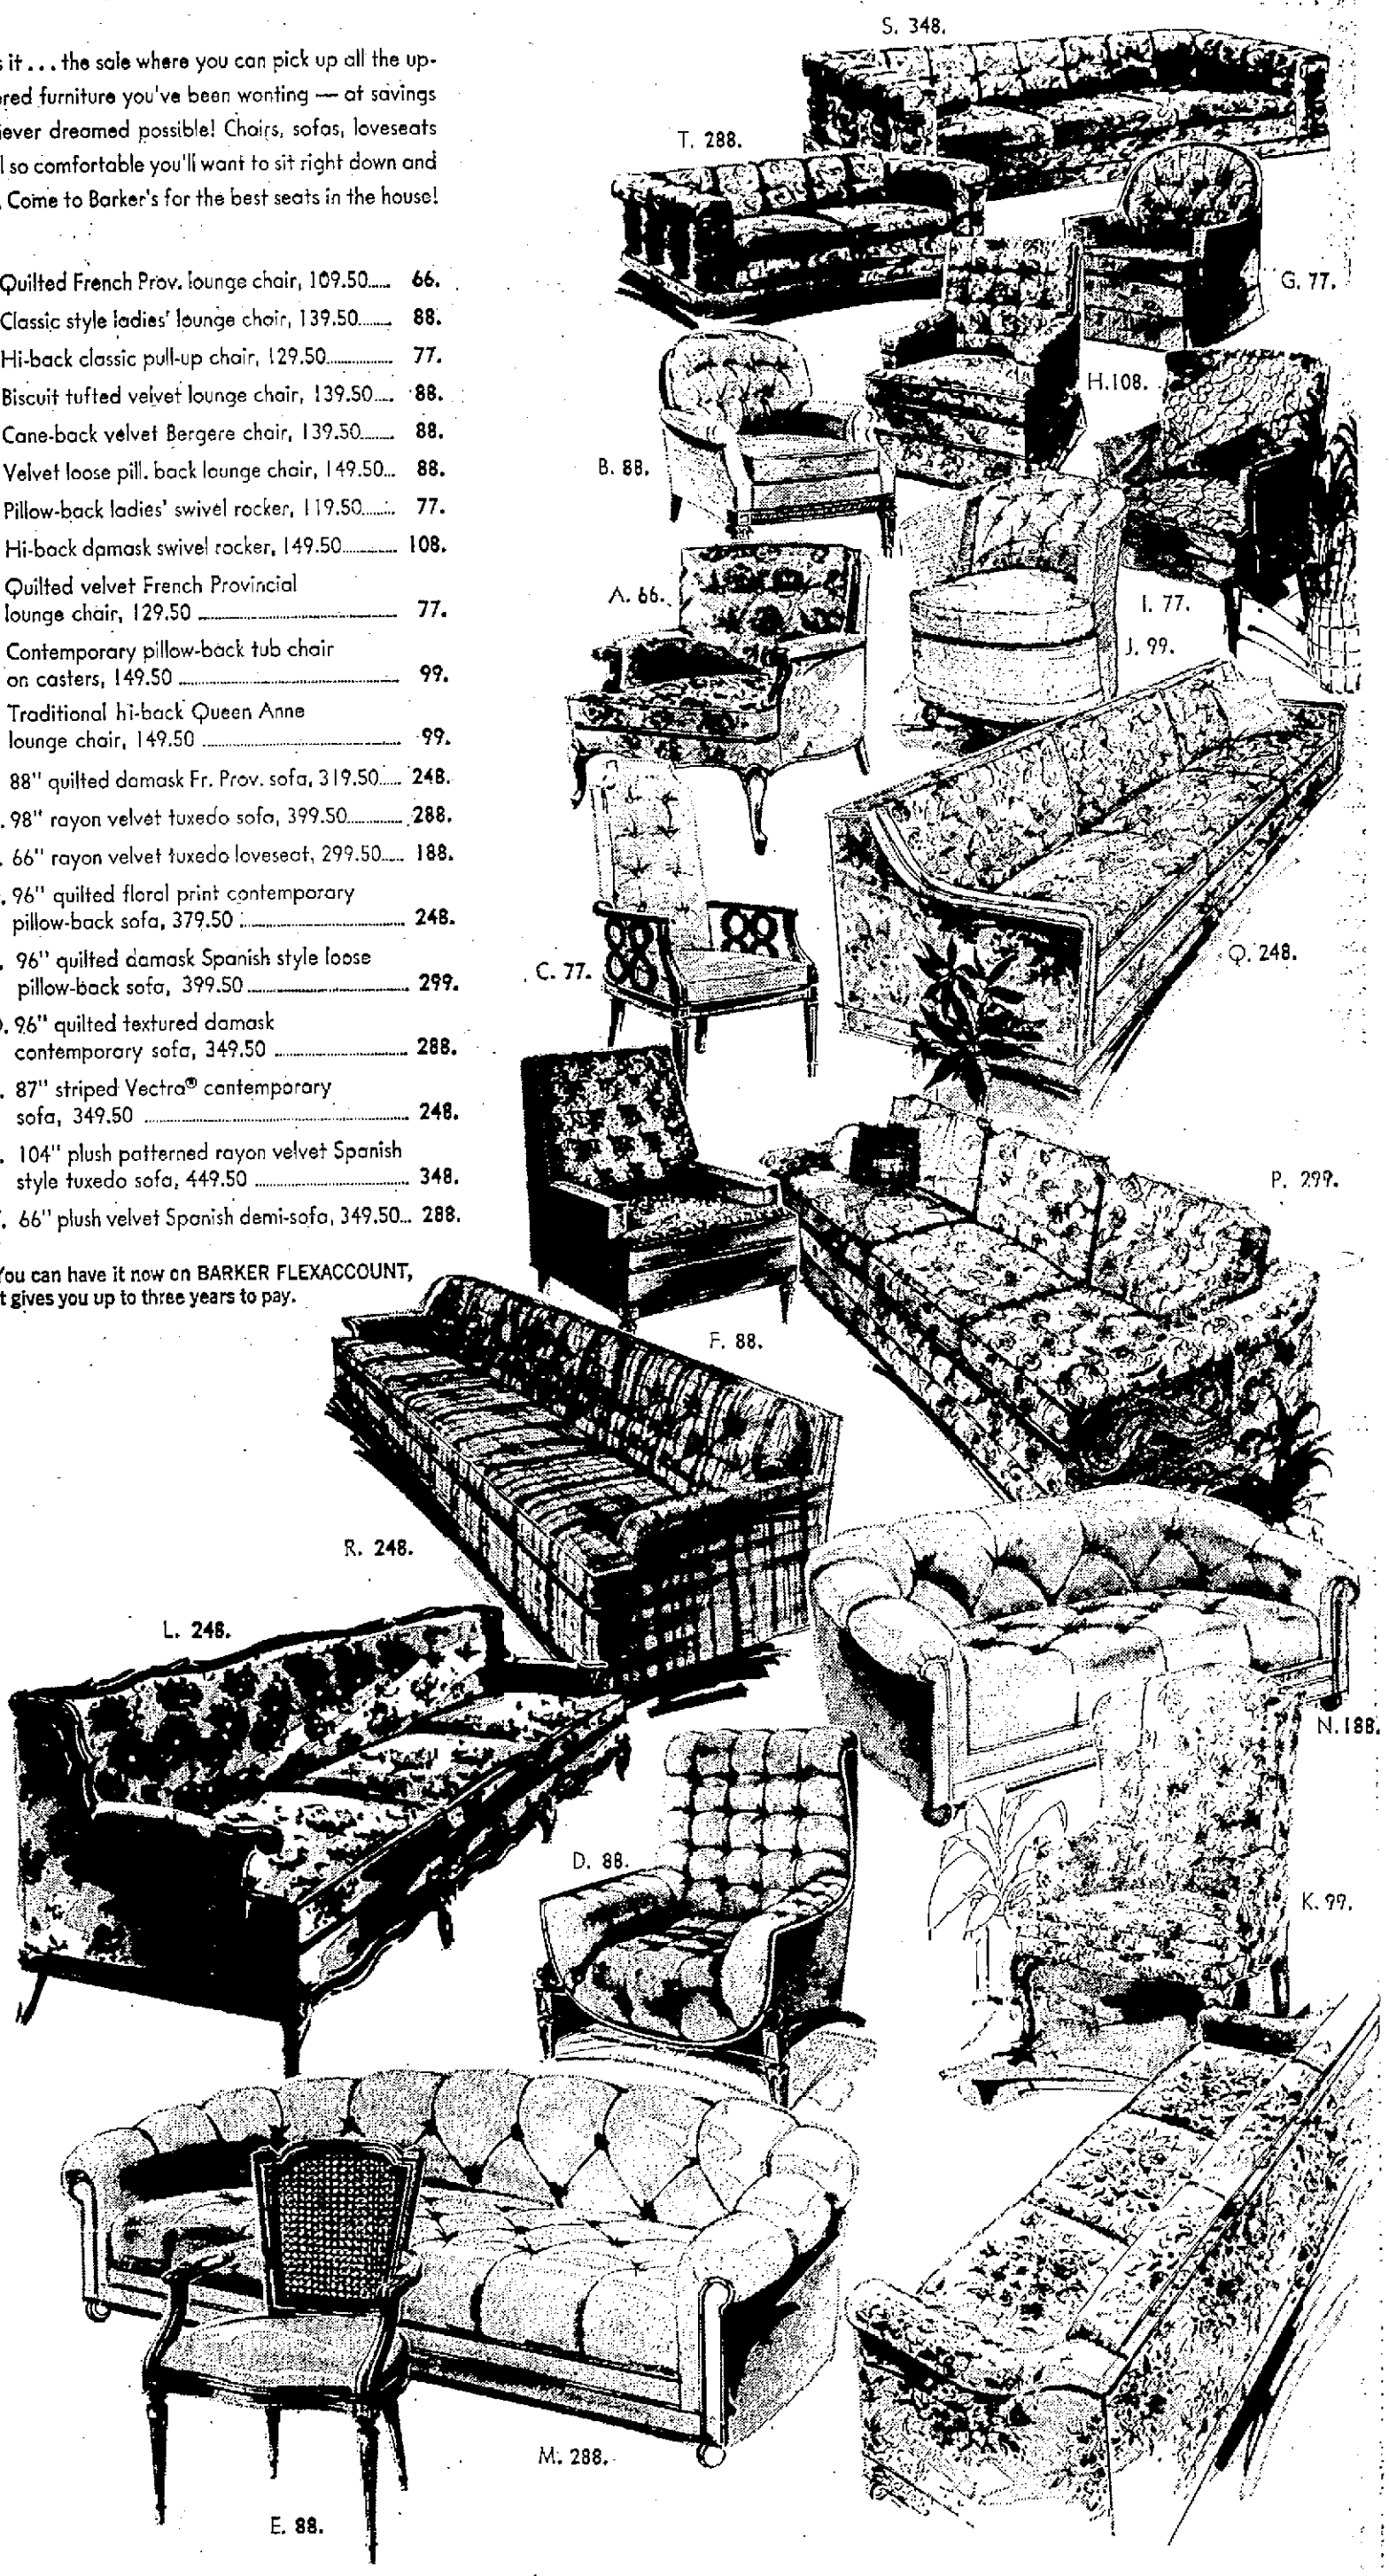

Many of the big furniture items are easier to move and have free-flowing lines. This is because they have frames of plastic which is light, but strong.

SPECIAL PURCHASE! SOFAS, CHAIRS & LOVESEATS

This is it . . . the sale where you can pick up all the upholstered furniture you've been wanting — at savings you never dreamed possible! Chairs, sofas, loveseats . . . all so comfortable you'll want to sit right down and relax. Come to Barker's for the best seats in the house!

SHAGS, PLUSHES, GEOMETRICS

The luxurious walk-ons

Touch me textures go underfoot

Deep pile shaggy carpet can transform an extra room into a comfortable setting for any occasion . . . with touch me textures, shags add coziness and design pizazz to the smallest of rooms. 501 Dupont nylon pile carpet available at Carpet Town, 5591 Stearns, Los Altos Shopping Center.

Shags and plushes, geometric patterns, and colors unlimited are pacesetters for '69.

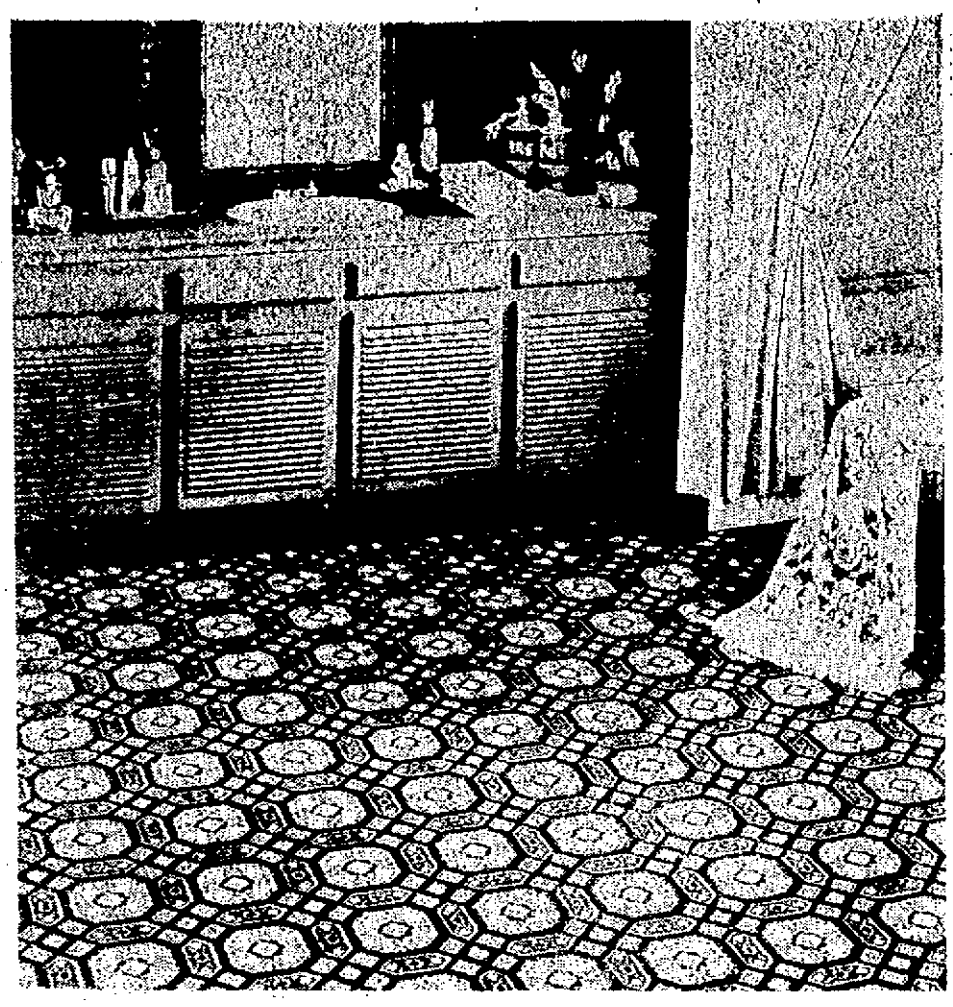

Homemakers will have shags galore and plenty of new plushes to choose from as dictated by a wider variety of influences and freer expression in both dress and home furnishings.

Geometric designs with Old World charm, but resplendent in modern manmade fibers and mood-setting color combinations, are also 'in'.

"Color will be queen" in an obvious reference to the fact that women are in the majority when it comes to making decisions on carpet purchases.

SPECTACULAR color effects in multi-colors, multi-chromes and duotones abound in 1969 carpet collections. Range is lusty from Tabascos, rich greens, sparkling golds and muted olivines to the genteel — misty greens, hazy blues and nature's restful rattan, bamboo, reed, and cone colors.

The 'naturals' are leading us down the path to a whole new way of decorating by color collage — understated by the timely, and at the same time, timeless. In this new trend, areas of sophisticated colors mingle and meander through a room providing a handsome stage for the 'players'.

New dimensions in flooring

From the playroom to the kitchen, from the bath to the dining room, Ozite's new "American Style" pattern is just the thing to pull together and accent the modern homemaker's decorating scheme. Rich styling is geared to blend with Early American furniture, birch or walnut. Available at Weinheimer Carpets, 3720 E. 4th St.

There's no end to shaggy carpet story

Shaggy shags, plushy shags, twisty shags and fluffy shags—all a part of the carpet story for '69. In solids or multicolors, shags are happy walk-ons anywhere in the home with any decor style. Available at Fashion Carpet-Fashion Drapes, 10011 Artesia Place, Bellflower.

The modern movement defined

Designed for today, Henredon's "folio eight" features purity of line, integrity of styling and compatibility of purpose—an exciting statement of the modern mood. Yet, the graceful clarity of "folio eight" will complement any style of furniture . . . the beautifully grained finishes assure it an easy integration into any room. There is great variety in size, form and function providing infinite and exciting possibilities for room arrangements to suit your needs. Available at Davis Furniture, 1975 Long Beach Blvd.

Children's corner expands for them

A room of one's own is no longer, like a driver's license, a privilege for grown-ups only. Today's parents, backed by child psychologists, realize that children's rooms are the stages on which youngsters play out a large part of their development. Hence, the creation of these "private worlds" becomes a major decorating endeavor.

But, caution both psychologist and professional decorator alike, don't try to interject your own interests or taste in decor into these private retreats for 10-year-olds or over. Sole consideration should be the tastes, hobbies and needs of the youthful occupant of the room.

Of course, on functional considerations — storage areas for neatness, durable furniture that will take inevitable hard wear, good lighting for studying — the counsel of adult members of the family is requisite. But in such areas as color, wall decor and hobby pursuit, the ideas of the room's young occupant should be sought.

One teen-ager, for example, even implemented his mother's encouragement of his photography hobby with his suggestion of a dark room to supplement the mother's idea of a wall display of his best pictures. Space was found for this in the room's existing closet, which was converted into a developing and printing lab. To replace the "stolen" closet, walnut hardwood wall-board was used for a tiny new closet, a niche alongside into which the bed was moved, and drawers under the bed for additional storage.

ANOTHER YOUNGSTER reclaimed attic space, wasted because unused by his parents, for his stamp hobby. Dad's helping hand erected sheet rock partitions to construct a private sanctum where the lad could house the necessary paraphernalia and spend precious uninterrupted hours with his albums and historical record books. Mother "stamped" the room as the hobbyists own by locating a fabric for the window shade and chair seats, printed with stamps from many countries.

Fortunately, even without architectural changes, there is an easy way to accommodate the well-nigh universal kid fascination with animals. Syroco, a manufacturer of wall decor, has produced a line of inexpensive wall plaques — fish, birds and butterflies — which it appropriately calls Fantasy.

Decorating plan includes warmth, style, personality

Have you noticed that when you visit some homes, they are always comfortable and pleasant even when there is much activity?

What's the answer . . . what's the secret: The room has been planned for its use and users.

The same should be true in your home. Think of the uses your rooms will have. Who will use them and when? The following is a checklist of hints to help you in your planning:

—Discuss with your family what each room will be used for and how you wish it to look.

—Prepare a model and a plan . . . either on paper or with cut out circles and squares (to represent the furnishings).

—Next establish what designers call the center of interest. For each room, it is important that furnishings relate to the center of interest.

—Place the location of the large pieces. Then establish locations for smaller pieces and lamps.

—Be sure that when you place the furnishings to keep a balance. This is done by distributing the weight of the various elements around the room. don't have all the big, heavy furnishings on one wall or around the center of interest.

—Be sure you have provided space for movement and traffic. Don't have any room cluttered.

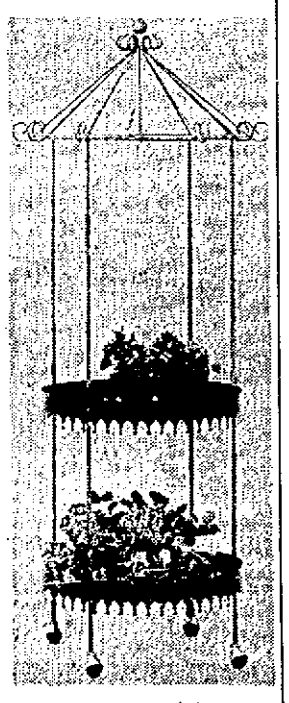

—Be sure that your lighting is good. Review the locations of lamps and their uses. Be sure that study and close work areas have good lighting. Keep the soft and subdued lighting for the visiting sections of your living room or den.

—Be sure that your furnishings will be arranged in such a way that the pieces complement one another. The scale of the various pieces should be relative. And the furniture should be in scale to the size of the room. Don't place large pieces in a small narrow room, for example.

—Remember comfort, especially in chairs.

—Look to the future. Will your children be entertaining in a few years? Or will you have many overnight and out-of-town guests? If so, think of furnishings for those needs as well as for the immediate situations. And, don't forget that you can't ever have enough storage space.

The modern movement defined

Designed for today, Henredon's "folio eight" features purity of line, integrity of styling and compatibility of purpose—an exciting statement of the modern mood. Yet, the graceful clarity of "folio eight" will complement any style of furniture . . . the beautifully grained finishes assure it an easy integration into any room. There is great variety in size, form and function providing infinite and exciting possibilities for room arrangements to suit your needs. Available at Davis Furniture, 1975 Long Beach Blvd.

Children's corner expands for them

A room of one's own is no longer, like a driver's license, a privilege for grown-ups only. Today's parents, backed by child psychologists, realize that children's rooms are the stages on which youngsters play out a large part of their development. Hence, the creation of these "private worlds" becomes a major decorating endeavor.

But, caution both psychologist and professional decorator alike, don't try to interject your own interests or taste in decor into these private retreats for 10-year-olds or over. Sole consideration should be the tastes, hobbies and needs of the youthful occupant of the room.

Of course, on functional considerations — storage areas for neatness, durable furniture that will take inevitable hard wear, good lighting for studying — the counsel of adult members of the family is requisite. But in such areas as color, wall decor and hobby pursuit, the ideas of the room's young occupant should be sought.

One 'teen-ager, for example, even implemented his mother's encouragement of his photography hobby with his suggestion of a dark room to supplement the mother's idea of a wall display of his best pictures. Space was found for this in the room's existing closet, which was converted into a developing and printing lab. To replace the "stolen" closet, walnut hardwood wall-board was used for a tiny new closet, a niche alongside into which the bed was moved, and drawers under the bed for additional storage.

ANOTHER YOUNGSTER reclaimed attic space, wasted because unused by his parents, for his stamp hobby. Dad's helping hand erected sheet rock partitions to construct a private sanctum where the lad could house the necessary paraphernalia and spend precious uninterrupted hours with his albums and historical record books. Mother "stamped" the room as the hobbyists own by locating a fabric for the window shade and chair seats, printed with stamps from many countries.

Fortunately, even without architectural changes, there is an easy way to accommodate the well-nigh universal kid fascination with animals. Syroco, a manufacturer of wall decor, has produced a line of inexpensive wall plaques — fish, birds and butterflies — which it appropriately calls Fantasy.

Decorating plan includes warmth, style, personality

Have you noticed that when you visit some homes, they are always comfortable and pleasant even when there is much activity?

What's the answer . . . what's the secret: The room has been planned for its use and users.

The same should be true in your home. Think of the uses your rooms will have. Who will use them and when? The following is a checklist of hints to help you in your planning:

—Discuss with your family what each room will be used for and how you wish it to look.

—Prepare a model and a plan . . . either on paper or with cut out circles and squares (to represent the furnishings).

—Next establish what designers call the center of interest. For each room, it is important that furnishings relate to the center of interest.

—Place the location of the large pieces. Then establish locations for smaller pieces and lamps.

—Be sure that when you place the furnishings to keep a balance. This is done by distributing the weight of the various elements around the room. don't have all the big, heavy furnishings on one wall or around the center of interest.

—Be sure you have provided space for movement and traffic. Don't have any room cluttered.

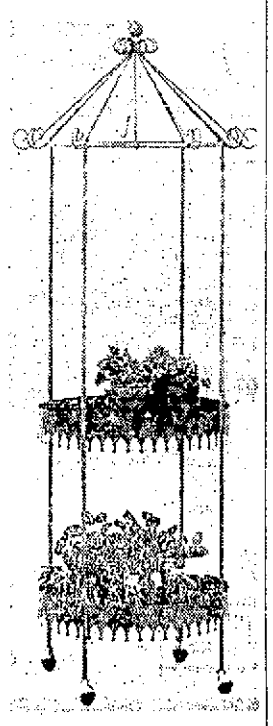

—Be sure that your lighting is good. Review the locations of lamps and their uses. Be sure that study and close work areas have good lighting. Keep the soft and subdued lighting for the visiting sections of your living room or den.

—Be sure that your furnishings will be arranged in such a way that the pieces complement one another. The scale of the various pieces should be relative. And the furniture should be in scale to the size of the room. Don't place large pieces in a small narrow room, for example.

—Remember comfort, especially in chairs.

—Look to the future. Will your children be entertaining in a few years? Or will you have many overnight and out-of-town guests? If so, think of furnishings for those needs as well as for the immediate situations. And, don't forget that you can't ever have enough storage space.

EVERYTHING COMES UP fun and games in this updated family room with poster bright colors of green, yellow and pink. Corner seating arrangement's built-in look is emphasized by one-step platform which serves for impromptu seating when a crowd gathers. Same area also doubles as guest room.

Family room is getting facelift

After years of being snubbed except by kids and pets, the all-American familly room is winning back a super star role as a center for home activities. Gone is the humdrum decorating, and the cast-off furniture.

The new look in family rooms is free and easy but planned. Liberal dashes of look-alive colors, formal tie-back window treatments, plants and antique accessories capture a living room mood.

In fact, this is what family rooms are becoming — more relaxed editions of the living room. The new decorating punch has other benefits, however. Many of these rooms double as home offices, as sewing rooms, as libraries and even as instant guest rooms.

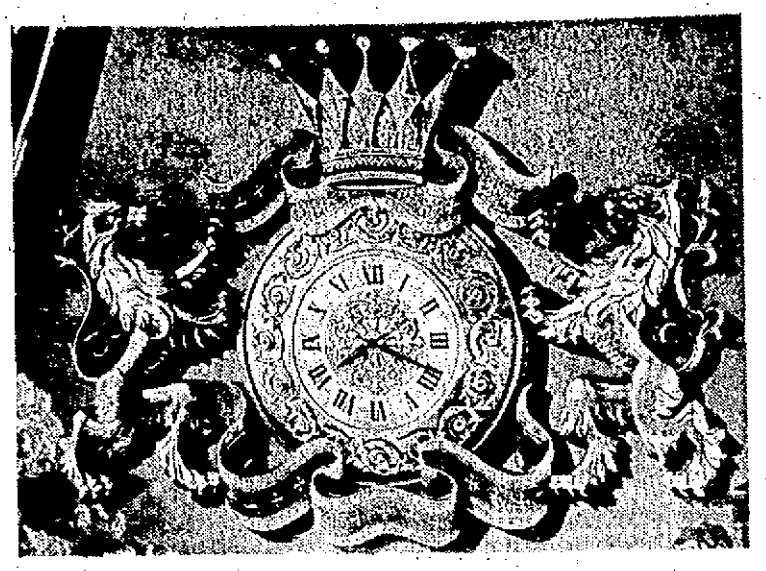

The Englander Co. has just completed a survey on what's happening to family rooms.

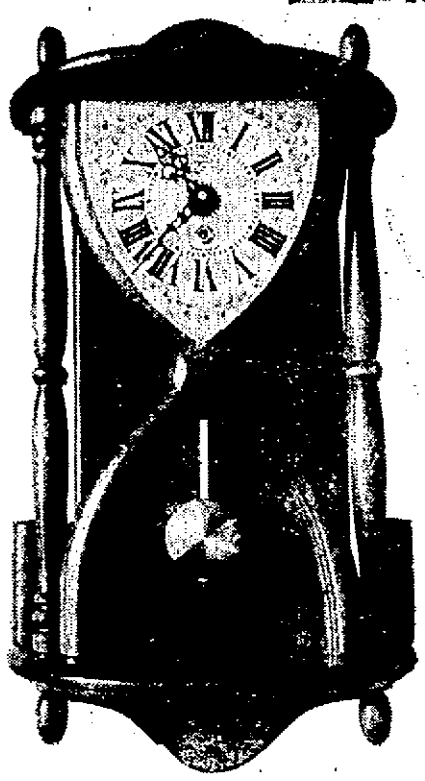

Rather than the vinyl-covered plain bed 'n sofas that were a "must" for family rooms a few years back, the new convertible models destined for these locations now generally follow the more elegant, more traditional lines of living room sofas, the bedding firm reports.

SIMILARLY, TWIN beds now are being purchased in pairs for family rooms and are given a built-in look to serve as a corner seating arrangement. In place of bedspreads, or casual throws, carefully tailored covers in modern, bright upholstery prints give the corner beds a dressier appearance.

Tell time with heraldic accent

Long a masculine favorite, this timepiece is styled with knightly ribbons, crown, and pair of rampant lions, all carved in deep relief and reproduced in simulated wood. Fittingly finished in avocado and pearlized tones with shimmering gold, clock is available at Snow's Clock Shoppe, 4431 Candlewood, Lakewood Center.

Hour glass dignity

Ever-popular Early American achieves new dignity in pendulum clock whose hidden asset is battery-powered movement which runs for 20 months or more on single battery. Hour glass design is finished in deep wood tone. Available locally.

Take some time out for snappy clock-watching

In the so-called "good old days," when people awoke at a rooster's crow, judged dinner time by squinting at the sun, and put their tools away when it was too dark to work, they really didn't really need clocks or watches.

But today, with children even playing "on schedule," no family can get along without at least one dependable timepiece, and most households have several.

"How fortunate for all of us, who share this universal preoccupation with the time of day, that the indispensable clock has become an object we can really enjoy looking at," observed interior designer Mary Ann Wills.

"Some clocks are now so decorative, in fact, one tends to forget that their primary purpose is functional rather than aesthetic," she added, speaking of the glamorous decorator styles that are appearing on more and more living room walls.

Spanish influence reigns

The mainstream of new furniture for '69 is riffled with cross currents of many styles—but the Spanish influence still reigns king. This style, such as in setting above, is easily identifiable by its ornate decorative look, darkish woods, strong colors, arches, luxurious fabrics and romantic appeal. From Sears, 450 Long Beach Blvd.

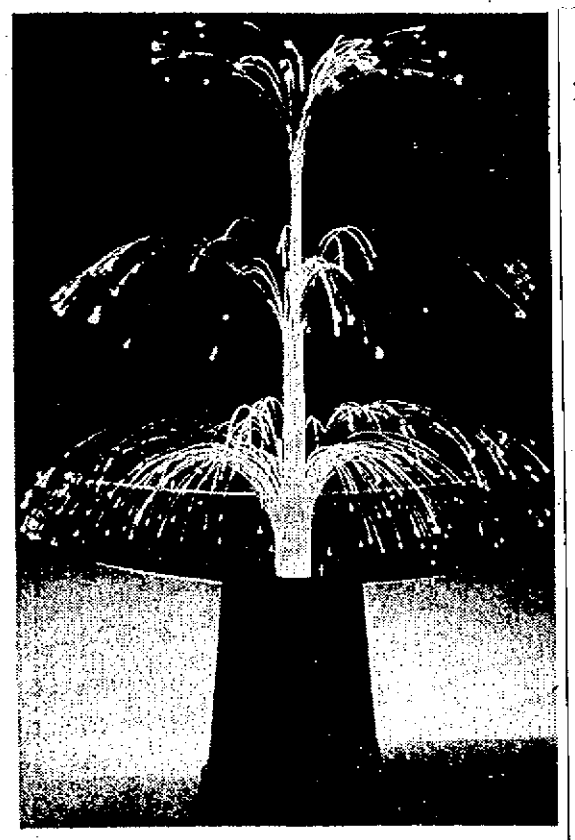

Flying carpets out of style

Rugs still going places

Flying carpets went out of style ages ago — when some sultan steered his into a headwind and forgot to hang on. But, rugs are still going places in style, size and color. Example is Persian-Oriental rug (left), Spanish style, and Chinese rug that will add warmth, accent, fashion and fun to the modern home. Wide variety available at Harlow Carpets, 340 E. Fourth St.

Call them accent chairs or pull-ups

Accent . . . pull-up . . . occasional! These are the most common names used to designate the little decorator chairs so necessary for finishing touches in the living room.

The National Association of Furniture Manufacturers says that each of these terms describe a different funtion of the chairs--according to the homemaker's use of them in her decorating scheme.

This small chair, if sufficiently attractive, can be an accent piece. It can introduce an accent color or a new texture . . . serve as a secondary focal point.

The term "pull-up" suggests that the chair can easily be pulled up to the conversation center, especially when there are guests. The chair is also used for "occasional" seating when there are guests.

THE TERM "decorator chair" is one of the earliest, inasmuch as the chair was used to give the "decorator touch" to a room. Also, interior designers were apt to select these chairs and their covers with great care so that they repeated colors used elsewhere in the room.

Decorator chairs are made by many firms as an addition to their regular lounge chair lines. A few companies make a specialty of them.

Room full of good living

Room where everything points to good living conceals an ulterior purpose—sleeping. Talented sleep sofa deceives the eye, but not the sense of comfort, turning into a full-size bed by night. Daytime coffee table takes off center spot at sofa arm, serves as bed nightstand. Window treatment is also an eyecatching space-saver with room for plants. By Kroehler Mfg. Co. available at Butler Bros., Lakewood Shopping Center.

New flooring offers luxury on big scale

Old World elegance has been combined with New World practicality in this striking embossed, Medallion effect vinyl-asbestos tile. New design features two-color valley printing process that has never been offered before. Printing technique makes it possible to recreate much of the traditional opulence of European aristocracy. Available at Kerr Floors, 2196 Lakewood Blvd.

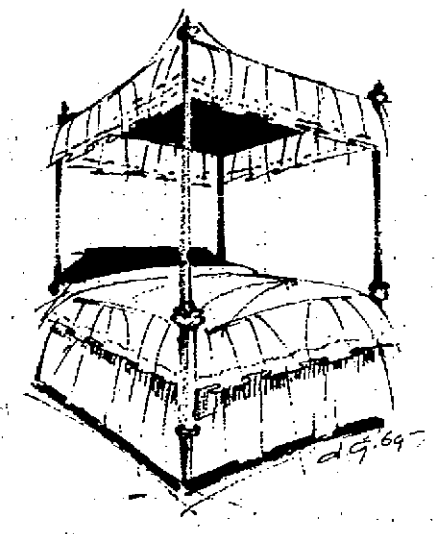

Great bed cover-up

The nostalgia of by-gone Victorian days is captured in the canopy brass-looking bed from Drexel. Brass in look . . . but behind the scenes is really wood with brass metal finish.

Shown in a setting with almost an island atmosphere, it shows how much furniture can be used in a samll room. The drawer chest, double dresser are attached in between with a hanging vanity with glass shelves to show off decorative bottles and jars.

Small chest on right with multi drawer look is really a four drawer chest but sits on top of the dresser and offers a multitude of space to tuck away gloves, jewelry, scarves and other small items.

The brass looking chair and mirror repeat the brass of the bed and make a nice accent in the room. Night stand in campaign style offers additional storage.

MANMADE MIRACLES

New materials make scene for Southland designers

Southern California designers are making full use of new materials in their current furniture collections.

The latest Italian and English imports by Edward Frank for Moreddi typify use of the new materials. A complete new Moreddi group from England is constructed of Perspex, an acrylic available in transparent, translucent, or opaque densities. Moreddi's Perspex furniture includes a lounge chair, 2- and 3-seat sofas, a coffee table with magazine storage, and a bar-trolley.

The seating pieces are low in silhouette and feature deep comfort with soft, buttoned seat and back cushions upholstered in polyurethane-coated cotton from Italy. Concealed rollers provide mobility for the bar-trolley, which is designed as a handy serving cart. The grouping utilizes Perspex in opaline white, transparent smoke grey, and an opaque orange.

From Italy, Moreddi is introducing a group of lounge-chaise units made entirely of two densities of a new type of polyurethane foam. Consisting of an armless chair and an armless 2-seat sofa, the pieces convert from lounge chair or sofa to chaises by use of convertible backs and footrests. Fabric (there is no additional cushioning) which hinges the pieces together is a stretch nylon in a brushed suede finish.

EDWARD FRANK'S Southern California firm is also importing a collection constructed entirely of reinforced fiberglass.

"Selene" is a stacking side chair to accompany the game table "Studio." A lounge chair is named "Toga." All are designated with soft, fluid lines, without padding—for comfort through shape, not material. They are offered in a variety of clean, bright colors, plus black and white, in a glossy, easy-care finish for in or outdoor use anywhere.

Special Plexiglass lighting pieces to accompany the fiberglass group have also been designed by Mr. Frank. "Chimera" is an opaline white floor lamp in a ribbon-candy shape; "Electra" is the table lamp.

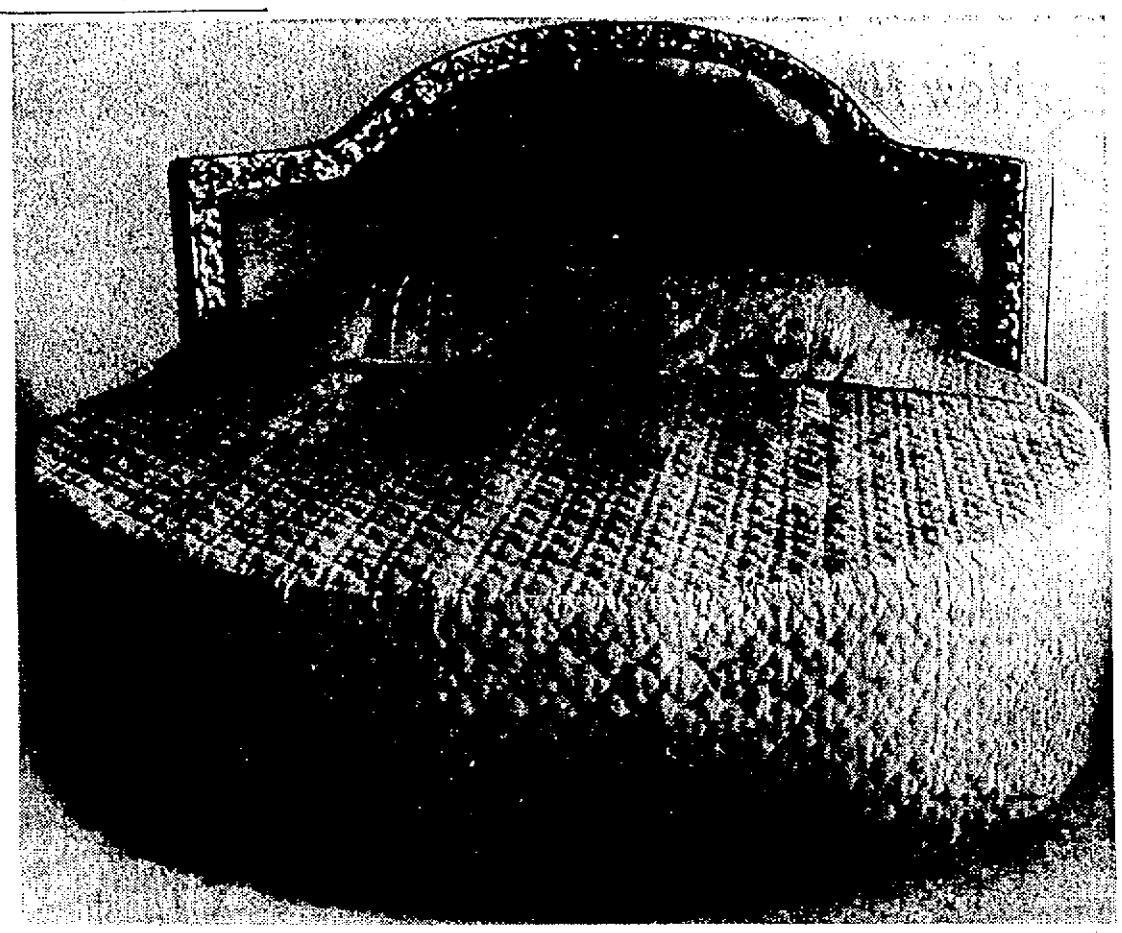

Fiberglass and similar manmade "miracles" are being used by other Southern California designers, such as David T. Kline (for Brown-Saltman), Stewart MacDougall, Frank Rohloff and Herbert Ritts.

MATERIALS WHICH ARE not new, but new in furniture construction application, are incorporated into Southern California designer Gerald McCabe's latest collection. Frames of his scaled-down, clean-lined table group are gold or silver-plated, topped with solar-bronze glass. His tempered glass lounge chair is upholstered with a loose leather "saddle."

McCabe is also using a new type of wood—a heavy African grain from Ghana — in a new approach. Very masculine in mood, the wood is marked with mineral streaks, combining the colors of teak and walnut. The designer is using this wood in solids, with a hand-hewn effect. One table is a simple inverted U in design, with a finger-joint where the top and base piece come together.

Sleeping in the round sets stage

Imagination can set the stage for unusual bedroom decor starting with the bed . . . why keep the rectangular look when a myriad shapes are at hand — such as horseshoe shapes? Your bedroom can be the most luxurious room in the house with a little creativeness. Custom made beds and accessories available at Acme Mattress Factory, 3425 E. Anaheim.

Beds are waking up to shapely styling

Do you have trouble sleeping? Can't get comfortable? Maybe you need a liquid bed.

There is one — looks like a bathtub full of circulating salt water, and is guaranteed to improve your sleep. And it only costs $1,900.

Or perhaps a bed with a built-in air conditioner is the answer.

Or, the bed to end all beds, a hydraulically operated, mink-covered bed complete with equipment for tea making and shaving, a mechanical massager, tape recorder, telephone, TV set, and its own electrical heating, ventilating and lighting systems.

There are beds lined with 14 karat gold, leather, fur and leopard skin; there are headboards with built-in bread boxes, refrigerators and coffee makers, and even with a built-in safe.

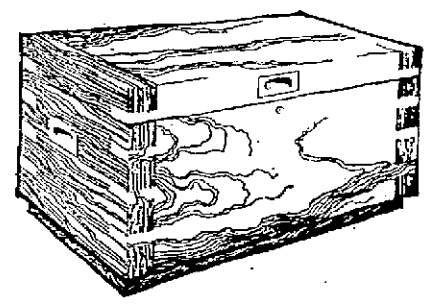

There are beds with built-in vibrators, pulsators, sun lamps, spotlights, illuminated ceiling mirrors, master switches, odorizers, deodorizers, radios, television sets, and a mattress that starts a tape recorder playing lullabies the instant someone lies down on it.

And for complete comfort there is a wall-to-wall mattress which completely fills the room.

Comfort at touch of button

Today's busy people in today's busy world are always looking for a way to relax . . . now, at the touch of a switch, sleep can be an adventure with an adjust-a-bed by Sleeper Lounge Co., Inc. Although the mechanism is artfully concealed the bed will move into any of 1,000 positions, including "old-fashioned flat." Available at Adjust-a-Bed, 3928 Atlantic Ave.

After 150 years, campaign chests make furniture news

Familiar campaign chest takes on interesting new look with furniture styles for '69. Their sophistication and clean-cut quality suggests they would add a crisp note to today's eclectic interiors.

How will you buy home furnishings tomorrow?

According to some designers in the Southern California home furnishings industry, tomorrow's homemaker will buy furnishings under completely different circumstances than today.

The home furnishings industry, say these authorities, should take a cue from the automotive firms, which have moved to new techniques in merchandising as well as in styling.

"The home furnishings industry," says John A. Kapel, for instance, "Can show the consumer that the home, rather than the car, can be the focus of his aesthetic response."

"FURNITURE WILL be sold by type," predicts Stewart MacDougall, who believes that there will be "less and less groupings of 'style'."

Specifically, Dick Saltz, of Crossroads, carries on the correlation of home furnishings to automobiles. He believes that the manufacturer of the future will be like the automobile manufacturer, assisting the retailer by correlating the lines, preparing advertising personalized to the individual store, and training store personnel . . . much as the auto manufacturer handles these facets of business for his dealers.

Carpet to sink into...deep, deep and deliciously soft
Firth's Enrapture carpet of Kodel® polyester fiber to keep the texture lively and lovely.
KODEL POLYESTER FIBER
FIRTH'S Enrapture is so deep, dense and beautiful, it's the first versatile carpet. Bright and bouncy for casual living, enduringly elegant for formal settings. Of Kodel, the lively polyester, it springs back after footsteps, refluffs where furniture is moved, hides seams when you move. Spots and stains clean away. Enrapture is just one of the big FIRTH values we carry! Bring in your decorating plan, see how happily FIRTH'S Enrapture flatters it! ■ Colors for every scheme: sienna, burnished gold, aqua-blue, fern, avocado, lemon-lime, olive brass, citron gold, mimosa, star white, and many more. ■ Come in today; or telephone for our shop-at-home service. Stylish accessories

...little extras add personality

In fashion, women supposedly dress to please men and men dress to please themselves. In home decorating, however, there's an increasing tendency on the part of both sexes to ignore the old taboos and take a bold stand for independent selection based on personal tastes alone.

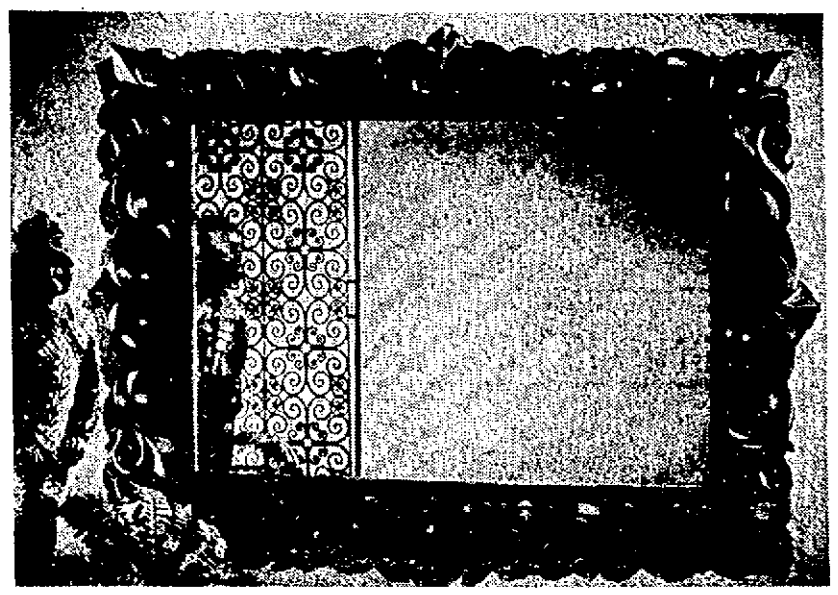

This is especially true in the case of decorative accessories, according to Mary Ann Wills, interior design consultant, who claims this is one area where the most conservative man or woman can turn into a daring innovator.

"Most homemakers are understandably cautious when it comes to major items of home furnishings and often feel duty-bound to satisfy the aesthetic and practical needs of the whole family as they make their selections. With accessories, however, people should become individuals — with the courage to try something different and to select what is unique, exciting or beautiful in their own eyes," she said.

Scale to room size

Swag sconces that can span a wall area of over six feet to less than five feet (depending on how it is arranged) gives decorator versatility in accessorizing.

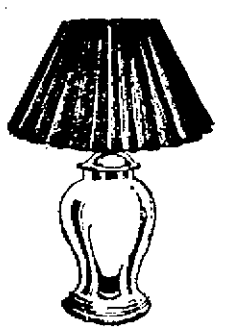

Makes the most of mirrors

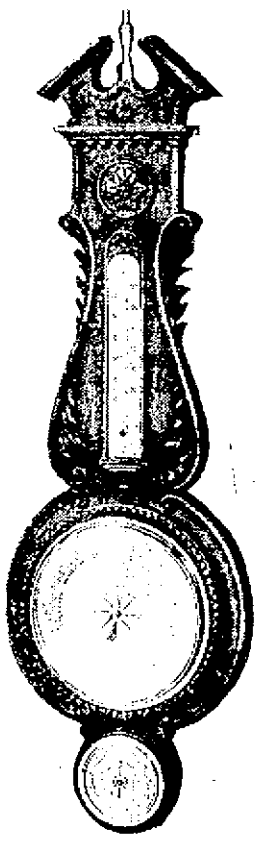

Few decorative accessories are more charming or versatile than a mirror with handsome frame. A mirror may be used for many purposes — to create the illusion of more space and light, to double the impact of a prized art object, or simply to brighten and accentuate a given wall area.

A touch of the unusual

Translucent agate slices mounted to capture the beauty of pattern and color add a touch of the unusual to a favorite spot — as conversation piece, they can't be topped.

Weather favorite topic for decor

Weather's always favorite topic for discussion, and it's fit subject for decorating theme, too, in form of barometer for wall. Especially suited for den or boy's room, it will always be conversation piece — whether weather is good or bad.

THEY'LL COME ALIVE

Excite your rooms with added charm

Accessories will bring the excitement and personality to your rooms. They will make your rooms come alive and will complete your decorating theme or mood.

The items that you select for accessories should be a reflection of your interests and those of your family.

Paintings, pieces of sculpture and objects of art, should, for example, be of situations and scenes which are known and enjoyed by those persons using the room.

If your husband loves sports, why not have a painting showing his favorite sport? For a hunter — a scene of quail, for a fisherman — a quiet lake, for the skier — a crisp winter setting.

Should you enjoy plants and flowers, you may wish to turn a room divider into a miniature greenhouse. It will be a perfect separation for a living-dining room as well.

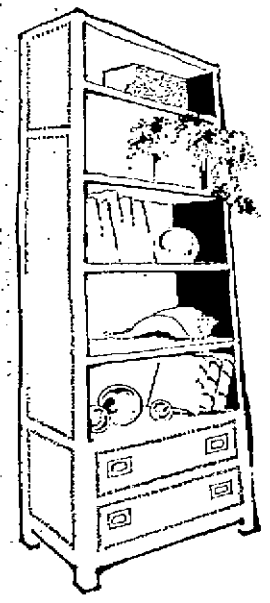

Remember, too, that small chests or commodes, usually thought of as accessory pieces, can be very functional when used in lieu of an end table, or for bedside or hall tables.

LAMPS SHOULD also be selected for appearance as well as for lighting. Just as costume jewelry, they add drama. Today's selections feature beauty as well as function.

Be sure to remember to use pillows when you accessorize. They are always popular and available in encless selections of color, size and fabric. This season they are very lovely in cut and crushed velvet — and in many patterns and prints.

Sometimes there are pieces of ceramic and other treasures which you acquire on a vacation or holiday. Why not include them in your accessorizing? They will add much personality as well as decoration.

And, when it comes to accessories, it is mix and match as you wish, with selection and arrangement being most important.

Color goes full circle

The "in" colors for home furnishings this season run the range of the entire color wheel . . . no single color or family may claim "most popular" title. Milady's choice is the word.

Upholstery, window, and table fabrics are available in deep, vibrant shades to coordinate with Mediterranean stylings . . . or in clear, clean "ice cream" colors. Wood finishes are offered in from five to as many as 20 standard selections (custom orders go on from there).

Watch: the shift in greens from olive tones to the yellower, citron shades . . . combinations of balck and white.

Art on floors is newest game afoot

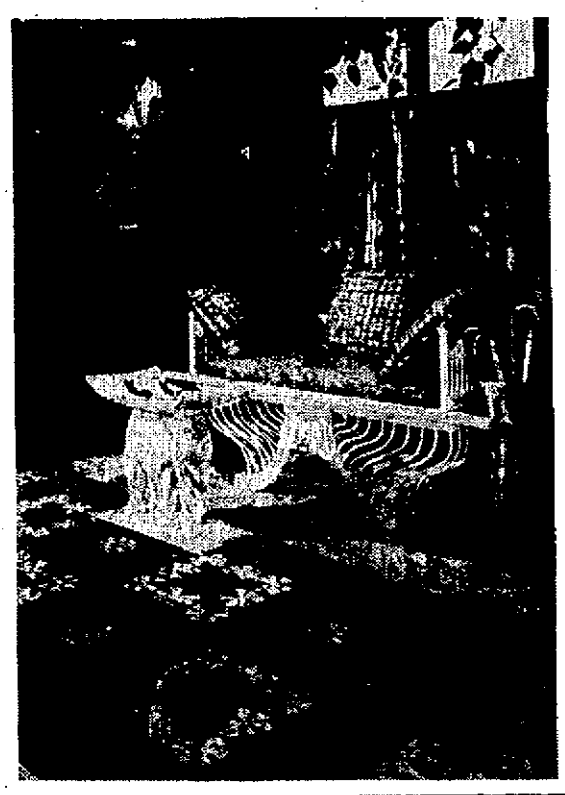

Designing a rug to fit a room is now as simple as dipping into an artist's paint box.

The newest broadloom carpets spread out in all the hues of the rainbow and more. Weaves are shaggy as a bearskin or invitingly plush. Fibers can take the splash of water, tubside or poolside. Prices are so wide-ranging that rug art can be as pennywise as a poster.

All that's needed is a sturdy scissors or razor knife and lengths of broadloom can be snipped and neatly taped or sewn together to make a one-of-a-kind floor.

For those whose imaginations soar higher, there are custom services at almost every carpet mill that will hook a rug to room shape and size, with not a seam in sight. Design choices take off from there in all directions.

Dramatic borders can frame dining table or canopy bed with a theme that mirrors room fabrics. A motif from a bit of antique porcelain or a scrap of rare embroidery links old and new when enlarged to contemporary proportions. Thanks to a new professional hooking gun, all this takes neither the time nor king's ransom once required.

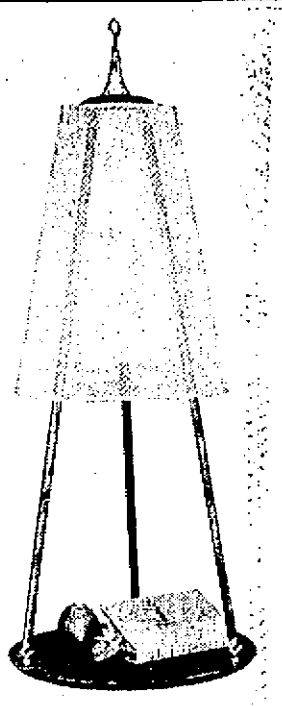

Both op and apt

Two squares of shaggy red and orange have sweeping semi-circle sliced from each and then reset into contrasting color. Room for with-it teen follows through with updated furnishings.

Indian beat

Open-handed orpulence of color and pattern is sounding out in fashion . . . inspiration for befringed rug hooked to order by Color Command custom service at Magee Carpet Company, Bloomsburg, Pa.

Lamps shed light on new trends

It is evident in new lamps and lighting fixtures that practicality is not eliminating charm.

Materials are chosen from an almost limitless range—wood . . . metal . . . glass . . . various man-made creations from Hudrocal to clear plastic. Lines are simple or ornate. Take your pick and fit your decor.

Created to enhance the still-popular Mediterranean furniture, is a handsome lighting piece in the Spanish mood—an adaptation of a Medieval candle and holder of wood. Other lamps to enhance Spanish decors are table, floor, and swag styles in deep brown, black, or gold finishes, in strong shapes with rough and rustic look.

MODERN LAMPS range from ribbon candy and dome silhouettes to tree lamps in long cylinders and rectangles with built-in trays for table use such as design above by Jack Haywood for Modeline of California.

As in furniture pieces this season, lamps in the modern design utilize many new, man-made materials.

Practically indestructible for active families

For today's active families who have homes to be lived in, naugahyde is the perfect addition to a room setting. Rich and elegant, naugahyde gives a look of the most expensive fabrics—however, as an added attraction it won't peel, crack or fade and most dirt wipes offiwith a damp sponge or cloth. A complete selection of textures and colors may be seen at Lon¼ Beach Upholstery, 3434 Atlantic Ave.

GLOVE SOFT VINYLS

Upholstery's leisure look

Lush, plush and easy-going good looks — that sums up the livable look which has swiftly established prominence as today's leading upholstery trend.

It's a sign of the times, reflection of today's emphasis on leisure. And, it's apparent in all the wonderful softened shapes of upholstery — in the big plump and inviting cushions — and the glove soft, new world of supple vinyl fabrics.

The big leisure look is reinforced too, by record breaking sales of recliners, always designed for comfort but now featuring sophisticated styling to match. It's evident in the gaining importance of recliners in the living room — whereas just a few years ago they were primarily assigned to dens, bedrooms and family rooms.

THOUGH ALWAYS proud performers in the line of durability and duty, vinyls have been transformed, as if by Cinderella magic, into the most sought after fabrics for today's super-plush upholstery.

Whatever the style — Contemporary, Mediterranean or Early American — vinyl fabrics accentuate the sink-down comfortable look, for sofas as well as lounge chairs. It also emphasizes a lap-of-luxury appearance while providing the unique vinyl features of durability and cleanability — sought-after features of today's leisure lovers.

It's evident in the gaining importance of recliners in the living room — whereas just a few years ago they were primarily assigned to dens, bedrooms and family rooms.

THOUGH ALWAYS proud performers in the line of durability and duty, vinyls have been transformed, as if by Cinderella magic, into the most sought after fabrics for today's super-plush upholstery.

Whatever the style — Contemporary, Mediterranean or Early American — vinyl fabrics accentuate the sink-down comfortable look, for sofas as well as lounge chairs. It also emphasizes a lap-of-luxury appearance while providing the unique vinyl features of durability and cleanability — sought-after features of today's leisure lovers.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

GUEST STARS Dionne Warwick, Andy Williams and Glen Campbell applaud Jose Feliciano who hosts his first special.

Feliciano! Very Special

Jose Feliciano joins Andy Williams in a vocal duet and Glen Campbell in a "bicycle ballet" and on guitar in high lights of Feliciano's first network special of his own, "Feliciano! — Very Special," at 10 p.m., Sunday, Ch. 4.

Also guest starring on the hour musical are songstress Dionne Warwick, composer-conductor Burt Bacharach and the Blossoms vocal trio.

Blind at birth in Larez, Puerto Rico, 24 years ago, Jose was introduced to music shortly before his family moved to New York's Spanish Harlem in 1950. In Larez, Jose's uncle played the 10-stringed cuatro and Jose accompanied him by banging, bongo-style, on the bottom of a cracker tin.

After school in New York, Jose took up the accordion, making his first public appearance in the school's auditorium at the age of eight. The next year, he performed at the Puerto Rico Theater in the Bronx and soon after took up the guitar.

While still a teenager, Jose carved a niche for himself at the Cafe Id in Greenwich Village. Cafe

Jack Paar in Africa

After six trips to Africa, Jack Paar still finds the Dark Continent a nice place to visit.

His journeys have included a visit with the late Dr. Albert Schweitzer at his remote hospital located in Lambarene, Gabon, and a flight over the Holy Land during which he filmed scenes on Good Friday from the personal helicopter of Jordan's King Hussein.

His sixth trip, a six-week visit to Uganda and Kenya with wife Miriam and their daughter Randy, last summer, will provide the basis for "Jack Paar in Africa," to be colorcast at 10 p.m., Thursday, Ch. 4.

PHOTOGRAPHED mostly by Paar and Randy, "Jack Paar in Africa" has occupied him for about eight months and is his first special in a year and a half. In addition to filming with a 16-millimeter hand-held movie camera, Jack also serves as the producer, director and only writer of the script for the special.

Paar, who combines the inquisitiveness of a police reporter with the instincts of an adventurous explorer, has captured on film the contrasts within the newly-independent nations striving to catapult their people into the mainstream of the 20th Century.

"I never photograph sunsets," Paar says, "and for this program I did not talk to political leaders or

Bach Transmogrified

"Bach Transmogrified," in which Leonard Bernstein offers three pieces by Johann Sebastian Bach in their original forms and in various transcriptions, will be presented at 3:30 p.m., Sunday, Ch. 2.

Appearing on the broadcast are Leopold Stokowski, the New York Rock and Roll Ensemble, and soloists David Nadien (violin), Julius Baker (flute) and Michael Korn (organ). An electronic version of a Bach fugue on the Moog Synthesizer will be heard.

Feliciano! Very Special

JOSE FELICIANO . . . He Tries Harder

and concert offers from outside New York began coming in, and he built a sizeable following from his personal appearance dates in cities throughout the United States, as well as in England, Italy, the Scandinavian countries, Canada and all of Central and South America. For some time Jose has had a regular television program syndicated throughout the United States to stations in Latin America.

A LARGE SEGMENT of the U.S. and the musical "underground" here already knew about Jose when he came up with his first record, "Light My Fire," last April. But it was a fluke that pushed Jose into the limelight.

The "fluke" was his "soul" rendition of "the Star-Spangled Banner" during the World Series in Detroit last autumn. Jose's version caused a lot of comment, pro and con. The upshot of is was that larger numbers of Americans heard about him and were interested enough to tune in a few weeks later when he appeared on a Bing Crosby television special. Public reaction proved Jose Feliciano was a coming.

Jose is married to the former Hilda Perez. When they are not on tour, they make their home in Newport Beach, California. Despite being blind, Jose has learned to horseback ride and water ski. He is a licensed ham radio operator and, stemming back to his youth in New York, he still is an avid fan of the New York Yankees.

"MY BLINDNESS just made me try all the harder," reflected Feliciano.

"When I started out as a kid I borrowed guitars from friends," he recalled, adding with a smile, "Every full-grown adult male in New York's Spanish Harlem has a guitar. It's true that I broke a couple of strings in the process of learning, but how else was I to learn?"

"Vocally, I learned a lot from Ray Charles, Johnny Mathis, Frankie Laine, the late Sam Cook," Feliciano said. "Most of the influence came from Negro soul singers.

"Take Ray Charles and Sam Cook, they really had it bad. They suffered. Singing was their relief."

For Jose, too, singing was a relief. From the frustrations of from-birth blindness. From the harsh realities of day-to-day livinb in Spanish Harlem.

"I was a very persistent guy when I was an adolescent. Even when I was about 12 I always saw myself being a success. It's something that I really wanted, really needed," Jose continued.

"Even then, I knew there must have been some reason in my life why I learned to play guitar and why I was very hep with music. I figured this must have been done with a purpose. I followed that purpose and it's gotten me where I am now."

CRITICS' CORNER

THIS TOWN WILL NEVER BE THE SAME, aired Wednesday, Ch. 4.

. . . an earnest attempt to say something meaningful in dramatic terms about the death of a newspaper.

It did make a lot of statements, ones made every time a paper dies, about the public's loss. But the hour, by Ed di Blasio, was pretty shapeless and thoroughly unsatisfying from a dramatic standpoint. We were never able to care enough about the faltering paper or the people who worked for it — we didn't know them well enough — to become upset at their plight.

The story opened with labor presenting the news-paper's management with take - it - or - leave - it demands. From the outset, it seemed a foregone conclusion that the paper, with declining circulation and advertising revenue, would fold.

The story starred Barry Sullivan, playing the paper's middle-aged managing editor in a style reminiscent of "Front Page."

The presiding over the newspaper's demise was not enough for an hour, however, so a subplot came along. A brash young reporter turned up some evidence that the managing editor's son was a drug pusher. Perhaps it was added to demonstrate that both the paper and its top editorial hand both had lost touch.

E. G. Marshall had almost a cameo role as the publisher who decided to scuttle his sinking ship. When the hour was over, nothing had been determined except that a newspaper was dead. The viewer left with the feeling that the program had stopped rather than that a drama had been concluded.

60 MINUTES, aired Tuesday, Ch. 2.

"60 Minutes" included some refreshing exerpts from an astonishingly frank and perhaps indiscreet interview by Alice Roosevelt Longworth given months ago to a British journalist for broadcast in England.

Mrs. Longworth, now 85, is the daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt but visited the White House — "hideous," she said — first when Harrison was president. As the president's daughter she smoked in the early 1900s — "a scarlet woman, they thought then."

She described her distant cousin Eleanor Roosevelt as "frightfully earnest and given to good deeds," and even talked about what she called "the boy-meets-girl sort of thing" between Franklin D. Roosevelt and Lucy Mercer. Mrs. Longworth should have a nice little Washington-based TV show of her own.

Spring Thing

SPRING THING, to be aired at 8 p.m., Monday, Ch. 4, features the talents of Goldie Hawn, dressed for the occasion (foreground); Noel Harrison, pursuing Bobbie Gentry, and Shirley Bassey. Not shown, but due to appear on the show are Rod McKuen, Irwin C. Watson, Meredith MacRae, the Harpers Bizarre and Hendra and Ullett.

Style--Rare TV Commodity

If You've Got, You Don't Need Much More

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

Style is a very rare commodity on television. Not too many shows have it. But a number of video stars do, and make their series bearable simply because of this personal quality.

Dean Martin, of course, is a triumph of style over everything. Robert Wagner of "It Takes a Thief" has it. He glides through his series with just the right attitude — not making everything a big deal. It is no surprise that Fred Astaire, the standard for style, has agreed to play Wagner's father in some of the series' episodes next season.

Patrick MacNee of "The Avengers" is a stylish fellow. Brian Keith of "Family Affairs" delivers his own brand of style in a quiet, manly way. And his costar, Sebastian Cabot, is a British gentleman to the hilt. Lucille Ball has an incomparable personal style, and so do the stars of "Gunsmoke," James Arness, Amanda Blake, Milburn Stone and Ken Curtis.

Frances Bavier of "Mayberry RFD" has a gentle grace that translates into style. Dan Rowan, the straight man of Rowan and Martin's "Laugh-In," is pretty stylish too. Wayne Maunder of "Lancer" has an understated manliness that reveals a touch of civility. And Diahann Carroll of "Julia" is right out of the fashion magazines.

EDDIE ALBERT of "Green Acres" is a strange case. In movies, he used to be known as a very stylish fellow. But since appearing in this hayseed series, and also doing a number of hard-to-take commercials, he seems to have lost this touch.

AMANDA BLAKE

PATRICK MAC NEE

Bob Denver and Herb Edelman of "The Good Guys" are two very underrated comic stylists. Elizabeth Montgomery of "Bewitched" has style, and so, in a bright way, does Marlo Thomas of "That Girl."

Fess Parker of "Daniel Boone" has a deceptive, rugged, masculine style that wears well. Raymond Burr of "Ironside" established his stylishness in "Perry Mason," and hasn't given any signs of losing it. Jack Webb of "Dragnet" has style in a direct, unassuming way.

Susan Saint James of "The Name of the Game" has more style than all the models in an issue of "Vogue." And Anthony Franciosa of the same series is quite a stylish actor when he turns on the ARTHUR FIEDLER, conductor of the Boston Pops Orchestra, is the visiting fireman on the Red Skelton show.

Fiedler & Skelton

MAESTRO RED SKELTON . . . Conducting the Boston Pops

Red, the Cymbalist

Picnic with the Boston Pops

Red Skelton, of the world of humor, is joined by two men from the world of music — Arthur Fiedler and Robert Merrill — on a madcap musical at 8:30 p.m., Tuesday, Ch. 2.

The show, taped on location in Boston, features Skelton as Clem Kadiddlehopper, a would-be composer who wants the famous Maestro Arthur Fiedler to conduct the Boston Pops Orchestra in the "Kadiddlehopper March."

Robert Merrill plays the "good guy" who tries to give the country boy Clem a helping hand in locating Fiedler. But Clem, as usual, manages to get on the wrong bus and winds up on a sightseeing trip across the historically rich New England city.

NEEDLESS TO SAY, Skelton meets up with Fiedler and becomes a member of the orchestra. As a bored cymbal player waiting for a musical cue, he begins to make his picnic lunch, on stage sitting in the middle of the orchestra.

Naturally everything goes wrong; a pickle flies from the hand of Skelton to land in the mouth of Fiedler.

Just prior to rehearsals, the maestro was asked if he would object to this bit.

"I'll do it on one condition, that the pickle is kosher," Fiedler said.

THE EXTREMELY ACTIVE Fiedler, an honorary fireman in almost every fire department across the land, has his car equipped with police and fire radio calls. His two license plates are BFD (Boston Fire Department) and POPS (for the Boston Pops orchestra).

He even has a Dalmatian dog. The dog's name? Sparks!!!

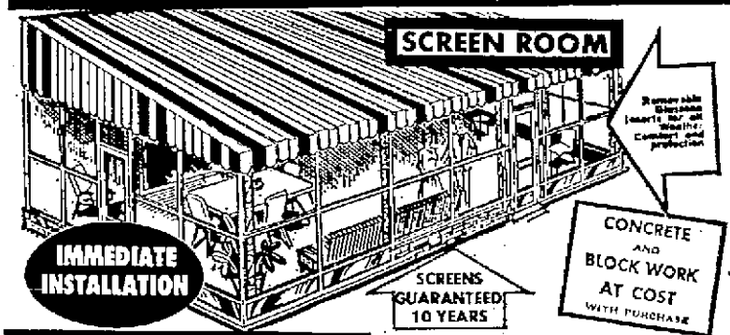

Fiedler, 72, never takes a vacation because, he said, "I get bored after the first couple of days of doing nothing, and besides, my life is so full of variety that it is something of a continuing vacation."

Fiedler conducts several serious compositions, two of which were written by Skelton: "Kadiddlehopper March" and "My True Love," which Red wrote for his wife, Georgia.

Saturday — ABC, Johnny Cash replaces "Hollywood Palace" June 7.

NEGOTIATIONS are under way to televise the Third Annual Harlem Cultural Festival in New York and in 12 other cities.

The festival, reflecting the locality's Negro, Spanish, West Indian and African traditions, will include six two-hour concerts in Mount Morris Park, Madison Avenue and East 123rd Street, featuring gospel, blues, jazz and Caribbean music as well as the Miss Liberty Beauty Pageant.

There will be two programs, the first to be televised in mid-July and the second in mid-August, but the exact times and stations have not been announced.

The cities are Atlanta, Baltimore, Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Washington.

EIGHTY per cent of the homes in the United States will have color television sets by 1977 and the 20-34 age group will form the major part of the audience, according to Hugh M. Beville Jr., a former Vice President and currently Consultant on Planning for the National Broadcasting Company.

"ROWAN AND MARTIN'S "Laugh-In" again topped the Nielsen rating for the two-week period ending April 6. Other top-rated shows, in order, were:

Dean Martin, "Here's Lucy," "Bonanza," "Beverly Hillbillies," "Mayberry RFD," "Family Affair," "Ironside," "Gomer Pyle," "Gunsmoke," "Mod Squad," "Dragnet," "I Dream of Jeannie,' Red Skelton, "Green Acres," "Mission: Impossible," "My Three Sons," "Bewitched," "Julia," Doris Day.

SIX half-hour original television dramas starring famous authors and playwrights in acting roles have been commissioned by the United States Public Health Service to alert viewers to the need for early checkups and treatment of cancer.

The series is titled "Life Watch 6." The films, which star Rod Serling, Neil Simon, James Mitchener, Ossie Davis, Jacqueline Susann and Irving Stone, will be made available without charge to over 300 commerical television stations this summer.

PEARL BAILEY, a success in her recent two-woman song-and-comedy special with Carol Channing, will have her own one-hour broadcast on ABC-TV, probably in the fall . . . Jackie Gleason, whose CBS-TV series next season will face the head-on NBC-TV competition of Andy Williams, is reported trying to make certain Art Carney will return for "The Honeymooners" segments that are so solid in the ratings.

THREE OF daytime TV's young stars appear in "Love Is a Many Splendored Thing" Monday through Friday at 1 p.m., Ch. 2. Donna Mills and David Birney (top) play husband and wife and Leslie Charleson (bottom right) has role of Donna's sister.

SPECIAL

RED SKELTON (2), 8:30 p.m. — For Red's final new show of the season, both Skelton and Clem Kadiddlehopper have old dreams fulfilled — Skelton to have one of his own songs ("My True Love") played by Arthur Fiedler and the Boston Pops Orchestra, and Clem to perform with and conduct the famed orchestra. Opera star Robert Merrill is featured soloist, and go-between for Clem, with another highlight being Kadiddlehopper's "fractured-history" tour of Boston, visiting the Old North Church, Paul Revere's house and the USS Constitution.

THE ABM (2), 10 p.m. Steve Rown is reporter for a full-scale analysis of President Nixon's proposed limited anti-ballistic missile system, tracing the ABM from its conception under Robert McNamara through recent Senate hearings and Nixon's decision to go ahead with the program. Experts evaluate the ABM system proposed, and what its deployment will mean is viewed in scenes of Great Falls, Montana, one of the two initial sites chosen.

comedy charm.

JACKIE GLEASON has what might be termed an overpowering personal style. No one else on television has the guts or grace to wear a carnation in his lapel. Fred MacMurray of "My Three Sons" has a gentle style that goes a long way.

Hope Lange and Edward Mulhare of "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir" exhibited adult style and attractiveness throughout the season. Efrem Zimbalist Jr. of "The FBI" has a nice easy way with him, hinting at the sophistication that the dialogue cannot tap too often.

Ed Sullivan has a wonderful enthusiasm about his work that reveals style of a very different sort — but, nonetheless, style. Barbara Bain of "Mission: Impossible" has the sultry, sexy, glamorous style of a woman who is just about keeping herself in check — until the right moment. Dan Blocker of "Bonanza" has the mammoth yet gentle style of a modern-day Wallace Beery or Victor McLaglen.

Watching for the too-rare moments of style on television, one is reminded of what someone once said about charm: If you have it, you don't need much of anything else. And if you don't have it, it doesn't make much difference what else you have.

Probably no home-improvement project has such wide appeal as installing an outdoor patio. It can add much to family (and guests) pleasure.

Distinctive types of patios are featured through the quality designs provided by T. H. Liken and Sons. Curved patios, screened-in's, and many, many other distinctive designs are offered by the 22-year-old firm that has adhered to ethical business practices and prices during their many years of service to Long Beach and surrounding area homeowners.

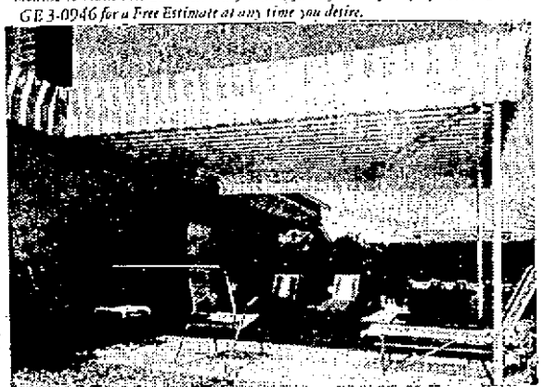

Likens are craftsmen in their field. They design each patio cover with the architectural plan of the house in mind.

Another service offered by the popular company is refacing industrial and commercial buildings. Old buildings take on a fresh, sparkling

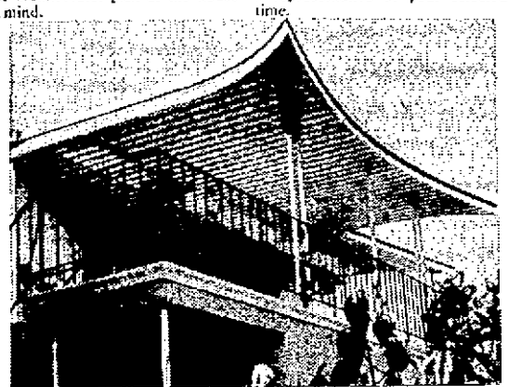

Patio construction is augmented with complete service in aluminum awnings, screen enclosures, cement work and brick planters. All work carries a complete guarantee.

Likens staff of experts are well trained to plan, design and carry through on any home, commercial or industrial improvement project.

Free estimates are available at all times. A call to GE 3-0946 will bring a representative at your selected time.

Looking for something different in patio cover designs? Likens is always the first with unique ideas that add beauty and function to your patio area. Upright valance design is continued along back of home to eliminate the "tacked on look" so prevalent in most patios. All furniture and accessories were "color keyed" to match patio roof.

Sweeping panels in a two color effect lend an Oriental charm to this second story balcony. Alternating panels of translucent plexi-glass allows light to filter through, but holds back heat rays. Total concept is further enhanced by decorative scroll railing, Oriental shrubbery and statuary.

Unusual Prize Winning Designs

Know the company, know the product, know the guarantee. These are the three most important phases when planning a patio, carport or other aluminum structure, according to T. H. Liken and Sons, patio and aluminum building contractors serving the Southland for 22 years.

The award winning company (winners of the National Flexalum Design Award) have combined their designing skills with the finest in materials to establish an outstanding reputation for quality workmanship. All work is bonded and guaranteed.

Liken notes that nothing can match their Flexalum patio cover. Custom work, unique construction . . . no nuts, bolts or screws to mar the beauty of a Liken patio.

Exceptional quality is provided through the extra strength of top quality spring-tempered aluminum panels. Likens features all aluminum concealed I-beam construction. Two coats of baked enamel that does away with waxing.

If desired, special skylight panels can be alternated with aluminum panels allowing a limited amount of light to filter through. The customer has a choice of a multitude of colors to choose from, plus cello-glass removable windows to make your patio an all-year room.

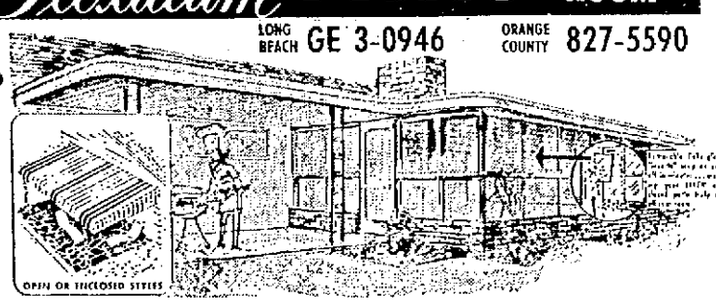

Original designs and solving of unusual problems are a specialty of Likens. A complete staff of experts are always available to aid with any aluminum-structure design.

Know the company, know the product, know the guarantee. These are the three most important phases when planning a patio, carport or other aluminum structure, according to T. H. Liken and Sons, patio and aluminum building contractors serving the Southland for 22 years.

The award winning company (winners of the National Flexalum Design Award) have combined their designing skills with the finest in materials to establish an outstanding reputation for quality workmanship. All work is bonded and guaranteed.

Liken notes that nothing can match their Flexalum patio cover. Custom work, unique construction . . . no ours, bolts or screws to mar the beauty of a Liken patio.

Exceptional quality is provided through the extra strength of top quality spring-tempered aluminum panels. Likens features all aluminum concealed I-beam construction. Two coats of baked enamel that does away with waxing.

If desired, special skylight panels can be alternated with aluminum panels allowing a limited amount of light to filter through. The customer has a choice of a multitude of colors to choose from, plus cello-glass removable windows to make your patio an all-year room.

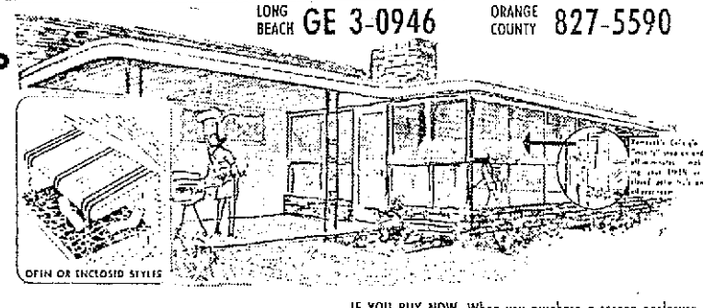

Original designs and solving of unusual problems are a specialty of Likens. A complete staff of experts are always available to aid with any aluminum-structure design.

'Newlyweds' Host
He's a Confirmed Bachelor

United Press International
Hollywood Correspondent

Bob Eubanks, master of ceremonies of "The Newlywed Game," is a bachelor who has no immediate plans for changing his martial status.

Eubanks, 31, is one of the most unusual performers on television because he has no aspirations to develop a career in show business.

Instead, his future is based on business enterprises.

With various partners, Eubanks owns two radio stations — in Stockton and San Jose, Calif.

This spring he is opening the largest saddlery and western store in Southern California, stocking tack gear, feed, western clothes and other items for the horsey set.

BOB EUBANKS

EUBANKS makes his home in Calabasas, a half-hour freeway ride from Hollywood. His living arrangement is as unique as his approach to show business.

He bought his home in partnership with a married couple with three children, Nickey and Irma Brown who also are his partners in the night club.

The house is a five-bedroom ranch-style home located on an acre and three-quarters near baseball pitcher Don Drysdale's estate. There is a barn. Stables on the property house six horses and a pony. The latter pulls a cart for the three Brown children.

"I've lived with the Browns for 13 years," Eubanks says. "We're just one big family."

Eubanks does have an area of the house to himself in which he works on his various business enterprises. Irma does all the cooking for the household.

THE BUSY bachelor cheerfully admits he has the easiest job in television. He works two days a week, takes two days off; works three days and then takes a full seven days off. He tapes three shows each working day from 4:30 to 8 p.m.

"The Newlywed Game" is seen daily on ABC-TV and on Saturday nights.

The show holds less interest for Eubanks than his other pastimes. His favorite hobby is calf roping which he practices at nearby Canoga Park.

HE FAVORS western clothes dressing in cowboy duds at all times except when he is taping the show. He has several suits, two of which ABC bought him, for his stints before the cameras.

Eubanks drives a high-powered sports car when he comes into Hollywood, but he is more proud of a truck and horse trailer he pilots around the open country near his home.

Eubanks has a steady girl friend who twits him about his single status while conducting a game dealing with newlyweds. He responds by saying he's learned a lot from the quaking just-marrieds on his show.

"I am not ambitious to become a big television star or a motion picture actor," Eubanks says. "My idea of having a good time will be sitting around my new store on a bale of hay talking to the customers."

'Newlyweds' Host
He's a Confirmed Bachelor

United Press International
Hollywood Correspondent

Bob Eubanks, master of ceremonies of "The Newlywed Game," is a bachelor who has no immediate plans for changing his martial status.

Eubanks, 31, is one of the most unusual performers on television because he has no aspirations to develop a career in show business.

Instead, his future is based on business enterprises.

With various partners, Eubanks owns two radio stations — in Stockton and San Jose, Calif.

This spring he is opening the largest saddlery and western store in Southern California, stocking tack gear, feed, western clothes and other items for the horsey set.

EUBANKS makes his home in Calabasas, a half-hour freeway ride from Hollywood. His living arrangement is as unique as his approach to show business.

He bought his home in partnership with a married couple with three children, Nickey and Irma Brown who also are his partners in the night club.

The house is a five-bedroom ranch-style home located on an acre and three-quarters near baseball pitcher Don Drysdale's estate. There is a barn. Stables on the property house six horses and a pony. The latter pulls a cart for the three Brown children.

"I've lived with the Browns for 13 years," Eubanks says. "We're just one big family."

Eubanks does have an area of the house to himself in which he works on his various business enterprises. Irma does all the cooking for the household.

THE BUSY bachelor cheerfully admits he has the easiest job in television. He works two days a week, takes two days off; works three days and then takes a full seven days off. He tapes three shows each working day from 4:30 to 8 p.m.

"The Newlywed Game" is seen daily on ABC-TV and on Saturday nights.

The show holds less interest for Eubanks than his other pastimes. His favorite hobby is calf roping which he practices at nearby Canoga Park.

HE FAVORS western clothes dressing in cowboy duds at all times except when he is taping the show. He has several suits, two of which ABC bought him, for his stints before the cameras.

BOB EUBANKS

Eubanks drives a high-powered sports car when he comes into Hollywood, but he is more proud of a truck and horse trailer he pilots around the open country near his home.

Eubanks has a steady girl friend who twits him about his single status while conducting a game dealing with newlyweds. He responds by saying he's learned a lot from the quaking just-marrieds on his show.

"I am not ambitious to become a big television star or a motion picture actor," Eubanks says. "My idea of having a good time will be sitting around my new store on a bale of hay talking to the customers."

SPECIAL

JACK PAAR IN Africa (4), 10 p.m. — Paar made his sixth trip to Africa last summer, taking with him wife Miriam and daughter Randy for a six-week visit to Uganda and Kenya. In addition to filming his off-the-beaten track view, Jack produced, edited and wrote the script — which spotlights Masai cowboys herding cattle, rarely-photographed Pygmies, bush style fighting, extra-long telephone poles (because of giraffes), controls on TV violence, and police armed with dogs instead of guns.

SPECIAL

JACK PAAR IN Africa (4), 10 p.m. — Paar made his sixth trip to Africa last summer, taking with him wife Miriam and daughter Randy for a six-week visit to Uganda and Kenya. In addition to filming his off-the-beaten track view, Jack produced, edited and wrote the script — which spotlights Masai cowboys herding cattle, rarely-photographed Pygmies, bush style fighting, extra-long telephone poles (because of giraffes), controls on TV violence, and police armed with dogs instead of guns.

SPORTS TODAY

BASEBALL, 12:55 p.m., (11), has Vin Scully and Jerry Doggett winding up four straight days of Dodger telecasts with more action from Candlestick Park against the Giants. (Next Dodger telecast, June 27.)

OLYMPIC Boxing, 8:30 p.m. (5), has Tom Harmon ringside for a 10-round heavyweight bout between Wayne Kindred and Kenyatta Hockenhull.

Shenanigans in the advertising game.
7 What's It All About, World? Dean Jones, with Carol Lawrence, the Geezinslaw Brothers, 9-year-old Bayn Johnson. Jones shows films of his Disney pictures. The "World" is stopped after this hour, with Tom Jones shifting here following next week's special salute to early aviators.

JACK PAAR, his wife Mirian, and their daughter Randy visit a pygmy village in Uganda.

Jack Paar in Africa

anyone of any consequence."

Jack concentrated his camera on the ordinary people including Masai cowboys herding cattle, the rarely-photographed Pygmies and the inhabitants of the city at work and at play, in order to present an accurate portrayal of African life today.

SEEKING to entertain as well as inform while covering as much territory as possible, Paar and his family flew in single and twin engine private planes, landing on grassy clearings with the pilots first having to buzz the fields to frighten off the animals gathered below. He traveled by Land Rover and on foot to visit with the pygmies, who despite their small stature are courageous enough, armed only with spear, to attack and kill the huge elephant.

Among the other scenes he observed and will include in his special hour are: a craftsman fashioning shoes made-to-individual-measure from discarded auto tires, a native picking up hot coals with bare hands, and Masai, reputed to be among the fiercest warriors in Africa, working as hard-riding cowboys while wearing their tribe's traditional red blankets but sporting English bowlers imported from London.

Paar will be communicating his enthusiasm and impressions of Kenya and Uganda in his special. He is also planning a seventh trip to Africa next Summer.

SPECIAL

VICTORIA REGINA (4), 8:30 p.m. — This triple-Emmy-winning drama, adapted by Robert Hartung from Laurence Housman's 1935 Broadway play, gets its first "Hall of Fame" reprise, dramatizing events in the life of the British monarch from 1837 through her Diamond Jubilee in 1897. Julie Harris, who picked up a 1961 Emmy in the title role, ages more than 60 years during the George Schaefer production — though story spotlights her role as a woman and a wife. James Donald plays Prince Albert, with Basil Rathbone as Disraeli and Pamela Brown as the Duchess of Kent, mother of the future Queen. Emmy nods also went to Miss Brown, and to the production itself as "program of the year."

SPECIAL

VICTORIA REGINA (4), 8:30 p.m. — This triple-Emmy-winning drama, adapted by Robert Hartung from Laurence Housman's 1935 Broadway play, gets its first "Hall of Fame" reprise, dramatizing events in the life of the British monarch from 1837 through her Diamond Jubilee in 1897. Julie Harris, who picked up a 1961 Emmy in the title role, ages more than 60 years during the George Schaefer production — though story spotlights her role as a woman and a wife. James Donald plays Prince Albert, with Basil Rathbone as Disraeli and Pamela Brown as the Duchess of Kent, mother of the future Queen. Emmy nods also went to Miss Brown, and to the production itself as "program of the year."

Tougher Racket than Sports

Scully Entertains American Housewife

By VERNON SCOTT
UPI

Vin Scully, the voice of the Dodger baseball team for 20 years in Brooklyn and Los Angeles, has tackled a tougher racket than sports — entertaining the American housewife.

It's one thing to capture the attention of drooling baseball fans, another to lure a harried hausfrau from dishes, diapers and drudgery.

Scuuly, an optimistic New York Irishman, is the host of NBC-TV's new weekday series, "It Takes Two."

THE TITLE reflects the fomat ot the show. Each week three celebrities appear with his or her spouse (that's where the "two" comes in) for fun and games, audience participation, prizes and the like.

For once, Scully is disinterested in a male audience.

"Our show hits the air at 10 a.m. and most men are at work," says Scully. "So we concentrate on the ladies."

And none too soon either. Scully's baritone has filled the Southern California ozone for 11 years from March spring training until the end of the season in October.

Wives have been known to demand that their husbands divorce themselves from Scully or seek a bride who can put up with six months of non-stop baseball broadcasting — even if Vin is the best in the business.

SCULLY has a head full of red hair, an engaging grin and represents a departure from the old cigar-chomping sportscaster. He himself is not a bug-eyed fan and he maintains his cool.

Scully is gradually becoming accustomed to the new game-panel show. His only other venture into non-sports television was the narrating voice on the defunct "Occasional Wife" series, circa 1966.

"This new show tries to appeal to the housewife between 18 and 35 and the pre-school child," Scully said during a taping break.

"There are all kinds of stunts, animals and children on the show to attract kiddies and their mothers. The big job for me personally was to 'find' myself in new surroundings.

"I had to get relaxed and feel at ease as I am when I'm doing a ball game."

SCULLY STILL broadcasts the Dodger games, squeezing in as many of the "It Takes Two" shows on tape as possible when the team is in town to cover those weeks when the club is playing on the road.

"So far none of the players have ribbed me about doing a show for the ladies," Scully said. "Some of them even watch the show when we're on the road. There isn't much else for them to do in the mornings when they're sitting around the hotel rooms."

Scully's best moment came in Houston recently when a National League umpire confessed he watches Scully's show every day.

"Coming from an umpire," Vin said, laughing, "that's high praise."

TENNESSEE Ernie Ford (7), 6:30 p.m. — This off-network reprise offers an hour of music combining old favorites with the best of the new. While the ol' pea-picker is reminiscing about the good old days, with guests Danny Thomas and Andy Griffith, there's a youth explosion led by Diana Ross and the Supremes, the Going Thing, and the Dillards. George Schlatter produced, with Ray Charles as musical consultant.

'Gunsmoke'--Outlives 'em All

Not Even 'Cancellation' Can Stop It

United Press International

Born in the so-called Golden Era of Television, the downbeat "live" dramas of New York City squalor, "Gunsmoke" has outlived them all.

Two reasons are apparent for its success: top-flight acting and quality stories. And it hasn't hurt that the American public has come to love the characters.

In 14 years "Gunsmoke!" has survived a cancellation, a change in time, a switch from black and white to color, the loss of a major character, a change from half-hour to an hour format, moves to three different studios, four producers and a slew of directors.

BUT THE ingredients for success will remain as long as the network (CBS) and stars wish to continue.

There's Jim Arness as Marshal Matt Dillon, possible the finest portrayal week after week on the tube. Milburn Stone has convinced the world he is Doc Adams. And if Amanda Blake itn't Kitty Russell, who is? Ken Curtis as the raunchy Festus Hagen replaced Dennis Weaver (Chester) with beloved cussedness six years ago.

Of the original crew, only make-up man Glen Alden remains along with Paul Nichols who began as a stand-in for Arness and is now first assistant director.

ARNESS WALKED out from under the bright lights and stood grinning on the perimeter of the set. "I figure we've made between 400 and 500 episodes over the years. It's the equivalent of John Wayne doing five feature-length movies every year for the past 14 years."

Arness isn't complaining. "Gunsmoke!" has made him a millionaire many times over. Curtis, Blake and Stone have enriched themselves tremendously with their long-run hit.

But they earn their money. They work 10 to 12 hours a day.

ANOTHER KEY to the success of the series is the genuine affection and esteem among the cast. Blast any of them and the others roll up their sleeves.

Handy as he is with a six-shooter, Arness is gunshy with the press. He has taken several unfair shots from writers who have misquoted him. As a result he gives no interviews and rarely allows the press on the set.

Says Stone: "Jim isn't an easy man to get to know, but he's never copped a plea or complained. He's tops as far as I'm concerned."

Curtis is equally protective of the big man. "when I first joined the show I was overwhelmed by the warmth and friendliness of everyone connected with it.

"I had some big boots to fill (Weaver's) and I spent a lot of time worrying about being resented as the comedy foil. But it was a waste of time. I've never been better treated in my life."

BOTH CURTIS and Stone hit the rodeo and state fair circuit, some-

TV Santa Claus

20 Homes Given Away

By JACK GAVER
United Press International

"I finally realize how Santa Claus must feel — happy but neglected," complained Mike Darow, a handsome six-foot-five Canadian who has given away more than $1 million worth of merchandise on television in the past year.

"So far I've handed over 20 new homes, valued at $40,000 each, and who knows how many rooms of furniture," he continued, "and what have I got to show for it? A small, but confortable, one-bedroom apartment in New Rochelle, N.Y."

Darow is host of ABC-TV's daily game show, "Dream House," which recently celebrated its first anniversary on television. In order to walk off with a new home, contestants must win seven consecutive games. Since each game victory entitles the winners to a room full of furniture, lucky couples who go all the way not only win a house but also get seven rooms of furnishings.

"For months I've been trying to convince the producers that it would be good public relations for them to build a model home for me and my family which the public would be welcome to visit," Darow said. "But they're adamant in their refusal. I guess they just don't want to create a situation which might cast doubts on the honesty and integrity of the show."

AS ONE would expect, security precautions for a telecast of this type are strict.

"We're not allowed to have contestants anywhere near us before they appear on the show," Darow elaborated. "They're not permitted in the production office at all and, if they do wander in by mistake, they are unceremoniously escorted out.

"I can't even talk to the contestants until they've actually entered the studio. There are three judges on the show — two of ours, representing Don Reid productions, the program's packagers, and one from ABC—to make sure our answers are correct and to see to it that no one knows in advance which set of questions we will be using.

"We cannot deviate from the script. Our questions are listed in order. I can't pick them at random. If I should, the ABC man could stop the show. If I pick the wrong one by mistake, and this has happened once or twice, he asks, 'Why did you use that one instead of number three?' So I simply tell the truth and say I goofed."

PREPARING the questions is a mammoth job in itself and a full-time staff of writers is employed for this purpose.

"We use about 100 questions a show," Darow said, "So we have to prepare 400 questions daily. All the questions are sealed in huge envelopes. The ABC man takes the four envelopes — each containing 100 questions — puts them behind his back, shuffles them, and hands me one. 'There it is; that's the one you use today,' he says. This procedure has been implemented to eliminate any possible leakage to the contestants."

Darow has been host of "Dream House" since the program premiered on ABC in April, 1968. Next month he heads for England to tape a pilot for a new game show Don Reid has sold to Granada TV.

"The program is called 'Bon Voyage' and contestants vie for vacation prizes ranging from brief weekend trips to three-week tours around the world," Darow explained.

"With my luck, if the show is sold here, I'll probably be host for a year and not even get a ferry ride to Staten Island."

times in tandem, again solo, and earn high fees. They are constantly astonished by the popularity of the characters they play.

Arness makes no personal appearances. Neither does he attend Hollywood parties nor frequent "in" restaurants. He is a very private man.

As Dillon, the actor is a tower of strength and character.

As Arness he is even more so. The actor has undergone tremendous personal traumas offscreen that would have a lesser man pouring out his troubles to friends and seeking sympathy in the press.

Not Arness. He has handled himself with much the same aplomb and dignity as the Marshal of Dodge City, Kansas.

Since each game victory entitles the winners to a room full of furniture, lucky couples who go all the way not only win a house but also get seven rooms of furnishings.

"For months I've been trying to convince the producers that it would be good public relations for them to build a model home for me and my family which the public would be welcome to visit," Darow said. "But they're adamant in their refusal. I guess they just don't want to create a situation which might cast doubts on the honesty and integrity of the show."

AS ONE would expect, security precautions for a telecast of this type are strict.

"We're not allowed to have contestants anywhere near us before they appear on the show," Darow elaborated. "They're not permitted in the production office at all and, if they do wander in by mistake, they are unceremoniously escorted out.

"I can't even talk to the contestants until they've actually entered the studio. There are three judges on the show — two of ours, representing Don Reid productions, the program's packagers, and one from ABC—to make sure our answers are correct and to see to it that no one knows in advance which set of questions we will be using.

"We cannot deviate from the script. Our questions are listed in order. I can't pick them at random. If I should, the ABC man could stop the show. If I pick the wrong one by mistake, and this has happened once or twice, he asks, 'Why did you use that one instead of number three?' So I simply tell the truth and say I goofed."

PREPARING the questions is a mammoth job in itself and a full-time staff of writers is employed for this purpose.

"We use about 100 questions a show," Darow said, "So we have to prepare 400 questions daily. All the questions are sealed in huge envelopes. The ABC man takes the four envelopes — each containing 100 questions — puts them behind his back, shuffles them, and hands me one. 'There it is; that's the one you use today,' he says. This procedure has been implemented to eliminate any possible leakage to the contestants."

Darow has been host of "Dream House" since the program premiered on ABC in April, 1968. Next month he heads for England to tape a pilot for a new game show Don Reid has sold to Granada TV.

"The program is called 'Bon Voyage' and contestants vie for vacation prizes ranging from brief weekend trips to three-week tours around the world," Darow explained.

"With my luck, if the show is sold here, I'll probably be host for a year and not even get a ferry ride to Staten Island."

times in tandem, again solo, and earn high fees. They are constantly astonished by the popularity of the characters they play.

Arness makes no personal appearances. Neither does he attend Hollywood parties nor frequent "in" restaurants. He is a very private man.

As Dillon, the actor is a tower of strength and character.

As Arness he is even more so. The actor has undergone tremendous personal traumas off-screen that would have a lesser man pouring out his troubles to friends and seeking sympathy in the press.

Not Arness. He has handled himself with much the same aplomb and dignity as the Marshal of Dodge City, Kansas.

Glad You Asked That!

By Hy Gardner

Q. No wonder the W. C. Fields album, waxed from his old movie sound tracks, made the charts. It's a gas. Was he really a lush, or was the booze bit a trademark, like Dean Martin's?

A. I'd say that Fields was rather proud of that reputation. And I have a photo he autographed to me that sort of proves the point. It reads: "If I were a drinking man, I'd ask you to have one!" (P.S. He did!)

Q. Are Jacqueline Onassis and Princess Lee Radziwill stepsisters? I always thought so until I saw a family tree printed in a magazine establishing their blood relationship. Is they is or is they ain't? — Mrs. James Deasyy, Ozone Park, N.Y.

A. The magazine with the tree is NOT out on a limb. Both attractive women were born of the same parents, the current Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss and the late society-page newsmaker, John (Jack) Bouvier.

Q. Who said "The U.N. was created to prevent you from going to Hell — not to take you to Heaven"? — Lisa Woodrugg, Middleton, Ohio.

A. Henry Cabot Lodge, when he was our ambassador to the United Nations. Lodge is currently the President's personal spokesman at the Paris peace talks.

Q. What is President Nixon's favorite midnight snack? — B.L.F., Middletown, Conn.

A. Cottage cheese and ketchup!

Q. I bet a friend that Billy Casper is golf's all-time biggest money winner. He says it's Arnie Palmer. Who's right?—J. R. S., Spokane, Wash.

A. Your (former) friend! It is Arnie Palmer, to the tune of over a million dollars. Billy Casper is the runner-up with $904,805 — while Jack Nicklaus places third with some $864,531 in prize money.

Q. Is it true that when TV star Diahann Carroll first started as a nightclub singer, they used to lock her up in her dressing room? — C.D.T., Sacramento, Calif.

A. This happened once in a Johnstown, Pa., club. Singing while perched on a bar, she looked so fetching that all the miners wanted to fetch her. So, for her entire engagement the management locked her up for her own protection. "They only let me out to sing or for a breath of fresh air," she recalls.

Q. Am I hearing things? Is Hitler's dreaded Nazi Gestapo chief, Heinrich Himmler, alive, and living in Germany? — Mrs. B. Sullivan, Chicago.

A. No. It's his son you must have heard about. He lives in Bonn, Germany, a gentle and revered priest despite the name Himmler.

Q. Is Engelbert Humperdinck a descendant of the composer of "Hansel and Gretel" and other children's operas? — Mrs. Bernard Ellis, Stamford, Neb.

A. If I said yes it would be a fairy tale. Singer Humperdinck's real name was Gerry Dorsey. He changed it, perhaps tongue in cheek, when a lung ailment interrupted his career and he had to launch it all over again.

Q. Did Frank Sinatra really give Mia a child? I didn't believe it till I saw a movie magazine and photo showing the ex-Mrs. S. pregnant. If it wasn't Frank's baby, whose was it? — Mrs. B. R. Thomas, Long Island City, N.Y.

A. It was "Rosemary's Baby!" Apparently the editors used a photo from Mia's movie, added a misleading caption ("Frank Sinatra Did Give Mia a Child!") and sold a lot of magazines. If you read carefully you'll catch the catch. The "child he gave her" turns out to be his daughter Nancy. Because Nancy, after a chilly first meeting, learned to love and respect her ex-stepmother.

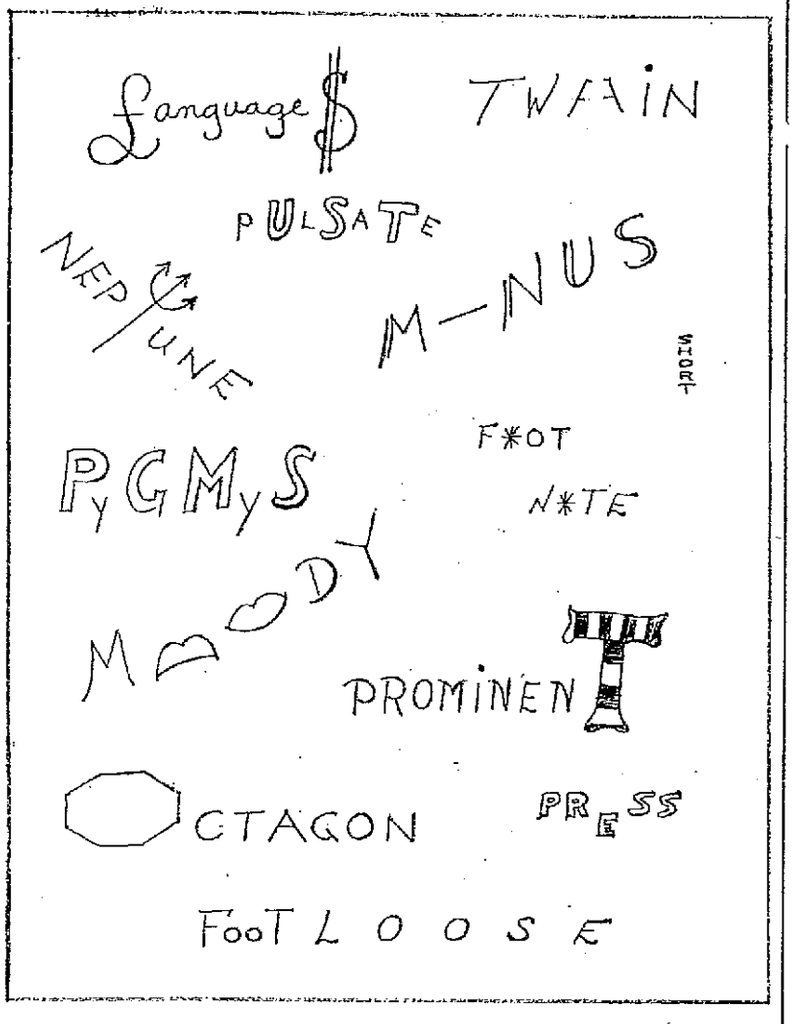

Q. What's the length of the average Hollywood marriage? — T.R.G., Newark, N.J.

A. About the same as a miniskirt!

OUR COVER

The two teen-age girls shown frolicking on the beach at Seal Beach in our cover photo probably don't realize it, but more than 50 years ago Seal Beach was a popular resort known as the "Coney Island of the Pacific," the "Los Angeles Joy Spot." It had a giant roller coaster, scores of concessions, a pier, a large bathhouse, fine cafes and bright lights—and was the setting for bathing beauty movies. The city declined in World War I and the depression years—but now it's on the rise again, though in a less flashy manner. Turn to Page 6 for the story of Seal Beach. Oh, yes, the girls on the cover are JoJo Knudson, 17, and Ann Morrison, 16, both of Garden Grove.

Outside House Painting Eliminated for 15 Years

LONG BEACH, CALIF. (CT)—Painting is a thing of the past. Let us show you how Fiberglas TEX-COTE insulates, waterproofs and beautifies and is factory guaranteed for a full 15 years.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residences until they hear the TEX-COTE story. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every fiberglas TEX-COTE job is factory guaranteed for 15 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling.

Fiberglas, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to TEX-COTE its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER THE YEARS

TEX-COTE is one of the oldest coatings now marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings since 1946. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 15 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. TEX-COTE fuses itself to the walls and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects. TEX-COTE may be applied over stucco, wood, brick, block or shingles.

CITY OF LONG BEACH

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc., is a licensed City of Long Beach Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach and West Orange County areas.

Cal-Tex has been applying TEX-COTE to homes in the Greater Long Beach Area for many years. For a Free Home Demonstration — without obligation — or for your FREE brochure regarding TEX-COTE — call GA 3-8411.

Also Long Beach hdqtrs. for KENITEX and FLEXON.

THE WELLS REPORT

Life on the Freeways

By Bob Wells

THE BEST TIME to visit a freeway is early Sunday morning. The worst time is Friday afternoon.

You've never visited a freeway and you don't intend to? Well, you drive on them, don't you? Oh, only when you absolutely have to. Like anywhere from 30 minutes to two hours a day, huh?

Why not visit a freeway? You visit the desert, the mountains, the seashore. They are all part of the great natural heritage of California, but so is a freeway. It has its own natural history, life rhythms, flora and fauna. People break rocks in the desert, hunt through tidepools at the seashore and hike the Sierras. If you're really interested in your environment, you'd spend a little time on the natural history of a freeway. There's certainly nothing more natural to our history than a freeway.

WHEN FINISHED sometime after 1980, the Southern California freeway system will encompass more than 1,500 miles. Every house in this area will be within two miles of one. The state freeway-expressway system costing $10.5 billion will cover 12,400 miles. That's about the distance from San Francisco to Afghanistan—so don't be surprised if you end up there when you really wanted to go to the Music Center.

At least 2 per cent of the total land area of the state will be devoted to the exclusive use of automobiles, some 17 million of them, either moving or parked. More than 48 per cent of the land area of central Los Angeles is already devoted to cars, but it isn't enough. A recent study discovered that downtown Los Angeles is short 5,080 parking spaces right now. By 1980, it will need an additional 13,830 spaces.

Before you start feeling sorry for downtown Los Angeles, remember that 75 per cent of the Lakewood Shopping Center is devoted to the automobile.

VISITING A FREEWAY is not a task to be undertaken lightly. The environment is inhospitable, there is little natural shelter and the natives are definitely unfriendly. Not too long ago, a young fella named Geoffrey Towne was accepted by the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs. He was overjoyed for two reasons, Geoffrey said. 1. He might become an astronaut; and, 2. He would no longer have to launch himself into orbit on the California freeways.

At first glance, all freeways look pretty much the same. That is because they all are self-contained and set apart from the landscape they traverse. Perhaps one of the reasons that California motorists drive as if they are flying low is that they are.

Much of the freeway system is elevated and the driver gets a helicopter view of the roofs of real estate offices and the fecund TV antennas of suburbia. Brightly colored gas station signs float like barrage balloons on the end of long spires—thrust up to freeway eye level to lure motorists down to the subterranean fleshpots of Chevron Island or the antiseptic, "trust-us" whiteness of Union Oil restrooms.

FREEWAYS HAVE SPLIT communities, devoured homes, schools and hospitals and dammed neighborhood merchants off from their customers. They have thrown rushing torrents of T-Birds through placid residential neighborhoods.

Yet they have also opened up the congested sprawl of urban areas and provided inhabitants with new and exciting vistas of their cities. There are only two ways that the Los Angeles central area looks good. One is from an airplane at night. The other is from the Harbor Freeway driving north.

The old north-south trade route down Pacific Coast Highway revealed Long Beach as a crossroads cluster of real estate shanties and cheap motels set amidst a forest of utility poles. The new approach to Long Beach from the Long Beach Freeway reveals a city for the first time.

Freeways might have done more to provide belts of green through the urban sprawl if the state engineers would show even the slightest glimmer of esthetic taste. The state says the planting it does on freeway banks is "landscaping," but I say it is iceplant-and-ivy, and I say to hell with it.

THE CONCRETE ROADWAYS of newly opened freeways dazzle the eyes with their pristine whiteness. The roadways of old freeways are a dirty brown, the color of Pasadena smog. They have collected the grime, mud, oil and pulverized rubber from billions of tire miles. The new freeways have wide shoulders and long rolling approach ramps. The old freeways have short, dangerous entrances and exits and no shoulders at all. The Santa Ana and Pasadena Freeways can be for all practical purposes put out of action by a stalled Toyota.

Freeways are prolific and they reproduce by mitotic budding. Any freeway at any given time is giving birth to one or two buds, assisted by midwives in orange vests, hard hats and a fence of what appears to be megaphones borrowed from high school cheer leaders.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL THING about any freeway is its signs. As you race under them at 70 miles an hour—well, no, officer, it was really 65—these huge Erector-set shapes recite street and place names like poetry.

The freeways themselves at one time had names to roll around on the tongue and savor the taste of. There was the Arroyo Seco Freeway and the Ramona Freeway. Alas, local boosterism changed them to the Pasadena Freeway and the San Bernardino Freeway. Sentiment is sentiment, but votes is votes.

But the place names are still there on the signs. Three times each, the big overhead signs sonorously chant the song of each exit. Then smaller signs take over, singing the name again and telling you to get in the right hand lane. At last, a final sign switches you off and wishes you godspeed with a white arrow.

Going out the San Bernardino Freeway, the sign names become a threnody. Lark Ellen Avenue and Puddingstone State Park, Indian Hill Boulevard and the Claremont Colleges, Ontario summons you, and then Cucamonga and Guasti beg you to slow and linger a while. I am tempted and I pass them by with sadness. But I brighten at the thought that Loma Linda and Yucaipa still lie ahead.

NIGHT ON THE FREEWAY is as mysterious and awesome as night on the sea or night in an airplane in the sky. You gaze ahead up a hill and on the other side you see the flash of headlights even before the car comes over the hill.

With their low beams on, all cars are equal. You are seeing the glowing eyes of some night creature, but you cannot tell what until it passes. It may be a Volkswagen that with darkness has abandoned its neurotic daytime compulsion to pass Cadillacs and is now sleepily making its way homeward. It may be a barrel-throated diesel truck, storming down on you and snarling as it goes.

Shadows from the chain-link center crash fence make eerie patterns on the concrete as they dance in the headlights of passing traffic. The Botts-dots lane marker spark and die, spark and die.

In other days when man's highway was the sea, the shadows of night gave birth to strange tales and legends. On the freeways, too, I think I have seen once or twice a phantom camper, a Flying Dutchman, doomed to drive the roadways forever for some dark evil committed in an interchange long ago.

THE MOVIE STAR NEXT DOOR

By Lorraine Gauguin

Law, who stands 6-feet-5, with Marisia Nell in "Mr. Diabolik." He has signed to co-star with Charlton Heston in "The Hawaiians."

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE to live next door to a hippie movie star, especially when he is John Phillip Law? Just a few weeks ago he arrived home from location in New Mexico in a huge blue bus, which he had been living in. The bus had broken down and was towed into Los Angeles from Barstow by a weird middle-aged hippie-type who wouldn't charge him a penny and had a huge sign on the rear of the tow truck saying terrible things about his home town of Barstow. Things like "Barstow is Unfriendly," or "Barstow—drive right on through." It was the middle of the night and all the noise woke me and I went out and there was John, Hollywood's newest heart-throb, one arm in a sling (he had broken it in a parachute dive for the film "Gypsy Moths" with Burt Lancaster and because of it had been replaced in the picture) talking with the weirdo. I asked him how and where he had found the character.

"I was driving back to Los Angeles and the bus broke down. Nobody would touch it because it is so big. The Automobile Club looked the other way. Finally I asked this guy who had a sort of automobile junkyard if he would tow me home. He said sure and wouldn't accept a cent," explained John. Seems that the junkman was getting a bad time from local officials about keeping a junkyard in the middle of town—hence his feud with Barstow and everybody in it. John finally repaid the man by having his brother Tom and some friends stop off and paint his house on the way back from New Mexico.

This writer has been a friend of the Law family ever since his father built a large Spanish style house next door before John was born. The name John Law has become symbolic of a police officer and his father was a Los Angeles County sheriff's officer until his death. John Phillip never used his middle name until he became an actor; it is his legal name and was his father's name and his grandfather's before him, but people thought the name was contrived. Young Law used to tear up and down the Sunset Strip on his motorcycle (in fact, he still does) and he woke us up early in the morning working on cars right underneath my bedroom window. He and his brother would race those cars in drag races.

I suppose his dad would be upset by the characters that John associates with today, although, who knows, everybody has become accustomed to the long-haired hippies on the Sunset Strip. And actually John's hair is short—he wore a long auburn wig in "Skidoo," his recent film for Otto Preminger.

When John returned from "Gypsy Moths" with a broken arm he couldn't work so he joined his friends, the authors and composers of the hippie-rock musical "Hair," when they went to Mexico to open the show in Acapulco. I read in the newspapers soon after that that Mexican authorities had closed the show and expelled them from the country. I walked over next door as soon as I heard John outside working on his antique Bentley to ask what had happened. John laughed.

"Actually, as I wasn't in the show I wasn't asked to leave, but I came home anyway. They used Mexican actors and none of the Americans in the show took off their clothes. I think what annoyed the Mexican police was that during the show they carried silly signs like 'The Mexican Fuzz Use Acapulco Gold.' That did it. But, you know, here they carry similar signs and things like 'Nixon Is Rosemary's Baby.'"

If anybody keeps his cool it's John. Rarely does he allow himself to get upset. He's a health food addict and no matter where he goes he takes his blender. He refuses to take out starlets just for the publicity. "I don't know those girls, why should I take them out? I'm not interested in an image. As for liquor and cigarettes, I say why poison your lungs and give yourself cirrhosis. It's a bust.

"When I was a kid I wanted to be a policeman like my dad. I used to wear his uniform on Halloween and go out trick or treating. I grew to be so tall that one night people began to panic. The cops picked me up and told me never to wear dad's uniform again—or carry a gun." Seems that John had also included his dad's service revolver, and did he ever get what for when senior John Law discovered what his 6-foot-5 son had done.

When his father died his mother leased the house and they moved to Hawaii. "I went to the University of Hawaii and then came back to Hollywood into the old house and got a job selling cars with Ben Alexander Ford for about six months to make money for tuition at drama school. Then, my brother and I worked in a service station right down on Sunset. That's the work I enjoyed most. I found out that if everything in my acting career collapsed I could recapture myself working in a gas station. I know guys, the funniest people, and the most honest, work in gas stations. Right up the street there was a guy who had a Ph.D. in electrical engineering. He had worked for some outfit like the Rand Corporation or IBM and he'd gotten so drugged with all the complexities, all the things he 'had' to do, that he just took his savings and bought a gas station. He tinkers around and plays with cars—and if anything goes wrong for me that's just what I will do."

John refuses to appear in television and calls it "instant death" for an actor. He has been described as an actor racing toward success in slow motion. He's sandy-haired, stringbeany, 6-foot-5, and moves in a languid manner reminiscent of the late Gary Cooper. The girls dig him and vice versa.

After studying acting with Jeff Corey John decided to go to Europe and it was there that the local Hollywood boy made good. His first film was "High Infidelity," made in Rome and in it he played a homosexual. John is so completely masculine that he could afford to make his debut in that sort of role. To anyone else it would have been the suicide of their career. Norman Jewison, who was preparing "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming" took one look at him and signed him to play a Russian seaman, scared stiff by American life. His role called for little speech; his dialogue was in Russian, which he thinks he learned rather well. He was amusing and brilliant at the same time. He was labeled another Paul Newman or James Dean, but he doesn't like comparisons.

His third film was "Hurry Sundown" for Otto Preminger. On location John began dating a local waitress and became involved in an incident that was hushed up to avoid scandal. In the hot, steamy south, where they were filming, the townspeople didn't like the idea of being presented as racists and wanted the movie people to get out of town. One night as he was taking the girl home it was like something out of "Rebel Without a Cause." Her boyfriend and his gang were waiting for John and tried to intimidate him. The situation got out of hand and the boyfriend began taking pot shots at John.

"Bullets were flying everywhere. He was a lousy shot. We fought it out and I disarmed him. My dad had taught me how to do it years ago. I held him until the cops came. I felt sort of sorry for him."

I asked him if he wasn't worried and he merely shrugged, "No sweat."

After he completed "Hurry Sundown," he returned

The cops picked me up and told me never to wear dad's uniform again—or carry a gun." Seems that John had also included his dad's service revolver, and did he ever get what for when senior John Law discovered what his 6-foot-5 son had done.

When his father died his mother leased the house and they moved to Hawaii. "I went to the University of Hawaii and then came back to Hollywood into the old house and got a job selling cars with Ben Alexander Ford for about six months to make money for tuition at drama school. Then, my brother and I worked in a service station right down on Sunset. That's the work I enjoyed most. I found out that if everything in my acting career collapsed I could recapture myself working in a gas station. I know guys, the funniest people, and the most honest, work in gas stations. Right up the street there was a guy who had a Ph.D. in electrical engineering. He had worked for some outfit like the Rand Corporation or IBM and he'd gotten so drugged with all the complexities, all the things he 'had' to do, that he just took his savings and bought a gas station. He tinkers around and plays with cars—and if anything goes wrong for me that's just what I will do."

John refuses to appear in television and calls it "instant death" for an actor. He has been described as an actor racing toward success in slow motion. He's sandy-haired, stringbeany, 6-foot-5, and moves in a languid manner reminiscent of the late Gary Cooper. The girls dig him and vice versa.

After studying acting with Jeff Corey John decided to go to Europe and it was there that the local Hollywood boy made good. His first film was "High Infidelity," made in Rome and in it he played a homosexual. John is so completely masculine that he could afford to make his debut in that sort of role. To anyone else it would have been the suicide of their career. Norman Jewison, who was preparing "The Russians Are Coming, The Russians Are Coming" took one look at him and signed him to play a Russian seaman, scared stiff by American life. His role called for little speech; his dialogue was in Russian, which he thinks he learned rather well. He was amusing and brilliant at the same time. He was labeled another Paul Newman or James Dean, but he doesn't like comparisons.

His third film was "Hurry Sundown" for Otto Preminger. On location John began dating a local waitress and became involved in an incident that was hushed up to avoid scandal. In the hot, steamy south, where they were filming, the townspeople didn't like the idea of being presented as racists and wanted the movie people to get out of town. One night as he was taking the girl home it was like something out of "Rebel Without a Cause." Her boyfriend and his gang were waiting for John and tried to intimidate him. The situation got out of hand and the boyfriend began taking pot shots at John.

"Bullets were flying everywhere. He was a lousy shot. We fought it out and I disarmed him. My dad had taught me how to do it years ago. I held him until the cops came. I felt sort of sorry for him."

I asked him if he wasn't worried and he merely shrugged, "No sweat."

After he completed "Hurry Sundown," he returned

MORE THAN A HALF CENTURY AGO IT WAS KNOWN AS THE CONEY ISLAND OF THE PACIFIC

Seal Beach: City With a Past—and Future

By Sarah Litchfield Sawyer

Seal Beach does not boast the big amusement area that it did when it was "the Coney Island of the Pacific," but its surf and beach still draw many nonresidents as well as residents.

—Staff Photo

ANYONE DRIVING along Pacific Coast Highway between Huntington Beach and Long Beach would never suspect that the little in-between city of Seal Beach was once the "Coney Island of the Pacific," the "Los Angeles Joy Spot!" where on Sunday afternoons an estimated 200,000 spectators watched the French Air-Demon, Joe Boquel, loop-the-loop on the beach.

Yes, Seal Beach is a city with quite a past. Let's take a look at her story.

In 1903, Philip A. Stanton, a California civic and political leader, acquired a parcel of land which he planned to develop into a "high class" resort. The property lay along the Pacific Coast, adjoining Long Beach at Alamitos Bay and extending south for a mile to Anaheim Bay. Stanton intended to call his resort Bay City. But he didn't, because the Post Office Department objected. Department officials said this name would foul up mail addressed to San Francisco — the original "Bay City."

Stanton had to decide on another name quickly, for he was planning to start an advertising campaign for his resort. One morning as he stood on the upstairs balcony of his house on Ocean Avenue, he watched the seals playing on the beach and got an idea. "They are the first residents of my beach," thought Stanton, "so why not call my resort Seal Beach, in recognition of these California seals?"

He had already organized the Bayside Land Co., with a reported half million dollars ready for development. Even at this time a few summer cottages dotted the beach and at Anaheim Landing a group of German farmers had built a wharf and a large warehouse just inside the bay entrance. German burghers who colonized Anaheim in 1857 decided that, if their colony was to prosper, it must have an outlet to the sea. Then they could ship their products of the Santa Ana Valley — their wine, sheep and wool — to the San Francisco Bay area much faster than by a long haul overland. In return, they could import lumber, clothing and household goods more easily.

Sometimes on hot, summer weekends they brought their families to Anaheim Landing for a picnic on the beach. The little children waded in the shallow water and the adults and older children who could swim used the warehouse as a bathhouse. A quaint picture hangs on the wall in the Seal Beach City Hall, taken in 1888 when the Grand Army of the Republic held its Encampment at Anaheim Landing. It shows some 25 adults wearing black bathing suits, standing waist deep in the water. Behind them, a hundred or more persons are lined up on the wharf, watching.

The Bayside Land Co. made rapid progress with its construction projects. In 1904, a year after Stanton acquired the Seal Beach property, the Pacific Electric Co. began regular train service from Los Angeles to Newport Beach, which proved a great incentive to prospective buyers and investors in Stanton's historic property.

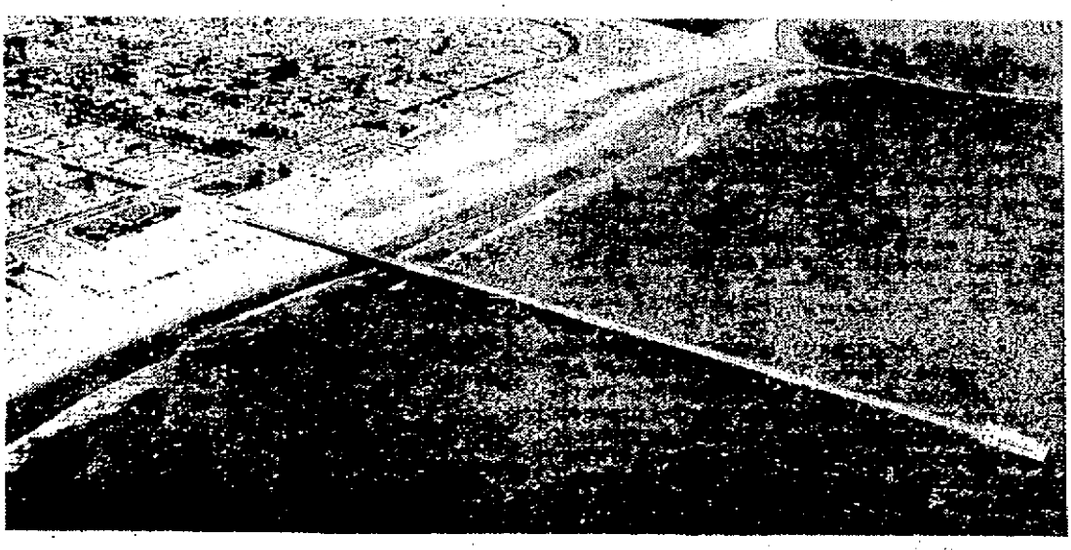

The Bayside Land Co. constructed the first pier in 1906 as an added attraction for visitors. It was 1,860 feet long, the longest south of San Francisco. By 1913, a magnificent bathhouse with 500 rooms was in operation. It was built on the right side of the pier, opposite the Jewel City Cafe — labeled "one of the most exquisite and high class cafes in America." It "catered to the most fastidious," while the Rathskeller was famous for its good cheer.

A mile-long cement boulevard, rivaling Atlantic City's Boardwalk, was lined with concessions — a merry-go-round, miniature electric cars, a giant roller-coaster moved from the San Francisco World's Fair. Also transferred from there was a great battery of lights, 50 scintillators with ornamental light standards which produced brilliant lighting effects. "Under their rainbow rays, night surfing becomes a fad at Seal Beach. Fireworks made in our own factory, coupled with the marvelous lighting effects, turn Seal Beach into a brilliant garden of wondrous beauty," read the publicity.

The Bayside Land Co. was fortunate in hiring Frank Burt as general manager of the amusement department. Reported to be one of the finest amusement men in the world, he believed strongly in advertising. (His last job was director of concessions and admissions for the San Francisco Exposition). He used various media, he promoted the resort as the "Coney Island of the Pacific, Only 45 Minutes From Broadway, Los Angeles" . . . "Seal Beach — the Resort of the Rich and Prosperous Back Country of Orange County" . . . "The Beach Without an Undertow."

One million people visited Seal Beach in 1916. Mack Sennett used Seal Beach for some of his famous bathing-girl movies and the resort became so popular that many predicted the population would reach 20,000 by 1920. Instead, it dwindled fast. The resort acquired a reputation of being "too sporty." World War I took its toll and the Great Depression of 1929 capped the decline. The amusements closed, the equipment was either torn down or sold at auction, and the brilliant "Amusement Era" of Seal Beach was at an end.

In the late 1930s Seal Beach began to build again, this time on a more substantial foundation. Under the Work Projects Administration, Seal Beach put in a new

Much About Bedrooms

By Ellen Krec

A RECURRING dream of mine is to have a bedroom-sitting room combination. I don't know where the super-large bedroom disappeared to. I guess the architects assume we all rise and run, so homes today come equipped with space only for bed, chest and chair. Even king-size beds give a wall-to-wall sleeping unit.

Adding to my ever-expanding store of knowledge was a Southern California Homemaker Panel on the Master Bedroom.

Unfortunately the discussion was not open to the public, only dealers, manufacturers, and the press. The luncheon at the Los Angeles Furniture Mart featured television newscaster Jerry Dunphy as panel moderator.

Eight women, each married from 15 to 24 years with a total of 28 children, answered the intelligent witticisms of the handsome video personality.

With answers to the questions concerning bedroom size, mattress type and quality as well as buying habits, the results were most informative and should certainly be of interest to husbands and dealers.

Sharing the panel was Mrs. Douglas Pettit of Long Beach. Mrs. Pettit has been married to her tax assessor husband for 18 years. They sleep in a double bed.

The attractive Mrs. Pettit joined the majority of the women in their enthusiasm for desired bedroom updating.

It seems the bedroom no longer serves as just sleeping quarters, according to Dunphy. It manages to survive as a theater with the advent of television, a gym with all the exercise equipment, sick bay — frequently, and a sewing-hobby room.

And with all that, the women mentioned another change when the children become teen-agers. The bedroom becomes a self-contained retreat while the home belongs to the children!

With incomes ranging from $8,000 to $20,000 each year, the families whose mothers answered the lively questions reported a desire for larger bedrooms, more storage, larger beds and lounging furniture.

Interior BOUTIQUE

The women are dogged shoppers but lean toward home-town suppliers.

They admit they are more confident when they know the merchant, but this doesn't really influence the time involved in selection.

The panel expressed a desire for more knowledgeable salesmen since the inside of a mattress still bears a marked resemblance to a sealed tomb.

Some of the eight family mattresses have served adequately for up to 20 years, and this posed another question to a man ready to answer.

The Salvation Army welcomes old bedding with open arms and the National Assn. of Bedding Manufacturers is working closely with that highly regarded agency. If you buy a mattress in the next few months, your dealer will supply you not only with bright new sleep but with disposal informatin to prevent garage clutter.

Admittedly the women were confused when it came time to buy and other than a distinct desire for a larger scale mattress, they had no idea what to look for . . . so I thought perhaps I could help enlighten them.

I know it isn't any fun spending your loot on a mattress when you really prefer a beautiful new bedspread, but don't neglect quality for beauty.

Naturally, when I want advice I head directly for the experts, and Decorative Sleep, a wholesale sleep accessory shop in Los Angeles, provided me with some tops in tips from Ron Baron, their on-the-staff interior decorator.

According to expert-in-residence Baron, it isn't always the name you purchase that means the best. All brands carry top-to-bottom mattresses. The suggestion is to be sure of the brand, then buy the top quality. That seems simple enough, but why?

Coils make the difference. The number of coils in a mattress ranges from Simmons' top 837 coils to bottom, comparable size mattresses with 137. After the count it makes a difference whether they are in individual pockets, which means they move individually, or whether they are tied together, in which case the whole unit moves up and down. You can see that with the individual coil, the movement is only a minor, undisturbing one but the full unit means you move your bedmate each time you turn.

Ticking means more than just the coverup. It means the differnce between wearing the guaranteed 15 years-plus to wearing out in less than a year in some instances.

The weight of the ticking, not the pattern, is the thing to watch. The ideal weight is eight-ounce ticking. Six-ounce fabric is adequate, and anything under that is a gamble.

In addition to coil count and ticking, there is filling, and dacron is the best choice.

Important also is the box spring. The better ones are hand tied, as opposed to the machine-made unit. The individual unit is tied by hand eight different ways and equals the wearability of a fine sofa.

The tension of the steel in the mattress determines the firmness and there are two types — regular firm and extra firm. Doctors recommend the more firm mattress, but if you can't agree, the way to find out is lie down on the mattress before you purchase it.

It takes a week at least to adjust to a new mattress, and don't try to return it . . . . it's against the law to return upholstered furnishings.

If the store makes an exception, the law demands the mattress be fumigated and tagged, making it second-hand merchandise.

If you are king-size minded, buy two box springs and a king top for stronger middle support. Also, this is easier to get into some smaller quarters.

You should turn a new mattress every two or three weeks for the first year of use, then twice a year is suggested.

You may have any shape mattress made you desire from circular to horseshoe, and even wall-to-wall, but the most delightful new approach to sleep came via hospital and television to the bedroom. The adjustable bed. The bed comes in all sizes and raises and lowers with a purring motor. The knees come up and the head adjusts for reading, television or just plain sciatica.

My one question is if you have a double or king-size bed, what happens if your partner wants to move something you don't — do both sides move individually?

I know a good many parents who would like to see a bed rise up and dump out the late-to-school sleepers . . . it's a thought!

Much About Bedrooms

By Ellen Krec

A RECURRING dream of mine is to have a bedroom-sitting room combination. I don't know where the super-large bedroom disappeared to. I guess the architects assume we all rise and run, so homes today come equipped with space only for bed, chest and chair. Even king-size beds give a wall-to-wall sleeping unit.

Adding to my ever-expanding store of knowledge was a Southern California Homemaker Panel on the Master Bedroom.

Unfortunately the discussion was not open to the public, only dealers, manufacturers, and the press. The luncheon at the Los Angeles Furniture Mart featured television newscaster Jerry Dunphy as panel moderator.

Eight women, each married from 15 to 24 years with a total of 28 children, answered the intelligent witticisms of the handsome video personality.

With answers to the questions concerning bedroom size, mattress type and quality as well as buying habits, the results were most informative and should certainly be of interest to husbands and dealers.

Sharing the panel was Mrs. Douglas Pettit of Long Beach. Mrs. Pettit has been married to her tax assessor husband for 18 years. They sleep in a double bed.

The attractive Mrs. Pettit joined the majority of the women in their enthusiasm for desired bedroom updating.

It seems the bedroom no longer serves as just sleeping quarters, according to Dunphy. It manages to survive as a theater with the advent of television, a gym with all the exercise equipment, sick bay — frequently, and a sewing-hobby room.

And with all that, the women mentioned another change when the children become teen-agers. The bedroom becomes a self-contained retreat while the home belongs to the children!

With incomes ranging from $8,000 to $20,000 each year, the families whose mothers answered the lively questions reported a desire for larger bedrooms, more storage, larger beds and lounging furniture.

Interior BOUTIQUE

The women are dogged shoppers but lean toward home-town suppliers.

They admit they are more confident when they know the merchant, but this doesn't really influence the time involved in selection.

The panel expressed a desire for more knowledgeable salesmen since the inside of a mattress still bears a marked resemblance to a sealed tomb.

Some of the eight family mattresses have served adequately for up to 20 years, and this posed another question to a man ready to answer.

The Salvation Army welcomes old bedding with open arms and the National Assn. of Bedding Manufacturers is working closely with that highly regarded agency. If you buy a mattress in the next few months, your dealer will supply you not only with bright new sleep but with disposal informatin to prevent garage clutter.

Admittedly the women were confused when it came time to buy and other than a distinct desire for a larger scale mattress, they had no idea what to look for . . . so I thought perhaps I could help enlighten them.

I know it isn't any fun spending your loot on a mattress when you really prefer a beautiful new bedspread, but don't neglect quality for beauty.

Naturally, when I want advice I head directly for the experts, and Decorative Sleep, a wholesale sleep accessory shop in Los Angeles, provided me with some tops in tips from Ron Baron, their on-the-staff interior decorator.

According to expert-in-residence Baron, it isn't always the name you purchase that means the best. All brands carry top-to-bottom mattresses. The suggestion is to be sure of the brand, then buy the top quality. That seems simple enough, but why?

Coils make the difference. The number of coils in a mattress ranges from Simmons' top 837 coils to bottom, comparable size mattresses with 137. After the count it makes a difference whether they are in individual pockets, which means they move individually, or whether they are tied together, in which case the whole unit moves up and down. You can see that with the individual coil, the movement is only a minor, undisturbing one but the full unit means you move your bedmate each time you turn.

Ticking means more than just the coverup. It means the difference between wearing the guaranteed 15 years-plus to wearing out in less than a year in some instances.

The weight of the ticking, not the pattern, is the thing to watch. The ideal weight is eight-ounce ticking. Six-ounce fabric is adequate, and anything under that is a gamble.

In addition to coil count and ticking, there is filling, and dacron is the best choice.

Important also is the box spring. The better ones are hand tied, as opposed to the machine-made unit. The individual unit is tied by hand eight different ways and equals the wearability of a fine sofa.

The tension of the steel in the mattress determines the firmness and there are two types — regular firm and extra firm. Doctors recommend the more firm mattress, but if you can't agree, the way to find out is lie down on the mattress before you purchase it.

It takes a week at least to adjust to a new mattress, and don't try to return it . . . . it's against the law to return upholstered furnishings.

If the store makes an exception, the law demands the mattress be fumigated and tagged, making it second-hand merchandise.

If you are king-size minded, buy two box springs and a king top for stronger middle support. Also, this is easier to get into some smaller quarters.

You should turn a new mattress every two or three weeks for the first year of use, then twice a year is suggested.

You may have any shape mattress made you desire from circular to horseshoe, and even wall-to-wall, but the most delightful new approach to sleep came via hospital and television to the bedroom. The adjustable bed. The bed comes in all sizes and raises and lowers with a purring motor. The knees come up and the head adjusts for reading, television or just plain sciatica.

My one question is if you have a double or king-size bed, what happens if your partner wants to move something you don't — do both sides move individually?

SEAL BEACH

sewer plant, new water works and a new municipal pier, five feet longer than the old one, which had to be torn down because it was no longer safe. The Los Angeles Gas and Electric Co. constructed a power plant with a very tall smokestack, which served as a guide for sailors returning from Catalina Island until the earthquake of 1933 toppled the upper half.

The Dow Chemical Co. opened a plant in 1941, on 13 acres adjoining the San Gabriel River, for extracting iodine from waste oil brine from nearby oil wells. Probably few persons were aware that, at the peak of production, this million-dollar plant processed some 800,000 gallons of brine daily.

Early in 1944 residents of Anaheim Landing received notice that the Navy needed 3,500 acres of land for a huge installation project — all homes and buildings must be removed immediately. Regretfully, the people left, and in another six months the Ammunition and Net Depot was ready to begin operations. This U.S. Naval Weapons Station today spreads over a major part of Seal Beach. And, in recent years a giant complex has been constructed at Bay Boulevard and Westminster Avenue by North American-Rockwell Corp. where the second stage booster for the Apollo moon shot project is being manufactured. Bay Boulevard has become a four-lane highway.

In 1961 the city annexed 7.2 square miles, which included 541 acres of the old Hellman Ranch where Ross Cortese has developed a retirement community (Leisure World) for persons over 52 — a project which has added some 10,000 new residents. In 1964, Seal Beach took another giant step by annexing 880 acres north of the San Diego Freeway and south of the Naval Air Station at Los Alamitos, where approximately 2,000 homes are to be built. In 1968 the last sizable plot of ground remaining in Seal Beach was purchased for development after two years of negotiations and many problems. Called Suburbia, this 21-acre development, just off Long Beach-Marina, is a walled community of beautiful homes, a great addition to Seal Beach.

Seal Beach's population, which was 3,553 in 1950 and 6,994 in 1960, now is estimated at 23,000.

The business of the city is transacted at City Hall, situated at Eighth Street and Central Avenue. The city operates under a city charter ratified by the State Legislature in 1964, with a council-manager form of municipal government. Five councilmen are elected by their districts for four-year terms. The mayor is elected by the council, and the council appoints a city manager, who is responsible for the activities of the various departments. The mayor is Lloyd E. Gummere and the city manager is Lee Risner.

The city's taxes are the fourth lowest in the county.

For parents with children, Seal Beach is a good place in which to live. The city has excellent schools, a well staffed library and a safe beach which may be used the year round.

The California seals have long since gone, but today's residents find Seal Beach a pleasant place in which to live, to relax and to enjoy life. They believe it is a city of progress, leisure and opportunity.

Time on Your Hands

By Steve Ellingson

Room Dramatizers.

IF YOU HAVE time on your hands, and if the walls of your home are dull and lifeless, clock it to 'em with an attractive, cordless, battery-operated wall clock. Let's face it, clock-watching has become better than ever. The three clocks shown here with Susan Flannery of NBC's "Days of Our Lives" series do much, much more than merely tell the time. They accent a wall, help to dramatize an entire room or add emphasis to a piece of furniture.

These clocks, like pictures, may be hung any place you want them, thanks to the long-lasting transistors and batteries. No electric outlets are necessary and, of course, no winding or ticking. They will continue to operate for well over one year with a single flashlight battery.

The three clocks pictured are exceedingly easy to make. Furthermore, they are inexpensive when you make them yourself. The sunflower, old-fashioned locomotive, and abstract designs give you a variety to choose from for different locations. A simplified papier mache technique is used on ¼ inch plywood faces; a method that can be successfully achieved even by children. The battery-powered, and inexpensive, mechanisms are easily attached to the backs. What could be simpler or more fun? Excepting for the works, scraps are all you need for this project. If your local dealer does not carry the electric movement, the pattern tells where it may be obtained.

To order the easy-to-follow, full-size patterns number 468 for making all three of the clocks shown, send $1 (add 25c per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to:

WORKSHOP

Time on Your Hands

By Steve Ellingson

Room Dramatizers.

IF YOU HAVE time on your hands, and if the walls of your home are dull and lifeless, clock it to 'em with an attractive, cordless, battery-operated wall clock. Let's face it, clock-watching has become better than ever. The three clocks shown here with Susan Flannery of NBC's "Days of Our Lives" series do much, much more than merely tell the time. They accent a wall, help to dramatize an entire room or add emphasis to a piece of furniture.

These clocks, like pictures, may be hung any place you want them, thanks to the long-lasting transistors and batteries. No electric outlets are necessary and, of course, no winding or ticking. They will continue to operate for well over one year with a single flashlight battery.

The three clocks pictured are exceedingly easy to make. Furthermore, they are inexpensive when you make them yourself. The sunflower, old-fashioned locomotive, and abstract designs give you a variety to choose from for different locations. A simplified papier mache technique is used on ¼ inch plywood faces; a method that can be successfully achieved even by children. The battery-powered, and inexpensive, mechanisms are easily attached to the backs. What could be simpler or more fun? Excepting for the works, scraps are all you need for this project. If your local dealer does not carry the electric movement, the pattern tells where it may be obtained.

To order the easy-to-follow, full-size patterns number 468 for making all three of the clocks shown, send $1 (add 25c per pattern for airmail delivery) by currency, check or money order to:

Fruit Puff

A rich finale.

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

PERFECT FOR buffet suppers or other special gatherings, Cream Cheese Fruit Puff is a cheesecake type dessert, made easy.

This deliciously rich finale features refrigerated turnover pastries — apple, cherry or blueberry — as the convenient head start.

To make the flaky pastry base, simply pat the refrigerated dough into a baking pan. Then, fill with a fluffy cream cheese mixture and bake.

After cooling, top the dessert with a "fruit icing" made by combining the packaged icing and turnover fruit filling.

Because of its richness, plan to serve your guests small wedges of the Fruit Puff along with steaming cups of freshly brewed coffee or demitasse.

CHEESE FRUIT PUFF

- 1 package (14 oz.) refrigerated turnover pastries
- 1 package (8 oz.) cream cheese, softened
- ½ cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- ½ teaspoon vanilla
- ⅛ tsp. salt
- 2 eggs

Oven 350°. 10 to 12 servings.

Separate pastry dough into 8 squares. Press squares over sides and bottom of 8 or 9-inch round cake pan. Firmly press all dough to shape of pan, sealing edges well.

In small mixer bowl, beat softened cream cheese until fluffy. Gradually blend in sugar, lemon juice, vanilla and salt. Add eggs one at a time, blending well after each. Pour filling into pastry-lined cake pan. Bake at 350° for 25 to 30 minutes or until puffed and center is set. Cool to room temperature.

Combine fruit filling and icing. Spread over top of cooled cheese filling. Store any leftover dessert in refrigerator.

Recipe of the Week

ELMER WHITTAKER, Elm St., R.F.D. 1, Taunton, Mass., wins the $5 prize this week.

NEW ENGLAND SNOW PUDDING

- 3 envelopes of gelatin
- 3 cups cold water
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ¼ cup fresh lemon juice
- 3 egg whites, stiffly beaten

VANILLA SAUCE

- 1 cup sugar
- 3 egg yolks
- ½ tsp. salt
- 1 cup warm milk
- 1 tsp. vanilla

Pudding: Soak the gelatin in ¼ cup cold water; dissolve in 2¾ cups boiling water. Add sugar and lemon juice. Strain and set aside to cool. Stir mixture occasionally until quite thick. Beat with egg beater until frothy, then add the egg whites. Continue beating until stiff enough to hold shape. Place in molding dish to refrigerate.

Sauce: Mix the sugar, egg yolks and salt and beat with egg beater. Add warm milk. Cook in double boiler for 15-20 minutes then add vanilla. Chill then serve over pudding. SERVES 4.

A Libertarian's Views

CLASSICAL conservatism has survived the revolutions of the last two centuries and remains strong during social turmoil today, believes Millikan High School junior Christopher Marks.

Preferring to be called a libertarian — "because it's more exact" — Chris, 16, thinks the principles of individual freedom at the core of classical conservatism can be made to work even in the current radical political context.

Chris, who lives at 2051 Snowden Ave., Long Beach, is thinking about a career in business after attending college, and is considering participation in politics. His views:

—It isn't unusual anymore for someone my age to be vitally interested in politics. Youths of all political viewpoints are rapidly becoming the chief force in politics as well as in overall culture. This phenomenon is taking place at the exact time many radical leftist students are declaring that the American system is closed to them. This just isn't the truth.

—When people find out I am in Young Americans for Freedom, they stereotype me as a narrow-minded conservative. When they find out that I work on an underground newspaper they may think I'm a Communist or something. Both ideas are without basis. All this proves is that people categorize without thinking. The libertarian — because of his stress on the value of individual freedom — can combine the best of the radical and conservative positions.

In the high school world, as in national politics, the libertarian and the radical differ mostly on tactics. Often I agree with many radical calls for reform in the American system at large or in particular institutions like high school. But the "any means necessary" rationale for change is unacceptable.

—The existing rule which does not allow political groups on a high school campus should be repealed. I'm not saying that political action in high school can duplicate action at college campuses or in the community. You can't automatically transplant community or national issues to a high school and expect them to grow. But political groups, once legitimatized, can have value in high school if they relate themselves to high school problems.

—For one thing, student activist movements should be less hot about building a Utopia and more concerned with the hard work of increasing individual freedoms on campus. Dress regulations should be abolished. More forums with controversial speakers should be held. Some school functions like assemblies should be put on a voluntary basis, and maybe one day a week could be set aside as an Option Day for students to choose among several alternative activities.

—In other words, I am not interested in just being free from certain restrictions. I think we have to be free for something. It is a positive freedom, a working freedom gaining its health from opposing viewpoints in an atmosphere of respect.

—Students should have a voice in class planning and academic affairs, but it should be a voice in proportion to the students' competence in these matters. Strikes only serve to harden the minds of administrators. School officials, I think, will give students more power if students accept gradual change and show their willingness and responsibility. Obviously, high school isn't an end. We're just beginning. — Steve Stowe.

Retreat, Not Retirement

By Ellen Krec

WHEN children have grown and married, the average person considers the joyful possibility of quiet, little-care apartment life. Not so with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hutcherson.

"I want a home large enough to move about in without bumping into each other," says Hutcherson. "We both like quiet and we have no plans for retirement — for at least 10 years — so we want to live happily and comfortably in elegant surroundings."

Comfortable, elegant surroundings in the single-level, contemporary El Dorado Park Estates home in Long Beach are due in part to the excellent advice sought from interior designer Etta Marie Hebert.

The Hutchersons combine career, family and home with satisfaction. Hutcherson is business agent for the retail clerks' union while Mrs. Hutcherson is branch secretary of Pacific Finance Co.

Two daughters, one son and a granddaughter supply the Hutchersons with loving family activity.

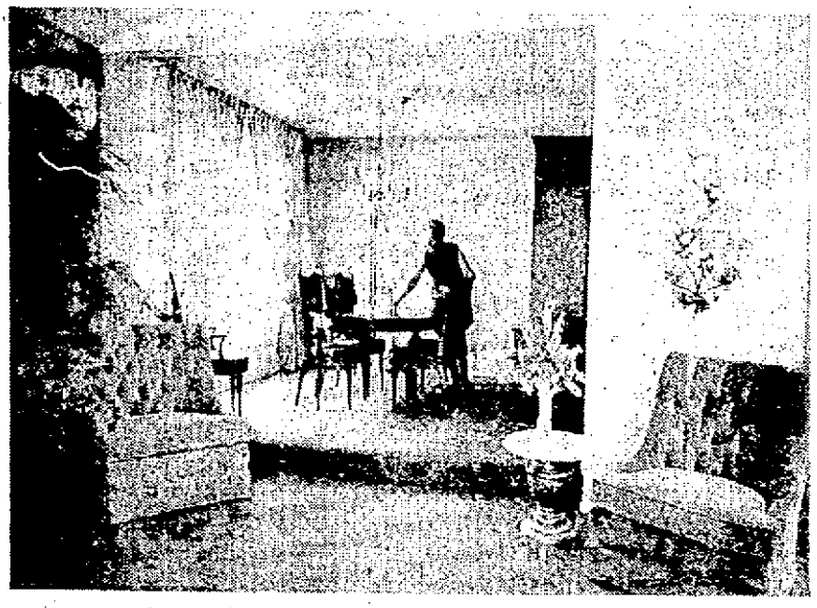

Only Betty Anne, 21, lives at home, but a summer marriage is in the offing so her "Crazy Daisy" bedroom may become a happy guestroom.

A former home in the Wrigley area was greatly appreciated but badly in need of remodeling, so the Hutchersons decided a fresh new approach was in order.

The move was made in September and by incorporating some of the furnishings from the previous home with the new interior concept, the Hutchersons plan to complete the remainder of the home at a slower pace.

Hutcherson always has been responsible for the exterior design. The landscaping in the front was accomplished through professional design, but the rear area is his place to relax even before it is finished!

After building the patio and the pool at the previous home, Hutcherson felt a hobby change might be in order. The family still likes water, so a volcanic rock fountain is in the process of installation at the corner of the nearly completed patio. The water flows into a small reflection pool at the base. Mounds of shrubs will prevent a too-flat appearance to the rectangular yard. Lights have been installed by Hutcherson for an audio-visual display from the family room and kitchen.

Mrs. Robert Hutcherson arranges formal dining area.

The two-story foyer has single-level double doors with a glass panel at the top. The floating panel furnished excellent lighting to the urn and cherub wallcovering. A diminutive, two-legged table is balanced by an overscale black and gold mirror.

Del Piso tile is the foyer base which flows into a brick vinyl at the family room.

A balcony dining room overlooks the living room and each complements the other by the selection of draperies and carpeting.

Draperies at the living room window follow the slant of the ceiling and are antique satin faced and tied back with the carpet color, olive.

The full wall backing the Palo Verde stone fireplace was covered with antique mirror while the firepit was framed in white.

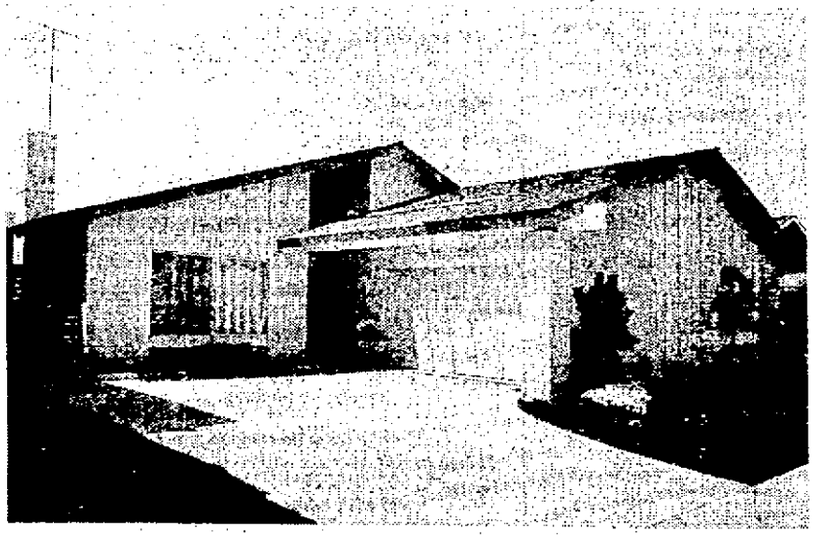

Tangerine velvet occasional chairs flank the carpeted step to the dining area while olive, tangerine and natural cut velvet sofas square the window corner.

Heavily carved gold accented tables form the lamp foundation and sofa tables.

With the exception of the gold foil walls in the dining area, the walls all are painted white.

Italian contemporary funiture is ideally scaled to shape the dining design. In an unusual treatment the wallpaper was used to cover the exit to the kitchen, including door and molding.

"Nothing is new in the family room," says Mrs. Hutcherson, but it all fits together in the large-open-to-the-kitchen room.

A light divider is supplied by a colorful beaded curtain dropped between the two rooms.

The kitchen allows space for dining at comfortable wrought iron furniture. Splashy gold, orange and olive print formed the Roman shades at the kitchen window and the tie-back over the natural linen draperies in the family room completes the flow-together appearance used throughout the home.

"I fell in love with the spacious bedroom," says Mrs. Hutcherson. "We decided to use a two-room bedroom which gave us space for our king-size bed, a slightly draped section for our sitting room and still another sheltered alcove for sewing and just sitting."

Shrimp was the pastel color note used in the master bedroom with olive carpeting.

Sheer, ceiling-hung tie-backs give light interest to the subtle wall covering and also present a semi-sheltered feeling to the sitting room. Hourglass lamps drop at the bedside from gold chains.

The master bath continues with shrimp painted cabinets and flocked cherub wall mural.

"We hate to leave home," says Mrs. Hutcherson. "I think our bedroom is prettier than any posh hotel!"

Betty Anne's bath has the other half of the cherub mural and is near enough to the utility room and rear exit to serve as a guest bath.

Fresh as a daisy is the over-all appearance of Betty Anne's room.

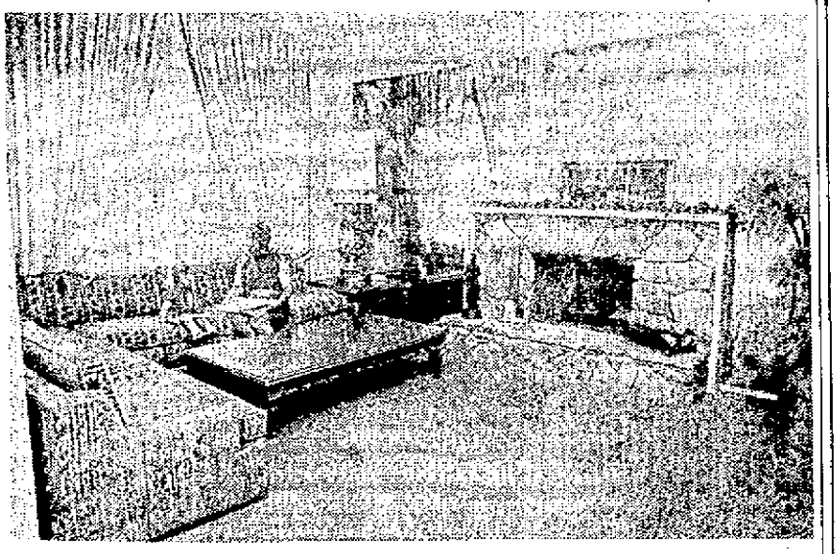

Pastel yellow walls and furniture are highlighted by a daisy print spread. Flocked daisies on nylon panels are the window cover and Betty couldn't resist a bouquet of daisies to accent her yellow painted hamper.

"We need a room for our granddaughter, Jennifer, so the guest room is exclusively hers with crib and toys," says her grandmother.

White painted brick columns stud the exterior of the two-roof-level home in the peaceful quiet neighborhood. An open fascia adds interest to the garage entrance.

As the roof drops to shield the entrance, the exposed section forms a truncated light well.

The solid street facade is landscaped simply with pine and low juniper in redwood chip planting beds.

Mrs. Hutcherson chats with granddaughter Jennifer.

Buying a swimming pool?

Watch out for pool sharks!

During the past 10 years, over 200 California swimming pool companies either went under or changed their names. Hundreds of pool owners were left high and dry with nothing to swim in except a sea of regrets.

The best way to avoid pool sharks and fishy deals is to deal with a pool company whose responsibility is established and documented. Over 40,000 people have made their decision for Anthony Pools. Their endorsement has made Anthony the largest, soundest and most reliable pool company in the entire world, the only pool company listed on the American and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges. Building pools for 25 years at fair competitive prices and providing prompt service and superb engineering—Anthony's reputation is as solid as its pool foundations.

An Anthony pool is all Anthony—all parts and all accessories are manufactured and assembled at Anthony's 13-acre factory. You deal with a major responsible company, not a small, independent franchised dealer. Over the years—if little problems should develop, you cry on one shoulder only at the local Authorized Anthony Service Center.

Prices? They begin as low as $1,995. Since Anthony builds more pools than any other pool builder, such high sales volume allows for very low competitive pricing.

If you're planning to take the plunge, look to Anthony who makes pool buying absolutely sharkproof! Fill out the coupon. Or phone. Now!

We're All on Shaky Ground

IF WE HAVEN'T ALL SLID into the ocean by this time as the doomsayers predicted for California, I'd like to make it known that a first-rate book on earthquakes has just been published, called "Earthquake Country: How, Why and Where Earthquakes Strike in California" (Lane Books, Menlo Park, $2.95). It's by Robert Iacopi.

Dr. Charles F. Richter, the man who devised the Richter scale for measuring earthquake intensities, calls it a significant book, in his foreword. He particularly likes the book because it is neither over-technical nor over-simplified. If an expert like Dr. Richter is willing to let his name be associated with the book, you may be sure it is factually accurate.

Most people think the San Andreas Fault is the only one in California. It's merely the largest. Like Californians themselves (or anyone else), California is full of faults. By no means all earthquakes have originated with the San Andreas Fault. People write to Dr. Richter and ask him, since they live far from the San Andreas Fault, aren't they safe from earthquake danger? Not so; there is no place in California exempt from the risk of a quake.

Here are a few of the other faults:

Newport-Inglewood Fault: It was unknown until 1920, author Iacopi says, "when a small earthquake told seismologists that there was an active break along the coast. If there were any doubts about activity, they were dispelled in 1933, when the disastrous Long Beach earthquake rattled the coast."

Garlock Fault: The second largest one in the state, "it has made several large contributions to the landscape, including the mountain ranges that form the northern edges of the Mojave Desert."

Santa Ynez Fault: From it originated the spectacular 1925 Santa Barbara Quake.

The largest quake in recorded California history was the one that originated in 1872 in the Owens Valley branch of the Sierra Nevada Fault.

The White Wolf Fault is a short, seemingly insignificant one, but in 1952 it generated the greatest quake in California since the one in San Francisco in 1906.

There are a myriad of facts about earthquakes in this book; and there are some 175 photographs, diagrams, maps and charts. How quakes happen, why, what regions are most earthquake prone, what to do in a quake, how to prevent unnecessary damage, are among the many things author Iacopi deals with.

Viva Libertad

THE LAST EMPEROR. By Bob and Jan Young. Julian Messner. $3.95.

This slim book, 192 pages, is useful, charming and excellent. It condenses the history of Mexico from prehistoric times to today in simple but dramatic style.

The last emperor was Maximilian, the brave, tragic puppet of France's Napoleon the "Little." His execution in 1867 marked the end of Mexico's struggle for freedom from foreign powers.

Mexico's long history is romantic, heroic, often tragic. Extraordinary leaders appeared again and again. Some were peasants, some were adventurers, some sophisticated aristocrats. The Youngs give us tantalizing glimpses of them.

A proper use of this book would be as an introduction to further reading. It gives a brief panorama which invites one to adventure into book after book.

Bob and Jan Young, seasoned freelance writers, have written numerous articles and books. They contribute frequently to Southland Magazine. — Mark Clutter.

Quick on the Draw

THE GUNFIGHTER: Man or Myth? By Joseph G. Rosa. University of Oklahoma Press. $5.95.

There's no doubt the leadslingers of the old Wild West were real. The question is whether or not they were the knights in armor, the Robin Hoods they've been branded. Even that's not hard to answer. But then this reviewer has little time for writers who go around shooting down legends. They're sneakin' cowards worse than the one that gunned down Mr. Howard.

Rosa's is a fresh view for he is an Englishman and he writes that his approach should offer a new outlook. His book is rather sociological. He explains the circumstances that brought about the era—the post Civil War times when greed for land and gold sent desperate men away from the haunts of civilization and from the law. In sparsely settled regions men had to do their own policing.

Rosa takes a look at the derivation of the word "gunfighter." Actually, the term is a product of the movies. The notorious Clay Allison called himself a "shootist!"

Gunfighters are credited by Rosa with helping substantially in the settlement of the untamed West. Lawmen must be counted in the breed. Then there were the posses, or vigilantes who helped corral the rough hombres. They were, nonetheless, gunfighters.

This delightful book furnishes details (facts?) on some of the wicked cities—El Paso, Wichita, Dodge, Abilene and so forth. There is a "researched" account of the Clanton-Earp shoot at the OK Corral, Tombstone, Ariz., Oct. 26, 1881.

Rosa says it is doubtful that Billy the Kid's real name was William Bonney, and he offers some proof. Wes Hardin was the daddy of them all, and there's no telling how many men he laid in the dust as he didn't count blacks or Mexicans he slew. There are other fascinating yarns I could tell but then you wouldn't have to read the book. — Bill Shelton.

Dockside Plot

THE BLACK SHIP, by Paul and Sheila Mandel. Random House, $5.95.

Being the first American force in England after Pearl Harbor, the PT boat squadron is anxious to prove themselves capable fighters. Although the English captain disapproves of their company on a foray into battle, he is overruled, and our four little boats join 16 English boats, trying to break up a convoy.

When it turns out that they are drawn into a trap, four of the men off one of the American PT boats are picked up by the Dutch underground, where they hatch an audacious plan to blow up the Nemesis, the Black Ship, alongside its dock in the Dutch port. Although the ship ends up destroyed, the four heroes, typically, are disappointed that they are unable to do it themselves.

Paul Mandel started this novel, and after his death at the age of 36, his wife, Sheila, very capably completed the story. — Jim Redpath.

BOOKS IN BRIEF

GOULD'S GOLD AND SILVER GUIDE TO COINS. By Maurice M. Gould. Fleet Press, $8.95.

A book aimed both at beginners interested in starting a coin collection and at expert collectors. It is a handy reference for the latter, and, for the amateurs, it tells the values of rare and common coins, how to recognize them, how to find reputable coin dealers. Gould writes a nationally syndicated column on coins.

A USELESS DAY. By Janine Bregeon. Translated from the French by Bernard Frechtman. Grove, $3.50.

A first novel and a first-rate study in isolation. A 25-year-old housewife, bored with the trivia of her bourgeois life, decides one morning that she will not get out of bed. Remorseless self-loathing and fantasies of escape from her trap flood her mind.

The Smiling Dutchman

By Eleanor Avery Price

TODAY, Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club is having its big unbenched all-breed dog show and obedience trial at La Palma Park in Anaheim. Spotlighting the event will be three specialties, California Brittany Club, Chow Chow Club, and Keeshond Club of Southern California.

The Keeshond, for one, is a beautiful, gentle, loving and intelligent descendant of similar Northern dogs that produced the Samoyed, Siberian Husky, Norwegian Elkhound, and others of the Spitz group. The breed may have come to Europe with voyagers.

During the 17th and 18th centuries, the Kees served as a watchdog on Dutch and other barges as well as on farms. One of the dogs accompanied Cornelius de Gyzalaar, whose nickname was Kees, a leader of the Dutch Patriot revolt against Spanish rulers in the Netherlands. Hence, the breed became the political emblem of the Patriot Party.

Ch. Flakkee Sweepstakes, Keeshond owned by Mr. and Mrs. Porter Washington of Lawndale, amassed most best-in-group titles in the breed.

The Kees is heavily insulated against cold, heat, and dampness, but his luxurious silver-gray to black coat requires a lot less grooming than his appearance suggests and shakes off dirt quite easily. His undercoat should be combed out when it loosens.

The Kees is not an attack dog but an all-round pet. He is quiet but will sound a warning. Owners affectionately call him the "smiling Dutchman."

SOME TIME back, the knowledge that Americans bestow favors upon their pets, keep their pets in proper style, and serve them better meals than millions of the world's children, with an expenditure of large sums of money, became the target of Communist propaganda. But criticism had an adverse effect upon readers of the allegations both abroad and here. Instead of denouncing American enterprise, people stepped up this "decadence," so that now around $5 to $6 million dollars a year is spent on pets in America.

"Petishism," published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, of New York, written by Budapest-born Kathleen Szasz, again draws attention to the fact that we have anthropomorphized our pets to such a degree that we prefer them to human beings. Indeed, that we have made a cult of pets. Mrs. Szasz enjoys pets, realizes that they can work wonders in child psychotherapy, in rehabilitation of the aged and the criminal, also the emotionally or physically handicapped, but she urges owners to return to a primary concern for other humans. If you have a good strong constitution and are an adult, you will survive the shock of this horrific book. You might even benefit from it. Dog shows, cat shows, horse shows, and pets per se should be fun as well as beneficial.

Dream Vacation

The road back to youth and beauty is the dream vacation of one woman. She wants all that diet and right living, the beautician's arts and fashionable clothes can do to give a woman a new zest for living. She prefers to keep her name a secret, at least until she can fulfill her dream.

Other winning essays will be published in future weeks. Winners' checks of $10 will be mailed to them. An additional check of $30 will go to the writer of the essay judged best of all. The entry deadline has passed.

By "CLEMENTINE"

I WOULD LIKE to spend my two weeks at the very best beauty center in the world. One of those places where the wealthiest women go each year to be rejuvenated.

I am 53 years old and through the years the pounds have gradually added up until I'm a real blimp. I know I couldn't lose all the weight I need to in just two weeks, but I'm sure they would get me off to such a good start that I could continue on my own with their special diet.

Imagine what a lift it would give one to have a group of experts design a special hair style, make up, skin conditioning, pedicure, manicure, massage, facials, and all the things that many women never have in a lifetime.

Towards the end of the second week I'd like to go with a fashion consultant to a really fine shop, and pick out one basic outfit especially designed for me.

There is such great emphasis on youth in the United States that it is discouraging for the older woman unless she is fortunate enough to be able to afford special help.

The Smiling Dutchman

By Eleanor Avery Price

TODAY, Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club is having its big unbenched all-breed dog show and obedience trial at La Palma Park in Anaheim. Spotlighting the event will be three specialties, California Brittany Club, Chow Chow Club, and Keeshond Club of Southern California.

The Keeshond, for one, is a beautiful, gentle, loving and intelligent descendant of similar Northern dogs that produced the Samoyed, Siberian Husky, Norwegian Elkhound, and others of the Spitz group. The breed may have come to Europe with voyagers.

During the 17th and 18th centuries, the Kees served as a watchdog on Dutch and other barges as well as on farms. One of the dogs accompanied Cornelius de Gyzalaar, whose nickname was Kees, a leader of the Dutch Patriot revolt against Spanish rulers in the Netherlands. Hence, the breed became the political emblem of the Patriot Party.

Ch. Flakkee Sweepstakes, Keeshond owned by Mr. and Mrs. Porter Washington of Lawndale, amassed most best-in-group titles in the breed.

The Kees is heavily insulated against cold, heat, and dampness, but his luxurious silver-gray to black coat requires a lot less grooming than his appearance suggests and sh kes off dirt quite easily. His undercoat should be combed out when it loosens.

The Kees is not an attack dog but an all-round pet. He is quiet but will sound a warning. Owners affectionately call him the "smiling Dutchman."

SOME TIME back, the knowledge that Americans bestow favors upon their pets, keep their pets in proper style, and serve them better meals than millions of the world's children, with an expenditure of large sums of money, became the target of Communist propaganda. But criticism had an adverse effect upon readers of the allegations both abroad and here. Instead of denouncing American enterprise, people stepped up this "decadence," so that now around $5 to $6 million dollars a year is spent on pets in America.

"Petishism," published by Holt, Rinehart and Winston, of New York, written by Budapest-born Kathleen Szasz, again draws attention to the fact that we have anthropomorphized our pets to such a degree that we prefer them to human beings. Indeed, that we have made a cult of pets. Mrs. Szasz enjoys pets, realizes that they can work wonders in child psychotherapy, in rehabilitation of the aged and the criminal, also the emotionally or physically handicapped, but she urges owners to return to a primary concern for other humans. If you have a good strong constitution and are an adult, you will survive the shock of this horrific book. You might even benefit from it. Dog shows, cat shows, horse shows, and pets per se should be fun as well as beneficial.

Dream Vacation

The road back to youth and beauty is the dream vacation of one woman. She wants all that diet and right living, the beautician's arts and fashionable clothes can do to give a woman a new zest for living. She prefers to keep her name a secret, at least until she can fulfill her dream.

Other winning essays will be published in future weeks. Winners' checks of $10 will be mailed to them. An additional check of $30 will go to the writer of the essay judged best of all. The entry deadline has passed.

By "CLEMENTINE"

I WOULD LIKE to spend my two weeks at the very best beauty center in the world. One of those places where the wealthiest women go each year to be rejuvenated.

I am 53 years old and through the years the pounds have gradually added up until I'm a real blimp. I know I couldn't lose all the weight I need to in just two weeks, but I'm sure they would get me off to such a good start that I could continue on my own with their special diet.

Imagine what a lift it would give one to have a group of experts design a special hair style, make up, skin conditioning, pedicure, manicure, massage, facials, and all the things that many women never have in a lifetime.

Towards the end of the second week I'd like to go with a fashion consultant to a really fine shop, and pick out one basic outfit especially designed for me.

There is such great emphasis on youth in the United States that it is discouraging for the older woman unless she is fortunate enough to be able to afford special help.

THE MOVIE STAR NEXT DOOR

to Rome, where he spent at least a year filming "Barbarella" opposite Jane Fonda; "Man to Man," a western; "Mr. Diabolik," a pop science fiction, and then he went to Paris to co-star with Rod Steiger in "The Sergeant," a film which has been highly praised.

The next time I saw him was on the set of "Skidoo," where he was wearing a long wig, an embroidered shirt, hippie beads and high American Indian boots. Actually, because of his height he resembled a Viking. He had moved back into the house next door and was prepared to stay awhile. I watched him shoot a scene from the sidelines and Preminger was giving him a bad time, ranting and screaming while John remained unfazed. Talk about keeping cool! He still has a contract to make more films for Preminger and he will probably do it even though "Skidoo" was not received too well by the critics.

"My best picture is 'The Sergeant,' he told me, "but I've had to gain the experience and I don't regret any of the pictures I have made."

"Barbarella" is the best known of his films. In it he played Pygar, the blind angel rescued by Barbarella from the Black Queen. A Los Angeles columnist said he deserved some sort of award for the worst performance of the year. When I mentioned this to Jane Fonda she became upset, "After all, John was supposed to be a blind angel and there is just so much you can do in a limited role like that." It really was unfair, because just what can an actor do with such a role? Except look exceptionally handsome.

John has just been signed to co-star with Charlton Heston in "The Hawaiians," based on the second half of James Michener's "Hawaii." It's a big break for him.

John's mother, Phyllis, has been living in Hawaii and recently moved to London. She wrote to me asking my opinion of John's films. She, like many of us, doesn't understand all the new trends, all the nudity and immorality in today's films. The picture that upset her the most was "Barbarella."

In 'Barbarella," Law played the blind angel Pygar, who was rescued by Jane Fonda.

Law played Western role in film "Man to Man."

"If John hadn't been in the picture I would have walked out. Do you understand why they make these kind of films?" she asked. Well, of course I know, and so does everyone else in Hollywood. They are made for money, nothing else. The motion picture producers will go as far as they can, not for Art, as they say, nor for protest against censorship, but for money. It's that simple and anyone who says otherwise is a hypocrite. In Sweden anything can be filmed, Britain follows and soon we will also be filming the most daring subjects —unless it is stopped, but who will put a stop to it? Who dares being called a Mrs. Grundy or public censor? I told Phyllis that I really don't object to nudity in films—after all I'm not the actress who gets undressed —but it really bothers many young actresses today who are afraid to get into pictures because they don't know what will be asked of them by this time next year.

"I hope John's next picture will be an old-fashioned love story and he can be a hero, the way Clark Gable used to be," she wrote.

The public has been asking for a new leading man, a hero of the Gary Cooper - Clark Gable type, a man who can capture the hearts of millions of women, and John may be the answer. A handsome, rugged young man of the typical American frontier. A real American primitive. The motion picture screen is begging for him.

John has been dating many lovely young girls from Hollywood. Rarely does he date an actress. One girl, with whom he has had a big romance, was Barbara Parkins, but that is over now. I asked him about marriage.

"Marriage? I'd love to get married. I've just got to find a girl to fall in love with first. I'm not the fussy type but I haven't met many actresses that I'd be comfortable with. I can't explain it. I won't say I won't marry an actress, because that's just as silly as saying you won't marry a girl unless she is born in a certain month. I'll make a better husband in about eight years. My dad was about 38 when he got married and he was 40 when I was born. I never thought he was too old to be a good father. He's got an older brother up in Merced who is just the greatest guy to be around. I just love that old man. He used to take his kids on camping trips and I always went along. That's what I want to be able to do with my children."

John's arm has healed and he is getting ready to make another Preminger picture with a funny title, something about "Junie Moon." The house next door is filled with hippies, fellows with shoulder-length hair and beards, girls in gypsy-type dresses and long straight hair. Great music pours from the house in the evenings when the kids from "Hair" put on the record player. I've gotten used to them, and discovered that once you accept their funny clothes they are wonderful people. They recently helped my father move a truck load of furniture. During the rainstorm a man was injured falling down the stairs across the street. In the pouring rain John Phillip and the Hair-boys, as I call them, went to his aid and stayed with him until the ambulance came. John is quiet, what you could call the strong and silent type. But most of all, he is kind, which is just what I tell his mother.

Vaccine May End Measles, Mumps

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical-Science Editor

MEDICAL RESEARCHERS, in a new report, say the technical means appear to be at hand for the eventual elimination of measles, mumps and German measles in the United States.

A new study shows that a 3-in-1 vaccine, given in a single dose, is effective against these three ailments.

The study was conducted in children residing in the Havertown-Springfield suburb of Philadelphia. Details are in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

A HIGH RATE of deaths among chemists from cancers of the lymph organs and the pancreas suggests that exposure to certain chemicals may be a factor in the development of these disorders.

The finding is based on an analysis of the death certificates of more than 3,600 members of the American Chemical Society by a researcher with the National Cancer Institute.

Further studies are required to identify the causative chemicals.

A STUDY involving 785 heart patients in 15 Veterans Administration hospitals sheds new light on the role of anti-clotting drugs in the treatment of heart attack.

Findings:

Anticoagulation treatment reduces the death rate significantly during the first three years after an acute heart attack.

By the fifth year there is no difference in survival of treated and untreated groups.

The report is in the AMA Journal.

IT NOW APPEARS that the relatively new mumps vaccine is going to turn out to be a durable item.

A new study shows that the new live-virus mumps vaccine is still highly effective three years following vaccination. And researchers say that immunity resulting from the vaccine appears to be equal to that afforded by natural mumps infection —that is, persistent immunity.

DOCTORS WARN that a drug found in some cough remedies may prove hazardous if the patient also takes an antidepressant drug such as Parnate.

The cough-medicine compound is phenylpropanolamine, used to reduce nasal congestion.

Doctors at London Hospital Medical College say interaction of this drug with Parnate or a similar drug can cause an acute rise in blood pressure, to pose a "severe risk" to the patient.

The report is in British Medical Journal.

HERE'S THE LATEST position of the American Heart Association in the matter of diet:

"Prolonged elevation of cholesterol in the bloodstream must be avoided if the risk of premature coronary heart disease is to be decreased."

The new statement calls for a substantial reduction of cholesterol in diets as well as other dietary practices.

Cholesterol is a fat-like substance, excessive levels of which in the blood have been associated with fatty thickening of the arteries.

UNSOLVED MEDICAL mystery: Pontiac fever which struck last July in Pontiac, Mich.

It struck among employes of the Oakland County Health Department in Pontiac, afflicting 95 per cent of workers in one day's time.

The mysterious ailment was marked by fever, chills, malaise, headache and muscular ache. Duration of illness was three to five days.

Despite extensive laboratory studies, no causative agent was ever identified.

Says Dr. David J. Sencer, director of the National Communicable Disease Center, Atlanta, Ga.: "We still have not solved this one."

HEART PATIENTS who have had electric pacemakers (heartbeat assisters) implanted in them can apparently receive radiation therapy without hazard, a new report indicates.

One team of physicians has found that radiation therapy for cancer didn't interfere with the normal operation of a pacemaker.

The patient was an 80-year-old man who was completely dependent on his pacemaker, which was implanted directly over a lung. The problem: The patient had developed lung cancer.

Three doctors at Mount Sinai Hospital in Miami Beach first tested two models of pacemakers, subjecting them to radiation. The physicians found no discernible effects on the units.

The doctors then gave cobalt irradiation to the patient and found no change in the pacemaker's function either during or after therapy. The patient tolerated the treatment well and got considerable relief from pain, according to a report in the journal Radiology.

The only medication that

Gets to a Major Cause of Hemorrhoids

Now! Most complete 3-way relief!

This important development in hemorrhoid treatment comes to you after five years of scientific and clinical testing. Not only does Counternoid* work by lessening pain fast, and by coating, soothing, and protecting injured tissue . . . but unlike every other hemorrhoid product Counternoid also works a third way.

Thanks to an exclusive formula with DSS_{30} ™ only Counternoid gets to a major cause of hemorrhoids: Painful hard constipation. Without irritating laxative effect. Here's how: In hospital X-ray tests doctors have demonstrated that the remarkable Counternoid formulation with DSS_{30} penetrates in minutes to the top of the rectal area to soften the stool and ease the bowel movement.

It is this unique action that does so much to make natural healing possible.

So, if you live with the pain and fear of recurring minor hemorrhoid troubles, get temporary relief with medically-tested Counternoid.

Actually, used as directed, Counternoid offers the most complete 3-way relief you can get without a prescription or without surgery In stainless cream or suppositories

Ground Breaking for Institute of the Arts

CALIFORNIA Institute of the Arts will break ground Saturday for its $36.5 million campus in Valencia, with Secretary Robert H. Finch of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare as principal speaker at special ceremonies.

Finch's federal agency has approved $5 million in grants and loans toward construction of the institute and in support of its arts and education programs which will begin in October, 1970.

Participating in the day's events scheduled to start at noon will be Robert W. Corrigan, president of California Institute of the Arts, and Thomas Lowe, president of Newhall Land and Farming Co. of the new city of Valencia, where the campus will be located. Harrison A. Price, chairman of the institute's board of trustees, will preside.

More than 350 guests of distinction are expected to attend, including Mrs. Walt Disney, widow of the film producer who had the idea for the institute; his brother, Roy O. Disney; and Mrs. Richard Von Hagen, one of the original incorporators of the institute.

Justice, the Law and You

By Blaine Nels Simons

MAY 1 WILL AGAIN be observed nationally as Law Day, U.S.A. by presidential proclamation.

Founded in 1957 by the American Bar Association to mentally combat Russia's traditional "May Day" celebrations, Law Day is dedicated to the principle that life under the law and order of a democratic society is better than that found in totalitarian nations.

The 1969 motto of Law Day is "Justice and Equality Depend Upon Law — and YOU!" Perhaps never before in our nation's history has this simple expression of the meaning of our democratic system meant more than it does today. Plagued by riots, campus disorders and widespread subversive activities, many American citizens are beginning to have doubts about the efficiency of our system of law and order. The system, however, is the best the world has known and the citizen can perhaps appreciate it better by comparing it with other forms of society, as well as by better knowing his own part in it.

There is peace and tranquility, for example, in Communist Russia today. The Communists are forever pointing this out to us. They came by this so-called "perfect serenity" the hard way. After shakily establishing their government in Russia in 1917 the Communists started immediately working on law and order. Between then and the early 1930s literally scores of thousands of peasants died either by gun or starvation, for the capitalistic-minded peasant was the primary thorn in the side of the new government. With the peasants fairly well subdued by 1931-32, Joseph Stalin went to work on opposition leaders within and without his own party. Thousands of these were executed without trial and driven from the country by the end of the 1930s. No one would now oppose the government. Who would dare? Tranquility reigned, but would you like to live in such tranquility? Is their system, including their colleges, so perfect that no one would care to start a riot —or is it that no one would dare to start a riot?

Hitler's Germany was, internally, a fairly peaceful nation. He was established as the German leader in 1933 within a few days of Franklin Roosevelt's taking office as our President. Each faced depression-ridden peoples. While F.D.R. attacked depression's problems through law and Congress, Hitler moved at once against those who opposed him. Bypassing the Russian plan of subjecting the people first, Hitler struck at the leaders. Thousands of these died by the gun, and all without court trial as we know it. By 1935 there was still a bit of grumbling in Germany (but not loud enough to let the Fuhrer hear it) but, on the whole, Germany was internally serene. Would you have cared for such serenity? Do you crave such serenity now?

The American system is something else again. Outside of the few decades in which we cruelly subdued the Indian, our nation has been one run by the People and not by Government and Force. Even the fast-ending problem of the American Negro has been far more a case of social subjection than gun-point subjection and suppression by the government. Most people fail to realize it, but our entire system of government, from top to bottom, rests not on governmental power, but on YOU, the individual.

The internal structure of the City of Long Beach is a good example of our entire system at work. In a city of nearly 400,000 persons we have some 551 active duty police officers. This is a far cry from Hitler's Germany, in which it was said there was one policeman for each citizen. If the west side of Long Beach today decided to attack the east side there is little the Police Department could do about it. Should every citizen in one given day decide to break as many traffic laws as he could, most would get away with every infraction; there are too few police to cope with every problem existing. Using marijuana has become quite a fad in the past decade and the courts are clogged with cases involving this drug. But the police will admit that just as many if not more users are not caught because the police do not have the personnel to get them. There are seven Municipal and seven Superior Court departments in Long Beach and each is working around the clock to take care of the overburdening business which the police and citizens bring them. Stalin found it simpler to shoot the criminal or send him to Siberia; Hitler solved much civil litigation by summarily stripping the Jew of his property and sending him to concentration camps.

Until campus disorders commenced not too many years ago there just were no such problems and thus there was no machinery to deal with them when they did arise. Under our system it still may be some time before the machinery for handling such problems is completed and effective. Contrast this with the handling of a similar problem by the government of a nearby nation last year. Students there started a riot which spilled out into the streets. The army was called out and its soldiers placed both on the ground and on rooftops. By the use of machine-gun some 400 or 500 demonstrators were killed within a few hours. Needless to say, that was the last student demonstration that nation had! But do we envy them now their pleasant campus life? Does our government attempt to reach campus calm in this fashion? Such tactics make our own use of police on campus a sort of a cream puff enterprise by comparison. Our so called "police brutalities" compare to a banjo-hitting Dodger player measuring up against the Babe Ruthian home runs Stalin and Hitler used to win their games.

No matter what index or example is used, however, the American system of Justice and Equality always comes back to being just what you, the reader, want it to be. Laws are made by people-elected legislators and enforced by people-elected judges. Neither our police nor our army could deal with a well organized internal revolution if they wanted to do so. This is the way our forefathers wanted it when they drafted the Constitution nearly 200 years ago. They had infinite faith in the integrity of the American citizen—that he would always want what was right for himself and for his neighbor. So today does the Law continue to have faith in the citizen. He is governed by a handful of police and a maximum of personal freedom. He has the right to complain, but before he would set about changing the entire system he should study the other method of operation: the "Stalin way" to peace and tranquility!

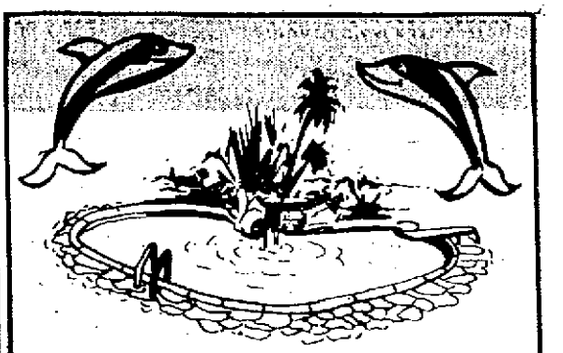

Justice and Equality depend upon the laws that create them and how these laws are enforced. In the end they depend on you. What do you want?

LAW DAY DINNER

LAW DAY, U.S.A. will be celebrated this year in Long Beach by a dinner-meeting at the Lafayette Hotel on Wednesday evening, April 30. Sponsored by the Long Beach Bar Association, the dinner is open to the public and the public is encouraged to attend. Tickets are available at the Long Beach Bar Association office, 130 Pine Ave., or through attorney Fred Chel, 110 Pine Ave., at $6 a ticket.

Justice Stanley Mosk of the California Supreme Court will be the principal speaker. Noted as one of the finest speakers in America, Justice Mosk will join hundreds of other speakers across the nation in tribute to Law Day. Some $3,000 in college scholarships will be awarded that evening to deserving Long Beach area high school seniors. Liberty Bell Awards will be presented to citizens who, during the past year, have exhibited unusual gallantry or good citizenship in community deeds.

Russians will crowd the streets of their cities on May Day to cheer the armed might which stands as a symbol of the means they used to secure internal peace. Americans will sit at the dinner table to silently thank Law as the means they used to secure what they have today.

By 1935 there was still a bit of grumbling in Germany (but not loud enough to let the Fuhrer hear it) but, on the whole, Germany was internally serene. Would you have cared for such serenity? Do you crave such serenity now?

The American system is something else again. Outside of the few decades in which we cruelly subdued the Indian, our nation has been one run by the People and not by Government and Force. Even the fast-ending problem of the American Negro has been far more a case of social subjection than gun-point subjection and suppression by the government. Most people fail to realize it, but our entire system of government, from top to bottom, rests not on governmental power, but on YOU, the individual.

The internal structure of the City of Long Beach is a good example of our entire system at work. In a city of nearly 400,000 persons we have some 551 active duty police officers. This is a far cry from Hitler's Germany, in which it was said there was one policeman for each citizen. If the west side of Long Beach today decided to attack the east side there is little the Police Department could do about it. Should every citizen in one given day decide to break as many traffic laws as he could, most would get away with every infraction; there are too few police to cope with every problem existing. Using marijuana has become quite a fad in the past decade and the courts are clogged with cases involving this drug. But the police will admit that just as many if not more users are not caught because the police do not have the personnel to get them. There are seven Municipal and seven Superior Court departments in Long Beach and each is working around the clock to take care of the overburdening business which the police and citizens bring them. Stalin found it simpler to shoot the criminal or send him to Siberia; Hitler solved much civil litigation by summarily stripping the Jew of his property and sending him to concentration camps.

Until campus disorders commenced not too many years ago there just were no such problems and thus there was no machinery to deal with them when they did arise. Under our system it still may be some time before the machinery for handling such problems is completed and effective. Contrast this with the handling of a similar problem by the government of a nearby nation last year. Students there started a riot which spilled out into the streets. The army was called out and its soldiers placed both on the ground and on rooftops. By the use of machine-gun some 400 or 500 demonstrators were killed within a few hours. Needless to say, that was the last student demonstration that nation had! But do we envy them now their pleasant campus life? Does our government attempt to reach campus calm in this fashion? Such tactics make our own use of police on campus a sort of a cream puff enterprise by comparison. Our so called "police brutalities" compare to a banjo-hitting Dodger player measuring up against the Babe Ruthian home runs Stalin and Hitler used to win their games.

No matter what index or example is used, however, the American system of Justice and Equality always comes back to being just what you, the reader, want it to be. Laws are made by people-elected legislators and enforced by people-elected judges. Neither our police nor our army could deal with a well organized internal revolution if they wanted to do so. This is the way our forefathers wanted it when they drafted the Constitution nearly 200 years ago. They had infinite faith in the integrity of the American citizen—that he would always want what was right for himself and for his neighbor. So today does the Law continue to have faith in the citizen. He is governed by a handful of police and a maximum of personal freedom. He has the right to complain, but before he would set about changing the entire system he should study the other method of operation: the "Stalin way" to peace and tranquility!

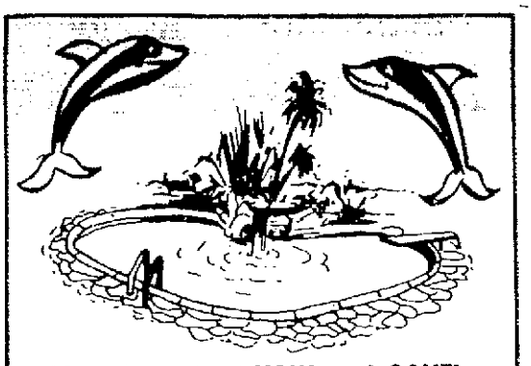

Justice and Equality depend upon the laws that create them and how these laws are enforced. In the end they depend on you. What do you want?

LAW DAY DINNER

LAW DAY, U.S.A. will be celebrated this year in Long Beach by a dinner-meeting at the Lafayette Hotel on Wednesday evening, April 30. Sponsored by the Long Beach Bar Association, the dinner is open to the public and the public is encouraged to attend. Tickets are available at the Long Beach Bar Association office, 130 Pine Ave., or through attorney Fred Chel, 110 Pine Ave., at $6 a ticket.

Justice Stanley Mosk of the California Supreme Court will be the principal speaker. Noted as one of the finest speakers in America, Justice Mosk will join hundreds of other speakers across the nation in tribute to Law Day. Some $3,000 in college scholarships will be awarded that evening to deserving Long Beach area high school seniors. Liberty Bell Awards will be presented to citizens who, during the past year, have exhibited unusual gallantry or good citizenship in community deeds.

Russians will crowd the streets of their cities on May Day to cheer the armed might which stands as a symbol of the means they used to secure internal peace. Americans will sit at the dinner table to silently thank Law as the means they used to secure what they have today.

ALTHOUGH there have been reams of publicity about it, lots of people — including this long-nosed columnist — have been a bit hazy about exactly where the Queen Mary will be anchored when formally opened to its admiring public.

During a visit the other evening to Dave Tallichet's Reef restaurant, I had the site pin-pointed for me. It will be 500 yards east of the Reef. This means the restaurant, which already enjoys the city's most scenic harbor location, will present to its guests some truly unique views.

Dave, who opened the Reef 10½ years ago (it was the first unit in his organization of super-atmosphere restaurants), must have been guided by a mystic sixth sense when he chose that site. During the past decade Long Beach's downtown skyline has grown magnificently as, one by one, major new structures have appeared. One might say that those millions of dollars were spent to improve the spectacular views from the Reef's long row of picture windows.

People also rave enthusiastically about the Reef's cuisine. And I must say I agree with them wholeheartedly. The staff, directed by Ralph Fulton (manager since the Reef opened), assistant manager Don Miller and executive chef Kurt Wedmer, offers beautiful dinners, excellent service and warm hospitality. Featured, from $3.75 to $6.45, are such elegances as boneless rainbow trout saute; center-cut swordfish steak Bearnaise, broiled slowly to preserve its rich flavor; Tahitian "drumsticks," delightful ribs of barbecued pork with sweet and sour sauce; breast of capon stuffed with wild rice; Polynesian delight, consisting of two tender tournedos of beef filet; teriyaki steak, choice and not too sweet; other superb steaks, brochette of beef and roast prime rib of beef. Worthy of special mention is the Ports of Call combination, consisting of lobster, sirloin steak, baked banana and mushrooms.

Sunday dinners, including relish tray, green salad, baked potato or rice, hot cheese rolls and beverage, are offered from noon to 10. Each Saturday and Sunday, from noon to 3 p.m., the Reef also features choice sandwiches and salads, $1.50 to $2.75.

ANOUK AIMEE WITH ALBERT FINNEY

Q. I hear that French actress Anouk Aimee has run through Albert Finney, Omar Sharif, and Peter O'Toole. Has Anouk taken over from Jeanne Moreau as the siren of the century?—Peter Hargis, Newport, Calif.

A. There are some women who are in love with love. Anouk Aimee and Jeanne Moreau are two. They find the state of love a constant pleasure and choose those partners who agree with them. Mlle. Aimee, 36, is most appreciative at the moment of Albert Finney, 32.

Q. Is Mrs. Martin Luther King worth several millions as I have been told?—Ed Rainey, Atlanta, Ga.

A. She is not at the moment but stands to earn a million from future writings.

Q. Is it true that Gov. Ronald Reagan of California hates Bob Finch, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York hates New York City Mayor John Lindsay?—Louis Shapiro, Jersey City, N.J.

A. Hate is not the correct word to describe these relationships, which are best delineated as containing ingredients of suspicion and hostility.

Q. In Las Vegas the word is that Sammy Davis Jr. is so much in hock to the gamblers that the Mafia owns him lock, stock, and barrel. What is the story?—L.L.L., Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Davis has been known to gamble and lose large sums, but he is his own boss.

Q. Several weeks ago Liao Ho-shu, a Chinese diplomat, defected to the U.S. Who is he and why did he defect? — David Lawson, Cambridge, Mass.

A. Liao Ho-shu, 46, was officially Red Chinese chargé d'affaires at the Chinese Legation in The Hague, Netherlands. He is the highest ranking Chinese Communist ever to desert Mao Tse-tung and defect to the U.S. He told the CIA, which now has him under protective custody, that he feared assassination by Red Chinese agents. It is supposed that Liao Ho-shu had much to do with establishing spy headquarters for the Chinese in Amsterdam, which has rapidly become European espionage headquarters for several countries.

Q. Who owns the Neiman-Marcus group of Texas specialty stores? I know Lady Bird Johnson used to buy her clothes from there. Does Mrs. Nixon?—Nedra Lyster, El Paso, Tex.

A. Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc., the nation's 13th largest chain of department stores, now owns Neiman-Marcus. Mrs. Nixon buys some of her clothes from the Matthews Shops of Beverly Hills, New York, Chicago, and Palm Springs.

Q. I have heard it said often that the black birthrate in the U.S. is so much greater than the white birthrate, that it is just a question of time before the U.S. becomes predominantly black. I would like to know the black birthrate and the white birthrate in this country.—George Farthington, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A. In the calendar year 1968 the birthrate for blacks was 25.8 per thousand, for whites 16.3. Between 1930 and 1950 the birthrate of the black population increased by 21 percent while that of the white population increased by about 12 percent.

Q. Can you tell me whom Mel Ferrer is fooling around with now that Audrey Hepburn has gotten married again?—Bernice Ravitch, Miami Beach, Fla.

A. Ferrer, 52, lives in England, goes with Tessa Kennedy, 29-year-old heiress who used to go with actor Richard Harris.

Q. Is it true that 20th Century-Fox films was formed in order to give jobs to relatives?—Diana Menchik, New York, N.Y.

A. Not completely. Darryl Zanuck, a young producer at Warner Brothers in the early 1930's, wanted to form an independent production company with Joseph Schenck. Money was hard to come by in those Depression days. To finance the fledgling film company, Joseph Schenck went to his brother Nicholas, a partner in Loew's Theatres and MGM. Nick came up with half the financing. The other half came from the late L. B. Mayer, also of MGM, on condition that his son-in-law, William Goetz, be made an executive of 20th Century-Fox.

Q. Who said: "All would live long, but none would be old."?—Ken Drivers, Danvers, Mass.

A. Benjamin Franklin, American statesman and inventor (1706-1790).

Q. The motion picture, The Graduate with Dustin Hoffman(r), will gross more than $60 million. How much of that did author Charles Webb get?—Ann Gross, Pasadena, Calif.

A. Webb got $25,000 for the screen rights.

Q. A few weeks before the Viet Cong began their offensive, Adm. John S. McCain wrote in February's Reader's Digest: "We have the enemy licked now [in Vietnam]... He cannot even mount another major offensive." Who is responsible for giving the admiral such bad dope?—Steve Harris, San Diego, Calif.

A. Like many others, the admiral has been guilty of wishful thinking and overly optimistic assessments of war conditions in Vietnam.

Q. I understand that at age 54 Ingrid Bergman's skin is so lined that she will not allow any photographs of her to be released unless they have first been retouched. Is this so?—V. Tremaine, Richmond, Va.

A. She has the right to approve all photographic work. Here, for example, is a photo that apparently slipped by.

ANOUK AIMEE WITH ALBERT FINNEY

Q. I hear that French actress Anouk Aimee has run through Albert Finney, Omar Sharif, and Peter O'Toole. Has Anouk taken over from Jeanne Moreau as the siren of the century?—Peter Hargis, Newport, Calif.

A. There are some women who are in love with love. Anouk Aimee and Jeanne Moreau are two. They find the state of love a constant pleasure and choose those partners who agree with them. Mlle. Aimee, 36, is most appreciative at the moment of Albert Finney, 32.

Q. Is Mrs. Martin Luther King worth several millions as I have been told?—Ed Rainey, Atlanta, Ga.

A. She is not at the moment but stands to earn a million from future writings.

Q. Is it true that Gov. Ronald Reagan of California hates Bob Finch, Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, and that Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York hates New York City Mayor John Lindsay?—Louis Shapiro, Jersey City, N.J.

A. Hate is not the correct word to describe these relationships, which are best delineated as containing ingredients of suspicion and hostility.

Q. In Las Vegas the word is that Sammy Davis Jr. is so much in hock to the gamblers that the Mafia owns him lock, stock, and barrel. What is the story?—F.L.L., Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Davis has been known to gamble and lose large sums, but he is his own boss.

Q. Several weeks ago Liao Ho-shu, a Chinese diplomat, defected to the U.S. Who is he and why did he defect? — David Lawson, Cambridge, Mass.

A. Liao Ho-shu, 46, was officially Red Chinese chargé d'affaires at the Chinese Legation in The Hague, Netherlands. He is the highest ranking Chinese Communist ever to desert Mao Tse-tung and defect to the U.S. He told the CIA, which now has him under protective custody, that he feared assassination by Red Chinese agents. It is supposed that Liao Ho-shu had much to do with establishing spy headquarters for the Chinese in Amsterdam, which has rapidly become European espionage headquarters for several countries.

Q. Who owns the Neiman-Marcus group of Texas specialty stores? I know Lady Bird Johnson used to buy her clothes from there. Does Mrs. Nixon?—Nedra Lyster, El Paso, Tex.

A. Broadway-Hale Stores, Inc., the nation's 13th largest chain of department stores, now owns Neiman-Marcus. Mrs. Nixon buys some of her clothes from the Matthews Shops of Beverly Hills, New York, Chicago, and Palm Springs.

Q. I have heard it said often that the black birthrate in the U.S. is so much greater than the white birthrate, that it is just a question of time before the U.S. becomes predominantly black. I would like to know the black birthrate and the white birthrate in this country.—George Farthington, Honolulu, Hawaii.

A. In the calendar year 1968 the birthrate for blacks was 25.8 per thousand, for whites 16.3. Between 1930 and 1950 the birthrate of the black population increased by 21 percent while that of the white population increased by about 12 percent.

Q. Can you tell me whom Mel Ferrer is fooling around with now that Audrey Hepburn has gotten married again?—Bernice Ravitch, Miami Beach, Fla.

A. Ferrer, 52, lives in England, goes with Tessa Kennedy, 29-year-old heiress who used to go with actor Richard Harris.

Q. Is it true that 20th Century-Fox films was formed in order to give jobs to relatives?—Diana Menchik, New York, N.Y.

A. Not completely. Darryl Zanuck, a young producer at Warner Brothers in the early 1930's, wanted to form an independent production company with Joseph Schenck. Money was hard to come by in those Depression days. To finance the fledgling film company, Joseph Schenck went to his brother Nicholas, a partner in Loew's Theatres and MGM. Nick came up with half the financing. The other half came from the late L. B. Mayer, also of MGM, on condition that his son-in-law, William Goetz, be made an executive of 20th Century-Fox.

Q. Who said: "All would live long, but none would be old."?—Ken Drivers, Danvers, Mass.

A. Benjamin Franklin, American statesman and inventor (1706-1790).

Q. The motion picture, The Graduate with Dustin Hoffman(r), will gross more than $60 million. How much of that did author Charles Webb get?—Ann Gross, Pasadena, Calif.

A. Webb got $25,000 for the screen rights.

Q. A few weeks before the Viet Cong began their offensive, Adm. John S. McCain wrote in February's Reader's Digest: "We have the enemy licked now [in Vietnam]... He cannot even mount another major offensive." Who is responsible for giving the admiral such bad dope?—Steve Harris, San Diego, Calif.

A. Like many others, the admiral has been guilty of wishful thinking and overly optimistic assessments of war conditions in Vietnam.

Q. I understand that at age 54 Ingrid Bergman's skin is so lined that she will not allow any photographs of her to be released unless they have first been retouched. Is this so?—V. Tremaine, Richmond, Va.

A. She has the right to approve all photographic work. Here, for example, is a photo that apparently slipped by.

Pontiac's bumper-to-bumper bumper.

MARK OF EXCELLENCE

The Wide-Track Family for '69: Grand Prix, Bonneville, Brougham, Executive, Catalina, GTO, LeMans, Custom S, Tempest and Firebird. Pontiac Motor Division.

It starts with an Endura nose that won't rust, won't dent and won't chip. It can't. Because Endura has the spring of rubber, the toughness of steel. And it lasts longer than either one.

Anything as good as Endura deserves having more than a nose made out of it. So we put it on Bonneville's rear bumper, too. That way you won't get the shakes when you're slipping into a tight parking place.

But that's not the end of Bonneville's bumpers. Vinyl strips along both sides protect your flanks. A sure cure for "parking-lot door."

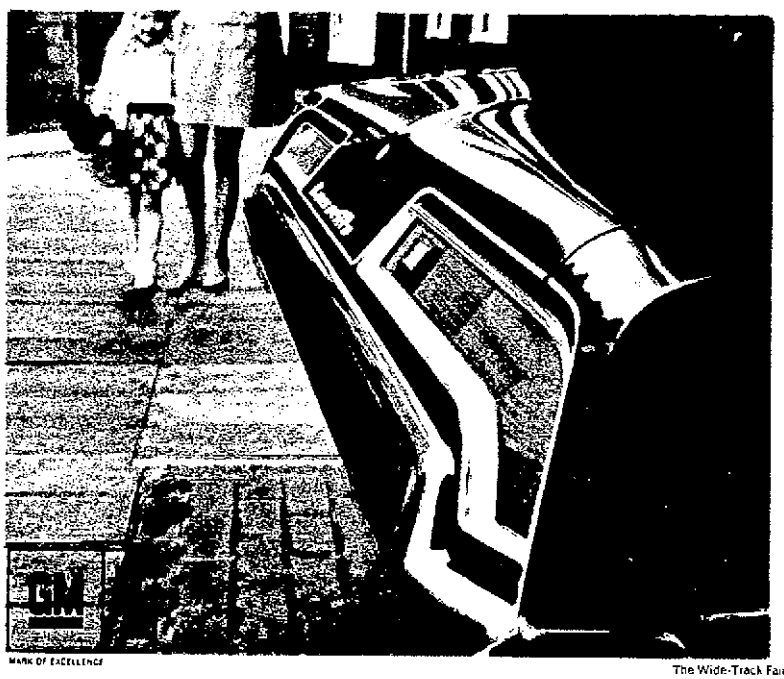

Nose. Rear. Sides. There's a bumper crop for you. Give Bonneville a test bump at your Pontiac dealer's. Break Away!

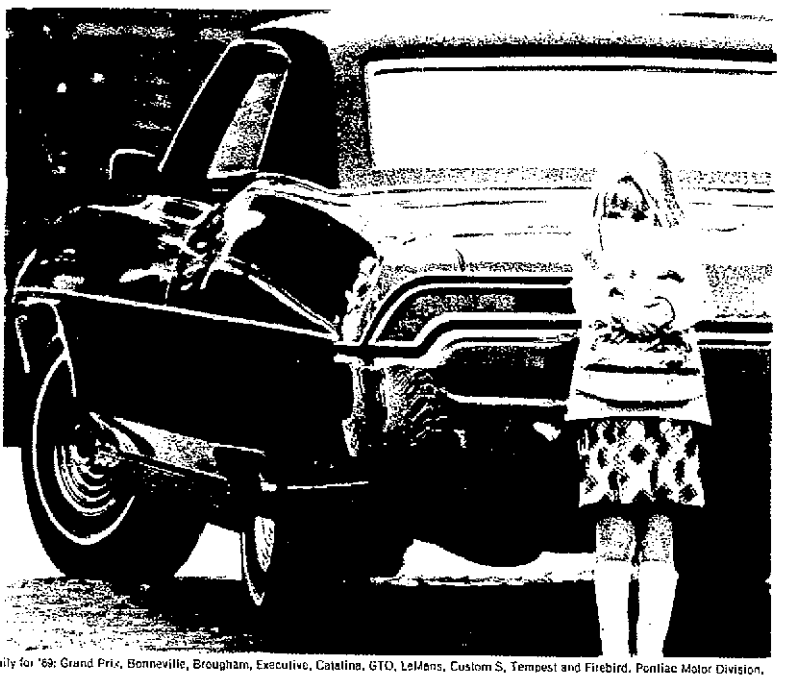

That's a Break Away.

'Someone Really Cares'

THANKS FROM OUR MEN IN VIETNAM

by John G. Rogers

See the Gift Pac pile grow. Volunteer assembly line in San Diego headquarters stuffs plastic bags with staple supplies for our front-line troops in Vietnam. One of them wrote back: "I thank God for people like you."

SAN DIEGO, CALIF.

The United States is spending some $2 billion a month on the Vietnam War. With this huge outlay American troops are frequently classed as the best supplied, best equipped men ever to fight anywhere. It's ironic, then, that a small, largely volunteer, private organization based here in San Diego is sending our combat troops items they say they sorely need but can't always get through the Pentagon supply line.

Vietnam Gift Pac is the name of the outfit, and it's sustained by cash contributions from folks all over the country. Also by a number of U.S. industrial firms which make the goods for Vietnam available at cost. Result: the shipment of 25,000 bags a month of staples and necessities to front-line troops who usually have no access to well-stocked PX shops.

Many a fighting man has written his thanks to Vietnam Gift Pac, which is housed unpretentiously in a former store in downtown San Diego:

"These Pacs are a terrific morale booster. Every item was sorely needed" —Capt. B. J. Williamson.

"Our men have been in the bush for 50 days. This means they were in dire need of many of the items your Pac contained"—Lt. Jerry Zandstra.

"The supplies were great and we could surely use each and every article. We really needed them"—Pfc. Willie Thompson.

Twenty-eight gifts

And what are the articles so treasured by the soldiers and Marines out there where the shooting is? They're quite ordinary—back home. Medicated powder for rash and soreness. Rags and rust preventive for care of weapons to avoid jamming. Ketchup to jolly up the monotony of C-rations. Rot-proof boot laces. Razor blades, candy and iced tea mix. Playing cards, lighter flints and writing paper, etc. Twenty-eight items in all.

Says 36-year-old Roger Chapin, a San Diegan who suspended his real estate development business to found Vietnam Gift Pac:

"Sure, the guys need the stuff we send but the material value is only half the story. The psychological value is the other half.

A Marine named Jim Jeffries wrote back: "It is very seldom that we are able to see or experience any gratitude or appreciation from our people back in the states."

And a soldier named Dave Reilly: "It's real good to know that someone back there in the world really cares."

And Marine Lance Cpl. Jim Everidge: "We don't get many gifts here. I thank God for people like you who care."

Vietnam Gift Pac — publicly supported by such diverse Americans as Hubert Humphrey and Sen. Everett Dirksen, Bob Hope and Jack Benny, House Speaker John McCormack and Gov. Ronald Reagan — is dependent upon cash contributions from across the nation. The formula is simple. For each $6 received, a Gift Pac goes to a front-line American. If you want to send five or more, the cost drops to $5 each. The items in the Pacs were determined by returned combat Marines who went into a supermarket with Chapin and after picking the 100 most needed things, narrowed that down to the 28 that can practically be put into the individual heavy plastic bags.

"The donor's name and address goes into every bag he sends," explains Chapin. "And, if he wants, he can name the soldier or Marine he wants it to go to. Otherwise they're shipped en masse in care of commanding officers or chaplains. You see, the point is, these combat troops may start out with all personal necessities but the longer they stay in the bush, the more they use them up or lose them. And there's seldom a PX available."

Everybody helps

One of the busiest places you can imagine is the headquarters of Vietnam Gift Pac. There are only two salaried people but thousands of volunteers have come in to stuff the bags. Most are San Diegans and they include Boy and Girl Scouts, housewives, the general public and an occasional Navy detail. Often they work evenings and weekends.

"Same as it is with the cash contributors," says Chapin, "these people want to do something for the guys but they don't know what. This is an easy and wonderful way to express yourself."

Every front-line man could use a Pac a month, Chapin says. He has a tale that's filtered back of three men who rationed a half ounce of Heinz Ketchup, one drop a meal, for a week to brighten up their C-rations. Among other participating manufacturers: Johnson & Johnson, Schick, Procter & Gamble, Colgate-Palmolive, Standard Brands, Del Monte and Union Carbide.

Gift checks should be made out to Vietnam Gift Pac and addressed to that organization, care of United States National Bank, P.O. Box 7, San Diego, Calif. 92112.

Bob Hope (r), member of Gift Pac advisory board, and Roger Chapin, realty developer, who founded the campaign to send gift bags to Vietnam.

John Lennon, at 28 the oldest Beatle, wore tennis shoes for his marriage in Gibraltar to Yoko Ono, 34, Japanese artist.

George Harrison married model Patti Boyd. Their togetherness includes being arrested on a marijuana charge.

Paul McCartney, possibly the most normal Beatle, wed Linda Eastman of New York, shown with her daughter, 6.

The Beatles and Marriage

BY LLOYD SHEARER

LONDON.

For the first time in their colorful, rambunctious, mercurial lives, all four Beatles are married.

A few weeks ago John Lennon, 28, divorced father of a 6-year-old son and the oldest and most freaked out of the quartet, married Yoko Ono, 34, in a three-minute ceremony on Gibraltar.

At his wedding Lennon wore tennis shoes, a hairy yak coat, striped pants, a beard, and facial makeup that made him look like a poor man's version of Genghis Khan.

Yoko, marrying for the third time, wore a white crepe minidress, black knee hose, dark glasses, and an umbrella hat. Together, the way-out pair provided irrefutable evidence that man is indeed descended from apes and simple primordial protoplasmic cells.

Said Lennon: "We don't believe in marriage. But we thought we'd try it out on a cross-channel ferry. Unfortunately, they've stopped holding marriages on ferries in England, so we went to Paris on our honeymoon, then interrupted our honeymoon to get married on the Rock of Gibraltar."

A few days before the Lennon marriage, Paul McCartney, possibly the most normal of the Beatles, married Linda Eastman, a blonde, freckled widget from New York. Linda, at 27, one year older than McCartney, met Paul on a photographic assignment and fell almost instantly in love with him.

Last October she and her 6-year-old daughter flew to England and moved in with Paul, but only after he and his long-time love, actress Jane Asher, had called it quits.

Beatle #3, George Harrison, has been married to model Patti Boyd since Jan. 21, 1966. And Ringo Starr wed Maureen Cox, his childhood sweetheart, in 1965.

Ringo, least talented but considered by many to be the cutest of the four, is now the proud father of two sons, Zak Almoot, 4, and Jason, 1½.

Since all the Beatles are finally under the marital roof, the question that comes immediately to mind is what will marriage do to the Beatles? Settle them? Transform them into good, solid, conventional Englishmen? Will any of their marriages last? What effect if any will marriage have on their popularity?

Free souls

Friends who have watched the boys develop from Liverpool slum urchins into world-famous multimillionaires predict hopefully that marriage will turn them a bit more conservative, a bit more careful. But they are convinced that essentially the musicians will remain free souls just so long as they have enough money to defy the Establishment and bug the old fuddy-duddies.

Already the British police have arrested John Lennon, George Harrison, Patti Boyd and Yoko Ono on charges of possessing marijuana. They have also arrested Mrs. Harrison's 21-year-old sister, Jenny Boyd, who pleaded guilty.

Last November Beatle John was fined $360 after police, helped by drug-sniffing Labradors, found a pound of pot in Lennon's Montagu Square apartment where he was living with his then pregnant girl friend, Yoko Ono. Several of the Beatles and their pals are therefore no strangers to the pot scene.

A film producer who has traveled with the boys says: "From now on I'm sure they're going to cut down on the grass-smoking bit. I have no doubt about it. John doesn't want Yoko in jail. And George feels the same way about Patti. Both these guys are protective when it comes to their wives. Even though they've got plenty of loot, they're also protective about their careers. They say they will never do any live entertainment in front of the public again, and maybe that's true. But they know damn well they can blow the whole thing if they keep on defying public opinion, especially in the U.S. where most of their royalties come from.

"I know it doesn't look like it," the producer continues, "but the Beatles have been trying to put their house in order for about a year now."

Last June the quartet founded a company on London's Savile Row and called it Apple Corps. The company's intent was as amiable as its name. Their music had earned the Beatles millions in surplus funds, and they wanted to channel the money into helping others. "Anyone with a great idea but no means to capitalize on it," Paul McCartney announced, "will be helped by us if possible."

The Fool and money

But giving money away turned out to be more difficult than making it, and several of the Beatles' schemes ran aground. Their Apple Boutique sold clothes designed by a weird Dutch group called The Fool. After a run-in with the landlord over a mural they had painted on the building, The Fool departed for Los Angeles.

The Beatles then decided they wanted out of the clothing business. They gave away $36,000 worth of mod garments and closed their companion shop, Apple Tailoring.

Other enterprises were more lucrative. Apple Records' first talent discovery was Mary Hopkin, whose single, Those Were the Days, proved a smash hit. The Beatles also put out on their own label their Yellow Submarine album and a Modern Jazz Quintet production.

Two Virgins, the Lennon-Ono contribution, met with trouble, however, because of its controversial cover which showed the pair in their birthday suits. So many copies of this album have been confiscated by authorities that not even Tetragrammathon Records, the U.S. distributor, has an idea of how many have been sold.

The only Beatle who truly concerns himself with the business end of Apple Corps is Paul McCartney. But the flood of "great young artists with great ideas" and no money, has dampened even his enthusiasm for venture capitalism and philanthropy.

To help straighten out the financial mess Apple Corps has become, McCartney recently brought in his brother-in-law, attorney John Eastman. Eastman is working closely with another efficiency expert, Allen Klein, the financial wizard behind the Rolling Stones. Klein's daily lecture to the Beatles centers around the premise that they could double their current earnings. The Beatles, however, do not seem to be primarily interested in money.

Ringo as actor

Ringo Starr, who nine years ago began working for $14.40 per week, wants to develop into a top-flight actor. Ringo played the Mexican gardener in the sex film, Candy, and has just finished starring in another Terry Southern work, The Magic Christian, along with Peter Sellers.

George Harrison is mostly interested in composing. Last year he studied Indian music and composed the scores for several films.

John Lennon, the most bizarre Beatle of them all, is hard at work on another TV spectacular—his first was a bomb—this one to be called The Rock and Roll Circus. It will feature the Rolling Stones, Marianne Faithfull, and Lennon dressed as a tumbler and Yoko as a witch.

Rumors concerning the Beatles have always been plentiful, generally focusing on their occasional disputes. It is true that once in a while they throw soup at each other, but even their squabbles are characterized by an underlying mutual respect and love.

There was a time, of course, when they did everything together. But now that each is married, they socialize infrequently and tend to go their separate ways.

To date, marriage has not adversely affected their popularity. For all the Beatles' shenanigans, a recent poll shows they are still the most admired celebrities in Great Britain.

This year, Oregon.

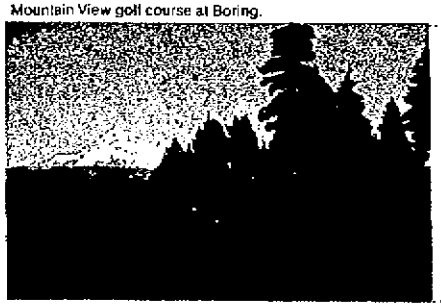

Fun, sun and scenery are great along the Oregon Coast. This is Cape Kiwanda, one of many headlands that protect public beaches along our 400 mile coastline. It's an accessible seashore, too. Highway 101 takes you the distance with something new to see and do around every turn. Go golfing, clamming, salmon fishing, surfing, sun bathing, beachcombing. Along the way: Friendly towns, fine restaurants and resorts.

Of course, the coast is just one edge of Oregon. Between our other borders you can get next to nature by riding horseback through cowboy country, camping beside one of our many mountain lakes or streams. Accommodations range from modest to downright plush all over this cool, green vacationland. And, the auto travel is really smooth, thanks to Oregon's system of superb highways.

Ringo Starr went to the altar with Maureen Cox who was his childhood sweetheart. They have two sons.

hit. The Beatles also put out on their own label their Yellow Submarine album and a Modern Jazz Quintet production.

Two Virgins, the Lennon-Ono contribution, met with trouble, however, because of its controversial cover which showed the pair in their birthday suits. So many copies of this album have been confiscated by authorities that not even Tetragrammathon Records, the U.S. distributor, has an idea of how many have been sold.

The only Beatle who truly concerns himself with the business end of Apple Corps is Paul McCartney. But the flood of "great young artists with great ideas" and no money, has dampened even his enthusiasm for venture capitalism and philanthropy.

To help straighten out the financial mess Apple Corps has become, McCartney recently brought in his brother-in-law, attorney John Eastman. Eastman is working closely with another efficiency expert, Allen Klein, the financial wizard behind the Rolling Stones. Klein's daily lecture to the Beatles centers around the premise that they could double their current earnings. The Beatles, however, do not seem to be primarily interested in money.

Ringo as actor

Ringo Starr, who nine years ago began working for $14.40 per week, wants to develop into a top-flight actor. Ringo played the Mexican gardener in the sex film, Candy, and has just finished starring in another Terry Southern work, The Magic Christian, along with Peter Sellers.

George Harrison is mostly interested in composing. Last year he studied Indian music and composed the scores for several films.

John Lennon, the most bizarre Beatle of them all, is hard at work on another TV spectacular—his first was a bomb—this one to be called The Rock and Roll Circus. It will feature the Rolling Stones, Marianne Faithfull, and Lennon dressed as a tumbler and Yoko as a witch.

Rumors concerning the Beatles have always been plentiful, generally focusing on their occasional disputes. It is true that once in a while they throw soup at each other, but even their squabbles are characterized by an underlying mutual respect and love.

There was a time, of course, when they did everything together. But now that each is married, they socialize infrequently and tend to go their separate ways.

To date, marriage has not adversely affected their popularity. For all the Beatles' shenanigans, a recent poll shows they are still the most admired celebrities in Great Britain.

This year, Oregon.

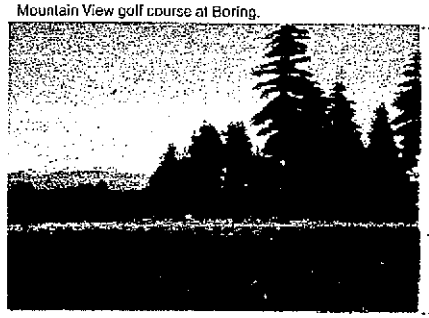

Fun, sun and scenery are great along the Oregon Coast. This is Cape Kiwanda, one of many headlands that protect public beaches along our 400 mile coastline. It's an accessible seashore, too. Highway 101 takes you the distance with something new to see and do around every turn. Go golfing, clamming, salmon fishing, surfing, sun bathing, beachcombing. Along the way: Friendly towns, fine restaurants and resorts.

Of course, the coast is just one edge of Oregon. Between our other borders you can get next to nature by riding horseback through cowboy country, camping beside one of our many mountain lakes or streams. Accommodations range from modest to downright plush all over this cool, green vacationland. And, the auto travel is really smooth, thanks to Oregon's system of superb highways.

DURBROW

NOLTING

TAYLOR

LODGE

BUNKER

AMBASSADORS Since 1961 the U.S. has had five ambassadors to South Vietnam: Elbridge Durbrow, Frederick Nolting Jr., Gen. Maxwell Taylor, Henry Cabot Lodge (two terms), and Ellsworth Bunker.

Of those five, none of whom could speak Vietnamese, Ellsworth Bunker, 74, is considered by the South Vietnamese to be far and away the most effective.

The Vietnamese venerate age and equate it with wisdom. They also like Bunker's soft voice, his conservative mien, his equable temperament, his genteel modesty, his preference to persuade rather than to pressure.

South Vietnamese journalists claim their people trust and respect Bunker far more than they did Gen. Maxwell Taylor whom they blame for the American troop buildup, and Henry Cabot Lodge whom they regard as an enemy of the Buddhists.

DOCTOR'S IMAGE Is medicine a profession or a business? Is the average U.S. physician more noble, more high-minded, less commercial than his fellow citizen?

Are physicians entitled to mix their practice with their private investments?

Does the public resent the high earnings of physicians? In 1961 their average net income after all expenses was $25,000. In 1966 it was $28,000. Last year, thanks to Medicare and Medicaid payments, it zoomed to $34,000.

The public admires physicians, realizes they work hard, in most cases deserve what they earn. What the public strongly resents is the handful of profiteers, the minority, for example, who sign a commercial laboratory to do all their tests on the outside for $80 or $100 a month, then make fabulous profits by charging patients outrageous sums for such lab tests as blood count, urine analysis, sedimentation rate, blood sugar, and all the other tests considered necessary for a thorough physical exam.

In New York State several legislators, shocked by physician profiteering in lab tests--evidence shows in some cases their mark-ups have ranged from 1000 to 10,000%--have sponsored legislation making it illegal for doctors to bill patients for lab tests not performed in the doctors' offices.

In California the state legislature decided that physicians should not be allowed to own prescription pharmacies after 1967. Several of them had been sending their patients into their pharmacies to buy overpriced or unneeded drugs or drugs in which they held a proprietary interest.

The courts have now ruled, however, that while California physicians may no longer own pharmacies, it is perfectly legal if they form a corporation and the corporation owns the pharmacy, which, of course, violates the intent of the original law.

Physicians in the U.S. have effective lobbies in state capitals as well as Washington, D.C., and the moment doctors are criticized, the lobbyists go to work.

It may well be that in this day and age, physicians are no more noble than the rest of us. Is there any reason that they should be? They are after all subject to the same pressures, desires, status symbols, and total environment.

POEM A DAY The Architectural League of New York has set up a "dial-a-poem" service in New York City. It's available to anyone who's willing to pay for a call to (212) 628-0400.

Poet John Giorno arranged for several poets to cut tapes of their own works. His first selections included Allen Ginsberg, William Burroughs, Taylor Mead, and others. Right away the six phones rang with about 4000 calls each 24 hours.

Since then the League has added four more phones to handle 60,000 calls per week. The League and Giorno believe that poems have a beneficial effect on people and will continue the dial-a-poem service until funds run out.

BEER FOR BRUSSELS Three years ago the Justice Department ordered the Joseph Schlitz Brewing Company to divest itself of Burgermeister and its 39% interest in John Labatt, a Canadian brewing company.

Schlitz, determined to overtake Anheuser-Busch, number one in the brewing industry, was naturally disappointed. The disappointment, however, was domestic. Schlitz is doing great overseas. It not only owns the Puerto Rico Brewing Company, and interests in three Spanish breweries, but it has recently moved into the Belgian market, acquiring control of S.A. Brasserie de Chlin, third largest beer outfit in Belgium.

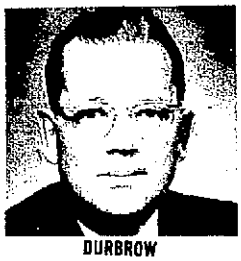

Belgians have a tremendous capacity for beer. They consume 32.4 gallons per capita compared to the U.S. consumption of 16.7.

THE PILL After an exhaustive study of various birth control drugs and devices, the Soviet Union has decided to begin mass production of an intra-uterine device as the officially favored method of contraception.

Other Communist bloc countries, however, are not following suit. East Germany, for example, which has one of the highest medical standards in Europe, is still offering its women a choice of the IUD and the pill, maintaining that both are relatively safe methods of contraception.

In East Germany the woman who prefers the intra-uterine device pays $4.50 for one. Women who prefer the pill pay $1.35 for a month's supply. Family-planning clinics are numerous in East Germany, and medical care, including periodic check-ups, is free. Drugs, however, are not.

MUSIC ON TAPE In 1966, according to Donald Hall, general manager of Ampex stereo tapes, music on tape accounted for only 3% of all U.S. recorded music sales. Today, tapes account for about 25% of music sales, will probably rise to 40% in the near future.

The increasing availability of tapes and players in the new convenient cartridge and cassette formats is responsible for the surge in tape popularity.

There are four basic types of pre-recorded music on the market: (1) open-reel tapes normally seven inches in diameter (2) four-track cartridges used almost exclusively for automobile playback (3) the eight-track cartridge developed by Lear-Jet in the mid 1960's and adopted by the automobile industry as an optional accessory for new cars in 1965 (4) cassette tapes developed by Philips of the Netherlands which are now running away with the market because they are smaller, more convenient, more simply designed, can be used to record as well as to play music.

SECRET SON Did Marilyn Monroe have a secret son? According to the European press which loves to engage in such circulation-building conjecture, she did, in 1949.

The British press reports, for example, that Marilyn's son, now 19, visits his mother's grave in Los Angeles regularly, always leaves a single yellow rose above her tombstone.

Supposedly the son is the result of her liaison with Johnny Hyde, a Hollywood agent who was the actress' benefactor early in her career struggle. Supposedly, too, Marilyn was persuaded to place her infant son in a California adoption agency.

Friends who knew Marilyn well, all through her three marriages, report that she was incapable of a full-term pregnancy, place no stock at all in the story of the secret son.

Marilyn Monroe is buried in a cemetery right off Wilshire Boulevard in Los Angeles, a stone's throw from a drive-in restaurant and the local draft board. It is no secret that from time to time Joe Di Maggio, her second husband, visits her grave.

RATS In 1930 seven in ten Americans lived in rural areas. By 1966 less than one of every ten remained there. The population is moving steadily into the cities. Here, along with increasing human populations, an increasing population of rats has developed.

Living off city garbage and sewage, the rats enjoy a never-ending food supply. They thrive in slum areas or wherever sanitation facilities are inadequate.

Ratbites reported in New York City average 500 a year, but that figure is estimated to be only one-third the actual number. Reporting ratbites in our cities is not mandatory.

In 1967 Congress got around to appropriating funds for rat control, but by then the rats had formed a snugly settled population. There are now 90 million rodents preying on the U.S., spreading disease and fevers of a varied nature and destroying 10% of the nation's yearly grain crop.

Fumigation and trapping cause only a small dent in the rat population. What is necessary, the Public Health Service declares, is full control of environmental sanitation, improvement of garbage collection, and most critically, a decrease in slum areas.

BREAST ENLARGEMENT The place for women with underdeveloped breasts to go is Prague, Czechoslovakia. Surgeons there have developed a new plastic sponge substance, "hydron," which they use for breast implants.

Hydron is pliable, does not cause cancer, absorbs a third of its own weight in water.

Liquid silicone was used in this country a while back for breast enlargement but the government banned its use for that purpose. Physicians who used it reported that in many instances the silicone wandered from where it was needed most, producing unsatisfactory cosmetic results.

British surgeons are experimenting with hydron. At the Hammersmith Hospital in London, they have already tried breast implants on nine women, will shortly attempt further implants on another 21.

1 AND 2: ETHEL AND ROSE KENNEDY.

ADMIRED WOMEN In our society how do we judge women? Do we admire and respect them on the basis of their own achievements or their husbands' positions?

A recent Gallup Poll reveals that of the ten women Americans admire the most, Mrs. Ethel Kennedy ranks number one. Mrs. Rose Kennedy, mother of the late John and Robert Kennedy, ranks two. Mrs. Aristotle Onassis, who was at the head of the surveys in 1965 and 1966, now ranks seventh. Thus three members of the same political family rank among the first ten.

Mrs. Dwight Eisenhower ranks three, followed by Mrs. Lyndon Johnson, four and Mrs. Martin Luther King, five. Mrs. Richard Nixon ranks sixth, Mrs. Onassis seventh, Pearl Buck, the novelist, eighth. Great Britain's Queen Elizabeth is ninth, and actress Helen Hayes is tenth.

Each of these women is or has been married. And only two, Pearl Buck and Helen Hayes, are career women who achieved fame through their own efforts.

It may well be that in the U.S. our society judges women by the achievements of their men.

The Anynight Turkey

Mothers of turkey-loving families, don't despair! Instead, look for our ARMOUR STAR Turkey Roast in your grocer's freezer case.

It's The Anynight Turkey.

A solid turkey meat roast without bones or waste in both all white meat, or a combination of white and dark meat.

When you want to serve turkey, take it out of your freezer and pop it into the oven in its own roasting pan.

The Anynight Turkey cooks moist and juicy because it cooks with creamery butter right in it.

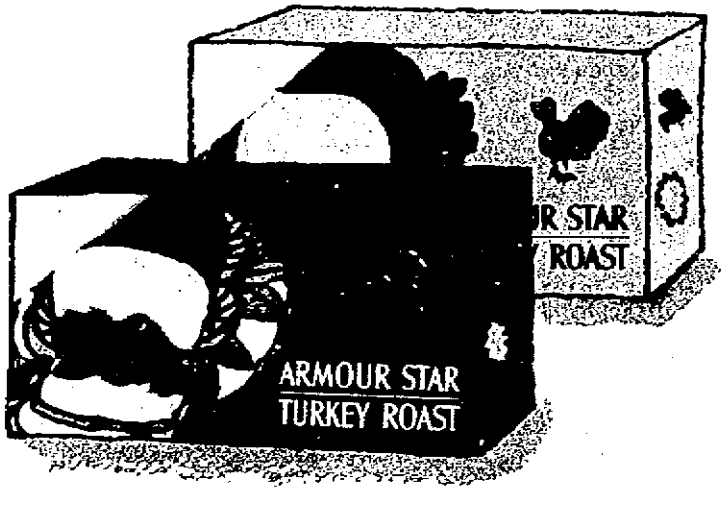

And because it is an exclusive MAGIC SLICE® roast, the slices stay whole when you slice them.

Or dress it up with one of your favorite sauces; spaghetti, barbecue, cranberry, or your own special.

There's no reason to wait for a special night to serve turkey.

The Round

Scandinavian cooks have a way with ground meat. They make it into tiny, delectable meat balls to serve with brown beans or into meat loaves of distinction. We selected a loaf for today's presentation because of its unusual flavoring—subtle but delicious—of onion, nutmeg, Accent, dill, lemon and parsley. The recipe calls for three varieties of meat, but you may use two, or beef alone, if you prefer.

Bake loaf in a ring mold and turn out on a serving dish. Fill center with a hot vegetable like Harvard beets, surround with Italian green beans and "frost" top of loaf with sour cream. For finishing touch to this handsome dish, add a few sprigs of feathery dill.

Menu

Tomato Juice
Sesame Crackers — Herring Tidbits
Scandinavian Meat Loaf*
Italian Green Beans — Harvard Beets*
Pumpernickel Rolls
Endive Salad
Stewed Rhubarb
Coconut Macaroons*
Coffee — Tea

*Scandinavian Meat Loaf

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 pound ground beef
- ½ pound ground veal
- ½ pound ground pork
- 1 cup fine dry bread crumbs
- 2 teaspoons Accent
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon instant minced onion
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon dried dill weed
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup dairy sour cream

Combine all ingredients except sour cream. Mix well. Press meat loaf mixture into well-greased 8- or 9-inch ring mold. Bake at 375° for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Remove from oven. Loosen edges with knife; turn out on serving dish. Fill center with Harvard beets; surround with Italian green beans. Spread sour cream over top of loaf. Makes 6 hearty servings.

*Harvard Beets

- 1 can (1-lb.) sliced beets
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup beet liquid from can
- ⅓ cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup vinegar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon cloves

Drain beets; save ¼ cup of the liquid. Melt butter or margarine; blend in flour. Add ¼ cup beet liquid; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add remaining ingredients, stir until sugar dissolves. Add drained beets. Heat to serving temperature. Makes 6 servings.

*Coconut Macaroons

- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups corn flakes
- 1 can flaked coconut
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon almond extract

Beat egg whites stiff but not dry. Beat sugar gradually into egg whites. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake at 350° for 10-12 minutes. Makes approx. 2 dozen.

- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- ¼ teaspoon nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon dried dill weed
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- ½ cup dairy sour cream

Combine all ingredients except sour cream. Mix well. Press meat loaf mixture into well-greased 8- or 9-inch ring mold. Bake at 375° for 1 hour and 15 minutes. Remove from oven. Loosen edges with knife; turn out on serving dish. Fill center with Harvard beets; surround with Italian green beans. Spread sour cream over top of loaf. Makes 6 hearty servings.

*Harvard Beets

- 1 can (1-lb.) sliced beets
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ cup beet liquid from can
- ⅓ cup brown sugar
- ¼ cup vinegar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Few grains pepper
- ⅛ teaspoon cloves

Drain beets; save ¼ cup of the liquid. Melt butter or margarine; blend in flour. Add ¼ cup beet liquid; cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add remaining ingredients, stir until sugar dissolves. Add drained beets. Heat to serving temperature. Makes 6 servings.

*Coconut Macaroons

- 2 egg whites
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups corn flakes
- 1 can flaked coconut
- ⅛ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon almond extract

Beat egg whites stiff but not dry. Beat sugar gradually into egg whites. Fold in remaining ingredients. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake at 350° for 10-12 minutes. Makes approx. 2 dozen.

Run for their lives—these oldsters find that exercise improves health and lowers nervous tension. Leading the pack in jogging is Larry Shennum, a USC graduate student helping in the program. It does him good, too.

How to grow young

by Andrew Hamilton

LAGUNA HILLS, CALIF.

For many years Clarence Dayton, a jeweler in Huntington Park, Calif., suffered from excruciating migraine headaches. He felt as tense inside as a tightly wound watch.

"I ate aspirin tablets like peanuts," he said, "but nothing seemed to deaden the pain."

Last year, at age 67, he started on a program of prescribed exercises, and within six weeks the headaches vanished. Physiological tests showed that his nervous tension had virtually disappeared.

"In my whole life, I'd hardly ever worked up a good sweat," he admitted. "But the routine I follow today makes me feel so good I exercise out-of-doors even when it's raining."

Stocky Charles Jamieson, a former Detroit dentist who confesses to being "over 60," says that body conditioning helped him to lose weight and to sleep better.

William Kinsey, 87-year-old retired president of the Union Theological Seminary in the Philippines, repeats a jogging routine (200 running steps, ten walking steps) three times a week.

"Jogging," he said, "has made a much younger man out of me."

Dayton, Jamieson and Kinsey are among 150 oldsters who are taking part in a unique, long-range, scientific study. It seems to indicate that men in their 60's and 70's can retain much of the vigor and physical functions of their 40's. The secret: carefully planned exercise.

This research is being conducted at Leisure World, a plush retirement community in Laguna Hills, Calif.—50 miles south of Los Angeles. In charge is husky, quiet-spoken Dr. Herbert deVries of the University of Southern California's Gerontology Center, which is zeroing in on problems of the aged.

Mind and body

It is generally agreed that exercise promotes a feeling of mental and physical well-being.

But what kind of exercise?

And how much?

Is exercise more effective in preventing serious health problems or in treating them?

Can it slow down aging?

Dr. deVries' research is one of several projects in American universities and hospitals seeking to answer these basic questions. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is supporting his program with a grant of $46,763.

The deVries study was launched about a year ago. He and his assistant, Dr. Kenneth E. Lersten, recruited a small staff, purchased a mammoth green-and-white trailer, and equipped it with instruments that measure heart rate, oxygen consumption, blood flow, body fat and carbon dioxide production. They parked the vehicle behind Leisure World's Medical Center and ordered a sign painted on it, Mobile Laboratory for Physiology of Exercise and Aging Research.

Before long, curious senior citizens began to drift in. One of the first was 68-year-old Raymond Halldorson, retired oil marketing expert. "Can't hurt anything," he said. "Might do me some good."

Like all who joined the program, six-footer Halldorson underwent a head-to-toe physical examination by his own doctor. Then came four tests, developed by Dr. deVries, that stretched over a three-week period: (1) a physiological efficiency profile, or PEP for short; (2) a second PEP plus an oxygen intake test; (3) a telemetry test in which Halldorson's heart was monitored by a short-wave device strapped to his belt while he ran up and down on the sidewalk outside the mobile laboratory; and (4) a cardiac output test while he pedaled a stationary bicycle.

"In the beginning I was a bit apprehensive," said Halldorson. "I had a lurk-

Dr. deVries' research is one of several projects in American universities and hospitals seeking to answer these basic questions. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is supporting his program with a grant of $46,763.

The deVries study was launched about a year ago. He and his assistant, Dr. Kenneth E. Like all who joined the program, six-footer Halldorson underwent a head-to-toe physical examination by his own doctor. Then came four tests, developed by Dr. deVries, that stretched over a three-week period: (1) a physiological efficiency profile, or PEP for short; (2) a second PEP plus an oxygen intake test; (3) a telemetry test in which Halldorson's heart was monitored by a short-wave device strapped to his belt while he ran up and down on the sidewalk outside the mobile laboratory; and (4) a cardiac output test while he pedaled a stationary bicycle.

"In the beginning I was a bit apprehensive," said Halldorson. "I had a lurking fear Dr. deVries might find out something about my heart or lungs I didn't want to know."

But Halldorson was pronounced fit. Out of 150 participants, ranging in age from 52 to 87, only about 20 have been eliminated because of heart irregularities.

Halldorson was then assigned to a 25-man exercise group that met three times a week. This was the crux of the experiment. Would exercise be beneficial to the oldsters?

Starting off slowly, they worked into a four-part huff-and-puff schedule: (1) a modified version of the Royal Canadian Air Force calisthenics; (2) a jogging program, alternately running and walking; (3) a static stretching routine to limber up joints and muscles; (4) swimming—"the fun part."

When they gathered on the grassy lawn near the Leisure World Medical Center, the exercise groups looked like a platoon from Coxey's Army. Walking shorts, sweat suits, ski sweaters. Baseball caps, yachting caps, Panama straws —and occasionally, a beret. Tennis shoes, basketball shoes, leather sandals.

"We do a lot of kidding among ourselves," said Halldorson. "One group dubbed itself Leisure World Olympic Team of 1968."

But results that began to show up in before-and-after group averages were not at all funny. Statistics indicated dramatic improvement in physical conditioning. Tested at the end of 6, 18 and 42 weeks, the Leisure Worlders showed this kind of group-average improvement:

- Diastolic blood pressure lowered by 6 percent.
- Body fat decreased 4.8 percent.
- Maximum oxygen consumption, the best single measure of an individual's vigor, increased 9.2 percent.
- Oxygen pulse, a measure of cardiovascular function, improved 8.4 percent.
- Arm strength increased by 7.2 percent.
- Other indicators of working capacity: gains of 7 to 9 percent.

"One of the most significant changes that occurred as a result of the exercise program was the startling drop in nervous tension," pointed out Dr. deVries.

"In the first 41 experimental subjects, we saw a reduction of about 15 percent in nervous tension—as compared with a control group of non-exercisers. Tension is often a neglected area of health and physical education, yet it poses a serious health hazard to the middle-aged and elderly."

Aging slowed down

Though his research is not yet completed, Dr. deVries is convinced that exercise has both preventive and therapeutic value. On the basis of health benefits produced in the Leisure World participants, Dr. deVries offers the hypothesis that exercise may prolong human life by slowing down the aging process.

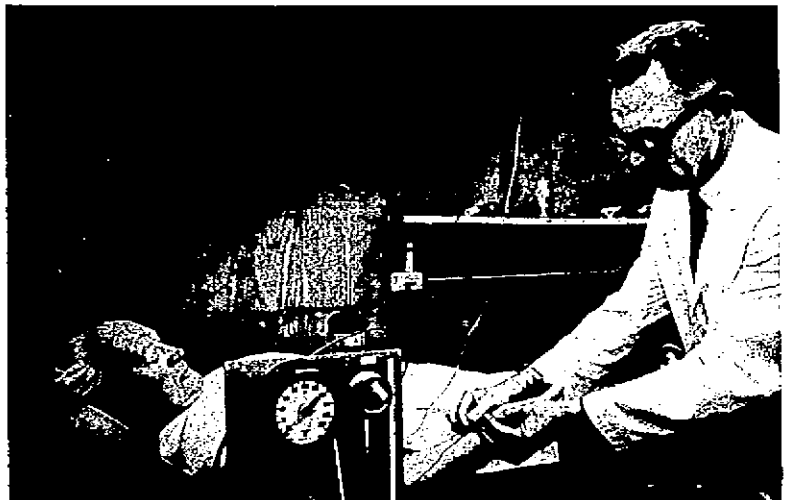

One of his long-range goals is to develop a "pharmacopoeia of exercise." This would be a reference book that doctors could use to look up the kind and amount of exercise that an individual, after a physical examination, should have.

"The time is not too far away," he says, "when it will be possible to prescribe exercise with the same scientific detail and exactness as that now employed in writing a prescription for drugs or medicine."

Dr. deVries is collecting detailed information for such a pharmacopoeia, which would be combined with results from many other laboratories.

FALSE TEETH
Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get FASTEETH at all drug counters.

Sleep Away Hemorrhoid Itch

If the itch and burn of hemorrhoids make life miserable, try this little trick. Get some Cuticura Ointment and apply just before going to bed. Cuticura's emollient medication soothes irritation, quiets itching, even aids healing. Wake up feeling wonderful! Cuticura Medicated Ointment. Available at all drug counters.

How to grow young

by Andrew Hamilton

LAGUNA HILLS, CALIF.

For many years Clarence Dayton, a jeweler in Huntington Park, Calif., suffered from excruciating migraine headaches. He felt as tense inside as a tightly wound watch.

"I ate aspirin tablets like peanuts," he said, "but nothing seemed to deaden the pain."

Last year, at age 67, he started on a program of prescribed exercises, and within six weeks the headaches vanished. Physiological tests showed that his nervous tension had virtually disappeared.

"In my whole life, I'd hardly ever worked up a good sweat," he admitted. "But the routine I follow today makes me feel so good I exercise out-of-doors even when it's raining."

Stocky Charles Jamieson, a former Detroit dentist who confesses to being "over 60," says that body conditioning helped him to lose weight and to sleep better.

William Kinsey, 87-year-old retired president of the Union Theological Seminary in the Philippines, repeats a jogging routine (200 running steps, ten walking steps) three times a week.

"Jogging," he said, "has made a much younger man out of me."

Dayton, Jamieson and Kinsey are among 150 oldsters who are taking part in a unique, long-range, scientific study. It seems to indicate that men in their 60's and 70's can retain much of the vigor and physical functions of their 40's. The secret: carefully planned exercise.

This research is being conducted at Leisure World, a plush retirement community in Laguna Hills, Calif.—50 miles south of Los Angeles. In charge is husky, quiet-spoken Dr. Herbert deVries of the University of Southern California's Gerontology Center, which is zeroing in on problems of the aged.

Mind and body

It is generally agreed that exercise promotes a feeling of mental and physical well-being.

But what kind of exercise?

And how much?

Is exercise more effective in preventing serious health problems or in treating them?

Can it slow down aging?

Dr. deVries' research is one of several projects in American universities and hospitals seeking to answer these basic questions. The U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare is supporting his program with a grant of $46,763.

The deVries study was launched about a year ago. He and his assistant, Dr. Kenneth E. Lersten, recruited a small staff, purchased a mammoth green-and-white trailer, and equipped it with instruments that measure heart rate, oxygen consumption, blood flow, body fat and carbon dioxide production. They parked the vehicle behind Leisure World's Medical Center and ordered a sign painted on it, Mobile Laboratory for Physiology of Exercise and Aging Research.

Before long, curious senior citizens began to drift in. One of the first was 68-year-old Raymond Halldorson, retired oil marketing expert. "Can't hurt anything," he said. "Might do me some good."

Like all who joined the program, six-footer Halldorson underwent a head-to-toe physical examination by his own doctor. Then came four tests, developed by Dr. deVries, that stretched over a three-week period: (1) a physiological efficiency profile, or PEP for short; (2) a second PEP plus an oxygen intake test; (3) a telemetry test in which Halldorson's heart was monitored by a short-wave device strapped to his belt while he ran up and down on the sidewalk outside the mobile laboratory; and (4) a cardiac output test while he pedaled a stationary bicycle.

"In the beginning I was a bit apprehensive," said Halldorson. "I had a lurking fear Dr. deVries might find out something about my heart or lungs I didn't want to know."

But Halldorson was pronounced fit. Out of 150 participants, ranging in age from 52 to 87, only about 20 have been eliminated because of heart irregularities.

Halldorson was then assigned to a 25-man exercise group that met three times a week. This was the crux of the experiment. Would exercise be beneficial to the oldsters?

Starting off slowly, they worked into a four-part huff-and-puff schedule: (1) a modified version of the Royal Canadian Air Force calisthenics; (2) a jogging program, alternately running and walking; (3) a static stretching routine to limber up joints and muscles; (4) swimming—"the fun part."

When they gathered on the grassy lawn near the Leisure World Medical Center, the exercise groups looked like a platoon from Coxey's Army. Walking shorts, sweat suits, ski sweaters. Baseball caps, yachting caps, Panama straws —and occasionally, a beret. Tennis shoes, basketball shoes, leather sandals.

"We do a lot of kidding among ourselves," said Halldorson. "One group dubbed itself Leisure World Olympic Team of 1968."

But results that began to show up in before-and-after group averages were not at all funny. Statistics indicated dramatic improvement in physical conditioning. Tested at the end of 6, 18 and 42 weeks, the Leisure Worlders showed this kind of group-average improvement:

- Diastolic blood pressure lowered by 6 percent.
- Body fat decreased 4.8 percent.
- Maximum oxygen consumption, the best single measure of an individual's vigor, increased 9.2 percent.
- Oxygen pulse, a measure of cardiovascular function, improved 8.4 percent.
- Arm strength increased by 7.2 percent.
- Other indicators of working capacity: gains of 7 to 9 percent.

"One of the most significant changes that occurred as a result of the exercise program was the startling drop in nervous tension," pointed out Dr. deVries.

"In the first 41 experimental subjects, we saw a reduction of about 15 percent in nervous tension—as compared with a control group of non-exercisers. Tension is often a neglected area of health and physical education, yet it poses a serious health hazard to the middle-aged and elderly."

Aging slowed down

Though his research is not yet completed, Dr. deVries is convinced that exercise has both preventive and therapeutic value. On the basis of health benefits produced in the Leisure World participants, Dr. deVries offers the hypothesis that exercise may prolong human life by slowing down the aging process.

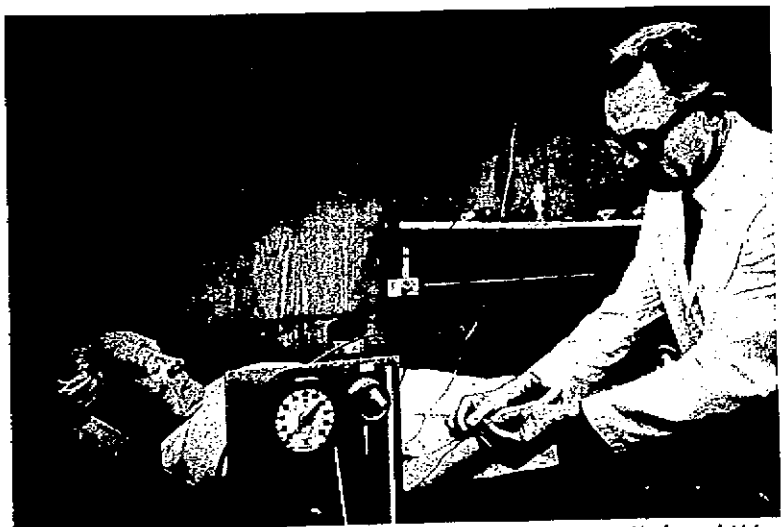

One of his long-range goals is to develop a "pharmacopoeia of exercise." This would be a reference book that doctors could use to look up the kind and amount of exercise that an individual, after a physical examination, should have.

"The time is not too far away," he says, "when it will be possible to prescribe exercise with the same scientific detail and exactness as that now employed in writing a prescription for drugs or medicine."

Dr. deVries is collecting detailed information for such a pharmacopoeia, which would be combined with results from many other laboratories.

fed into a typewriter terminal in his mobile laboratory and flashed to an IBM System/360 Model 50 computer in Santa Ana, 20 miles away. There, the tiny bits of information are sorted, evaluated and stored to build a model for prescribing exercise.

Dr. deVries agrees with his friend Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper, U.S. Air Force physician and author of the best-selling book, Aerobics, that the best kind of fitness is "endurance fitness." This is the ability to do prolonged work without fatigue.

"It has to do with the body's overall health—the health of the heart, the lungs, the entire cardiovascular system and the other organs, as well as the muscles," Dr. Cooper wrote.

"The key to the whole thing is oxygen. The best kind of exercise, therefore, is that which demands oxygen and forces your body to process and deliver it. Even if you've been inactive or sick, exercise may be good therapy."

Cyclists lead all

One scientific authority claims that the most efficient hearts are to be found among professional cyclists. Then, in descending order: long-distance runners, amateur cyclists, cross-country skiers, boxers, handball players, gymnasts, wrestlers and weight lifters. Isometric exercises may help make your muscles bulge, but they do little for your heart and lungs.

Dr. Paul Dudley White (who favors cycling as the best exercise) long ago convinced medical men and laymen that exercise is good for the heart. It was he who treated President Eisenhower during his heart attacks and put him on a regimen of exercise.

"Heart disease before 80 is your fault, not God's will," he told a meeting of the National Association of Retired Persons.

What about the man who slacks off during his middle years? Is it safe for him to crank up to full vigor again? The answer is yes, according to a study made by Dr. John O. Holloszy of the U.S. Public Health Service with 15 men aged 35 to 55 who had gone soft from modern living.

The blood of all who participated contained high levels of serum triglycerides which some doctors consider more dangerous than cholesterol. After six months of running exercises they lowered their heartbeats an average of 15 per minute, cut their time in the mile run from nearly 9 minutes to 7½ minutes, and reduced the serum triglycerides in their blood from an average of 205 milligrams to a healthy 105.

Exercise is being used to treat a wide variety of ailments. Hospital bed rest is almost obsolete, and many patients are made ambulatory soon after operations for hernia, appendicitis and even fractures. But each health problem requires a certain kind of exercise. The wrong kind, or too much of the right kind, can be dangerous.

Here are some examples of ailments that respond to exercise:

Emphysema. At the National Jewish Hospital and Research Center in Denver, exercise constitutes almost the entire therapy program. First, patients are taught a series of exercises to bring up mucous from their lungs to their throats where it can be coughed out. Then they are taught to breathe a new way: by using the large rib muscles to do the work that the lung tissue cannot; finally, they are taught body-building exercises.

Asthma. Similarly in the treatment of asthma, younger patients at the National Jewish Hospital exercise daily by playing softball, football, basketball or soccer. Even though they compete on fields where the pollen count may be high, no patient has ever suffered a serious attack that could be attributed to the exercise.

Diabetes. Exercise burns up excess sugar in the blood and reduces the need for insulin. Diabetics are taught that "exercise is the pleasantest remedy"—provided it is regular and in about the same amount each day.

Orthopedic Problems. One of the first branches of medicine to recognize the value of exercise was orthopedics. Physical deformities and disfunctions resulting from accidents, birth defects and strokes respond to exercise therapy.

Low Back Pain. Dr. Hans Kraus, the New York doctor who helped to develop the Hans-Weber tests for physical fitness, preaches that exercise helps low back pain—a complaint of 28 million sufferers. Exercise helps to strengthen weak back muscles, relax those that are tense.

Arthritis. Exercise is particularly helpful following a "flare"—a severe inflammation of an affected joint. Tissues loosen during a flare and sometimes tighten up again in the wrong position. Before this can happen, a doctor will often prescribe the rhythmic flexing and relaxing of muscles—to pull the tender joints into normal alignment.

Business and industry are paying closer attention to the health of their employees. A study of 900 management executives by Dr. Robert L. Fleck, chief of NASA's preventive medicine section, turned up the fact that about 2 percent had defective hearts. In a similar Georgetown University project, the rate was even higher—7 to 8 percent.

This has led a number of large companies to institute "exercise breaks." Such firms as the American Can Company, Standard Oil of New Jersey, North American Rockwell and others have

NOW! Run Your Car Without Spark Plugs

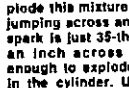

THE IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES BETWEEN ORDINARY SPARK PLUGS AND JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Your car's power comes from tiny explosions of gasoline vapor and air in your cylinders. The bigger the explosions, the faster you go.

SPARK PLUGS
NARROW SPARK

CONVENTIONAL PLUGS explode this mixture with a spark jumping across an air gap. The spark is just 35-thousandths of an inch across — not wide enough to explode all the fuel in the cylinder. Unburned gas escapes through your exhaust. In time, the electrodes become eroded and caked with carbon. The gap widens, the spark gets narrower, you lose more power, waste more fuel . . . and finally have to replace your plugs.

JET-FIRE
FUEL IGNITER
WIDE SWATH OF FLAME

JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS use no sparks. Instead a fanning swath of flame walks across a semi-conductor bridge from one electrode to another, exploding far more fuel, getting far more power. There is no gap that can widen, and carbon deposits actually improve performance. They do not have to be adjusted or replaced—ever!

ALSO AVAILABLE FOR BOATS, TRACTORS, TRUCKS MOTORCYCLES AND FOREIGN CARS!

NEW JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Pat. No. 2899585

Will deliver up to 30 more horsepower, 5 more miles per gallon using only regular gas!

THEY NEVER WEAR OUT

- get up to 5 more miles per gallon of gas
- add up to 30 more horsepower to your engine
- save $100 each year for you, year after year while you use the cheapest grades of gasoline!

YOU'LL NEVER CLEAN, ADJUST OR REPLACE PLUGS AGAIN!

Save $100 a Year With Jet-Fuel Igniters!

If you drive 15,000 miles, you can easily save:

- $50 by switching to regular gas.
- $40 on your better mileage.
- $10 by not replacing plugs.

You are protected by this

4-WAY GUARANTEE

1. GUARANTEED for the life of your car (or 30,000 miles) without cleaning, servicing or replacing.
2. GUARANTEED to increase miles/per/gallon of gas on regular gas!
3. GUARANTEED to increase horsepower, increase engine RPMs!
4. GUARANTEED to improve ease of starting and acceleration!

JAY NORRIS CORP., Dept.M-16-31 Hanse Ave., Freeport, N.Y. 11520

Spark plugs are obsolete! Now there's a far better way to run your car.

With conventional spark plugs, only a fraction of the fuel that enters your cylinders is turned into power. The rest escapes through your tailpipe as unburned vapor. That is because their spark is so narrow—only 35-thousandths of an inch wide—that it cannot possibly ignite all the fuel mixture in the cylinder. As plugs get older, their sparks get narrower and less efficient till they have to be replaced.

New Jet-Fuel Igniters do a far better job of turning gasoline into power. Instead of a narrow spark, they send out a wide swath of flame that "walks" across a semi-conductor tip, fanning out in all directions and exploding far more fuel in the cylinder.

Proof That You Get Up To 30 Horsepower More

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters look like spark plugs merely because they have to be screwed into the spark plug socket. But what they do is far different. Here's how to prove it:

1. Run your car till it's fully warmed up.
2. Stop on a perfectly level stretch of road.
3. Put the car in Drive (1st gear with manual transmission), and see how fast the car rolls at idling speed.
4. Remove plugs and install Jet-Fuel Igniters (a 10-minute job).
5. Now see how fast your car rolls at idling speed. You can expect it to go 4 TO 6 MILES PER HOUR FASTER without touching the gas pedal — dramatic proof that Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters increase engine RPMs by 100 to 150 with no increase in gas consumption. (At high speeds, RPMs increase by 300 to 350.)

So, first thing, you can reduce the gas flow by adjusting the idling screw, and start saving money before you've even driven a mile!

(At the same time, you can make your air-to-gas mixture leaner. Fuel Igniters require only a 15:1 ratio instead of the conventional 9:1. It's a simple adjustment that you or your mechanic can make in one minute. It provides even greater economy.)

Start driving and you'll notice even more improvement—up to 30 more horsepower of acceleration power, climbing power, and passing power. All this while burning less gas!

SWITCH TO REGULAR

The next time your gas gauge gets near the "Empty" mark, tell the attendant to fill it up with REGULAR! Chances are you'll no longer need premium which costs four to eight cents more than regular gas.

And this second saving is only the beginning. Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters provide easier cold-weather starts . . . and that means less drain on your battery, and no drain on your patience as you try to get started.

NO REPLACING OR ADJUSTING EVER

The more you drive, the better your Fuel Igniters perform. They don't become eroded, wear out or require adjusting. And carbon build-up—the natural enemy of old fashioned plugs—actually makes fuel igniters perform better. Carbon becomes an additional carrier for the igniter's big jet flame.

So there you have a third saving. One set of fuel igniters will last the life of your car!

Invented To Save Air Force Lives— Now They Can Save You Money

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters were first developed to save airmen's lives. During World War II, there were times when more men were killed by spark plug malfunction than by enemy action. A failure-proof replacement was needed, and Fuel Igniters did the job. Both the Navy and Air Force have approved them for jet engine use.

Now at last they have been modified for automobile use. They won't save your life, but they can save you big money—up to $100 a year with ordinary driving.

Some day, all cars may come equipped with Fuel Igniters like these. But why wait when you can install a set yourself now. Just mail the coupon with the make and model of your car, and we'll rush you a set with full instructions. Just $12.80 per set of 8, $9.60 per set of 6, $6.40 per set of 4.

Even simple stretching routines can be beneficial, doctors have discovered.

even set up small gymnasiums where employees can work out during the day.

Dr. Bernard Sandler, director of Rehabilitation Medicine of the Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center in Brooklyn, is planning to start a program similar to that of Dr. deVries at Leisure World. Out-of-shape men and women will come to the hospital regularly for programmed exercise to improve their physical fitness.

"They'll be a little overweight, a little arthritic, perhaps a little diabetic," he said. "We aren't interested in making musclemen out of them, but in improving their hearts and lungs. We hope that the majority will learn to run an eight-minute mile."

Dr. deVries makes these suggestions if you are determined to launch a do-it-yourself physical fitness program:

1. For anyone over the age of 25 or 30, a thorough physical examination is essential.

2. Start slowly and perform only mild exercises at the start.

3. Seek skilled supervision and companionship—in a YMCA or YWCA, a night school class, or a university.

"From the accumulated results of several research programs, it begins to appear that exercise can contribute to maintaining health and assisting with recovery when we are sick," said Dr. deVries. "The 60- and 70-year-olds of the Leisure World Olympic Team have shown that exercise may lengthen the life span. Can it be the best medicine of all?"

How's your French?

This new "Riviera" French Dressing has a fresh, original taste. Better than any other French.

It's better and fresher because you make it yourself. And it's so easy to prepare. Just be sure to start out with the best—Heinz Vinegar.

Choose from Cider, White, Wine, Salad, Tarragon. Or new Garlic Wine. Each adds a subtly different flavor. But every one makes a delicious French dressing.

In fact, any dressing tastes better when you start with Heinz Vinegar.

Heinz Riviera Dressing

¾ cup salad oil — ¼ cup Heinz Vinegar (any variety)
½ teaspoon salt — 2 teaspoons confectioners sugar
¼ cup Heinz Ketchup — ¼ teaspoon paprika

Combine ingredients in small bowl. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly blended. Cover; chill. Stir before serving. Makes 1¼ cups.

Cia Löwgren, recent PARADE cover girl, has obtained the lead role in a Swedish movie.

Swedish Sequel

In the March 2 issue PARADE ran a story called "There's Something About a Swedish Girl." It must be true, for we have been inundated by mail and long-distance phone calls asking how to get in touch with Cia Löwgren, the girl on our cover.

This is how Cia appeared on our cover.

We know how it is, red-blooded fellas, but we do not have permission to give Cia's address. PARADE has forwarded your letters, however, and wishes you luck in the unlikely event that she is not already attached to a red-blooded Swede.

Meanwhile we have heard from Cia, and you will be glad to know that she did get the movie role she was trying out for.

Here are excerpts from her letter:

"I got the movie lead, and I am very happy. I have been working day and night, but I love what I'm doing better than anything now.

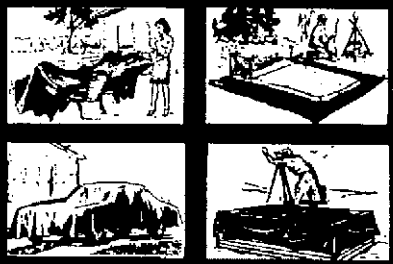

"A man called and asked me to come over to New York to play in a show. He said he saw my photo in PARADE. I had to say no because of my film job.

"I send you a photo (above) where I look very young. In the movie I am playing a 14-year-old girl who runs away with her boyfriend, 17, but I am soon 20!"

PARADE OF PROGRESS

TAKE A LOOK AT THESE NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME AND FAMILY ■
BY PETER DRYDEN

OVERNIGHT ATTACHÉ CASE: You can carry clothes for an overnight trip in this leatherlike vinyl case (above) — and carry your papers in the snap-out portfolio which expands from 2" to 4". The 18½" x 13" x 3¼" case fits under a plane seat. Brown or black. $16.95 ppd. D & M Co., Dept. PP, Box 93, Dover, Del.

AN ADDED SHOWER: Simple to attach to your regular shower outlet, this hand unit (above) lets you shower without wetting your hair. Use it, too, for spot bathing, as auxiliary shower for pets, to simplify tub rinsing. Pushbutton control switches from regular to hand shower. With 6' stainless steel hose, hang-up bracket: $24.95. Lynn, Dept. PP, Box 783, Upper Montclair, N.J. 07043.

AUTO BINGO: Car trips with children should be more pleasurable—for parents and children — with new backseat bingo games that use cards with pictures instead of numbers. As a child spots an object pictured—school, bus, bridge, etc. — he moves a plastic shutter to cover the space. First to complete a row wins. Set of 4 different games: $4.98 ppd. Franzen, Dept. PP, 110 Franzen Bldg., Flanagan, Ill. 61740.

One Woman's Adoption Crusade

ANN ARBOR, MICH.

Judith Hartzell is an average American housewife residing with her husband and two small children in a little gray house on the edge of town. The family lives comfortably on Mr. Hartzell's salary as a college English instructor—but modestly. Despite that, Judy Hartzell has recently "given" nearly $1.5 million to the State of Michigan. And she plans to increase the figure.

Judy's gift was nothing so commonplace as cash. It was a subtle gift involving not only the value of $1.5 million but also the happiness of 68 families and 68 children, plus the future well-being of the youngsters. What Judy did was to promote the adoption of hard-to-adopt children, thus giving them loving parents and also saving the state the cost of maintaining them in foster homes.

As a result of Judy's campaign, which also demonstrated the effectiveness of newspaper articles, 18 children were adopted and 50 of the many families wanting to adopt were approved and are waiting for children. It costs the state some $30,000 to rear one child from infancy to age 18 in a foster home. Part of that sum, of course, has already been expended on each of the youngsters in Judy's adoption crusade. But since from now on their expenses will be borne by their new parents, it's estimated that Judy has so far saved about $3.5 million in tax money and United Fund contributions that otherwise would have had to be spent.

"That's a large amount of money," says attractive Judy Hartzell, "but money wasn't the motive. I just wanted to get as many kids as I could into permanent private homes and under the care of mothers and fathers who wanted them and would adopt and love them."

In a way, the adoption campaign traces to the Hartzells' son Andrew, now a lively and lovable three-year-old. As he was progressing from infant to little boy, Judy did considerable reading about small children and was deeply disturbed to find that those who are bereft of true parental love frequently suffer both physical and mental setbacks. She thought how lucky Andrew was compared to parentless kids. About the same time she heard about Helen Allen and her daily adoption column in the Telegram in Toronto. The column was responsible for hundreds of adoptions all over Ontario.

Newspaper helps out

Judy wrote to Helen Allen asking for her formula. It was sent to her immediately. Next she set up liaison with several private and public adoption agencies and then she went to see Arthur Gallagher, editor of the Ann Arbor News. She told him about Helen Allen's column which has a 90 percent readership factor, the highest of any public service column in the Telegram. Gallagher agreed to carry columns from Judy whenever she submitted them.

"I decided to concentrate on hard-to-adopt children," she recalls. "The handicaps against them are race, physical or mental shortcoming and age. After age 2 adoption is very tough."

The first child that Judy presented to the community for adoption was

NOW FLY A SPACE-BIRD KITE!

A BIG 4 FT. WINGED BIRD

Cucumbers and Beauty

by ANA MAHER

Every woman, at some time in her life, faces the spectre of an aging skin. Most women never solve the problem, and finally become resigned. A fortunate few find the answer and are rewarded with a complexion that remains fresh and youthful all their lives.

Eight years ago, I had this skin problem. Nothing very serious, but when I took my mirror over to a bright light, I could detect evidence of dryness and faint little lines in those areas where wrinkles have a tendency to show first. And I didn't like it. I knew that these were danger signals that warned of an aging skin.

I was also very bewildered. I had always taken the best care of my skin. I used expensive night creams, lotions and highly touted astringents. So I tried other creams, with no improvement. Finally I became resigned. After all, everybody gets older and most of us show our age.

Then one day I had a visit from an elderly widowed neighbor. This charming lady was about seventy, but she had the most beautiful, moist, youthful skin. I remarked about it and mentioned my own skin problem.

She told me she used a marvelous cream which had been formulated by her late husband, a physician, and that she made it herself. "Try it," she said, and then she left and returned with a jar of this cream.

So I tried using my neighbor's cream.

In only three weeks, I began to see a marked improvement. My skin was fresher, clearer, smoother. After two months, my former dry, dull skin was revitalized. The lines and puffiness had been eased away. My skin now had a youthful, almost translucent quality. I was thrilled with my neighbor's formula.

For six years, this kind lady kept me supplied with this cream. And I want to tell you that my skin was more vital and younger looking than it had been when I first started to use it, six years before.

Then my neighbor died suddenly — and with her went that wonderful cream and its secret ingredients. I was saddened by the loss of a good friend — and dejected by the loss of a miracle cream. Her family told me that her personal papers revealed no formulas of any kind. I was desperate. But I did have three jars left from the last batch she had made.

So I took the cream to one of the best known analytical cosmetic chemists. The cost of the analysis was enormous, but I got what I wanted. I had the wonder cream formula.

It has a base of pure cucumber juice, two super-moisturizers and three natural lubricants. It also contained Vitamins A and D and a special component to keep the cucumber juice fresh. My chemist told me that the formula consisted of only safe, pure ingredients — no hormones, estrogens or steroids.

I made a batch of cream for myself, following the chemist's instructions. Then my friends and relatives began using it. And in every case, the results were absolutely astounding.

Soon friends began insisting that the cream should be made known and available to all women, since the problem of aging skin is universal.

So my cream was put on the market a year ago, with the financial help of an uncle. It is called Cucumbre Frost.

The same wonderful results experienced by me, my friends and relatives were repeated time and time again by women all over the country. I have in my file hundreds of letters from grateful women telling of the remarkable results obtained with Cucumbre Frost.

Treatment is not a complicated ritual. I don't have time for that and the chances are you don't, either. You apply Cucumbre Frost at bedtime. Leave it on all night. It feeds, protects and nourishes your skin while you sleep.

I know what Cucumbre Frost can do for you. Therefore, I offer you this UNCONDITIONAL GUARANTEE. Try it. See for yourself in your own mirror how, after a few treatments, Cucumbre Frost helps revitalize dull, dry, aging skin. How Cucumbre Frost helps ease away lines and puffiness. Many women wrote me of astonishing results after only two weeks. Some take longer. But I say this to you: If, for any reason, you are not delighted with Cucumbre Frost — return the unused portion to me for a complete refund. No questions asked.

You now have the opportunity to have a vital, youthful, lovely skin — at no risk. Cucumbre Frost can be purchased only by ordering it directly from me. Simply send your name, address and $5.00 (cash, check or money order) to:

Judy Hartzell (left) talks with Harry and Patricia Macomber, Michigan couple who, acting on her idea, adopted two American Indian brothers, Tommy, 7 and David, 6.

Timmy, a chubby, smiling Negro boy, 18 months old. From the moment that edition of the News came out, with Timmy's picture and an accompanying article, Judy waited tensely for results. She need not have worried. Eleven Negro families put in bids for Timmy and several months later he was legally adopted by one of them.

Since then, Judy has featured 21 children in her column, which appears irregularly, and 18 of them have been adopted. The agencies, of course, investigate every set of parents wanting to adopt and in checking up on those who wanted Judy's kids, they approved 50 who are now waiting for children to turn up.

The most spectacular response came in the case of Laura, a lovely, little blonde who had only one drawback as a subject for adoption. She was old. All of 9 years. Laura had lived in three foster homes, wanted to take dancing lessons and join the Brownies but had no opportunity. When the News photographer took her picture, she asked: "Do you think if my picture's in the paper, and they get me a real mommy and daddy, that I'll be happy?"

A total of 150 homes asked to adopt Laura. Twenty-four of these were found acceptable and one of them got her.

Since adopting a child is a rather major move, it seems strange to think that merely seeing a picture and article in a newspaper would prompt a family to do it. PARADE asked several sets of parents about this. They responded readily but preferred anonymity.

"We were thinking of adopting," says one housewife, "but somehow it stayed in the talk stage. Mrs. Hartzell's article and the picture of the baby just triggered us."

A father of two children explains: "We wanted a third child but I am conscientious in my belief that the world is rushing toward a population calamity. The answer, then, was to adopt an already existing child."

Another set of parents, clearly motivated by goodness, says: "We felt it would be nice to look for a child who wouldn't otherwise find a home."

All kinds of children

Of the children placed by Judy, seven were Negroes, four white and seven Chippewa Indians who lived in Michigan's upper peninsula. But for her they'd still be in foster homes.

Judy would like to see the adoption column spread to newspapers in many other communities and would freely share her experience with anybody who wants to start one. She warns, however, that a column sometimes causes a problem. For example, the agency which offered pretty Laura found itself tied up for weeks investigating the 150 responses. Judy believes that in sizable communities, adoption agencies should work together to set up a central body to relieve any one of them of an extraordinary burden of investigation.

Certainly there's no shortage of material for an adoption column. There are an estimated 8000 hard-to-place kids in Michigan and 200,000 across the nation. It's challenging to realize that a click of a camera and a few taps on the typewriter might find a permanent home for almost any one of them. —J. G. R.

My man was a King-Size Problem...

(Confessions of a big man's wife)

MY HUSBAND is big and handsome—any woman would be proud to be seen with such an escort. I've always enjoyed going places with him. Except for one thing—the clothes he wore never fit him correctly.

They weren't cheap clothes, either—my husband makes a good living. They just weren't designed, proportioned right for a man his size. Most of the smart, new styles they're wearing didn't even come in his size; his shirts and slacks were always skimpy, his jackets never looked right and his shoes were just not in style. I tried going shopping for him myself—but I'd just run myself ragged, come home close to tears.

Then one day a friend showed me the new KING-SIZE Catalog. It was a revelation! 120 pages crammed with smart, stylish clothing and shoes...sweaters, slacks and jackets—all specially designed for TALL and BIG men! Inseams up to 42"...necks to 22"...sleeves to 38"...sizes to XXXL! And the finest brands—McGregor, Arrow, Manhattan, Jantzen, Weldon. Shoes in sizes from 10 to 16, widths AAA to EEE...including DuPont Corfam; Hush Puppies, Bates Floaters and others.

Best of all, this beautiful full-color KING-SIZE Catalog doesn't cost a penny. And every item carries the famous KING-SIZE Money-Back Guarantee, "You must be completely satisfied both BEFORE and AFTER wearing, or you get an immediate refund or exchange". Could anything be fairer?

If your husband (son, brother, boyfriend) has the same kind of King-Size problem, that problem is solved right now! Just sit down and write for the FREE KING-SIZE Catalog. When it comes, you and your BIG and TALL man will discover how much FUN buying the right clothes can be!

Tell someone you like about Lark's Gas-Trap™ filter.

Memorize these points:

About 90% of cigarette smoke is gas. Only a fraction is actually "tar" and nicotine. Lark's Gas-Trap™ filter (U.S. Pat. No. 3,251,365) reduces "tar" and nicotine as well as certain harsh gases. What's more, because the Gas-Trap™ uses activated, fortified charcoal granules it reduces these gases better than any other filter on any other popular brand, bar none.

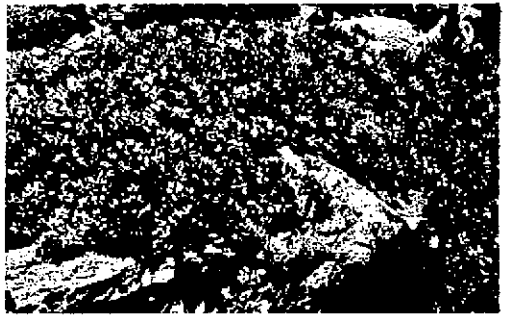

Now you know the secret of Lark's easy taste and hard working filter. So pass it on. Tell your friendly used car dealer. You may get a couple hundred dollars more for your '62.

King Size or new 100's.

YOUTH NOTES

by Derek Norcross

AMERICA'S RULERS

Want to govern the U.S.? If so, a young man's best bet is to attend Harvard, Yale, or Princeton.

According to a recent study, The Education of American Leaders, written by George Pierson and published by Praeger, these three Ivy League schools have produced more national leaders than any other universities.

"Harvard alumni," Pierson writes, "have excelled in literature and the arts, in science and medicine and scholarship. The sons of Yale have demonstrably lived up to their reputation for practical affairs and public service."

Harvard boasts more graduates who served as President, Vice President or Cabinet members, while Yale leads in the number of men who became U.S. Supreme Court Justices and chief executives of major corporations. Princeton consistently ranks third in all categories.

BLACK LIST

One of the best reading guides for those interested in the black American, his experience and history, is a 16-page annotated booklet entitled The Black List.

Compiled by three young librarians in Baltimore, the list includes fiction and non-fiction titles relevant to young blacks.

Booklets can be obtained at 15 cents a copy from: Publications Asst., Enoch Pratt Free Library, 400 Cathedral St., Baltimore, Md. 21201.

THINGS TO COME

There are now 750 million young people in the world in the 12-25 age group.

By 1980 this group will number one billion.

According to a recent United Nations 80-page study on youth problems: "World opinion is going to become increasingly the opinion of the world's youth, and the generational conflict will assume proportions not previously imagined."

The study, based on interviews with youth leaders in 40 nations over a two-year period and on an analysis of youth reports by three unnamed sociologists—two British and one American—declares further: "Young people of all walks of life are prepared to march, to demonstrate and to riot if necessary in support of views which may not be those of the electorate, nor of the majority, nor yet those of government."

The report predicts that "youth of the world will begin to predominate in world affairs" and states: "The younger generation seems to have lost confidence in the capacity of the older generation to guide affairs without some assistance and planning from young people."

It recommends the conversion of youthful opposition into cooperation by the governmental preparation of well-thought-out youth programs and policies as an integral part of each nation's life.

The study is the first detailed one of youth problems made by the United Nations for its Commission for Social Development. The UN has a policy of not revealing the authors of its reports. Inquiries on the study — entitled Preliminary Report on Long-term Policies and Programmes for Youth in National Development—can be directed to: The Center for Economic and Social Development, Room 250, United Nations, New York, N.Y. 10017.

KIDS AND CARS

Most teenagers and young adults who buy new cars, don't have much money to spend. This is why so many end up with Volkswagens and other imports in the $2000 price range.

Ford is invading precisely that market with its new Maverick. General Motors is doing well with its German-manufactured Opel and Chrysler is competing with its Simca and Sunbeam. And now Honda, the Japanese cycle manufacterer, is ready to launch its small motor car in the U.S. while VW announces the joint development of a sports car for the youth market by Volkswagen and Porsche. The new sporty VW will have a 75 horsepower engine located in front of the rear axle and directly behind the seats. It will sell for about $2500.

Automobile manufacturers everywhere are styling, pricing, and targeting their products to appeal to American youth. In millions of U.S. households, it is not the parents who determine the style and make of the family car as much as it is their offspring.

TOO TALL, TOO SHORT?

Is there anything that can be done for the boy or girl who is excessively tall or excessively short?

Not too much.

For children who suffer from pituitary insufficiency, shots of HGH, human growth hormone, which are difficult to come by, will help eradicate dwarfism. But where short stature is not the result of hormone insufficiency, treatment via steroids may help a bit. But these treatments have to be carefully regulated by physicians who understand drug therapy.

Girls who are growing too rapidly are sometimes given estrogens which decrease the growth rate, but there is no certainty that estrogens will reduce the final height.

The Medical Letter, a non-profit publication on drugs and therapeutics to which many physicians subscribe (305 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017), declares:

"Except for the use of human growth hormone in children with hypopituitarism (not enough pituitarin) no therapy is available that will reliably and safely add to the ultimate stature of short children or reduce the height of excessively tall ones. Nevertheless, a trial of an anabolic agent for short boys or estrogens for tall girls is sometimes warranted. Because of its potential hazards, however, drug therapy is best directed by physicians with considerable experience in dealing with abnormal stature."

The Spiders: Japan's answer to Beatles and Stones.

JAPAN ROCKS OUT

Twenty-five years ago in Japan, for a girl and boy to walk alone after dark caused a family scandal. Couples were often married by their parents without having met. Pursuit of pleasure was frowned on. Self-sacrifice, discipline and loyalty were prized virtues.

Today, all this has changed.

Young couples embrace publicly in downtown Tokyo. Informal "music bars" attract Japanese youth in droves. Boys and girls roar off on motorcycles for weekend jaunts. And the rock 'n' roll revolution has shaken the whole post-war generation.

Because the Japanese have trouble pronouncing rock 'n' roll, a TV entertainer and movie star named Yuzo Kayama coined the phrase Group Sounds.

Top draw in the field of 5000 Group Sound bands is Julie and the Tigers — similar in appeal to The Beatles — whose lead singer, 21-year-old Kenji "Julie" Sawada is probably the most popular young man in Japan. The Tigers have completed two full-length films and have their own weekly television show.

Only in the past few years have Japanese groups eclipsed foreign bands like The Beatles and The Rolling Stones in popularity. The biggest rock single in Japan during 1968 was "Kimi-wa Waka-kata" (When We Were Young) by The Spiders, a native group which has even made a tour of Holland.

Reynolds Wrap springs some bright ideas for springtime (Time-saving ideas help you spruce up, shine up, fix up)

Spring chores will be a little easier this year, and go a lot faster... for Reynolds Wrap users. (And who isn't?) Here are some practical, proven ways your favorite household aluminum foil can save you time, work and money this spring.

GREEN GROWS YOUR GARDEN
Strips of Reynolds Wrap spread between rows or around single plants make an effective "mulch." Anchor foil with soil. The foil repels aphids, holds moisture in ground, prevents weeds.

MAKE AN UP-TO-DATE "SCARECROW." To protect seeded lawn, double-fold and staple 12 inch strips of Reynolds Wrap at intervals to a length of strong cord. String across seeded area. The flashing foil keeps birds away from your seed.

NO-SNAG CURTAIN ROD. Your spanking-clean curtains will slide easily onto the curtain rod without tearing or snagging when you cover the tip of the rod with Reynolds Wrap.

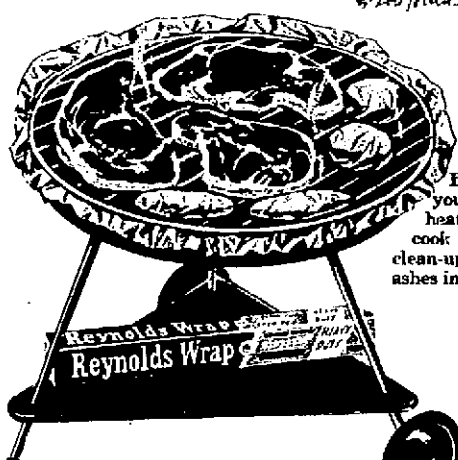

TREE GRAFTING? Cover the joined areas with Reynolds Wrap to protect the tree or plant until the graft "takes." Press foil tightly around graft areas.

SILVER STAYS TARNISH-FREE. Keep your "company" silver service from tarnishing by wrapping tightly in Reynolds Wrap. Foil seals out air and silver retains its lustre.

TRANSPLANTING? If small trees or plants must stand overnight, water well, then wrap the roots—in their earth ball—in Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap, securing it snugly around the stems. The foil wrapping will retain moisture.

PROTECT PATIO PILLOWS. From rain or dew by covering them with a wrapping of Reynolds Wrap before putting on the decorative outer cover. Outer cover can be easily removed for washing—the foil-covered pillow itself remains dry.

FUNNELS MADE TO ORDER
Just shape a piece of Reynolds Wrap around a pencil or other round stick to form the stem. Flare out upper part. Make any size funnel you may need.

COOK BETTER OUTDOORS
Line your grill with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap and build your fire right on the foil. Reflects heat and spreads it evenly. You cook better with less fuel. Makes clean-up a cinch... just bundle up the ashes in the foil.

Why can Reynolds Wrap do so many things so well—around the house and outdoors as well as in the kitchen? Because every inch of Reynolds Wrap is oven-tempered for flexible strength... a special kind of strength that resists puncturing. So strong, so dependable, so versatile. Maybe that's why more women buy Reynolds Wrap than all other foils combined. Reynolds Wrap. Wouldn't you hate to be without it?

CLEAN AND POLISH GOLF CLUBS
Rub club shafts and faces with a crumpled up ball of Reynolds Wrap. Restores bright finish. Works like a charm too, on automobile bumpers, boat fixtures, metal garden furniture, bicycles.

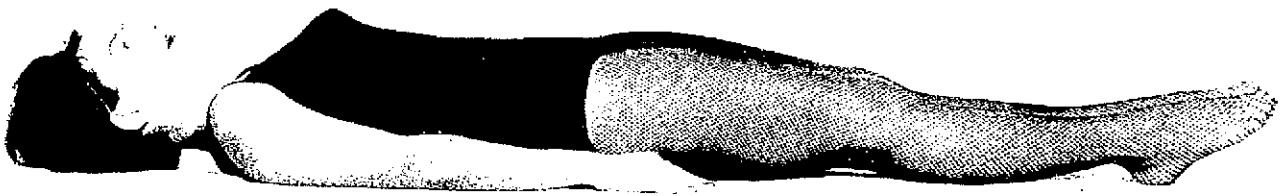

INSULATES Heat-reflective Reynolds Wrap makes excellent year-round insulation. House stays cooler in summer, warmer in winter. And foil is the best moisture-vapor barrier. Use the 18" wide Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap, stapled between studs. Leave air space between foil and outer wall. Economical too.

REYNOLDS WRAP.

This woman is giving herself the equivalent of eight hours of "solid sleep" relaxation in a mere minute! Just one of the fabulous Yoga exercises you can master—on sight!

World's Easiest Yoga

At long last—Yoga that is so downright easy, you can learn it at first sight! So instantly rewarding, it cuts years off your appearance—recharges your body with youthful energy—flushes out of your system the internal poisons that keep you half-ill today! And does it all—in as little as 2 miraculous minutes a day!

Specially designed for men and women OVER FORTY, even if they have neglected and abused their body for years. A new system of HEALING YOGA—consisting, not of exercises, but of simple HEALING POSTURES designed to redirect the blood flow within your body to help you:

1) Flush out the internal wastes and poisons that make you OLD today...

2) Massage and stimulate hidden glands, thus strengthening your powers of digestion and virtually doubling the energy output of your body...

And—most important of all—

3) Flood with super-nourishment the neglected upper-body tissues of your face, neck and hair—and thus stop the drying and collapsing process that is aging your appearance faster and faster every year.

All done to easily that your heart won't add even a single extra beat. (So incredibly easy in fact, that the book that brings this new HEALING YOGA to you—to read entirely at our risk—is filled with photos of seventy and eighty-year-old men and women mastering these poses. You must SEE them to believe them.)

How To "Freeze Your Age" For The Next Thirty Years

But why should there be a special book on YOGA OVER FORTY? Why such emphasis on HEALING Yoga? Why are the techniques in this book specially designed to take the abused and fatigued "middle-aged body," and give that body MORE strength and MORE vigor and MORE resistance against disease than it had 10 or 20 or even 30 years before!

The answer is simple:

Because "middle-age" (and Yoga defines middle-age as the period between forty and eighty) is the last great crossroads of every human life. It is at this point—NOW—that you make the vital decisions that will either propel you onward to sickness and old age ...or turn your "physical clock" backward in health and strength and appearance to what can only be called "A SECOND YOUTH."

The choice is completely up to you. Because if you leave your body alone after forty, the aging processes pick up a disastrous speed. A chronic tiredness begins to haunt every day. You put on weight you can't take off. The skin of your face begins to crumble faster and faster—because your heart just can't pump up enough nourishing blood to keep it young any longer.

And, most of all, gravity—the great killer of all animal life on earth—begins to weigh down your body more and more every year. Until it becomes difficult to walk, almost impossible to run, a terror to climb stairs. Until your entire body becomes a battlefield of aches and pains. Until you find yourself cutting out half the real FUN in life—because suddenly, tragically, you're just "TOO OLD"!

This is sheer nonsense! It is caused—not by age—but by Ignorance. Four thousand years of Yoga Youth till Ninety prove it wrong. Here are the facts. Here are the "Age-Freezers" and "Age-Reverses" that YOU can use to build a wall against sickness and pain—like this:

How To Breathe Yourself Young! Stretch Yourself Young! Sleep Yourself Young!

For example:

Four new sources of energy you never dreamed existed—from the earth, air, water and sun. Page 90 shows you how to tap each one, in minutes.

Cleansing Breaths. Sort of Super-Sighs, that let you breathe weariness right out of your body.

Why the best tranquilizer in the world doesn't cost a penny. It's yours on page 94.

The Blood-Stream Purifier. Forces your body to BURN UP hidden poisons that have been clogging your cells for years. You may feel the difference—in thrilling new freedom from indigestion alone—immediately.

How to use the magnetic currents of the earth to help you sleep better and deeper, waken incredibly refreshed.

Released for the first time to our knowledge: The simple technique that allows Yogis to sit in the snow, with only a loincloth, and be perfectly comfortable. YOU can use this same secret, in minutes, to eliminate cold hands and feet all winter long.

Previously undisclosed Yoga sex exercises. Their prime purpose: To transmute Physical Energy into Sexual Energy.

The single most powerful pose to delay the aging of the human body (page 115). And why it releases a virtual torrent of self-healing processes.

Weight-loss the Yoga Way. How can you lose weight like a young person, if you have an old person's glands? Therefore, Yoga works on your glands—not only to help you lose weight more quickly than you have ever dreamed before—but to actually REDISTRIBUTE THAT WEIGHT OVER YOUR ENTIRE BODY, to eliminate ugly bulges that have plagued you for years.

Yoga Rejuvenators For Your Face, Your Hair, Your Spine, Your Teeth

Yoga says that age etches itself on your face for two reasons: Because that face becomes starved for enough nourishing blood; and because it loses the battle against gravity, and sags.

Therefore, Yoga floods your face with blood at least once every day. And it reverses the power of gravity, to build up tissues instead of tear them down.

The simple poses that do this are so powerful that they not only pour new youth into your face, but also:

Irrigate the brain, and stimulate mental processes.

Feed the gums and roots of your teeth, and increase their strength and longevity.

Feed the scalp and hair follicles with the same rich nourishing blood, and (in case after case reported in this book) naturally retard and perhaps even reverse graying and falling hair.

Prove It Yourself Entirely At Our Risk

But this is only the beginning, of course. Almost every page is filled with priceless health secrets, including:

How to avoid incomplete elimination—the number one cause of chronic poisoning of the system after forty.

A method by which the body can continue to repair its own cells, right up until ninety.

How to stretch back pain away. Make those stiff joints mobile again—that sore spine as supple as a kitten's.

Deep internal massage. To tone up liver, kidneys, and pancreas...firm the stomach ...lead to inner cleanliness...increase the gastric fire.

A new way to stop smoking, without eating more (see page 52).

What Yoga can do for you to improve varicose veins, swollen ankles and feet.

Your best exercise to recharge the body—that takes only five minutes a day, and requires you to do ABSOLUTELY NOTHING (but in an entirely new way). See page 113.

And much, much more. But you must try these simple poses yourself to really believe them. The cost of this amazing new system of HEALING YOGA—called YOGA OVER FORTY—is only $5.98 complete, if you decide to keep it.

It costs you nothing if you decide to send it back. The decision is up to you. We believe that SECOND YOUTH lies in the coupon below. If you are willing to test this simple rejuvenating method yourself, at our risk—why not send it in TODAY.

My Favorite Jokes

by Michael Allen

EDITOR'S NOTE: Michael Allen is in the process of becoming an overnight success. Of course it has taken seven years of hard work on the nightclub and TV circuit. Michael has played top clubs across the country and appeared on television for Joey Bishop, Merv Griffin, Ed Sullivan and Joe Franklin.

Thanks to Andy Williams, who caught his act in Los Angeles, signed him and released his album, "Michael Allen Act 1," Allen has become a hot "new" show business find.

Although a singer, Michael Allen's forte is his ability to warm up an audience with his sense of humor. Born and bred in New York, Michael has managed to remain a bachelor.

Herewith some of the quips and jokes that get his act off to a flying start:

You can't be sure of anything these days. Just think of all the mothers who, 20 years ago, had their daughters vaccinated in places they thought wouldn't show.

The nicest thing about an egotist is that he never goes around talking about other people.

The bathtub was invented in 1850 and the telephone in 1875. Had you been living in 1850 you could have sat in the bathtub for 25 years without the phone ringing once.

Most of the time the shortest distance between two points is under construction.

I know a girl who has been married six times. She's a sucker for a rite.

This is the age of tension. Almost everyone lives in fear of bending or breaking an IBM card.

An old Indian was standing on the top of a hill with his son looking over a beautiful valley below. Said the old Indian: "Someday, my son, all this land will belong to the Indians again. Paleface all go to the moon."

A hamburger by any other name costs more.

If you don't want your children to hear what you're saying, pretend you're talking to them.

Romeo to Juliet: "We just can't go on like this, honey. I'm getting a stiff neck."

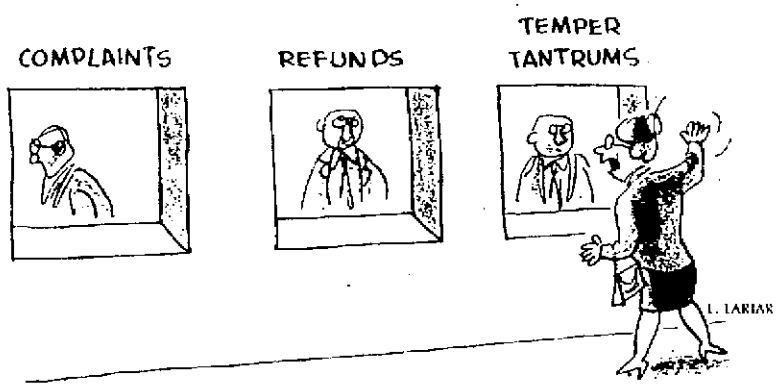

According to most businessmen there are only two seasons a year—slack and busy.

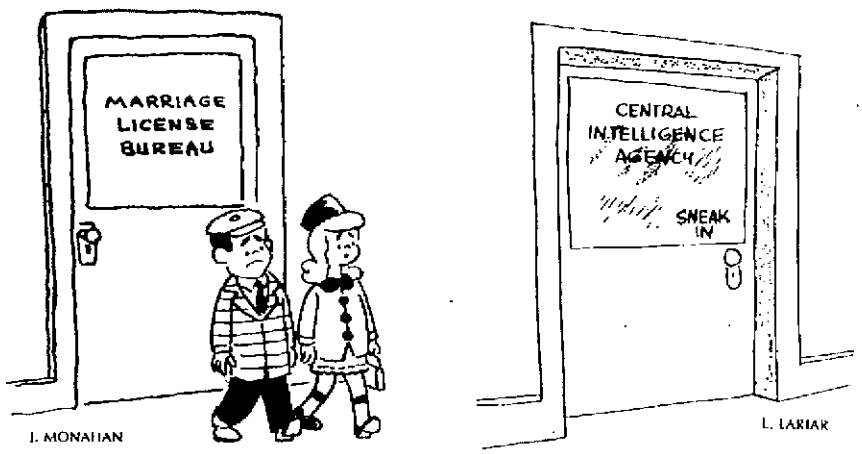

The Lord lets some people get into trouble because that's the only time they ever think of him.

Gerald: "Were you ever troubled with athlete's foot?"

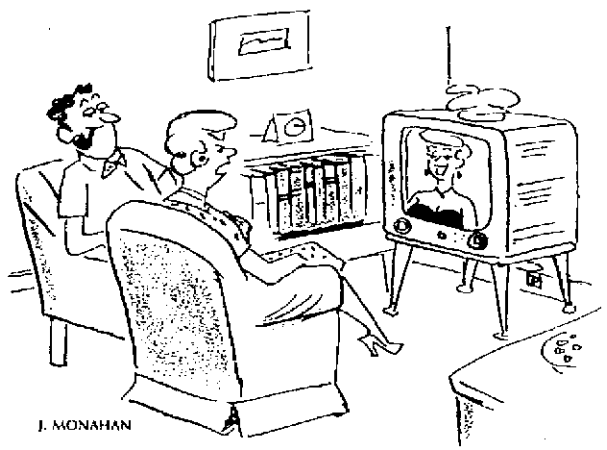

Harold: "Just once, when a football player caught me out with his girl."

It's to Laugh

"Well, anyway it was nice of you to try, Robert."

"I'll bet she can't even boil water."

ing fear Dr. deVries might find out something about my heart or lungs I didn't want to know."

But Halldorson was pronounced fit. Out of 150 participants, ranging in age from 52 to 87, only about 20 have been eliminated because of heart irregularities.

Halldorson was then assigned to a 25-man exercise group that met three times a week. This was the crux of the experiment. Would exercise be beneficial to the oldsters?

Starting off slowly, they worked into a four-part huff-and-puff schedule: (1) a modified version of the Royal Canadian Air Force calisthenics; (2) a jogging program, alternately running and walking; (3) a static stretching routine to limber up joints and muscles; (4) swimming—"the fun part."

When they gathered on the grassy lawn near the Leisure World Medical Center, the exercise groups looked like a platoon from Coxey's Army. Walking shorts, sweat suits, ski sweaters. Baseball caps, yachting caps, Panama straws —and occasionally, a beret. Tennis shoes, basketball shoes, leather sandals.

"We do a lot of kidding among ourselves," said Halldorson. "One group dubbed itself Leisure World Olympic Team of 1968."

But results that began to show up in before-and-after group averages were not at all funny. Statistics indicated dramatic improvement in physical conditioning. Tested at the end of 6, 18 and 42 weeks, the Leisure Worlders showed this kind of group-average improvement:

- Diastolic blood pressure lowered by 6 percent.
- Body fat decreased 4.8 percent.
- Maximum oxygen consumption, the best single measure of an individual's vigor, increased 9.2 percent.
- Oxygen pulse, a measure of cardiovascular function, improved 8.4 percent.
- Arm strength increased by 7.2 percent.
- Other indicators of working capacity: gains of 7 to 9 percent.

"One of the most significant changes that occurred as a result of the exercise program was the startling drop in nervous tension," pointed out Dr. deVries.

"In the first 41 experimental subjects, we saw a reduction of about 15 percent in nervous tension—as compared with a control group of non-exercisers. Tension is often a neglected area of health and physical education, yet it poses a serious health hazard to the middle-aged and elderly."

Aging slowed down

Though his research is not yet completed, Dr. deVries is convinced that exercise has both preventive and therapeutic value. On the basis of health benefits produced in the Leisure World participants, Dr. deVries offers the hypothesis that exercise may prolong human life by slowing down the aging process.

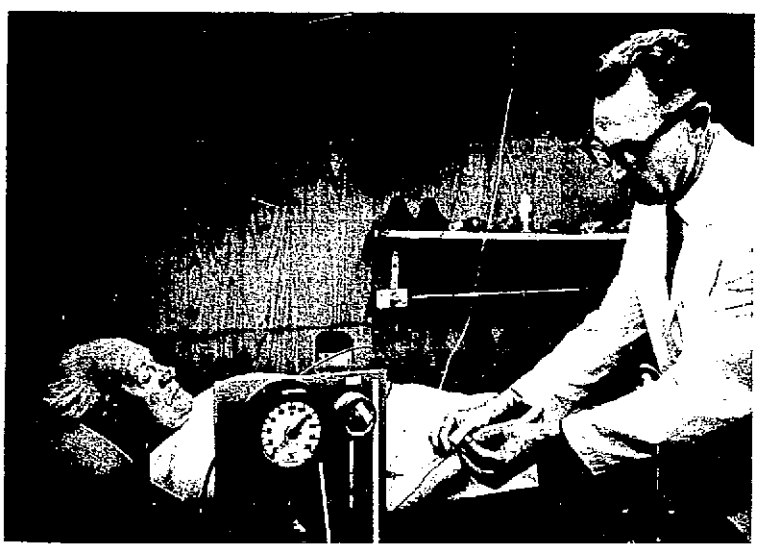

One of his long-range goals is to develop a "pharmacopoeia of exercise." This would be a reference book that doctors could use to look up the kind and amount of exercise that an individual, after a physical examination, should have.

"The time is not too far away," he says, "when it will be possible to prescribe exercise with the same scientific detail and exactness as that now employed in writing a prescription for drugs or medicine."

Dr. deVries is collecting detailed information for such a pharmacopoeia, which would be combined with results from many other laboratories.

Thousands of individual statistics are

CREEPING RED SEDUM

(Sedum Spurium, Dragon's Blood)

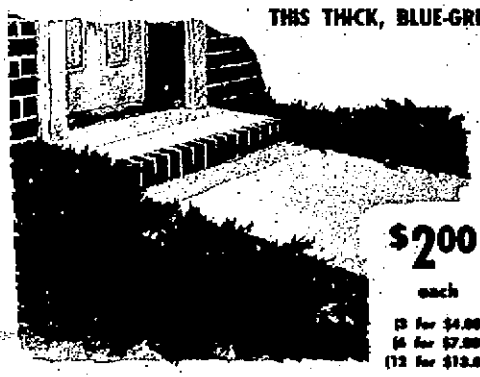

An Extraordinary ground cover for masses of summer flowers . . . evergreen winter foliage!

4 for $1.00 (8 for $1.75) (12 for $2.50)

Rock gardens, borders, edging; under shady trees, and steep banks will be alive with carefree color when you plant this Creeping Red Sedum. Just place these hardy, northern nursery grown plants about one foot apart and watch them take over! Fill troublesome areas with a neat 3-4" tall cover that spreads fast, yet doesn't need pruning. Depend on it for bright red, star-like flowers from June through September — attractive, thick, semi-evergreen foliage the rest of the year, even in sub-zero weather! SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay postman $1.00 for 4, $1.75 for 8 or $2.50 for 12, plus C.O.D. charges. We pay postage on prepaid orders. GROWS AND SPREADS WITHOUT SPECIAL CARE. IN SUN OR SHADE, EVEN IN POOR SOIL!

PLANT NOW — GROWS DURING WINTER!
THIS THICK, BLUE-GREEN SPREADING EVERGREEN

Spreads like mad to cover bare areas, steep banks and other tough spots!

SPREADING EVERGREEN

$2.00 each

(3 for $4.00) (6 for $7.00) (12 for $13.00)

Now, with this Evergreen Carpet (Juniperus horizontalis procumbens), see one plant grow over ugly bare spots, even in poor soil, to cover 4 to 6' with a lovely, thick carpet of green that lasts 365 DAYS OF THE YEAR. NEVER GETS MORE THAN 5 TO 10" TALL! Instead, this hardy, drought-resistant plant uses its energy to grow horizontally. Does just fine in well-drained areas — even where sand and rocks prevail, in sun or partial shade! BEAUTIFUL WAY TO COVER "EYESORES." And it stays fresh and green year around, without getting that dull "winter look". Start it on trouble spots now. Plant about 4' apart — six plants will cover 24 to 36'. You get hardy plants from 3" pots. SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay $2.00 for one, $4.00 for three, $7.00 for six or $13.00 for twelve, plus postage and C.O.D. charges. - BLUE FLOWERS IN SPRING
- NEEDS NO SPECIAL CARE

10 for $1.00 (25 for $1.98) (50 for $2.98) (100 for $4.98)

Now, for shady areas beneath shrubs and in other dim places, even where grass won't grow, you can have a 12-month carpet of thick, abundant, evergreen Periwinkle (Vinca minor). And every spring, in May, shade-happy Periwinkle gives you a wide profusion of beautiful lavender-blue flowers that make the dullest part of the yard look like a showcase! And it grows so vigorously, you can put Periwinkle in poor, stony soil, on steep banks, in rock gardens — practically anywhere. Does better in shade than grass — but likes sun, too. Spreads and spreads; one plant grows to fill two square feet; (for quicker, denser effect plant one foot apart): gets 4-6" tall — all without special care. You get healthy, nicely rooted plants, ready for easy transplanting.

fed into a typewriter terminal in his mobile laboratory and flashed to an IBM System/360 Model 50 computer in Santa Ana, 20 miles away. There, the tiny bits of information are sorted, evaluated and stored to build a model for prescribing exercise.

Dr. deVries agrees with his friend Dr. Kenneth H. Cooper, U.S. Air Force physician and author of the best-selling book, Aerobics, that the best kind of fitness is "endurance fitness." This is the ability to do prolonged work without fatigue.

"It has to do with the body's overall health—the health of the heart, the lungs, the entire cardiovascular system and the other organs, as well as the muscles," Dr. Cooper wrote.

"The key to the whole thing is oxygen. The best kind of exercise, therefore, is that which demands oxygen and forces your body to process and deliver it. Even if you've been inactive or sick, exercise may be good therapy."

Cyclists lead all

One scientific authority claims that the most efficient hearts are to be found among professional cyclists. Then, in descending order: long-distance runners, amateur cyclists, cross-country skiers, boxers, handball players, gymnasts, wrestlers and weight lifters. Isometric exercises may help make your muscles bulge, but they do little for your heart and lungs.

Dr. Paul Dudley White (who favors cycling as the best exercise) long ago convinced medical men and laymen that exercise is good for the heart. It was he who treated President Eisenhower during his heart attacks and put him on a regimen of exercise.

"Heart disease before 80 is your fault, not God's will," he told a meeting of the National Association of Retired Persons.

What about the man who slacks off during his middle years? Is it safe for him to crank up to full vigor again? The answer is yes, according to a study made by Dr. John O. Holloszy of the U.S. Public Health Service with 15 men aged 35 to 55 who had gone soft from modern living.

The blood of all who participated contained high levels of serum triglycerides which some doctors consider more dangerous than cholesterol. After six months of running exercises they lowered their heartbeats an average of 15 per minute, cut their time in the mile run from nearly 9 minutes to 7½ minutes, and reduced the serum triglycerides in their blood from an average of 205 milligrams to a healthy 105.

Exercise is being used to treat a wide variety of ailments. Hospital bed rest is almost obsolete, and many patients are made ambulatory soon after operations for hernia, appendicitis and even fractures. But each health problem requires a certain kind of exercise. The wrong kind, or too much of the right kind, can be dangerous.

Here are some examples of ailments that respond to exercise:

Emphysema. At the National Jewish Hospital and Research Center in Denver, exercise constitutes almost the entire therapy program. First, patients are taught a series of exercises to bring up mucous from their lungs to their throats where it can be coughed out. Then they are taught to breathe a new way: by using the large rib muscles to do the work that the lung tissue cannot; finally, they are taught body-building exercises.

Asthma. Similarly in the treatment of asthma, younger patients at the National Jewish Hospital exercise daily by playing softball, football, basketball or soccer. Even though they compete on fields where the pollen count may be high, no patient has ever suffered a serious attack that could be attributed to the exercise.

Diabetes. Exercise burns up excess sugar in the blood and reduces the need for insulin. Diabetics are taught that "exercise is the pleasantest remedy"—provided it is regular and in about the same amount each day.

Orthopedic Problems. One of the first branches of medicine to recognize the value of exercise was orthopedics. Physical deformities and disfunctions resulting from accidents, birth defects and strokes respond to exercise therapy.

Low Back Pain. Dr. Hans Kraus, the New York doctor who helped to develop the Hans-Weber tests for physical fitness, preaches that exercise helps low back pain—a complaint of 28 million sufferers. Exercise helps to strengthen weak back muscles, relax those that are tense.

Arthritis. Exercise is particularly helpful following a "flare"—a severe inflammation of an affected joint. Tissues loosen during a flare and sometimes tighten up again in the wrong position. Before this can happen, a doctor will often prescribe the rhythmic flexing and relaxing of muscles—to pull the tender joints into normal alignment.

Business and industry are paying closer attention to the health of their employees. A study of 900 management executives by Dr. Robert L. Fleck, chief of NASA's preventive medicine section, turned up the fact that about 2 percent had defective hearts. In a similar Georgetown University project, the rate was even higher—7 to 8 percent.

This has led a number of large companies to institute "exercise breaks." Such firms as the American Can Company, Standard Oil of New Jersey, North American Rockwell and others have

Dr. Bernard Sandler, director of Rehabilitation Medicine of the Kingsbrook Jewish Medical Center in Brooklyn, is planning to start a program similar to that of Dr. deVries at Leisure World. Out-of-shape men and women will come to the hospital regularly for programmed exercise to improve their physical fitness.

"They'll be a little overweight, a little arthritic, perhaps a little diabetic," he said. "We aren't interested in making musclemen out of them, but in improving their hearts and lungs. We hope that the majority will learn to run an eight-minute mile."

Dr. deVries makes these suggestions if you are determined to launch a do-it-yourself physical fitness program:

1. For anyone over the age of 25 or 30, a thorough physical examination is essential.

2. Start slowly and perform only mild exercises at the start.

3. Seek skilled supervision and companionship—in a YMCA or YWCA, a night school class, or a university.

"From the accumulated results of several research programs, it begins to appear that exercise can contribute to maintaining health and assisting with recovery when we are sick," said Dr. deVries. "The 60- and 70-year-olds of the Leisure World Olympic Team have shown that exercise may lengthen the life span. Can it be the best medicine of all?"

How's your French?

This new "Riviera" French Dressing has a fresh, original taste. Better than any other French.

It's better and fresher because you make it yourself. And it's so easy to prepare. Just be sure to start out with the best—Heinz Vinegar.

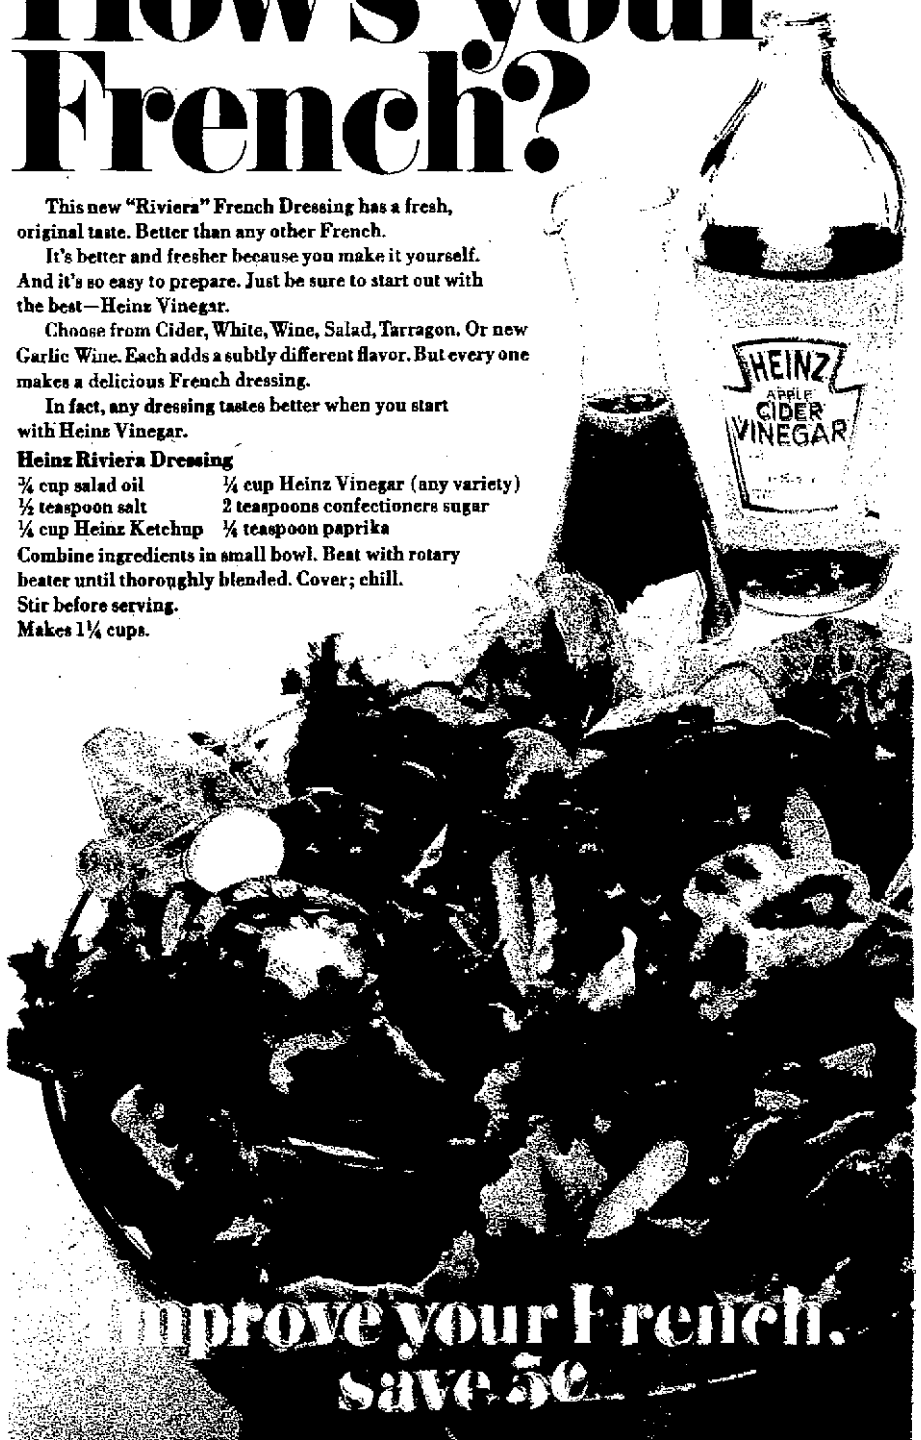

Choose from Cider, White, Wine, Salad, Tarragon. Or new Garlic Wine. Each adds a subtly different flavor. But every one makes a delicious French dressing.

In fact, any dressing tastes better when you start with Heinz Vinegar.

Heinz Riviera Dressing

¾ cup salad oil
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup Heinz Ketchup
¼ cup Heinz Vinegar (any variety)
2 teaspoons confectioners sugar
⅛ teaspoon paprika

Combine ingredients in small bowl. Beat with rotary beater until thoroughly blended. Cover; chill. Stir before serving. Makes 1¼ cups.

Improve your French. save 5¢

Cia Löwgren, recent PARADE cover girl, has obtained the lead role in a Swedish movie.

Swedish Sequel

In the March 2 issue PARADE ran a story called "There's Something About a Swedish Girl." It must be true, for we have been inundated by mail and long-distance phone calls asking how to get in touch with Cia Löwgren, the girl on our cover.

This is how Cia appeared on our cover.

We know how it is, red-blooded fellas, but we do not have permission to give Cia's address. PARADE has forwarded your letters, however, and wishes you luck in the unlikely event that she is not already attached to a red-blooded Swede.

Meanwhile we have heard from Cia, and you will be glad to know that she did get the movie role she was trying out for.

Here are excerpts from her letter:

"I got the movie lead, and I am very happy. I have been working day and night, but I love what I'm doing better than anything now.

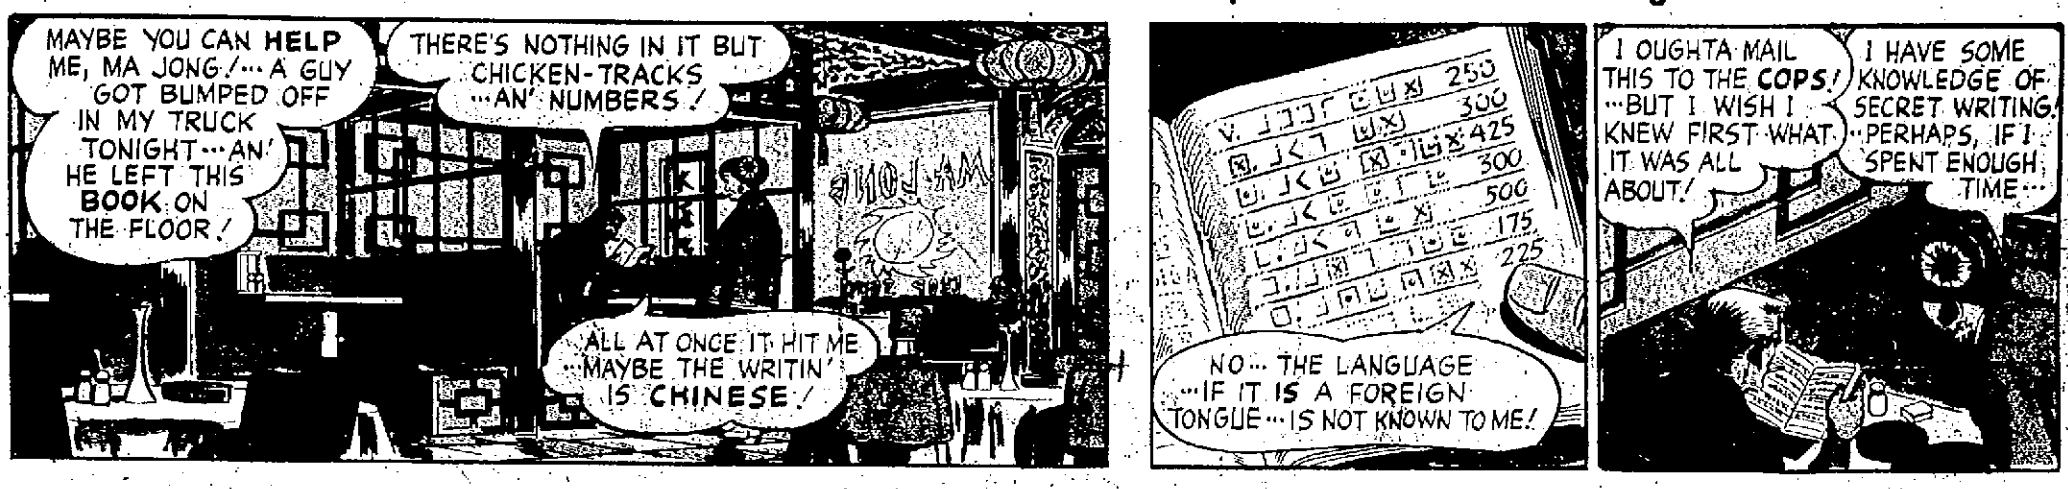

"A man called and asked me to come over to New York to play in a show. He said he saw my photo in PARADE. I had to say no because of my film job.

"I send you a photo (above) where I look very young. In the movie I am playing a 14-year-old girl who runs away with her boyfriend, 17, but I am soon 20!"

One Woman's Adoption Crusade

ANN ARBOR, MICH.

Judith Hartzell is an average American housewife residing with her husband and two small children in a little gray house on the edge of town. The family lives comfortably on Mr. Hartzell's salary as a college English instructor—but modestly. Despite that, Judy Hartzell has recently "given" nearly $1.5 million to the State of Michigan. And she plans to increase the figure.

Judy's gift was nothing so commonplace as cash. It was a subtle gift involving not only the value of $1.5 million but also the happiness of 68 families and 68 children, plus the future well-being of the youngsters. What Judy did was to promote the adoption of hard-to-adopt children, thus giving them loving parents and also saving the state the cost of maintaining them in foster homes.

As a result of Judy's campaign, which also demonstrated the effectiveness of newspaper articles, 18 children were adopted and 50 of the many families wanting to adopt were approved and are waiting for children. It costs the state some $30,000 to rear one child from infancy to age 18 in a foster home. Part of that sum, of course, has already been expended on each of the youngsters in Judy's adoption crusade. But since from now on their expenses will be borne by their new parents, it's estimated that Judy has so far saved about $1.5 million in tax money and United Fund contributions that otherwise would have had to be spent.

"That's a large amount of money," says attractive Judy Hartzell, "but money wasn't the motive. I just wanted to get as many kids as I could into permanent private homes and under the care of mothers and fathers who wanted them and would adopt and love them."

In a way, the adoption campaign traces to the Hartzells' son Andrew, now a lively and lovable three-year-old. As he was progressing from infant to little boy, Judy did considerable reading about small children and was deeply disturbed to find that those who are bereft of true parental love frequently suffer both physical and mental setbacks. She thought how lucky Andrew was compared to parentless kids. About the same time she heard about Helen Allen and her daily adoption column in the Telegram in Toronto. The column was responsible for hundreds of adoptions all over Ontario.

Newspaper helps out

Judy wrote to Helen Allen asking for her formula. It was sent to her immediately. Next she set up liaison with several private and public adoption agencies and then she went to see Arthur Gallagher, editor of the Ann Arbor News. She told him about Helen Allen's column which has a 90 percent readership factor, the highest of any public service column in the Telegram. Gallagher agreed to carry columns from Judy whenever she submitted them.

"I decided to concentrate on hard-to-adopt children," she recalls. "The handicaps against them are race, physical or mental shortcoming and age. After age 2 adoption is very tough."

The first child that Judy presented to the community for adoption was

Judy Hartzell (left) talks with Harry and Patricia Macomber, Michigan couple who, acting on her idea, adopted two American Indian brothers, Tommy, 7 and David, 6.

Timmy, a chubby, smiling Negro boy, 18 months old. From the moment that edition of the News came out, with Timmy's picture and an accompanying article, Judy waited tensely for results. She need not have worried. Eleven Negro families put in bids for Timmy and several months later he was legally adopted by one of them.

Since then, Judy has featured 21 children in her column, which appears irregularly, and 18 of them have been adopted. The agencies, of course, investigate every set of parents wanting to adopt and in checking up on those who wanted Judy's kids, they approved 50 who are now waiting for children to turn up.

The most spectacular response came in the case of Laura, a lovely, little blonde who had only one drawback as a subject for adoption. She was old. All of 9 years. Laura had lived in three foster homes, wanted to take dancing lessons and join the Brownies but had no opportunity. When the News photographer took her picture, she asked: "Do you think if my picture's in the paper, and they get me a real mommy and daddy, that I'll be happy?"

A total of 150 homes asked to adopt Laura. Twenty-four of these were found acceptable and one of them got her.

Since adopting a child is a rather major move, it seems strange to think that merely seeing a picture and article in a newspaper would prompt a family to do it. PARADE asked several sets of parents about this. They responded readily but preferred anonymity.

"We were thinking of adopting," says one housewife, "but somehow it stayed in the talk stage. Mrs. Hartzell's article and the picture of the baby just triggered us."

A father of two children explains: "We wanted a third child but I am conscientious in my belief that the world is rushing toward a population calamity. The answer, then, was to adopt an already existing child."

Another set of parents, clearly motivated by goodness, says: "We felt it would be nice to look for a child who wouldn't otherwise find a home."

All kinds of children

Of the children placed by Judy, seven were Negroes, four white and seven Chippewa Indians who lived in Michigan's upper peninsula. But for her, they'd still be in foster homes.

Judy would like to see the adoption column spread to newspapers in many other communities and would freely share her experience with anybody who wants to start one. She warns, however, that a column sometimes causes a problem. For example, the agency which offered pretty Laura found itself tied up for weeks investigating the 150 responses. Judy believes that in sizable communities, adoption agencies should work together to set up a central body to relieve any one of them of an extraordinary burden of investigation.

Certainly there's no shortage of material for an adoption column. There are an estimated 8000 hard-to-place kids in Michigan and 200,000 across the nation. It's challenging to realize that a click of a camera and a few taps on the typewriter might find a permanent home for almost any one of them. —J. G. R.

Tell someone you like a Lark's Gas-Trap filter.

Memorize these points:

About 90% of cigarette smoke is gas. Only a fraction is actually "tar" and nicotine. Lark's Gas-Trap™ filter (U.S. Pat. No. 3,251,365) reduces "tar" and nicotine as well as certain harsh gases. What's more, because the Gas-Trap™ uses activated, fortified charcoal granules it reduces these gases better than any other filter on any other popular brand, bar none.

Now you know the secret of Lark's easy taste and hard working filter. So pass it on. Tell your friendly used car dealer. You may get a couple hundred dollars more for your '62.

Teens talk about problem skin.

Teenagers are experts when it comes to knowing about problem skin. These Westchester teens were given a new liquid anti-bacterial skin cleanser called HyperpHaze. For about two weeks, they washed with HyperpHaze instead of soap. Here's what they said about it...

Angela: Well, with soap, I used to wash my face two or three times before it really felt clean. But with HyperpHaze, it almost seemed to tingle!
Denise: I didn't expect it to clear up my whole face, but it did... I used it all up... after I stopped using it my face broke out again. It's like a preventative.
Camille: It really cleans out the oil and clears your face up...
Sue: I had pimples on my chin. It cleared those up...
Ron: Well... before I was using another product. HyperpHaze worked much better than that and it was a lot easier to use.
Camille: My brother... he's going to be a doctor... said "Hey, you're really looking great!"
Fran: I didn't break out like I usually would.
Fred: It was easy to use.
Ron: Well, the thing I liked about it was just one thing to use instead of a lot of separate things.
Angela: It's inexpensive because... you don't have to use more than one product. Once I used it, I felt I didn't have to worry...you can just, you know, go do what you want to do.
Russ: I felt more confident because...it helps your face and yet no one else can notice that you've got it on.
Jim: It took care of all the problems I had.
Bob: This HyperpHaze was really good.
Les: Well, if it's hospital-tested, it must be good enough. Right?
Ron: HyperpHaze works better than any other product that I ever used

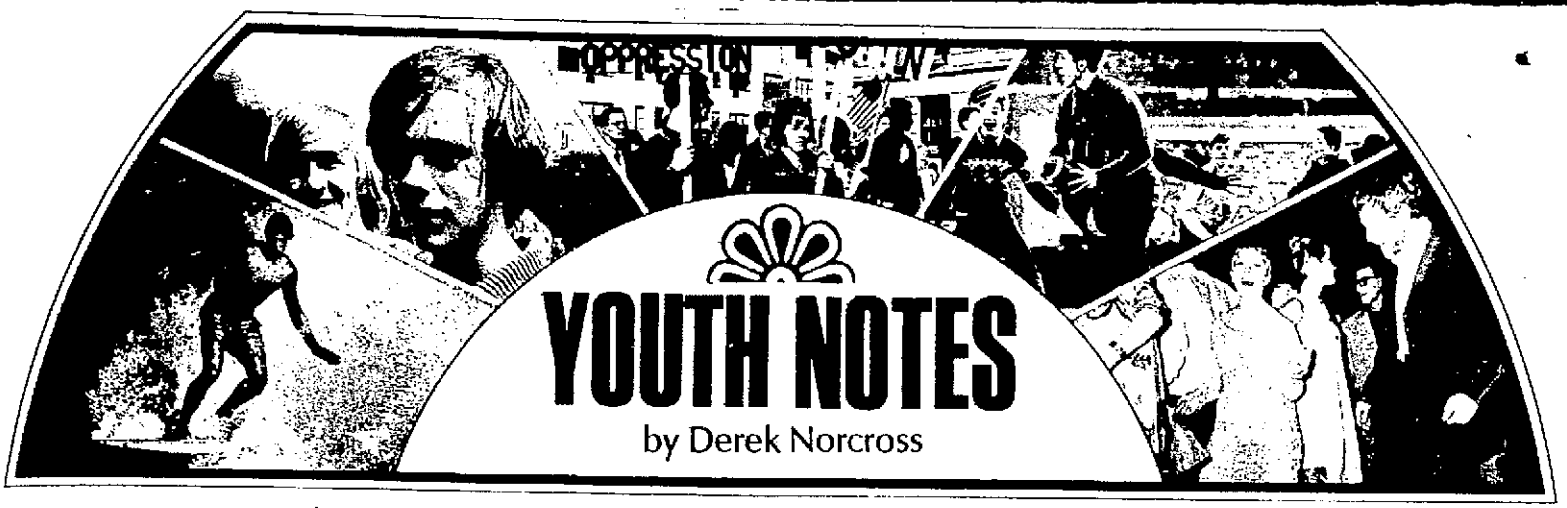

Wash with HyperpHaze™ instead of soap and see why teens agree... HyperpHaze -the clean, clear solution for skin problems.

YOUTH NOTES

by Derek Norcross

AMERICA'S RULERS

Want to govern the U.S.? If so, a young man's best bet is to attend Harvard, Yale, or Princeton.

According to a recent study, The Education of American Leaders, written by George Pierson and published by Praeger, these three Ivy League schools have produced more national leaders than any other universities.

"Harvard alumni," Pierson writes, "have excelled in literature and the arts, in science and medicine and scholarship. The sons of Yale have demonstrably lived up to their reputation for practical affairs and public service."

Harvard boasts more graduates who served as President, Vice President or Cabinet members, while Yale leads in the number of men who became U.S. Supreme Court Justices and chief executives of major corporations. Princeton consistently ranks third in all categories.

BLACK LIST

One of the best reading guides for those interested in the black American, his experience and history, is a 16-page annotated booklet entitled The Black List.

Compiled by three young librarians in Baltimore, the list includes fiction and non-fiction titles relevant to young blacks.

Booklets can be obtained at 15 cents a copy from: Publications Asst., Enoch Pratt Free Library, 400 Cathedral St., Baltimore, Md. 21201.

THINGS TO COME

There are now 750 million young people in the world in the 12-25 age group.

By 1980 this group will number one billion.

According to a recent United Nations 80-page study on youth problems: "World opinion is going to become increasingly the opinion of the world's youth, and the generational conflict will assume proportions not previously imagined."

The study, based on interviews with youth leaders in 40 nations over a two-year period and on an analysis of youth reports by three unnamed sociologists—two British and one American—declares further: "Young people of all walks of life are prepared to march, to demonstrate and to riot if necessary in support of views which may not be those of the electorate, nor of the majority, nor yet those of government."

The report predicts that "youth of the world will begin to predominate in world affairs" and states: "The younger generation seems to have lost confidence in the capacity of the older generation to guide affairs without some assistance and planning from young people."

It recommends the conversion of youthful opposition into cooperation by the governmental preparation of well-thought-out youth programs and policies as an integral part of each nation's life.

The study is the first detailed one of youth problems made by the United Nations for its Commission for Social Development. The UN has a policy of not revealing the authors of its reports. Inquiries on the study — entitled Preliminary Report on Long-term Policies and Programmes for Youth in National Development—can be directed to: The Center for Economic and Social Development, Room 250, United Nations, New York, N.Y. 10017.

KIDS AND CARS

Most teenagers and young adults who buy new cars, don't have much money to spend. This is why so many end up with Volkswagens and other imports in the $2000 price range.

Ford is invading precisely that market with its new Maverick. General Motors is doing well with its German-manufactured Opel and Chrysler is competing with its Simca and Sunbeam. And now Honda, the Japanese cycle manufacterer, is ready to launch its small motor car in the U.S. while VW announces the joint development of a sports car for the youth market by Volkswagen and Porsche. The new sporty VW will have a 75 horsepower engine located in front of the rear axle and directly behind the seats. It will sell for about $2500.

Automobile manufacturers everywhere are styling, pricing, and targeting their products to appeal to American youth. In millions of U.S. households, it is not the parents who determine the style and make of the family car as much as it is their offspring.

TOO TALL, TOO SHORT?

Is there anything that can be done for the boy or girl who is excessively tall or excessively short?

Not too much.

For children who suffer from pituitary insufficiency, shots of HGH, human growth hormone, which are difficult to come by, will help eradicate dwarfism. But where short stature is not the result of hormone insufficiency, treatment via steroids may help a bit. But these treatments have to be carefully regulated by physicians who understand drug therapy.

Girls who are growing too rapidly are sometimes given estrogens which decrease the growth rate, but there is no certainty that estrogens will reduce the final height.

The Medical Letter, a non-profit publication on drugs and therapeutics to which many physicians subscribe (305 E. 45th St., New York, N.Y. 10017), declares:

"Except for the use of human growth hormone in children with hypopituitarism (not enough pituitarin) no therapy is available that will reliably and safely add to the ultimate stature of short children or reduce the height of excessively tall ones. Nevertheless, a trial of an anabolic agent for short boys or estrogens for tall girls is sometimes warranted. Because of its potential hazards, however, drug therapy is best directed by physicians with considerable experience in dealing with abnormal stature."

The Spiders: Japan's answer to Beatles and Stones.

JAPAN ROCKS OUT

Twenty-five years ago in Japan, for a girl and boy to walk alone after dark caused a family scandal. Couples were often married by their parents without having met. Pursuit of pleasure was frowned on. Self-sacrifice, discipline and loyalty were prized virtues.

Today, all this has changed.

Young couples embrace publicly in downtown Tokyo. Informal "music bars" attract Japanese youth in droves. Boys and girls roar off on motorcycles for weekend jaunts. And the rock 'n' roll revolution has shaken the whole post-war generation.

Because the Japanese have trouble pronouncing rock 'n' roll, a TV entertainer and movie star named Yuzo Kayama coined the phrase Group Sounds.

Top draw in the field of 5000 Group Sound bands is Julie and the Tigers — similar in appeal to The Beatles — whose lead singer, 21-year-old Kenji "Julie" Sawada is probably the most popular young man in Japan. The Tigers have completed two full-length films and have their own weekly television show.

Only in the past few years have Japanese groups eclipsed foreign bands like The Beatles and The Rolling Stones in popularity. The biggest rock single in Japan during 1968 was "Kimi-wa Waka-kata" (When We Were Young) by The Spiders, a native group which has even made a tour of Holland.

Reynolds Wrap springs some bright ideas for springtime

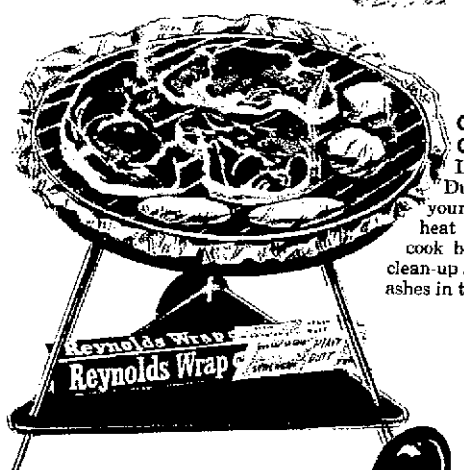

(Time-saving ideas help you spruce up, shine up, fix up)

Spring chores will be a little easier this year, and go a lot faster... for Reynolds Wrap users. (And who isn't?) Here are some practical, proven ways your favorite household aluminum foil can save you time, work and money this spring.

GREEN GROWS YOUR GARDEN
Strips of Reynolds Wrap spread between rows or around single plants make an effective "mulch." Anchor foil with soil. The foil repels aphids, holds moisture in ground, prevents weeds.

FUNNELS MADE TO ORDER
Just shape a piece of Reynolds Wrap around a pencil or other round stick to form the stem. Flare out upper part. Make any size funnel you may need.

COOK BETTER OUTDOORS
Line your grill with Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap and build your fire right on the foil. Reflects heat and spreads it evenly. You cook better with less fuel. Makes clean-up a cinch... just bundle up the ashes in the foil.

MAKE AN UP-TO-DATE "SCARECROW." To protect seeded lawn, double-fold and staple 12 inch strips of Reynolds Wrap at intervals to a length of strong cord. String across seeded area. The flashing foil keeps birds away from your seed.

NO-SNAG CURTAIN ROD. Your spanking-clean curtains will slide easily onto the curtain rod without tearing or snagging when you cover the tip of the rod with Reynolds Wrap.

TREE GRAFTING? Cover the joined areas with Reynolds Wrap to protect the tree or plant until the graft "takes." Press foil tightly around graft areas.

SILVER STAYS TARNISH-FREE. Keep your "company" silver service from tarnishing by wrapping tightly in Reynolds Wrap. Foil seals out air and silver retains its lustre.

TRANSPLANTING? If small trees or plants must stand overnight, water well, then wrap the roots—in their earth ball—in Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap, securing it snugly around the stems. The foil wrapping will retain moisture.

PROTECT PATIO PILLOWS. From rain or dew by covering them with a wrapping of Reynolds Wrap before putting on the decorative outer cover. Outer cover can be easily removed for washing—the foil-covered pillow itself remains dry.

CLEAN AND POLISH GOLF CLUBS
Rub club shafts and faces with a crumpled up ball of Reynolds Wrap. Restores bright finish. Works like a charm too, on automobile bumpers, boat fixtures, metal garden furniture, bicycles.

INSULATES Heat-reflective Reynolds Wrap makes excellent year-round insulation. House stays cooler in summer, warmer in winter. And foil is the best moisture-vapor barrier. Use the 18" wide Heavy Duty Reynolds Wrap, stapled between studs. Leave air space between foil and outer wall. Economical too.

Why can Reynolds Wrap do so many things so well—around the house and outdoors as well as in the kitchen? Because every inch of Reynolds Wrap is oven-tempered for flexible strength... a special kind of strength that resists puncturing. So strong, so dependable, so versatile. Maybe that's why more women buy Reynolds Wrap than all other foils combined. Reynolds Wrap. Wouldn't you hate to be without it?

My Favorite Jokes

by Michael Allen

EDITOR'S NOTE: Michael Allen is in the process of becoming an overnight success. Of course it has taken seven years of hard work on the nightclub and TV circuit. Michael has played top clubs across the country and appeared on television for Joey Bishop, Merv Griffin, Ed Sullivan and Joe Franklin.

Thanks to Andy Williams, who caught his act in Los Angeles, signed him and released his album, "Michael Allen Act 1," Allen has become a hot "new" show business find.

Although a singer, Michael Allen's forte is his ability to warm up an audience with his sense of humor. Born and bred in New York, Michael has managed to remain a bachelor.

Herewith some of the quips and jokes that get his act off to a flying start:

You can't be sure of anything these days. Just think of all the mothers who, 20 years ago, had their daughters vaccinated in places they thought wouldn't show.

The nicest thing about an egotist is that he never goes around talking about other people.

The bathtub was invented in 1850 and the telephone in 1875. Had you been living in 1850 you could have sat in the bathtub for 25 years without the phone ringing once.

Most of the time the shortest distance between two points is under construction.

I know a girl who has been married six times. She's a sucker for a rite.

This is the age of tension. Almost everyone lives in fear of bending or breaking an IBM card.

An old Indian was standing on the top of a hill with his son looking over a beautiful valley below. Said the old Indian: "Someday, my son, all this land will belong to the Indians again. Paleface all go to the moon."

A hamburger by any other name costs more.

If you don't want your children to hear what you're saying, pretend you're talking to them.

Romeo to Juliet: "We just can't go on like this, honey. I'm getting a stiff neck."

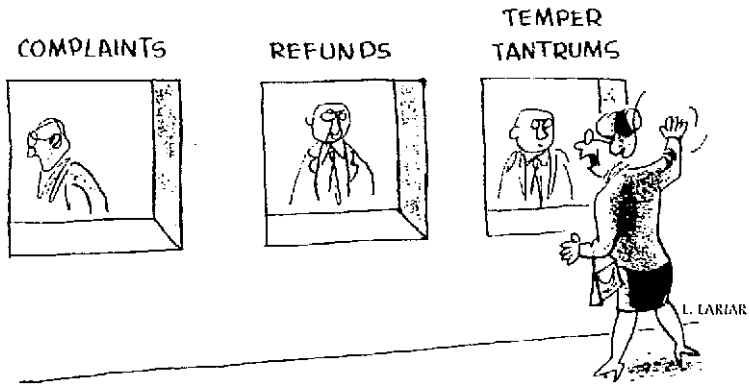

According to most businessmen there are only two seasons a year—slack and busy.

The Lord lets some people get into trouble because that's the only time they ever think of him.

Gerald: "Were you ever troubled with athlete's foot?"

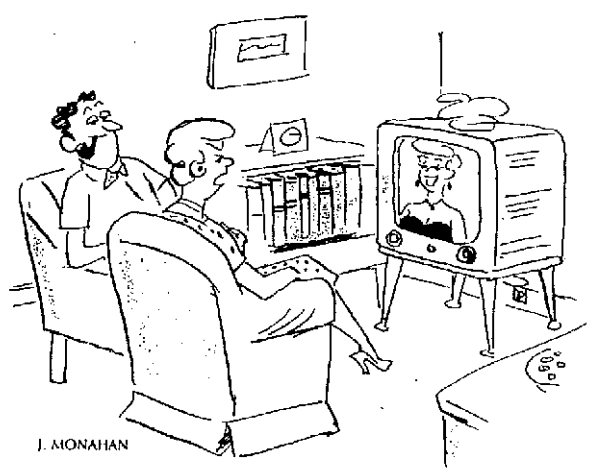

Harold: "Just once, when a football player caught me out with his girl."

It's to Laugh

"Well, anyway it was nice of you to try, Robert."

"I'll bet she can't even boil water."

Sensational GROUND COVERS!

Easy-To-Plant, Easy-To-Grow . . . Become More Beautiful Every Year!

Masses of color early in the SPRING!

CREEPING PHLOX

3 for only $1.00 (8 for $2.00) (20 for $4.00)

Can you imagine a sight more lovely than dwarf masses of glowing color appearing in early spring? Creeping Phlox makes a sight this lovely. Perfectly rounded balls of color growing only 4 inches tall. And Creeping Phlox have three wonderful advantages. First, they stay green the year round. Secondly, they are masses of color in the early spring when few other things are in bloom. Third, they are wonderful for ground covers and borders. Grow in part shade or full sun. Rich color assortment of our choice: Rosy red, steel blue, pure white, pearl pink. You receive strong northern grown field divisions. Now is the time to plant so order TODAY. SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay $1.00 for 3 plants, $2.00 for 8 plants or $4.00 for 20 plants, plus C.O.D. charges. We pay postage on prepaid orders. If not 100% satisfied, just return the shipping label for refund of purchase price . . . you keep the plants.

CREEPING RED SEDUM

(Sedum Spurium, Dragon's Blood)

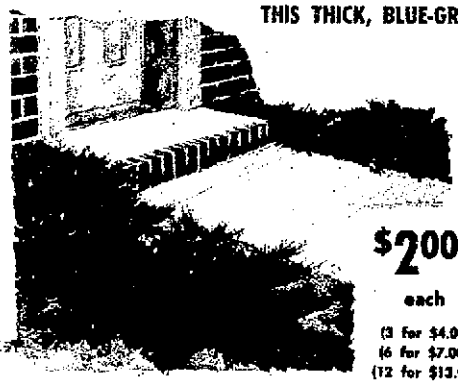

An Extraordinary ground cover for masses of summer flowers . . . evergreen winter foliage!

4 for $1.00 (8 for $1.75) (12 for $2.50)

Rock gardens, borders, edging, under shady trees, and steep banks will be alive with carefree color when you plant this Creeping Red Sedum. Just place these hardy, northern nursery grown plants about one foot apart and watch them take over! Fill troublesome areas with a neat 3-4" tall cover that spreads fast, yet doesn't need pruning. Depend on it for bright red, star-like flowers from June through September — attractive, thick, semi-evergreen foliage the rest of the year, even in sub-zero weather! SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay postman $1.00 for 4, $1.75 for 8 or $2.50 for 12, plus C.O.D. charges. We pay postage on prepaid orders. If not 100% satisfied, just return shipping label for refund of purchase price — you keep the plants.

GROWS AND SPREADS WITHOUT SPECIAL CARE. IN SUN OR SHADE, EVEN IN POOR SOIL!

PLANT NOW — GROWS DURING WINTER!
THIS THICK, BLUE-GREEN SPREADING EVERGREEN

Spreads like mad to cover bare areas, steep banks and other tough spots!

SPREADING EVERGREEN

$2.00 each

(3 for $4.00)
(6 for $7.00)
(12 for $13.00)

Now, with this Evergreen Carpet (Juniperus horizontalis procumben), see one plant grow over ugly bare spots, even in poor soil, to cover 4 to 6' with a lovely, thick carpet of green that lasts 365 DAYS OF THE YEAR. NEVER GETS MORE THAN 5 TO 10" TALL! Instead, this hardy, drought-resistant plant uses its energy to grow horizontally. Does just fine in well-drained areas — even where sand and rocks prevail, in sun or partial shade! BEAUTIFUL WAY TO COVER "EYESORES." And it stays fresh and green year around, without getting that dull "winter look". Start it on trouble spots now. Plant about 4' apart — six plants will cover 24 to 36'. You get hardy plants from 3" pots. SEND NO MONEY. On delivery pay $2.00 for one, $4.00 for three, $7.00 for six or $13.00 for twelve, plus postage and C.O.D. charges. We pay postage on prepaid orders. If not 100% satisfied, just return shipping label for refund of purchase price — you keep the plants.

Spreads like a green carpet with Blue Flowers!

PERIWINKLE

- STAYS GREEN ALL YEAR
- BLUE FLOWERS IN SPRING
- NEEDS NO SPECIAL CARE

10 for $1.00 (25 for $1.98) (50 for $2.98) (100 for $4.98)

Now, for shady areas beneath shrubs and in other dim places, even where grass won't grow, you can have a 12-month carpet of thick, abundant, evergreen Periwinkle (Vinca minor). And every spring, in May, shade-happy Periwinkle gives you a wide profusion of beautiful lavender-blue flowers that make the dullest part of the yard look like a showcase! And it grows so vigorously, you can put Periwinkle in poor, stony soil, on steep banks, in rock gardens — practically anywhere. Does better in shade than grass — but likes sun, too. Spreads and spreads; one plant grows to fill two square feet; (for quicker, denser effect plant one foot apart); gets 4-6" tall — all without special care. You get healthy, nicely rooted plants, ready for easy transplanting.

AMAZING BONUS OFFER!

1 COLORADO BLUE SPRUCE ONLY 15¢

5 year old — transplanted — 10-18" tall!

Yes, you can purchase one of these hardy 5 year old, 10-18" Colorado Blue Spruce for only 15¢, when you send your order for at least $3.00. These Colorado Blue Spruce are from the same hardy transplanted stock that we normally sell for $2.00 each. Complete your order today.

THE BERRYS

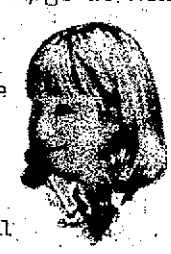

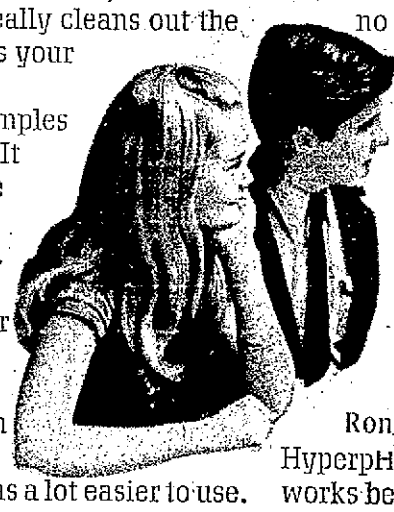

Teens talk about problem skin.

Teenagers are experts when it comes to knowing about problem skin. These Westchester teens were given a new liquid anti-bacterial skin cleanser called HyperpHaze. For about two weeks, they washed with HyperpHaze instead of soap. Here's what they said about it...

Angela: Well, with soap, I used to wash my face two or three times before it really felt clean. But with HyperpHaze, it almost seemed to tingle!
Denise: I didn't expect it to clear up my whole face, but it did ... I used it all up ... after I stopped using it my face broke out again. It's like a preventative.
Camille: It really cleans out the oil and clears your face up ...
Sue: I had pimples on my chin. It cleared those up....
Ron: Well ... before I was using another product. HyperpHaze worked much better than that and it was a lot easier to use.
Camille: My brother ... he's going to be a doctor ... said "Hey, you're really looking great!"
Fran: I didn't break out like I usually would.
Fred: It was easy to use.
Ron: Well, the thing I liked about it was just one thing to use instead of a lot of separate things.
Angela: It's inexpensive because ... you don't have to use more than one product. Once I used it, I felt I didn't have to worry ... you can just, you know, go do what you want to do.
Russ: I felt more confident because ... it helps your face and yet no one else can notice that you've got it on.
Jim: It took care of all the problems I had.
Bob: This HyperpHaze was really good.
Les: Well, if it's hospital-tested, it must be good enough. Right?
Ron: HyperpHaze works better than any other product that I ever used.

Wash with HyperpHaze™ instead of soap and see why teens agree ... HyperpHaze -the clean, clear solution for skin problems.
